BIG STACK — Marin County Clerk George H. Gnoss prepares to pack up the pile of transcripts and legal papers amassed in the months of pretrial proceedings in the Angela Davis case. He said the file is the largest in his memory — "and the case hasn't come to trial yet." The files along with guns used in the August 1970 shoot-out (wrapped in plastic in the foreground of the picture) are due to be moved along with Miss Davis to Santa Clara County sometime after midnight.

Development Plan Can Go To Vote

Marin Country Club Anti-Housing Move

Backers of an initiative petition — aimed primarily at preventing development of Marin Town and Country Club for housing — announced today they have acquired enough signatures to qualify the measure for an election.

Although the committee to Preserve Land and Nature (PLAN) was given until Jan. 25, 1972, to acquire the needed signatures, the group's chairman, Priscilla C. Gray, said the petition already has been signed by more persons than is required.

Mrs. Gray could not be reached today for further comment and it was unknown if the petition had been signed by more than 10 or 15 per cent of Fairfax's registered voters.

PLAN needs 10 per cent of the city's 3,388 voters to qualify the measure for the next city election. If it obtains 15 per cent, the city council must either adopt the measure itself or call a special election.

The petition calls upon the Fairfax City Council to establish a commercial-recreation zoning ordinance governing large parcels such as Marin Town and Country Club.

The group hopes to preserve the club site as a recreation area.

PLAN was organized following reports that the 23.5-acre town and country club was being sold by owner Max Friedman to Kaiser-Aetna Corp., an Oakland land development firm that is interested in building 350 to 450 apartment units on the site.

Friedman told the Independent-Journal in July that the property had been sold for an undisclosed price. The county recorder's office, however, said today that no sale of the property has been recorded.

A Marin Title Guaranty Co. spokesman in San Rafael said today sale of the property to Kaiser-Aetna was "pending" but had not yet been completed.

The City of Fairfax, meanwhile, is still awaiting word from the federal government on a preliminary application for $1 million in matching funds for the city to buy the site and develop it as a park, City Administrator Robert E. Crowe reported.

The city council already has set next Monday for a public hearing on a new zoning ordinance which includes the proposed commerical-recreation zoning.

Mrs. Gray said she was elected chairman of PLAN at a recent meeting of the committee. Adelaide P.Wilson was elected secretary and Joseph Walla, treasurer.

The committee will meet again at 8 p.m. today at Manor School, she said.

MIDNIGHT DEADLINE

Angela Davis Packing Up

By MARY LEYDECKER

Barring a last-minute high court order, Angela Davis is due to be moved some time after midnight tonight from her top-floor cell at the Marin Hall of Justice which she has occupied for almost a year.

She is to be transferred to Santa Clara County, but exactly where, when and how remained a mystery today.

Santa Clara County officials have not yet disclosed whether she will be taken to jail in Palo Alto, Milpitas or San Jose, but Palo Alto seemed the most likely choice since the jail there directly connects with a courtroom.

(Women prisoners in Santa Clara County are customarily housed in a jail in Milpitas.) Miss Davis's actual move to the South Bay county also was expected to be shrouded in secrecy and take place probably in the late night or early morning.

With her will go the piles of books and legal papers she has amassed in a second cell in the women's section of Marin County Jail, a cell which she has used for a workroom.

Miss Davis has been incarcerated in Marin since last Dec. 22 when she was flown under heavy guard from New York, where she had unsuccessfully resisted extradition. She was arrested in October 1970 in New York following a nationwide hunt and was charged with murder, conspiracy and kidnapping in connection with the August 1970 shoot-out at the Marin Civic Center.

It has taken almost a year for the case to reach the trial stage, with lengthy pretrial proceedings which often were delayed by Miss Davis's own attorneys and by her codefendant, Ruchell Magee. (His case was finally separated from hers last summer.)

It appeared today that Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County, the sixth judge in the case who has heard pretrial matters since last May, may preside over the actual trial.

Judge John T. Racanelli, presiding judge of Santa Clara County Superior Court, said yesterday he plans to ask the state Judicial Council to assign an outside judge to hear the case.

It seemed likely to court observers that Arnason will be offered a chance to continue in the case if he wants to.

Racanelli asked Miss Davis's attorneys and the attorney general's staff, who are prosecuting the case, to confer with him in San Jose today.

No date has been set yet for a court appearance in Santa Clara County.

Miss Davis's chief attorney, Howard Moore Jr., has said he planned to file for a writ of prohibition in the District Court of Appeals to stop her transfer to Santa Clara County, but no such petition had been filed by noon today.

Moore had wanted the former UCLA instructor's trial held in San Francisco, where he said residents were less prejudiced against his client than in five other Northern California counties polled by the defense.

Along with Miss Davis (although not in the same vehicle), the enormous file of pretrial proceedings will be moved this week to Santa Clara County.

Transcripts of lengthy hearings, motions, evidence and assorted legal documents will fill several boxes, according to court clerks.

Also to be transported out of Marin are the guns used in the shoot-out, which are yet to be unveiled in court.

A Remap Gamble By Demos

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democrats have decided to push through separate Senate and Assembly reapportionment bills, ignoring veto threats by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Democratic leaders met privately last night to map their strategy after bipartisan negotiations to write a compromise Assembly redistricting bill collapsed.

The Senate has passed a bipartisan plan, but it was amended into the Assembly's measure. Senators later rejected the combined plans.

A two-house conference committee failed to reconcile their differences, and Assembly Democrats yesterday rejected what Republicans said was a "last" effort to compromise. Democrats from both houses then decided to try separate bills.

Although Democrats on paper control both houses—42-38 in the Assembly and 21-19 in the Senate —not all of their members are content with the reapportionment of their districts.

Sen. Lawrence Walsh, DHuntington Park, who is dissatisfied and would prefer continued negotiations, would probably vote against either separate bill to give himself more bargaining time.

Senate Republican leader Fred Marler Jr. of Redding told newsmen the GOP could not be counted on to give Democrats the vote strength they need to pass separate bills.

"We're not inclined into getting blackjacked to get the bills separated," Marler said. "We feel the Assembly bill, as it is now drawn, is a bad bill."

But he said "every man is on his own" to vote whichever way he chooses in a showdown on both bills.

Assembly Republican leader Bob Monagan of Tracy said he expects the reapportionment issue to ultimately wind up in a special reapportionment commission outlined in the constitu-

ORR HEARING

A Heated Round On Policewoman

By LARRY MOWELL

In the most heated hearing to date on the firing of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr, controversy centered last night on whether clerk-typist Marsha S. Kittelman is also a policewoman.

Orr's attorney Leonard Shaw, claimed that in April 1968, the city council, in a closed session, approved her work as an undercover policewoman. He said that while the action may have been illegal, city officials have known all along about her policewoman duties.

"I think I am entitled to show they made every effort to place her in the role of policewoman and that she acted that way," he told the Fairfax Board of Review.

Under cross-examination by Shaw, Mrs. Kittelman — originally called as a hostile witness by the city's attorney, Wallace S. Myers — was asked to give a "thumbnail sketch" of her duties. But it took more than an hour because of objections by Myers, who argued that acting like a police officer doesn't make one an officer. As Myers put it later, "Just because the chief let her do it doesn't make it authentic."

The board, which has final say on whether Orr was properly fired, waved aside Myers's repeated objections to learn Mrs. Kittelman's duties. It declined to rule on whether Mrs. Kittelman was properly appointed a policewoman.

Among more than 20 charges used to justify Orr's firing is that he improperly made Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman on Feb. 1, 1968. City Admin: Robert E. Crowe fired the chief Sept. 30 and was upheld four days later on a 3-2 vote of the city council. Orr then appealed to the board of review.

Mrs. Kittelman testified two hours Monday, four more hours yesterday and will be called again tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The slender, darkhaired police employee is a key figure in many of the charges against Orr. The ousted chief is charged with favoritism toward her and with improper social relations with her.

She was also a passenger when Orr was stopped for a minor traffic violation in Corte Madera in 1969. The charges drawn up by Crowe claim that Orr had been drinking and became "quarrelsome and obstre-

Withholding Agreement Is Reached

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan and the legislature have reached basic agreement on a $550 million tax increase that establishes California's first income tax withholding system and contains a property tax relief bonus for senior citizens.

The senior citizens tax break affecting 241,500 Californians age 62 and over—provided the key to settlement of the months-long legislative struggle over how to balance the state's red ink budget and enact the federal-type income tax collection system.

The property tax relief for senior citizens would cost $46 million and be financed by a combination of fiscal savings and a new tax on take-out hot food, such as chicken and hamburgers.

The compromise, reached last night in a two-house conference committee and agreed to by Reagan, resolved one of the legislature's two lingering major issues.

The second issue, reapportionment, was tied up in a Democratic-Republican stalemate over adoption of an Assembly redistricting plan. The impasse threatened to delay scheduled adjournament Thursday night of the 1971 Legislature's record-length session.

Both houses hoped to vote late today on the tax bill, sponsored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Under the bill, taxes would be raised high enough during the remainder of this fiscal year to plug a $310 million revenue gap in the $6.8 billion state budget, finance $200 million in one-time building construction and provide $21 million in business inventory tax relief.

It would do this by enacting withholding on Jan. 1, a device which would affect eight million Californians and net the state $470 million this fiscal year. The other $80 million would come from increasing taxes on banks, corporations, the oil industry and wealthy individuals

December Offers An Icy Hello

December offered an icy greeting early today to Marin and Southern Sonoma.

Temperatures dipped into the upper 20s in some areas, covering auto. windshields with ice and blanketing the landscape with frost.

Low for the area was 29 in Woodacre. Other temperatures reported were 31 in Novato, 32 in Petaluma, 37 in Tamalpais Valley and Ross, 38 in Mill Valley, 39 in San Rafael and 40 in Sausalito and Bolinas. San Anselmo reported 42 — mild by comparison.

The National Weather Service said the chill would continue tonight, but that a 70 per cent chance of rain was expected tomorrow.

Additional Areas Face Building Ban

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — Construction bans in four more areas of Marin may be ordered early this coming year to halt further water pollution, the staff of the Regional Water Quality Control Board reported yesterday.

Targeted for possible crackdown were the Sausalito-Marin City, Tiburon and Las Gallinas Valley sanitary districts and San Rafael Sanitation District.

The board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, told the board that the four Marin sewage dischargers — among 23 in the region earmarked for possible "enforcement proceedings" — had "a record of violation of board requirements."

Each will be investigated by the staff to determine if action against them should be taken by the board, Dierker said. But he stressed that the staff did not expect to recommend action against all 23.

"Enforcement proceedings" under state law have triggered construction bans in four other Marin jurisdictions, the City of Mill Valley, Richardson Bay Sanitary District, Ross Valley Sanitary District and Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

With yesterday's threatened crackdown against the four other Marin sewage agencies, only the Novato Sanitary District was left free of the threat of a construction ban. The Novato district is under a regional board order to upgrade its sewage treatment and discharge, and the board's staff noted that the district has been meeting a series of deadlines in the order.

Also cited yesterday by the staff for possible action was San Quentin Prison, but the board has unclear jurisdiction over the state institution.

Dierker said the staff would decide by February whether to act against the Sausalito-Marin

Devaluation Of Dollar Considered

ROME (UPI)—The United States today considered devaluation of the once mighty and now seriously beleaguered dollar as part of a new Western monetary system.

Karl Schiller, the West German economic and finance minister, agreed with a questioner that American readiness to discuss concrete figures, including the dollar, represented a breakthrough in monetary negotiations.

"All sorts of figures have been placed on the bargaining table," a European Common Market official said. "The lowest figure as far as the dollar is concerned is a 4.5 per cent devaluation."

He said none of the other figures was lower than 5 per cent.

The United States conceded the possibility of dollar devaluation in negotiations with other members of the so-called "Group of 10."

West European officials said they were "reasonably optimistic that a basis for monetary realignment was possible with final negotiations early next year.

"There is every sign that America is now prepared to see a framework for a new system which would include a change in the dollar's value, provided the conditions are right," a European Common Market participant said.

ORR DINNER TO BE HELD ON DEC. 13

A dinner to honor James R. Orr, Fairfax police chief who was fired by the city manager with concurrence of the city council, will be held Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. at Deer Park Villa, Fairfax.

Susan Tennler of Greenbrae has arranged the dinner, which she said was designed to show support for Orr and raise funds to assist in his defense. A hearing on his ouster is being held by the Fairfax Board of Review.

Mrs. Tennler said 160 tickets to the dinner already have been sold. Most police chiefs in Marin County will be among those attending, she said.

Nixon Gives Reluctant Wage Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon sent reluctant word to Congress today that he would go along with contractual wage boosts denied during the recent freeze. This appeared to clear the way for prompt Senate passage of Phase II economic controls good through April 30, 1973.

In the House however, the Banking committee, on an 18-18 tie vote, refused to approve its own version of the continued economic control bill. Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the action "easily" could delay final enactment of control legislation by 30 days and keep Congress in session until after Christmas.

The House committee bill, as did the Senate bill on which a final vote was expected later today, contained a number of provisions to which the Nixon administration objected, including approval of most pay raises that had been contracted for prior to the 90-day freeze.

Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., of the Senate Banking

GIANT JAPANESE OIL SPILL

This aerial view spots the bow (foreground) and stern of the Liberian oil tanker Juliana off Niigata, Japan. The tanker was split in two yesterday by heavy seas, dumping between 2,300 and 4,600 tons of oil into Japan's coastal waters. Japanese maritime officials said today they will bombard the oil slick with neutralizing chemicals to prevent fire or explosions. The tanker's 47-member-crew — mostly Chinese — was rescued by helicopter.

Red Shells Blast South Viet Base

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops hammered a South Vietnamese base in the Central Highlands with hundreds of high explosive shells Tuesday and launched smaller barrages at other Vietnamese soldiers operating in the Cambodian rubber country north of Saigon, spokesmen said.

There was heavy U.S. air support from B52 bombers and helicopter gunships in both areas, U.S. spokesmen said. At least two waves of B52s struck in the Highlands areas against Communist infiltration routes near the junction of the Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam Borders.

The U.S. command said there also were heavy B52 raids in support of the 45,000-man South Vietnamese push into the rubber country, but declined to give a number. American helicopter gunships flew nearly 230 missions in that area.

At the headquarters of the operation in Tay Ninh province, one American UH1 Huey helicopter was heavily damaged, when struck by an M79 grenade round fired by South Vietnamese Rangers celebrating their monthly payday.

The Rangers battled Popular Forces (PF) militiamen assigned to guard the base with automatic weapons and grenade launchers. One man was killed and seven wounded.

Other brawling soldiers ignited a fire in a dependent housing area of the 25th Infantry Division on the sprawling base, and nine huts were burned.

In Saigon the U.S. command announced the withdrawal of 1,250 more GIs from Vietnam as it sped to meet the bulk of President Nixon's 45,000-man December-January pullout schedule by two days before Christmas.

President Nguyen Van Thieu flew to the Mekong Delta city of Ca Mau Wednesday and in a speech there rejected a recent proposal by other Southeast Asian nations for neutralization of the area. "Nobody can force the Vietnamese to accept a solution that we have not made ourselves," Thieu said.

Campaign Ads Bill Goes Through House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With strong bipartisan support, the House has approved legislation that supporters hope will become the first major campaign reform law in 46 years. The bill sharply curtails election advertising by presidential and congressional candidates.

The House passed the bill in a 373-23 vote Tuesday and sent it to a House-Senate Conference Committee, where major differences remain to be reconciled.

Russell D. Hemenway, national director of the Committee for an Effective Congress, hailed the House version as "veto proof" and described it as "far stronger than anyone thought possible when we began." The House turned back an attempt to insert in the measure a provision to limit individual contributions to federal candidates. Republicans had warned this clause would inspire a presidential veto.

The House refused to repeal the equal time provision of the Communications Act, which inhibits television debates. The repeal is included in the Senate bill.

This is the most controversial difference in the two bills which House and Senate negotiators will try to remedy in time for final approval before Congress adjourns later this month.

In a series of votes, House members showed they will not approve repeal of the equal time provision for House candidates, partly out of fear that broadcasters could give unlimited free time to one candidate at the expense of another. The equal time provision requires broadcasters to give the same amount of air time to all candidates seeking the same office. The White House has warned that the President would veto a bill in which repeal applied only to presidential candidates.

In addition to the apparent impasse over equal time repeal, conferees also must try to compromise differences over monitoring of campaign receipts and expenditures and exactly what is covered by the spending limits.

The House voted to limit spending by all federal candidates to 10 cents per voter or $50,000, whichever is higher.

Nixon's Red China Visit A Free-Wheeling Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's one week visit to China will feature a series of free-wheeling talks with Communist leaders, with no set list of topics and the minimum aim of establishing some basic communication.

The White House offered that appraisal Tuesday along with some more details of Nixon's trip beginning Feb. 21. He will spend about four days in Peking, where most of the diplomatic discussions will take place, then visit Shanghai and Hangchow. Mrs. Nixon will accompany him.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's security affairs adviser, said there were no expectations the visit would produce dramatic results, such as U.S. recognition for the Peking government. He admitted that both the Indochina War and the status of Nationalist China would probably come up. But overall, the talks will be "free-wheeling with each side free to raise any subject it considers crucial."

Kissinger said Nixon's position on the war would be that the United States hopes to settle it through Vietnamization and at the peace talks, and his stand on Taiwan would be that the issue should be settled by the two Chinas.

Kissinger said the "minimum" objective of Nixon's China visit would be opening the lines of communication and establishing exchanges on cultural and intellectual levels.

"There will be no deals made by either side at the expense of other countries or concerning other countries," Kissinger said.

"No agreements will be made about third-party problems," he added. He also said that the United States would continue to maintain its mutual defense treaty with the government of Taiwan.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A "Judge' Now

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Michael A. Simmons, a red haired 18-year-old with a 1-Y deferment, will judge whether his friends should be called into military service.

"When they come before the board, they aren't my friends anymore," he said yesterday, after taking the oath of office to sit on local draft board 118 in Perry County, Pa.

Simmons, of Marysville, Pa., is believed the nation's youngest local draft board member. An employee of an auto-parts firm in Harrisburg, he supports President Nixon's Vietnam policy and a proposed all-volunteer army.

Seeding Praised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two weather scientists estimated today that cloud seeding in drought-stricken Florida last spring increased rainfall by at least 100,000 acre-feet and quenched fires ravaging the Everglades.

They said the value of the water to Florida was 32 to 68 times the project's cost.

The estimate was reported by Dr. Joanne Simpson and Dr. William L. Woodley of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Experimental Meteorology Laboratory in Miami.

The seeding was carried out by NOAA and the state. Gov. Reubin Askew had asked NOAA's help in an attempt to relieve Florida's worst drought.

Pays For Murder

SATTAHIP, Thailland (UPI) — Thep Kawenkao, a 29-year-old Thai accused of murdering a U.S. Air Force colonel, was executed today by a five-man firing squad on personal orders of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn.

Thousands of spectators crowded onto the execution site, a barren hill overlooking the Gulf of Thailand and the Utapao Air Base, but a cloth screen hid Thep's final agony. The firing squad fired several short bursts at a bullseye tacked onto the screen.

Thep, 29, publicly confessed minutes before he died that he shot and killed Lt. Col. Harry M. Funk, 50, of Lockbourne, Ohio. He said robbery was the motive and expressed the hope that "maybe in my next life I will be a rich man."

Butz Will Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate will confirm Earl L. Butz as agriculture secretary by a margin of at least 10 votes, administration forces predicted today. Butz also forecast victory.

The Senate planned to begin debating the Butz nomination late today, although a vote was not expected until later in the week. One GOP source said a poll taken in the Senate showed 47 votes committed to the former Eisenhower administration farm adviser, with more expected.

To be confirmed, Butz would need a simple majority of those senators present and voting. If all 100 vote that figure would be 51; but absentees and illnesses made it likely that fewer than 100 would be present for the vote.

Diplomatic Break

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq has decided to break off diplomatic relations with Britain and Iran following Tehran's military occupation of three strategic islands in the Persian Gulf, Baghdad Radio said today.

The Syrian government also condemned the occupation and called on the United Nations to act immediately to return them to their "rightful owners."

The islands — Abu Mussa, Big Tumb and Little Tumb — have been under British protecting power, but Britain will pull the last of its own troops out of the area by the end of the year.

Big Trade Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — A group of American companies has signed a business agreement with the Soviet Union swelling the value of all U.S.-Soviet trade by more than 60 per cent, a spokesman said today.

The agreement, signed yesterday, provides for the exchange of about $65 million worth of U.S. industrial goods for about $60 million worth of Soviet nonferrous metals, an American embassy spokesman said.

The agreement was signed at the foreign ministry in the presence of U.S. Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who just completed 10 days of exploratory talks with the Soviets.

Mrs. Meir D.C. Trip Is 'A Great Mission'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon has termed Premier Golda Meir's trip to Washington to meet with President Nixon one of the "greatest missions a statesman has ever undertaken."

Allon spoke Tuesday night to an all-woman audience in Tel Aviv hours after Mrs. Meir left for Washington for meetings with both Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

He said Mrs. Meir's mission was aimed at smoothing U.S.Israeli relations and promoting a Middle East settlement.

"I have never known any greater mission a stateman has ever undertaken," Allon said in an address to the Jubilee of the Women Workers Council. He said the great powers could promote a Middle East peace if they realized that negotiations were the right way for achieving a settlement.

Officials have said Mrs. Meir will press for renewal of shipments to Israel of U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers and greater American support for Isarel on the political front.

Allon said that despite threatening speeches from Egypt, there still were good chances for preserving the 17-month-old Suez Canal cease-fire as "part of further efforts towards an overall Middle East accord."

But he told Egyptian leaders that any new war boded ill for them.

"The time has come, before it is too late, for the Egyptian leaders to realize that a fourth round of fighting holds great disasters for the war mongers," he said.

Army Clears Firing Zone At Dacca

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pakistani army has begun leveling a number of villages in the area around the East Pakistan capital of Dacca to give a clear zone of fire around military installations and communication centers, reports from Dacca said today.

Foreign travelers arriving in Dacca said they saw bodies floating in the Burhi Ganga River and there were estimates that as many as 250 Bengalis were killed in the clearing operations.

The Pakistan army is caught up in a series of border skirmishes with Indian troops and is fighting a civil war with Bangla Desh guerrillas who have been increasingly active in the Dacca area.

Police sources in Dacca said guerrillas assassinated two right-wing politicians Tuesday night, Shah Jahan and Sheikh Nasirullah, and reported five armed men attacked a commercial bank in the city and shot and killed a night watchman.

Morning Meeting Draws Criticism

A Novato resident last night said a scheduled breakfast meeting of the Novato Unified School District Board and Novato City Council is "not fair to the public."

Betty Machado, two-time candidate for the council, told school trustees last night that having a breakfast meeting showed a "lack of consideration."

Trustees and councilmen are to meet at 7:30 a.m. Dec. 14 at Sambo's restaurant to discuss common problems.

Supt. James G. Bunker said he shared Mrs. Machado's misgivings and that breakfast meetings "tend to violate the spirit of the Brown Act," passed to insure that its public business is publicly conducted.

Mrs. Machado requested that the meeting be changed to 7:30 p.m. at Novato High School, so residents working on revisions tothe Novato Area General Plan could attend.

Trustees said the joint meeting at the restaurant is open to the public, will be conducted informally and no attempt will be made to arrive at any decisions.

Mrs. Machado said she couldn't make it to Sambo's restaurant at 7:30 a.m. and neither could members of neighborhood committees on the area general plan.

Trustees suggested that they could meet with committee members at another time and answer their questions on school facilities. Meeting at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14, just prior to the 8 p.m. regular board meeting, wouldn't permit enough time for discussion, they said.

Novato Schools Lift Ban On Food Sales

Novato Unified School District trustees last night agreed to lift the ban on volunteer food sales at elementary schools, opening the way for such events as "hot-dog days" and cupcake sales.

Trustees voted 6-to-1 to permit such sales, usually conducted by parent-teacher associations, subject to approval of guidelines.

The lone dissenter, Trustee Carolyn Crabtree, said: "I just don't believe this best serves the children of the district."

The vote came after Carolyn S. Jones, chairman of the food service sales study committee of the North Marin Council of Parent-Teacher Association, reported parent support for "a weekly volunteer food sale."

A committee survey, which covered all elementary schools except San Ramon, showed the majority in support, Mrs. Jones said.

Trustees requested that the committee submit guidelines covering health standards, frequency of sales, preparation and dispensing of foods.

"We had enough hassle getting out of the food business and this is just going to put us in it again," Mrs. Crabtree said.

Trustees decided last February after the school lunch program was discontinued to halt volunteer food sales in elementary schools until a policy was set on food sales.

The matter came before the board again on Nov. 3 when the Meadow Park-Hamilton Parent-Teacher Association requested permission to sell hot dogs one day a week.

Trustees then asked the food service sales study committee to report on the food program. The committee's final report last night endorsed volunteer food sales.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

LIBRARY PROJECTS — Approved application for federal funds, $14,449 for library supplies including $374 for Our Lady of Loretto School, since the funds are for all schools in the area; and $58,548 to establish a media center at Sinaloa Junior High School, which would include films, recordings, slides, maps and books.

INSTRUCTION FOR BLIND — Approved a contract, in conjunction with six other school districts, to provide three blind students with special instruction in mobility, at a cost of $1,950 in state aid funds.

BAD SCORES — Were told by Supt. James G. Bunker that a state report rating Novato 12th-graders low in spelling was inaccurate, because some of those tested missed the spelling portion of the state test and their zeroes were recorded in the average. The Novato schools administration will conduct a test of its own, Bunker said.

HEALTH STUDY — Commended school nurses Margaret Feldstein and Linda Swaab for creating a program of health studies, which intermingles health with other fields, such as history.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Dec. 14 at Novato High School lecture hall, instead of the regularly scheduled Dec. 7 date, with a joint meeting on tap with the Novato City Council at 7:30 a.m. Dec. 14 at Sambo's restaurant.

City Aide Picked For San Rafael

A 29-year-old Los Angeles County man has been named assistant city manager of San Rafael.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said he would offer the appointment of William J. Bielsen of Covina to the city council for confirmation Monday.

The appointment to the $15,600-a-year post would be effective Jan. 1, McCown said.

Bielsen, a 1965 public administration graduate of San Francisco State College, is assistant to the city manager of Covina. Prior to taking that post in 1970, he had been an administrative assistant with the City of Palo Alto for four years.

He is married and has three children.

The assistant city manager post was created by the San Rafael council earlier this year following the retirement because of physical disability of John T. Goodale, one of two administrative assistants to McCown.

The new post will carry more responsibilities and provide continuity in heading the city's operations, McCown said.

Virginia H. Congdon remains as the one administrative assistant under the reorganization of the city manager's office.

Marin City Seminar Set

Antoher in a series of seminars on community-police relations will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Manzanita center in Marin City.

The session will give residents a chance to discuss local law enforcement procedures, the jurisdiction of police and to find ways to improve police services and answer the needs of the community, according to Bella H. Aaron, project director for Marin County police-community relations.

Dr. William Scalapino of the College of Marin behaviorial sciences department will be chairman. He will be assisted by a panel of 11 public officials and police representatives.

Novato School Facility Utilization Fees Hiked

The Novato Unified School District Board last night increased its fees for use of school facilities and then set use priorities for the facilities.

School-sponsored groups, such as clubs, student body or school employee groups have top priority.

Second are groups connected with the schools, such as parent-teacher associations; third, character building youth groups, such as the Boy Scouts; fourth, groups sponsored by the Novato Recreation Department; and fifth, other groups.

Fees will be charged only to organizations that charge admission that isn't used "entirely for the benefit of the pupils of the district."

The hourly fees (with past fees in parentheses) are:

Multi-purpose room, when custodian is normally on duty, $7.50 ($6) and when custodian isn't normally on duty, $10 ($7.50);

High School gymnasium, $20 (no change); high school cafeteria, $8 ($5), plus cafeteria personnel, $4 ($2.50); classroom, $4 ($3) and custodial overtime, $5.50 ($3.75).

In each case there is a minimum fee equal to the fee for two hours.

Truck Drivers Get Pay Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Wage boosts gained by Northern California construction truck drivers during a 4 1-2-week strike have been approved by the federal government, the Teamsters Union announced Tuesday.

Morris Less, a union spokesman, said the two-year labor contract between the union and contractors had been approved by the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

He added that the pact does not require further approval by President Nixon's Pay Board and that the agreement provides

State Holiday Bill To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate yesterday passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill making the second Monday in September a state holiday in recognition of California's admission to the union.

The measure by Assemblyman Peter Chacon, D-San Diego, was approved 22-11 despite complaints by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, who said the old admission date of Sept. 9 held "sentimental" value for him.

Nativity Scene Ban Is Sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The display in public schools of Christmas cribs, nativity scenes or other holiday symbols with a religious origin violates the constitutional separation of church and state, the American Civil Liberties Union says.

The ACLU's Southern California chapter has mailed a set of "constitutional guidelines" for Christmas and other holidays to school superintendents, a spokesman said.

The guildelines told school officials they should not permit display of cribs, nativity scenes, crosses, menorahs — the seven branched candelabra used in Jewish holiday observances — or other religious symbols, and that students should not be required to attend any holiday observance.

College of Marin Registration Set

Registration of returning full-time students began yesterday for the spring semester at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

New full-time students may register between Dec. 14 and Jan. 4.

Returning part-time students may register from Jan. 5 to Jan. 14 and new part-time students will be allowed to sign up for classes from Jan. 18 to Jan. 26, according to the college.

The next semester will begin Feb. 7.

11 Killed In Truck Ambush

MANILA (UPI) — Suspected Moslem terrorists ambushed a logging truck in the Southern Philippines province of Cotabato Del Norte Tuesday, killing 11 persons and wounding six.

Philippine Constabulary (National Police) authorities said the truck was attacked on the outskirts of Maganoy Town, 480 miles south of Manila.

Civil Defense Alarm Surprising To Marin

Marin County police and fire departments were surprised, if not startled, today when a Civil Defense take-cover alarm went off at 1:45 a.m.

But it turned out to be a test.

John H. Atkinson, director of county communications, said the alarm normally is tested each morning at 9:45 a.m., but that it went off eight hours early today.

Atkinson said the alarm apparently was triggered by a test of the system in Alameda County and some stations on the circuit weren't turned off.

He said officials at the county communications center quickly determined the alarm was a test, and word was broadcast to Marin public safety agencies.

While police and firemen on duty in Marin may have been surprised by the alarm, Atkinson said the communications center received an inquiry only from Fairfax firemen.

Treatment Plant Plans Submitted

Plans for $400,000 in improvements to Mill Valley's sewage treatment plant — improvements which could result in a partial lifitng of the Southern Marin building ban — have been submitted to the regional water quality control board.

The proposal calls for a system of microstrainers — fine mesh screens designed to filter solids out of sewage effluent — and holding ponds to treat wet-weather sewage which now is bypassed directly into the bay.

The plans were submitted by Yoder, Trotter, Orlob and Associates, Mill Valley's sewage consultants, seven months ahead of a July 1, 1972, deadline imposed by the regional board, which ordered the building ban.

If the board approves the plans, the project would be eligible for up to 80 per cent federal and state financing. The interim project would be used only until Southern Marin sanitary districts are merged, an estimated five years from now.

ORR

perous" when told not to drive because of his intoxicated condition.

Mrs. Kittelman again denied all the charges in which she is linked with Orr, but the policewoman question was the biggest bone of contention.

Myer's repeated declaration that the promotion to policewoman was illegal no matter what duties Mrs. Kittelman performed or who knew about them led Shaw to comment: "Apparently everybody is out of step except the current administration."

Shaw's remark won muttered agreement from the audience of about 60 and a warning from chairman Freeman Blake to stay on the subject.

Mrs. Kittelman said she first went to work as an undercover agent of the Marin County Narcotics Bureau in 1968, three years after she was hired as a clerk on the Fairfax force.

She said she was sworn in as a peace officer by Orr at that time. She said she thought the oath she took made her a policewoman although she took no Civic Service test, received no pay increase and was not formally appointed by the city council.

Myers argued that hiring of a police officer is not valid unless the officer first takes a Civil Service exam and is approved by action of the city council.

Board member William T. Benson wondered why Myers and other city officials allowed her to act as a policewoman for three years if it was common knowledge among city officials that she was not formally appointed. Myers's only reply was that she worked as a clerk matron during the day and confined most of her narcotics work to evening hours.

Under Shaw's questioning, she said she made many evening undercover narcotics buys, often accompanied by Orr as a backup. She again stated she and Orr have never behaved improperly together.

On the contrary, she said, Orr was a friend of both her son and her husband. She painted a warm family relationship in which the police chief often enjoyed recreational activities with her husband, Alan, and babysat for her 9-year-old son while she was at evening law enforcement classes.

Testimony by three of the four prior witnesses indicated Orr's car was often seen at the Kittelman residence during evening and early morning hours.

On other subjects raised by Myers, she said cancellation of three parking tickets on her vehicle this year were initiated by Sgt. Andy Grimes, not Chief Orr.

She also said delays of six to eight months in filing reports with the state Bureau of Criminal Statistics earlier this year were caused by complex new procedures. She said other police agencies had the same difficulty.

She also admitted studying for night police courses while on duty on occasion and on at least one occasion leaving orders for policemen to type up their own reports.

REMAP

tion as the fallback when lawmakers fail to agree.

"The inability of the California Legislature to reapportion legislative districts is regrettable, but probably not surprising in a year that has been marked by failure and frustration," Monagan said.

The commission —composed of the lieutenant governor, controller, attorney general, secretary of state and state superintendent of public instruction —would be controlled by the GOP three to two. Democrats contend the commission is unconstitutional.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, said he believes the California Supreme Court ultimately will decide reapportionment.

The Republican proposal, according to Monagan, would have retained the current partisan complexion of the Assembly, but would also have created two GOP seats in San Mateo and Orange counties.

It probably would have resulted in the defeat of Republicans Charles Conrad of Sherman Oaks and Floyd Wakefield of South Gate— something Democrats say is non-negotiable.

It would have increased the GOP registration of newly elected Assembly Bill Brophy, R-Los Angeles, in a district Democrats still hope to recapture next year.

Marler also said until reapportionment is settled Republicans will refuse to vote for adjournment of the legislative session.

CONTROLS

Committee and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., the committee's ranking Republican, said the White House had decided not to fight retroactive pay to millions of workers who were denied raises during the 90-day freeze.

Tower said the administration also has given up its fight against an amendment adopted by the Senate to grant a 5.5 per cent pay increase to the government's civilian and military employes on Jan. 1. President Nixon had sought to postpone the increase until July 1.

The increase will add $1 billion to the government's deficit of $28 billion this fiscal year — the largest peacetime deficit in American history.

The administration's willingness to yield on those two issues cleared the way for quick congressional action of a bill extending to April 30, 1973, Nixon's broad powers to control the economy.

now enjoying "preferential income" loopholes.

The bill passed the Senate with strong bipartisan support last week, but the Assembly forced it into a two-House conference committee where Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, held out for more senior citizens property tax relief.

The Senate-passed bill would have provided $16 million in additional senior citizens property tax relief starting next July. The conference committee, at Assembly Democrats' urging, pushed that up another $30 million.

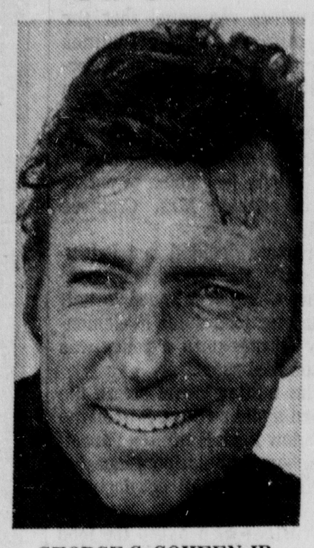
$3 Million Jewel Wardrobe For Liz

PARIS (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor will wear $3 million worth of diamonds when she goes to a party Thursday night, a spokesman for the actress said today.

Along with Miss Taylor and the diamonds will go a heavy police escort to surround the Chateau de Ferriere estate where Baron Guy de Rothschild is giving the party, the spokesman said.

OBITUARIES

George C. Goheen Jr., Resident Of Tiburon



GEORGE C. GOHEEN JR.
Marin builder dies

George C. Goheen Jr., Tiburon resident and Mill Valley home builder, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital following surgery last month for a brain tumor. He was 45.

Goheen also was associated with the Brebner Agency of San Francisco in producing advertising and documentary films and was a prize-winning amateur painter. Twenty years ago, he owned and operated his own fishing boat along the Pacific Coast, then turned to rebuilding old homes in the Carmel area, before joining the building firm owned by his father, George C. Goheen Sr., longtime Mill Valley resident. He later established his own building firm.

Goheen was a third-generation native of San Francisco. He graduated from St. Ignatius High School and studied medicine at University of Southern California before joining the Navy in World War II. He was a charter member of the Belvedere Tennis Club.

He is survived by his wife, Lynn, of the family home; four sons, George, of British Columbia, and Brian, Mark and Dane of the home, his father in Mill Valley, and his mother, Mrs. Jane Boccilli of San Francisco.

Memorial service will be conducted at 5 p.m. tomorrow in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, by Father Robert Morse of Oakland, who is godfather to Goheen's four sons.

Friends have suggested memorial contributions to the Goheen College Fund, care of Rev. Robert Morse, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Oakland.

MISS KIILERICH

Private funeral was held today for Karen Kiilerich, 7, at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato.

Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kiilerich of 642 Louise Avenue, Novato, died Monday at a local hospital following an illness. She was a pupil at West Novato School.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a sister, Jane, and a brother, Jerry, both of Novato.

Inurnment was private.

ALENA ANGELL

Funeral for Alena F. Angell, 71, a 44-year resident of Marin, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Angell died Friday at a local rest home, apparently of natural causes, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

She was born in Oregon and came to California as an infant. She had lived in Marin since 1927.

She is survived by a daughter, Myrtle Wright, of Lancaster, Los Angeles County.

Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley, is in charge of arrangements.

MRS. La SANCE

Private graveside services for Ruth LaSance, 87, of Santa Venetia, will be held Friday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Hollywood Hills.

Mrs. LaSance, widow of Joseph LaSance, died Monday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was a native of Cincinnati and had lived in California for 39 years.

She was a resident of Marin for six years and lived with her daughter, Jane Hill London, at 9 Cushing Avenue.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are two grandchildren.

ROY JOHNSON

Funeral arrangements were pending today in Brookings, Ore. for Roy F. Johnson, 69, a former Petaluma resident.

Johnson died Monday at a Brookings Hospital after a long illness. A native of San Francisco, he had moved to Petaluma at the age of 14 and had operated a ranch on Spring Hill Road until a year ago when he retired to Oregon. He had also worked as a fisherman.

He is survived by his wife, Marie of Brookings; two sons, Roy R. Johnson and William Johnson of Petaluma; a daughter, Margaret Johnson of Brookings; his mother, Christine Johnson of Petaluma; a sister, Lillian Bostrom of Petaluma, and three grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the Heart Fund or Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, San Francisco.

MRS. HARDY

Funeral for Dorothy A. Hardy, 56, of Petaluma, will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Mrs. Hardy collapsed Monday at her home, 1405 Goodwin Avenue, and was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

She was born and reared in Eureka and moved to San Francisco as a child where she graduated from Commerce High School. She and her husband, Charles Hardy, a truck driver, moved to Petaluma 29 years ago.

Mrs. Hardy was a charter member of the Penngrove Grange.

She is also survived by three sons, Ronald, Jerry and Charles Hardy; two daughters, Carol Lee and Sandra Hawkins, all of Petaluma; a brother, Jerry Lee of Sonoma, and 11 grandchildren.

Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

MRS HICKS

Patricia A. Hicks of Tiburon died unexpectedly yesterday after collapsing at her home. Coroner's investigator Keith C. Craig said cause of death would not be known until an autopsy had been performed. She was 36.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Hicks had lived in California and Marin County one year, residing at 21 Tanfield Road. She was a member of St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon. Her husband, Richard, is a vice president for Dean Witter and Company in San Francisco.

Mrs. Hicks is also survived by three sons, Christopher, Thomas and Brian and two daughters, Tracy and Kelly, all of Tiburon. Other survivors include her mother, Mrs. Mildred Rabideau of Toledo; four brothers, Gerald, James and Robert Rabideau of Ohio and John Rabideau of Florida and a sister, Mrs. Mary Jasper of Florida.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Hilary's Church. Rosary will be recited at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Burial will be in San Rafael.

JOHN GOWLAND

John Gowland, 70, of San Rafael, a retired customs official, died yesterday in a local hospital following a short illness.

He was born in Leeds, England, and came to the U.S. with his parents when he was 6 years old. He lived in Daly City and worked for the U.S. Mint and then for seven years was a customs officer until he retired. He and his wife, Mary, moved to 1135 Grand Avenue, 21 years ago.

He was a member of Crocker Lodge 454 Free and Accepted Masons of Daly City; California Consistory, Scottish Rite Bodies of San Francisco and Islam Temple Shrine.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter Judith Eline Gowland of San Jose.

Masonic funeral by Crocker Lodge 454 will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Olivet Memorial Park, Colma.

BANS

City, Las Gallinas Valley and Tiburon sanitary districts, and by April whether to act against the San Rafael district and San Quentin.

Construction bans imposed last summer by the board against Mill Valley, Richardson Bay and the Ross Valley districts allowed new construction in each only to the extent that interim improvements reduced pollution. The ban in Bolinas allows no construction until the community builds a sewage treatment system — with plans still up in the air.

The board's area engineer for Marin, Dennis Mishek, reported that sewer leaks in the Ross Valley district had been corrected enough to allow 459 new residential units. The result was the district had earned a surplus "credit" of 77 units more than it estimates will be built by next July — thus the ban in effect has been lifted temporarily until a new construction spurt.

In Mill Valley, however, some 60 planned units will continue to be held up indefinitely until the city's sewage system is upgraded, Mishek reported.

Figures for the Richardson Bay district were more complex because it is divided into three watersheds. In the Ricardo Road watershed, district improvements have earned 123 new residential units, or only one more unit than the district estimates will be built by next July.

In the Salt Works watershed, however, there is a surplus of new permits available, with 88 earned through improvements against only 48 expected by next July.

But in the Trestle Glen watershed, the district's "credit" is for only 31 new units, while it expects plans for 34 by July.

Yesterday's report could have the effect of drying up financing for new construction in the four districts slated for possible construction bans — as happened in Mill Valley, Richardson Bay and Ross Valley early this year when the board's staff suggested construction bans in these districts.

Emergency Ordinance On Grading

A 90-day interim ordinance to curb indiscriminate grading of roads in West Marin was adopted yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The emergency ordinance was requested months ago by conservationists but had become entangled in red tape.

As adopted, the ordinance greatly reduces the limits under which land developers and speculators can grade new roads without county authorization and supervision.

Approval of the long-awaited measure came during the board's third experimental "swing shift" meeting.

While such meetings have been held once a month since September to encourage greater public attendance, yesterday's session drew only 40 persons at peak attendance.

The audience, larger before the 5 p.m. dinner break than after, sat silently during most of the meeting. Only five persons spoke in support of the interim ordiance. None spoke in opposition.

The only negative board vote was by Supervisor John F. McInnis who based his opposition on the ordinance's lack of provision for a committee to review applications for future road grading. The ordinance now leaves review to the department of public works.

At his urging, creation of such a committee — to be made up of officials from the county counsel's office, public works and planning departments — will be considered at the board's Dec. 14 meeting.

The interim ordinance, Public Works Director Ray K. Foreaker told the board, will help control damaging road grading until the ordinance previously in effect is updated.

Under conditions of the interim ordinance, land developers must have county permission if their proposed road is longer than 250 feet, requires hillside cuts of more than eight feet, fills of more than three feet or grading of more than 500 cubic yards.

Under the previous ordinance, there was no limit to length. However, it required county permission for hillside cuts of more than 10 feet, fills of more than 25 feet or grading of more than 1,000 cubic yards.

The action was prompted by an increasing number of illegally "pioneered" roads in West Marin.

Delay in adopting the interim ordinance was caused when planning department and public works department officials worked independently of each other and came up with two ordinances. Supervisors, when handed the two ordinances, returned them without action and requested the two be merged.

Supervisors Delay Rock Concert Policy

The future of rock concerts at the new Marin Veterans Memorial Building — left damaged last Wednesday after its first such affair — will not be decided for another two weeks, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

The delay came as about 40 persons sat quietly in the audience waiting to hear the board's reaction to the concert which drew about 2,200 persons and left the building littered and stained. (A second rock concert last Saturday night was a financial failure and did not produce any damage.)

In delaying the decision, however, the board voted unanimously to extend a moratorium banning rock concerts until after the question of future shows is resolved.

That decision is expected at the Dec. 14 meeting when a special committee made up of supervisors John F. McInnis and Peter R. Arrigoni will report on policy guidelines for use of the auditorium.

The moratorium was imposed last week — prior to Wednesday's concert — to give the committee time to delve into problems connected with opening the auditorium to affairs such as rock concerts.

McInnis told the board yesterday that the committee needed another two weeks to come up with proposed guidelines.

While no decision was made on whether such concerts will be allowed in the future, several supervisors expressed regret and dismay at the results of Wednesday's affair.

"As far as I'm concerned, rock concerts are through," chairman Louis H. Baar said. "We made it clear that how they (youths) behaved would determine the building's use in the future."

He was joined by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste who said there was "no excuse for what happened."

McInnis, while expressing "deep regret" for the damage, said he had no intent to "willy-nilly prohibit every rock concert from the auditorium."

"The entire matter would have been handled differently," he said, "if the board had had policy (guidelines) to operate by. "I think we have learned a great deal from it," he added.

Damage to the building yesterday was set at $2,240 excluding repair or replacement of carpeting. A figure on carpets, and a recommendation on whether to replace or repair them will come after further negotiations with the insurance company, Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said.

He requested and got board approval to withhold a $2,000 security deposit and about $5,000 in gate receipts from concert promoters until settlement with the insurance company.

The concert was put on as a benefit for the Marin Open House drug abuse center by Sausalito pharmacist Frederick S. Mayer. Mayer did not attend yesterdays meeting.

Easing On Houseboat Ruling Urged

Marin supervisors, prompted by a lack of progress in cleaning up the houseboat mess on Richardson Bay, called last night for the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to relax a regulation which supervisors say is to blame.

The long-standing and complex houseboat issue centers on county attempts to weed out substandard vessels from several marinas and to force sewer service to the remaining houseboats.

Marina operators have contended they can not finance sewer and dock improvements unless they are permitted to expand their houseboat colonies to provide the extra revenue. But, they say, they cannot afford to expand because BCDC requires that all houseboats brought to the bay after May must float at all times. Houseboats in the past have rested on bay mud during low tide.

The result of the ruling is that expensive dredging — to insure floatation — would be required for new houseboats taking the place of those judged substandard.

The supervisors, meeting with BCDC Executive Director Joseph E. Bodovitz, called on the commission to impose the floatation ruling only when the number of houseboats exceeds the number now allowed to lie in the mud.

Under this proposal, new houseboats could take the place of those ruled substandard without requiring expensive dredging for floatation.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

COURTHOUSE — Appointed Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni to the county's negotiating team for sale of the old courthouse site in San Rafael to the City of San Rafael.

CENTER POINT — Authorized the health department to forward an application for Center Point drug abuse center to the California Council on Criminal Justice for $61,180 for a drug abuse treatment program.

FIRE TRUCK — Authorized the transfer of a used county fire truck from the Bello Beach Volunteer Fire Company to the Muir Beach Community Services District.

COURTROOM — Authorized a $434 change order to the $147,050 contract for repair of the bombed courtroom at the Hall of Justice to relocate a jury box.

BON AIR ROAD — Approved a $7,612 agreement with the engineering firm of Coleman, Selmi and Simpkins for preliminary engineering of the proposed realignment of Bon Air Road near Marin General Hospital.

Girl, 17, Held In Theft Case

A 17-year-old San Rafael girl was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall yesterday after she attempted to exchange a pair of stolen boots for cash at a San Rafael shoe store.

Police said Marilyn Paula Gaines, of 50 Merrydale Road, was booked on suspicion of possessing stolen property after a clerk at Barney's Shoe Store, 821 Francisco Boulevard, recognized the boots as ones having been reported stolen earlier from the automobile of David A. Battaglia of 268 Devon Drive, San Rafael.

The sales slip made out to Battaglia was still in the boots, police said.

Bus Service Radio Topic

The Golden Gate Bridge District's local Marin bus service will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speaking on the panel will be Stephan C. Leonoundakis, member of the bridge district board of directors; Michael Wornum, Marin County supervisor, member of the bridge district board of directors and chairman of the district's transportation committee; James B. Robertson, general manager of Marin Transit District, and Jerome M. Kuykendall, transit developer of the bridge district.

Questions telephoned in during the broadcast tomorrow will be answered. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Nativity Tableaux To Be Staged At School

A public showing of tableaux on the Nativity, staged by students, will be given at 8 p.m., Dec. 15 and 16 at Alumnae Hall, San Domenico School in San Anselmo.

The tableaux will represent the story of the Nativity as told in Fra Angelico's 15th Century frescoes. The tableaux will be augmented by Bibical readings, chants and carols, with mimes between them.

MANY ROLES — Women perform many roles in guerrilla warfare which is currently taking place in Northern Ireland. In this photo supplied to United Press International by Life magazine women of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) — wearing stockings over their heads to mask their identities — receive training in the use of revolvers at a secret camp. Meanwhile today, the IRA was accused of luring a British soldier into a death trap.

Novato Neighborhood Committees Are Set

The five Novato neighborhood committees participating in revision of the Novato Area General Plan are moving to have preliminary reports by Jan. 7.

The committees, which will recommend Novato area goals and policies to the city planning commission, elected chairmen and set meeting dates during organizational gatherings Monday night.

The chairmen and meeting schedules, all at 8 p.m., are:

Area One, San Marin and downtown, Robert Burke of 211 San Felipe Way, Mondays at San Ramon School.

Area Two, east of Highway 101, Al Rivasplata of 302 Olive Avenue, Wednesdays at Olive School.

Area Three, West Novato, George Barnwell of 842 Sutro Avenue, Wednesdays at Sinaloa Junior High School.

Area Four, west of Highway 101 and south of Diablo Avenue, Harold K. Blue of 1294 Leafwood Drive, Thursdays at Rancho School.

Area Five, Marin Country Club Estates, Lima Verde and Hamilton Air Force Base, D.P. Donovan of 435 Fairway Drive, Tuesdays at Loma Verde School.

16 Compete In Novato 'Junior Miss' Pageant

Sixteen students from Novato and San Marin High schools have entered the eighth annual Junior Miss Pageant sponsored by the Novato Jaycees.

The entries, double the number on last year's list, will be competing to win the local title and advance to district competition in the nationwide contest.

The pageant will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12 at the Novato Community House, according to Thomas McGruder, pageant chairman.

The local winner will receive a $150 scholarship; first runnerup, a $75 scholarship, and second runnerup, a $50 scholarship. Each also will receive a trophy.

Entries from San Marin High are Lorraine Faires, Kathy Maillard, Delores Heiswinkel, Michalle Van Horn, Pat Loegering, Gloria Franklin, Mary Killian and Karen Kristock.

From Novato High entries are Rosalind Miles, Jan Denny, Susan Smith, Charlene Manzoni, Jan Tschache, Donna King, Maria Craft and Blythe Beswick.

Shots Fired At Burglar

A resident of a Strawberry motel fired three shots at a burglar early yesterday, but the intruder leaped out a bathroom window and vanished.

Gilbert Blum, 63, a retired merchant seaman, told sheriff's deputies he awoke about 5 a.m. in his room at the Tamalpais Motel, and seeing a prowler in the kitchen, he grabbed his .38 — caliber revolver.

He said he told the burglar, "hold it." The intruder, noticing the gun, yelled, "Oh my God. I've got a gun too. Don't shoot. Don't shoot." Officer said Blum fired three shots, but apparently none hit the intruder, who dashed into the bathroom and sailed out the window.

Girl Hurt In Car-Bike Crash

An 11-year-old Corte Madera girl was hospitalized with a broken left leg and broken right foot yesterday, after an auto-bicycle collision in the Corte Madera Center parking lot.

Marin General Hospital reported today that Patt Quigley of 232 Willow Avenue was in good condition.

Corte Madera police said no report had yet been written, and they could supply no details of the accident other than that it happened shortly before 4 p.m.

BART Post To Alioto's Cousin

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto named his cousin, Frank N. Alioto, Tuesday to replace Garland D. Graves as one of San Francisco's four directors for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Frank Alioto had previously been on the Fire Commission.

The term of Graves, who is a Transamerica Corp. vice president, has expired.

Nun-As-Deputy Sees No Conflict

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)— Sister Mary Ann Burgess sees no conflict between being a nun and being a deputy attorney general for the state of New Jersey. She thinks the two go together rather well.

Today was her first day on the job as a legal adviser to the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs. The position gives her an opportunity, she said, "to become really involved in the problems of society."

Sister Burgess, 28, with a trace of a Brooklyn accent, was admitted to the bar Tuesday morning with several hundred other attorneys here, the first member of the Sisters of Charity to be an attorney.

Tuesday afternoon she was sworn in as a deputy attorney by Attorney General George F. Kugler, Jr.

Clerks' Union Resumes Moving-Firm Picketing

A clerical union's strike against six Bay Area moving and storage companies has had spotty effects in Marin County, company spokesmen said today.

Freight Checkers, Clerical Employees and Helpers Union Local 856, affiliated with the Teamsters Union, yesterday resumed a sporadic strike against Bekins, Global, Lyon, City Transfer, Neptune and Smyth moving and storage companies. The first three are represented by Marin County offices,and only the Bekins office in San Rafael has union membership in its office, a moving firm official reported.

Local 856 members picketed the Bekins office for only one day, shortly following the expiration of Phase I of the wage-price freeze in mid-November. Otherwise, moving vans have come and gone freely at Marin County warehouses, the companies spokesmen reported.

The union clerks had been working without a contract since Aug. 31. Bargaining talks were broken off Monday and picketing resumed in San Francisco, but not in Marin.

New Ministry To Be Started

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A former priest said he was starting a "ministry to gay Roman Catholics" that would include workshops where homosexuals "can expose their life styles and problems to the larger community."

Thomas M. Frey, who resigned from the archdiocese of San Francisco two years ago, said he would "work toward the elimination of employment discrimination based on sexual orientation" and would help homosexuals find priests who will minister to them and lead them on retreats.

He said funds for a year's work in this area have come "by voluntary contributions from more than 60 Bay Area Catholic priests and a few laymen."

Attica Prison Riot Is Blamed On 'Far Left'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The superintendent of New York's Attica state prison has told the House Crime Committee "Marxists or the far left" inspired the September riot at the prison which killed 43 persons.

Vincent Mancusi appeared Monday as the leadoff witness as the committee started a week of hearings into prison riots. The superintendent was asked by Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., if he meant the riot was the "result of a communist conspiracy."

"I did not use the term communist," Mancusi replied. "I said it was a group who desired to overthrow our governmental system, and it could be Marxist or the far left."

Hijacker Search Has Been Closed

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)— The temporary headquarters in the search for a hijacker who parachuted from a jetliner a week ago with $200,000 ransom has been closed.

The FBI and Clark County sheriff's deputies ended six days of scouring a 15-square mile area around Woodland, Wash., Tuesday without a trace of the man who called himself "D.B. Cooper." He bailed out of a Northwest airlines plane between Seattle and Reno, Nev.

"There's nothing new, and we've taken our men off unless something else turns up," said Sheriff Eugene Cotton.

The FBI would say only "the investigation is continuing."

Slain British Soldier Said Lured Into Trap

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Detectives said today they believe an Irish Republican Army (IRA) execution squad lured a British soldier into a death trap visit to friends in Northern Ireland.

Detectives and British Army Special Investigation Branch said a man found two days ago lying beside a road at Teer, Crossmaglen, about 20 miles southwest of Belfast was Pvt. Robert Benner, 25.

They said Benner had been shot through the head at close range and apparently was the fourth British soldier lured to his death this year. He was off duty and wearing civilian clothes.

Earlier in the year, three members of the Royal Highland Fusilisiers, two of them brothers, were shot and killed when gunmen lured them to a lonely road overlooking Belfast.

Detectives said they were trying to piece together Benner's last movements, and theorized he may have been on the way to visit friends in the Crossmaglen area.

In Belfast, a gunman fired and wounded a 15-year-old boy who was walking in the Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area of the city while wearing a green jacket army officials said was similar in color to those worn by British troops.

Three men bombed a warehouse in downtown Belfast. The gunmen shot a man employed at the warehouse in the shoulder when he grappled with them. Four other persons were injured in the blast, none seriously.

Northern Ireland spent a quiet night, one of its few in two years of almost uninterrupted four-way bloodshed involving the province's protestant majority, Roman Catholic minority, the troops and the IRA.

The IRA's avowed aim is to unite Northern Ireland by force with its Roman Catholic Irish Republic under the republic's flag, wresting its six counties from British hands.

Carbone Wins Cotati School Seat

Anthony Carbone Sr., 36, of Rohnert Park, was elected yesterday to a seat on the Cotati School District board.

Carbone, an institutional sales representative for Kraft Foods, received 190 votes or 33.2 per cent of the 572 votes cast. A total of 3,508 persons was eligible to vote, but only 16.3 per cent turned out.

Second in the balloting was Penny-Davis Hanley with 117 votes, followed by Richard Clarey, 47 votes, and Karl J. Clark, 15.

Carbone, president of the Rohnert Park Police Reserves Association, will take the board seat vacated by Lester H. Petersen when Petersen was appointed to the Cotati City Council.

Defense In Henderson Case Rests

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—The defense has rested its case in the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson on My Lai coverup charges, but the jury's request to hear additional witnesses could delay further the protracted proceedings.

The jurors went back into private deliberations today to decide whether they would ask to hear even more witnesses before final arguments by both sides and the judge's instructions to the jury.

After defense attorneys rested their case Tuesday, the military judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, had expressed hope the Henderson case, which began Aug. 23, might go to the jury by Dec. 10.

But then the jurors filed back into the courtroom after a conference and asked to hear testimony from Fred Blakey, who was clerk and driver for the commander of the My Lai task force, Lt. Col. Frank Barker; Lt. Col. Henry I. Lowder, who was a staff member in the Americal Division at the time of the My Lai massacre, and former Army Chaplain Carl Creswell.

It appeared the jurors wanted more information about a report on the 1968 My Lai operation prepared by Barker, who was killed in a helicopter crash three months after the incident.

Periodically throughout the trial, hearings have been held in the jury's absence on the whereabouts of the Barker report, which never has been found. Lowder testified at one of those sessions.

Hussein Says Jordan Must Be Mobilized

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

King Hussein of Jordan said today in Amman his nation must mobilize all its resources to fight Israel and pledged that the Jordanian armed forces will continue training "until the day of holy victory" and the Arabs recapture their occupied lands.

Hussein's speech opening Parliament was reminiscent of recent speeches by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat who has said a military solution is the only way of ending the current situation which is neither peace nor war.

As Hussein spoke, heavily armed troops patrolled the grounds of the parliament building, the rooftops and the streets following news reports that four accused assassins of Prime Minister Wasfi Tel in Cairo on Sunday also planned to kill the king and his family.

Peking's Internal Powder Keg Opened

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China's internal power struggle burst into the open today.

A major policy editorial in the newspapers of the Communist Party and the armed forces admitted that some high level leaders were involved in "conspiracies and intrigues."

The editorial, published jointly by the two papers and the party's theoretical journal, Red Flag magazine, also indicated some of the plotters were involved in "illicit relations with foreign countries."

Analysts in this listening post considered the editorial the most open and direct attack yet against Defense Minister Lin Piao and other military leaders purged during the past three months, although none of them was mentioned by name.

It also was considered the start of a wider rectification campaign in which others would fall as Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai consolidate their positions and the party seeks to reassert its dominance over the military.

The editorial quoted remarks made by Mao in 1964 in which he recounted antiparty plots led by military men.

"Some persons are bent on plotting," the editorial quoted Mao as saying. "They want to do this, so what can be done. Even now there are such persons at it. That there are persons plotting is an objective fact. It is not a question of whether we like it or not."

Although Mao's quote was taken from the past, analysts specializing in Chinese affairs considered it applicable to the leadership crisis which developed in mid-September.

Since that crisis, Lin obviously has been deposed and no longer is the "successor" to Mao as stipulated by the new party constitution adopted in April, 1969. Other top military leaders associated with Lin, including Huang Yung-sheng, chief of the general staff, also have dropped out of sight and are believed to have been purged.

"As chieftains of opportunist lines are engaged in splitting activities, they are bound to resort to conspiracies and intrigues," the editorial said.

"In our party's history, those bourgeois careerists, conspirators and persons having illicit relations with foreign countries, who clung to opportunist lines and engaged in conspiracies, could not but bring ruin, disgrace and destruction upon themselves in the end."

The editorial emphasized that "senior party cadres" must toe the line and that the party must maintain control over all elements.

Coal Firm Price Hike Is Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The federal Price Commission announced approval today of the first of a string of applications by coal companies for price raises to help cover recently authorized wage increases for miners. But it cut back the request sharply.

The commission chairman C. Jackson Grayson, announced approval of increases of 3.78 per cent for Old Ben Coal Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio. The company asked for a 6.71 per cent increase in the wake of a pay boost of 15 per cent permitted by the Pay Board for coal miners in the first year of a new contract.

Grayson told reporters the Price Commission based its decision on additional labor costs that could be "passed through" as increased prices upon the 5.5 per cent national guideline established by the Pay Board when it set up in business in mid-November.

The Old Ben price increase approval also included an allowance for coal miner pensions which brought the total increase permitted by the Commission to a level that was said to absorb slightly less than two-thirds of the coal miner wage settlement.

The action on the coal price boost is the first out of requests from about 20 mining firms for boosts before the Commission.

Bell System Discriminates In Hiring, Agency Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) accused the Bell telephone system today of blatant, illegal job discrimination against women, blacks and Spanish-Americans.

The independent agency filed several thousand pages of evidence and findings with the Federal Communications Commission as the FCC asked it to back up charges first made a year ago. The FCC has scheduled hearings Jan. 31 to determine if the charges are true and whether there is a connection between job discrimination by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and AT&T revenue requirements. The FCC must approve all AT&T rates.

In a 300-page summary, the EEOC claimed that if AT&T had not discriminated against women, for example, it could have produced a net labor cost-saving that would lower overall phone rates by 2 per cent to 4 per cent annually.

"We have a good record," Robert D. Lilley, executive vice president of AT&T, replied in a statement for reporters. "We have made progress and we are at the present time doing more than ever to assure equality of opportunity for minority people and women."

Of every four new employes hired in each of the past three years, Lilley said, one is either black, American Indian or Spanish-surnamed. He said Bell employs more than 135,000 minority persons and 524,000 women.

The EEOC report dealt only with AT&T itself and its 22 Bell system operating companies which employ approximately 800,000 persons. The AT&T response covered the entire system of one million employes, including Bell Laboratories and Western Electric Co.

"The Bell monolith is, without doubt, the largest oppressor of women workers in the United States," EEOC said. "Bell's policies toward women are morally and ethically indefensible and since July 2, 1965, they have been against the law. Nevertheless, the discrimination continues."

EEOC charged Bell with raising artificially high educational and testing requirements for blacks. It said for this and other reasons, "the failure of the Bell system to provide real equality of opportunity for blacks must be considered a national tragedy."

"The same pernicious system which has blocked the progress of blacks also serves as an obstacle to Spanish-surnamed Americans," EEOC said. "There is really only one pattern in Bell's employment of Spanish-surnamed Americans: exclusion."

Torah Donated In Memory Of Smothered Son

TEL AVIV (UPI)—A survivor of the Nazis donated a Torah scroll to a synagogue Tuesday in memory of the 18-month-old son he smothered 29 years ago to save 47 other Jewish fugitives from capture by the Germans.

Josef Kramer tearfully told a handful of relatives and friends that he and his son were huddled together with other members of the Jewish community of Duhlinow, Latvia, in an underground bunker as German soldiers searched for Jews.

As the German troops drew closer to the hideout, Kramer said, the baby broke out into uncontrollable sobbing. Fearful that the sobbing would give away the entire group Kramer smothered his son with his hands to quiet him.

THE WHITE HOUSE TREE

The sun's rays broke through clouds and cast a beam through the branches of the national Christmas tree after it was hoisted into place on the Ellipse across from the White House yesterday. The 65-foot tree, a Fraser fir from the North Carolina mountains, will be trimmed in preparation for lighting by President Nixon later this month. The Washington Monument is in the background.

Tahoe Gambling Figure Jailed, Claims Frameup

INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. (UPI) — Nate Jacobson, who recently announced the sale of his plush North Lake Tahoe gambling casino for $23 million, has been arrested on kidnap and extortion charges and said he was the victim of a "vicious" frameup by Washoe County District Attorney Robert Rose.

Jacobson, 56, and Thomas Burno, 32, described as his personal bodyguard, were both arrested and released on $10,000 bail Tuesday.

Washoe County Sheriff's deputies said Ray M. Landucci, keno operations manager of the casino, was kidnapped Sept. 2 and filed a complaint with the district attorney.

The Washoe County Grand Jury handed down a secret indictment last week charging Jacobson and Bruno with one count of kidnaping with bodily harm, one count of kidnaping and one count of extortion.

Jacobson called a news conference Tuesday night and said he had received a tip from an informer of a plot by Landucci and an accomplice to rob the casino. Jacobson said he and Bruno talked to Landucci alone in a hotel room and got a signed confession from him.

He said it was his duty as a casino operator to investigate any robbery plot and denied that force or kidnaping occurred. He said the district attorney's office was guilty of "harassment" and malfeasance."

The alleged plot was not reported to police because they had taken no action on similar cases, Jacobson said. He said a report was made to Nevada gaming authorities.

Jacobson recently announced the sale of King's Castle to two California buyers and said he was retiring.

The buyers, August Marra, 40, Castro Valley, and Dr. Joseph Barkett, 43, Stockton, were granted permission by the Nevada Gaming Commission to operate the casino on an emergency basis pending official licensing.

Comedian Buddy Hackett filed a $3.5 million lawsuit against Jacobson Nov. 19, charging that he never received the $32,000 a year salary promised him for serving as a director of two of the casino owner's corporations.

CAUSES EXPLORED

A New Twist To St. Joan's Visions

LONDON (UPI)—Most of the visions for which St. Joan of Arc was burned at the stake probably were the result of an unusual mental ability and in some case an upset stomach, a British psychiatrist said today.

Dr. F.E. Kenyon, of the Wanneford hospital in Oxford, said the 15th Century martyr's visions of saints and other figures may have been "a well-documented case of eidetic imagery."

"This is a rather concrete preverbal type of ability occuring mostly in children and young adolescents," he wrote in the medical journal, The Practitioner.

"It can persist for long periods and it's projected externally by the observer," he wrote. "If a person has such an image before her, she will turn her eyes to the relevant spot if asked to report on a relevant detail."

Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines the word eidetic as "of or relating to voluntarily producible visual images, having almost photographic accuracy." This, said Kenyon, was almost certainly the case with Joan.

But he said some of her visions may also have been brought on by "gastroenteritis (upset stomach), resulting from her imprisonment, her debilitated state," and perhaps even food poisoning.

"We know her trial had to be interrupted because of illness," Kenyon wrote. "We also know she had visual hallucinations which included Lilliputian figures."

Either way, the phantoms were "probably reinforced" by long periods of fasting and prayer, the psychiatrist said.

Working from what slim evidence is available, Kenyon said Joan of Arc probably was about 5-feet-2, with "closecropped dark hair, well-developed breasts and a dark, sunburned complexion."

She was tough. "One calculation made was that in 15 months in 1429-30 she traveled on foot and horseback no less than 3,330 miles," he said.

Joan claimed the saints she saw in her visions directed her to go to Orleans in 1428 and take part in the siege of the city.

Kenyon said eidetic imagery was first described medically in 1908 and has been "well-described in brain-damaged children or non brain-damaged children of poor intellectual endowment."

Joan was "basically a simple, pious girl, immature, suggestible ... at the same time she was made use of for political ends," he said.

Fletcher Quits Post At U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Arthur A. Fletcher, one of the most outspoken black men in the Nixon administration, has resigned from the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, the White House announced today.

Fletcher is the author of the "Philadelphia Plan" and of similar proposals affecting other cities to require employment of more persons of minority races in construction industry jobs.

Mars Probes Have Scoopers

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia said today Soviet scientists have indicated Mars 2 and Mars 3 were equipped to scoop up soil from the Martian surface and study it for life forms.

The article published in connection with the probes, which scored a first Tuesday by depositing a Soviet Hammer and Sickle flag on the dustblown Red Planet, quoted scientists at a round table discussion on the probes as saying:

"If there are any microorganisms in the soil, they may start to propagate and the instruments will register a certain dynamic picture of changes in the physical and chemical conditions in the (capsule) chamber as a result of the life."

NO, HE IS ONE OF THE SUPERVISORS

The Marin County Sheriff's office apparently has a new deputy prowling the Civic Center parking lots in search of parking violators.

Or so Supervisor John F. McInnis discovered last night after leaving the late-hour board meeting to find a pink summons neatly folded and slipped under his windshield wiper.

The violation: parking in a space reserved for supervisors.

The ticket was handed over to County Administrator John F. Barrows for "non-routine" handling.

Cost-Of-Living Hikes Effected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Cost-of-living increases went into effect today for California's 472,000 aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients.

State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said the increases amount to $5 per month for recipients in the Old Age Security and Aid to Disabled programs and $6 per month for those receiving Aid to the Blind.

The 472,000 recipients represent about 90 per cent of those receiving adult assistance and who are in independent living arrangements.

Abel To Have Eye Operation

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — United Steelworkers Union President I. W. Abel will enter Eye and Ear Hospital here Monday for an operation on his eyes.

A union announcement said Tuesday the operation was designed to correct an eversion of the tear ducts.

Abel, 63, will be hospitalized for about two days following the surgery.

Two Police Testify At Newton's Trial

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two policemen testified for the prosecution at Huey P. Newton's third manslaughter trial Tuesday, attempting to show that the Black Panther leader had a record of violence before the shooting of officer John Frey.

Sgt. Frank Sabatini of the Berkeley police department said Newton attacked him March 17, 1966, while he was arresting Panther member Bobby Seale.

Sabatini said Newton hit him twice in the face and that he chased Newton, ran him down, and engaged in a scuffle during which "he grabbed the butt of my gun."

Richmond Police Sgt. Patrick Boyle, testified that Newton once struck him twice "out of the blue" when he was trying to arrest a drunk driver.

An Oakland physician was also called to the stand by prosecutor Donald Whyte to show that Newton did not black out after the 1967 gunbattle as the defendant maintains.

Dr. Robert Rabkin said he believed the 29-year-old Panther leader was neither unconscious nor in shock after he was shot in the stomach while grappling with Frey.

"It is my surgical and medical opinion that there was insufficient loss of blood to cause shock," he said.

He said he studied treatment records at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland where Newton was treated for the wound.

TINY WOMAN SAVES PAIR IN CAR FIRE

CREIGHTON, S.D. — Mrs. Harlan Eisenbraun doesn't mind getting involved. She was on her way home when she came on a burning car beside the road. A man, Walter Neugebauer, was trying to crawl out of the wreckage. Mrs. Eisenbraun pulled him to safety and then extricated Mrs. Neugebauer from the car.

A few mintues later the car exploded in flames.

The injured couple recovered nicely.

Mrs. Eisenbraun, a small woman, said she had to use all of her strength to pull the people from the car, but "When you have to do something, you just do it. I was more scared than anything." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Execution Stay In Pot Case

Frank N. Werber, 42, sentenced to six months in jail and fined $2,000 for a 1970 conviction on marijuana possession and cultivation charges, has won a stay of execution until Dec. 13.

Benjamine Dreyfus, attorney for the former manager of the Kingston Trio, won the extension Monday from Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Dreyfus said he appealed the conviction to U.S. district court in San Francisco on constitutional grounds. A hearing on the appeal will be held Dec. 6.

McGuire said he would wait until Dec. 13 to see how the federal court would rule on the appeal.

Werber was arrested in 1968 after drug agents seized six seabags of pot at his DeSilva Island home. He was convicted in February of 1970.

Screams — Man Leaves Her Alone

The screams of a 22-year-old Mill Valley woman went unheeded Monday night in a parking lot at Northgate Shopping Center, but a man who attacked her finally fled, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Officers said the woman, a sales clerk at the Emporium, got into her car about 6:40 p.m. when she left work.

Before she could drive away, however, a man approached the car, opened the door, and shoved her over on the front seat.

He began choking her, she told police, as she screamed and struggled for five to 10 minutes. He told her he was going to take her car, but he finally left when she continued to scream, police said.

Trio Taken Into Service In November

Three men were inducted into the armed forces in November by the Marin Selective Service Board, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported yesterday.

Sixty-two men had been ordered to report for induction.

Mrs. Kinzer said that five refused induction, 10 received postponements, 20 failed the physical examination, two were being recalled for further physical examination, one man walked out and failed to complete the examination, three are pending waivers, one was held in abeyance for security clearance and 17 failed to report.

Those who refused induction or who failed to report fa · possible court action, Mrs. Kinzer said.

The three inducted were Mark S. Byers, Michael L. Roman and Jimmy R. Fountain, all of Novato.

Tools, Equipment Stolen From Shed

Tools and equipment valued at $1,130 were stolen from a storage shed at a construction site at 10 Professional Center Parkway last weekend, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Police said the equipment is owned by Horst Hanf Construction Co. of 138 Jacoby Street, San Rafael.

A Shorter Leash Soon For Okinawa GIs

TOKYO (UPI)—The American fighting man on Okinawa soon will be a tiger on a new and much shorter leash.

Japan soon will take back Okinawa, the only base in the orient where Uncle Sam legally can make his military moves without consulting a foreign government.

Okinawa is a green dot of pineapple and sugar cane fields in the China Sea 1,000 miles south of Tokyo. It lies only 400 miles from Shanghai, the largest city in mainland China.

American troops conquered this Japanese isle—about one third the size of Rhode Island—in 1945. The U.S. Defense Department has ruled it ever since. At a cost of billions of dollars, it has built a nest of supply centers, airfields and repair shops that are the backbone of the U.S. military presence in Asia.

Okinawa was where American B52 bombers took off for raids over Vietnam in the early stages of the war, before the Air Force set up shop in Thailand. Okinawa was where U.S. troops were assembled and outfitted for deployment to Indochina.

It is the island where the United States has trained antiCommunist intelligence men and guerrillas from allied Asian nations. Also, Okinawa is the island from which Air Force planes were dispatched in a futile effort to rescue the Pueblo when the Navy intelligence vessel was seized by North Korea in January, 1968.

They were not dispatched from nearby Japan, because the Japanese government's consent would have been needed. Navy men testified at the Pueblo board of inquiry in 1969 that Japan never was asked.

President Nixon agreed in November, 1969, to return this crowded island with its one million population to Japan sometime in 1972. The switch probably will take place about July 1.

The American complex of more than 100 bases will remain intact, but Japan will have a loud voice in how they might be used against any third country, including the Soviet Union and Communist China, because of the U.S.-Japanese security treaty that calls for consultation with Japan before a strike is launched.

Legally, the Japanese even will have the right to order the Americans out of Okinawa entirely, simply by revoking the U.S.-Japan military alliance. But that is unlikely to happen. Japan is ruled by businessmen, fearful of their Communist neighbors, and unable to provide for Japan's defense without American help.

Among the major rights the United States is giving up on Okinawa is the right to store nuclear, chemical and biological warfare weapons.

About 13,000 tons of poison gas shells secretly were deposited there during the Kennedy administration. They were withdrawn with considerable fuss last summer, after an accident at the Chibana storage depot revealed their presence to the general public.

Also on their way out are nuclear weapons, which the Japanese say have long been kept on Okinawa. The United States has refused openly to discuss the subject, but Nixon promised in 1969 that Japan's wishes on the nuclear storage question would be respected.

Japanese sources claim the "nukes" on Okinawa included Mace-B missiles targeted against Communist China and North Korea, and SUBROC antisubmarine devices.

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato told Nixon in 1969 that Japan's own safety was closely bound up with that of South Korea and taiwan. The U.S. Embassy in Tokyo tjkes this as assurance that Japan would quickly approve operations from Okinawa in defense of those countries.

However, there is no written treaty binding Japan to agree. Sato is scheduled to retire in the autumn of 1973 at the latest, and it is hard to tell how binding his words will be on his successors.

Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently that the United States still would be able to transfer military planes from Okinawa to war theaters like Indochina without consulting Japan.

"Similarly, the myriad of logistic support operations provided to our combat forces from facilities in Japan and Okinawa would not require prior consultation," Packard said.

The generals on Okinawa already feel the rays of Japan's rising sun, and the ordinary soldiers and Marines will notice them quickly after reversion. The money they spend off base will be Japanese yen instead of the American currency used for the past 26 years.

Like the 30,000 American servicemen in Japan, those in Okinawa will come under the sway of Japanese police and courts. Traffic mishaps in which Okinawans are killed by American cars —there have been 15 this year —are a sore point between the Americans and the Japanese-speaking population.

After reversion, the GIs will have to answer for traffic fatalities in Japanese courts. In the past, they have been tried behind closed doors by American courts-martial, from which the Okinawan general public was excluded.

Automobile Stolen From Parking Lot

A 1962 white Volkswagen, with California license plates HON 453, was stolen Friday from a parking lot at the rear of 1042 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The car is owned by Reinhold F. Bergstrom of 77 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, police said.

NOW BOYS, IT'S THIS WAY

When Sister Martha comes out to play at Grace Day Home in Sacramento, the football team sends up a cheer. The pint-sized players often get pointers when their "quarterback" supervises the play period. In this photo, taken recently, she might be saying: "Okay, you go down deep and you cut across the middle... I'll fade and throw to whoever is open." (UPI Telephoto)

Talks Resumed In Lay Teacher Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Negotiations resumed today in a two and one-half week strike by lay teachers against seven high schools operated by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco.

The decision to resume talks broken off Saturday came yesterday in the midst of disruptions at two schools here and one in San Jose.

A third of the male students at San Francisco's Sacred Heart school walked out of classes, marched to Cathedral High to enlist girls there to join them on a hike to City Hall.

At Archbiship Mitty High in San Jose, Brother Allen Delaney said several teachers entered hallways in an unusual attempt to persuade students to leave classes.

(No disturbance was reported at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield. Rev. Francis A. Lacey, principal, said school in has been operating normally since early in the strike.)

Rev. Bernard Cummins, diocesan schools superintendent, asserted the diocesan schools superintendent, asserted the disruptions were fomented by the American Federation of teachers, with which the striking secondary Teachers Association has affiliated.

Jerry Killian, STA president, denied that and said students were complaining against the hiring of what he called "scab" teachers.

"The students want teachers instead of babysitters," he said.

At issue in the strike are wages and the size of classes. The archdiocese, saying funds are not available for boosts this year, has offered 4 per cent increases in each of the next two years.

$500,000 Blaze

BELLFLOWER (UPI) — A fire at the Hammond Lumber Co. caused an estimated $500,000 damage early today. It was the third lumber yard fire in this area in as many days.

Fire officials believed that all three fires were intentionally set.

Top Aide Sees Legalized Dope

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The chairman of the Louisiana Narcotics and Rehabilitation Commission predicts that marijuana someday will be legalized because "the users of today will be the lawyers and judges of tomorrow."

Dr. C. B. Scrignar said at an American Medical Association panel discussion Tuesday that he personally was against marijuana legalization because he feared it would lead to further drug abuse.

But Scrignar, also an associate professor of psychiatry at Louisiana State University, said he thought it was just a matter of time before the drug is made legal because so many young people now use it.

Oxnard Flood Danger Abates

OXNARD (UPI)—Danger to beachfront homes here abated today as winds shifted direction and waves broke only six feet high as the tide peaked at seven feet.

Beach residents had braced for heavy swells after Tuesday's battering by the surf.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

8:33 a.m., San Anselmo — Smoke check on Van Tassel Avenue; no fire.

3:16 p.m., Tamalpais Valley — Fire in basement of the Howard Morrill residence at 907 Vernal Way; cause undetermined; $150 damage to contents of basement and some smoke damage to house.

5:11 p.m., Cotati — Stove fire at home of Frances McDivitt at 5925 Gravenstein Highway; caused by faulty electric switch on stove plate; minor damage.

3:29 p.m., San Anselmo — Children ignited combustible material in grass container in 400 block of Redwood Road; no damage.

3:48 p.m., Novato — Backfire through carburetor in motorcycle in garage at home of Roderick W. Sutliss at 64 San Luis Court; fire extinguished by garden hose before department arrived; $200 damage.

5:27 p.m., Novato — Flash fire at Gulf Service Station on Highway 101 at Olive Avenue while filling propane tank of Pinky's Pizza Parlor truck; no damage.

7:31 p.m., San Rafael — Power failure at Independent-Journal 1030 B Street accidentally set off fire alarm.

8:58 p.m., Kentfield — Hot ashes dumped on leaves ignited a shed in back yard of J. M. Hetherington at 224 Evergreen Drive; no estimate of damage.

Bike Rider Hits Bus, Is Injured

A 15-year-old San Rafael boy suffered a broken bone in his right foot and cuts and bruises yesterday when his bicycle struck a school bus discharging passengers at Manuel T. Freitas Parkway and Del Ganado Road.

Steven J. Bartleson, of 469 Hickory Street, was eastbound on Freitas Parkway at 3:30 p.m. when the accident occurred, according to the California Highway Patrol. He was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The patrol said the school bus is owned by the San Rafael High School District and was driven by Frances L. Rhodes.

Yule Gift From Selective Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Selective Service does not plan to draft anyone between Dec. 9 and Dec. 31 of this year so that young men who might otherwise be inducted during that period will be able to stay home during the holidays.

Those who would have been called during that period, however, still will be liable to a callup during the first three months of 1972. The Selective Service this year is drafting men with lottery numbers up to 125.

Marin Festival Of Trees To Feature Holiday Breads

Some of Mrs. Jock Miller's special holiday breads will be a feature of the Marin Festival of Trees Friday and Saturday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. Mrs. Miller and others sponsoring Boyd Marin Museum of Science Guild members have been busy baking in their kitchens.

Here Mrs. Miller shares some of the recipes with I-J Food Page readers. Of the Carrot Bread, she says she received the recipe from a friend, who had gotten it from a tearoom in Honolulu. Mrs. Miller says that she has served it with success for dessert, meetings and as an addition to a buffet dinner.

The other breads are her standard holiday breads which she makes ahead and freezes for use later when guests drop in.

CARROT BREAD

2 Cup flour
2 Tsp. soda
2 Tsp. cinnamon
2 Tsp. salt
¼ Cup chopped nuts
1 Cup cooking oil
2 Tsp. vanilla
1½ Cup sugar
2 Cups grated carrots
3 Eggs
½ Cup coconut
½ Cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in a bowl and mix well. Pour into a well greased angel food cake pan. Bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Store in refrigerator.

(For a shortcut use a blender for the oil and carrots. Slice six medium carrots and add to the oil in the blender.)

HOLIDAY DATE BREAD

1 Tbsp. melted butter
1 Cup sugar
1 Egg
1 Cup finely chopped dates
Pinch salt
¾ Cup boiling water
1¾ Cup sifted flour
1 Tsp. soda
1 Tsp. vanilla
1 Cup chopped nuts

Cream together butter, sugar, egg and salt. Add the dry ingredients. Soak dates in boiling water for 10 minutes then add the water from dates and finally the dates, vanilla and nuts. Place in a greased floured pan and bake at 350 degrees for 35-45 minutes. Let cool before taking out of pan.

BANANA NUT BREAD

2 Eggs, well beaten
1 Cup sugar
⅓ Cup melted shortening
4 Crushed bananas
1 Tsp. soda, dissolved in 1 tbsp. warm water.
2 Cup sifted flour
½ Cup chopped nuts

Add sugar to beaten eggs, gradually; add melted shortening to this mixture. Mix in bananas and soda; add flour and nuts. Bake in oven at 375 degrees for one hour.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE BREAD

1 Cup cranberries, coarsely chopped
1½ Cup sugar
2 Cups flour
1½ Tsp. baking powder
½ Cups chopped walnuts
1½ Tsp. soda
½ Tsp. salt
1 Orange (juice and rind)
2 Tbsp. melted butter
1 Egg

Mix cranberries with ¼ cup of the sugar and set aside. Cut orange in quarters and put through food chopper. Put juice and rind into measuring cup and fill with boiling water or orange juice to make one cup. Add the butter, egg and sifted dry ingredients (remembering the 1¼ cup remaining sugar) and mix well. Finally fold in the cranberries and nuts and pour batter into well-greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Turn out and cool on rack. Wrap in foil to store.

Primary Source Of Calcium

Milk, cheese and ice cream are primary sources of calcium, the mineral that helps build bones and teeth, according to the Dairy Council of California. Blood could not clot without it nor muscles contract and relax normally.

Calcium also delays fatigue and helps tired muscles recover. And without calcium, the body could not properly use the other important minerals.

DANISH FAVORITE

Veal Copenhagen: A Tasty Entree

The Danes, like all Europeans, are particularly fond of pink-white, fine grained veal. They couldn't make their famous Frikadeller (Danish meatballs) without veal combined with pork.

And, when they combine veal with their Danish cheese and Danish ham in Veal Copenhagen, you can be assured this is one of their most mouth-watering entrees.

Served with red table wine and a tossed fresh spinach-mushroom salad you have the epitome of good dining for which the Danes are renowned.

Danish Tybo cheese is compatible with veal.

The Danes cook with lots of butter. Sometimes they combine butter and margarine for meat cookery. Americans frequently combine butter and vegetable oil, using the butter to add flavor as meats are browned for special dishes. This, too, will work with this recipe.

VEAL COPENHAGEN

One and a half to 2 pounds veal, or 6 cutlets of size comparable to Danish ham slices or a bit larger; pounded on one side by meat cutter.
Mustard
6 long slices Danish Ham
6 slices Tybo cheese
2 eggs, lightly beaten
2 cups fresh white bread crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
Butter and margarine for browning veal

Spread each veal slice with mustard on the pounded side of the meat. Cut the ham slices to fit, overlapping if desired, using one slice for each slice of veal.

Top with Tybo cheese slices on lower half of the veal cutlet. Fold veal and ham over cheese and skewer securely, using the small metal skewers.

To bread crumbs add salt, pepper and paprika.

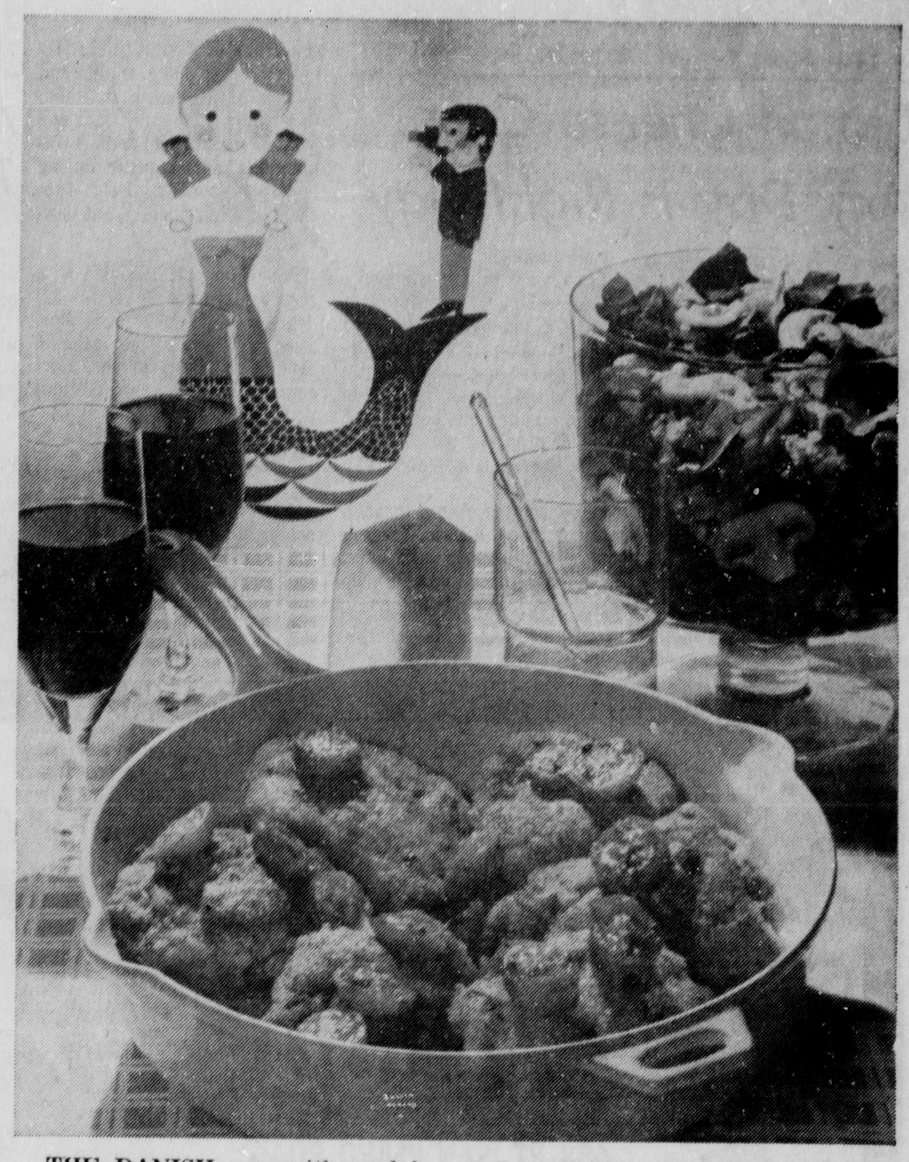
Holding meat in one hand, dip into the egg. Then place in seasoned crumbs. With second hand, turn the cutlets in the crumbs for a thick coating. Place on a baking sheet to dry out slightly before frying.

In a heavy skillet for surface unit, or electric skillet, melt one stick each of butter and margarine on medium-low heat, taking care not to overheat. Brown the veal packets on both sides, a few at a time and remove when browned; repeating until all the veal is browned. More butter and margarine may be added if necessary.

Drain off any excess fat and return the veal packets to the skillet. Add one-half cup water; cover and let cook slowly on low heat until veal is tender, about 15 to 20 minutes.

Garnish: In a small skillet, quickly saute cherry tomato halves. Sprinkle lightly with salt and a bit of sugar as they saute. Serve atop the veal cutlets which are served at the table in the frying pan.

Makes 6 servings.



THE DANISH way with veal is to combine it with ham and cheese and cook it in a skillet. Served with it here are red table wine and a salad of fresh spinach and sliced mushrooms.

Here's A Steam Pudding

Persimmons are in season and as every year at this time pose a question. What can you do with persimmons? Mrs. Wendell Butler of Kentfield submitted a Persimmon Steam Pudding used in the Women's Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society cookbook, published last year.

Her use of the fruit allows it to be kept in a refrigerator up to six months or frozen.

PERSIMMON STEAM PUDDING

1 cup persimmon pulp, very ripe
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ cup milk
½ cup chopped nuts.

Mix in given order. Pour into well-oiled steamer mold. (If steamer mold not available, use gelatin mold or cofee can. Cover with heavy foil and hold in place with rubber band.) Cover tightly. Steam above water approximately two hours. (If using improvised mold, place covered mold in larger kettle, above water. Cover kettle and steam improvised mold about two hours.) Do not overcook. Serve with hard sauce. To reheat, wrap in foil and place in a moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Topping Crowns The Ham

A pineapple topping crowns this succulent holiday ham. The full flavored glaze goes together quickly and easily. All ingredients are usual kitchen-shelf items. The ham itself can be purchased in advance too; store the unopened can in the refrigerator. Besides glazing the ham to a deep gloss, the pineapple mixture also serves as a meat relish.

Also, this is a great dish to serve cold the next day. Be sure to cover and refrigerate promptly. The flavors in the glaze are more accented in the leftover version.

HIGHLAND YULETIDE HAM

5-lb. ham, canned
1 can (1 lb., 4-oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup orange marmalade
1 tablespoon Dijon style mustard
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

Remove ham from can; wipe off gelatin. Place in shallow roasting pan. Bake at 325 degrees 1½ hours or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees internal. Meanwhile drain pineapple well. Combine with marmalade, mustard and cloves. Remove ham from oven one-half hour before done. Spoon pineapple mixture over top. Return to oven and cook one-half hour longer.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

HAM IS a natural for the holiday buffet, served either hot or cold. It takes minimal preparation and with its pineapple topping you have a glaze and relish for the meat all together.

Walnut Cheese Sticks' Uses

Serve walnut cheese sticks with fruit or vegetable salads, with seafood cocktails, with soups, or for party hors d'oeuvres.

Prepare piecrust from one stick piecrust mix, blending in ½ cup shredded sharp cheese. Roll thin, sprinkle with ½ cup finely sliced, crisp walnuts, then roll again lightly. Cut in strips. Bake on cookie sheet at 450 degrees about six minutes or until golden.

Texture Of Walnuts Is Protected By Toasting

The toasting protects the crunchy texture of walnuts, making them an ideal crouton for tossed green salads, and a tasty garnish for soups or vegetables.

1. Drop Diamond Walnut kernels into rapidly boiling water; boil three minutes. Drain well.

2. Spread evenly in shallow pan and bake at 350 degrees, stirring often, 12 to 15 minutes or until crisp and golden.

3. While hot, brush lightly with butter and sprinkle generously with salt. (Use garlic salt or other seasoned salt, if you like.) Cool. Store, tightly covered, in refrigerator.

Lemon Cheese Cake: Any Day Is Right Day

Any day is the right day to make a lemon cheese cake.

LEMON CHEESE CAKE

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup margarine, melted
1 pound small curd creamed cottage cheese
¼ cup corn starch
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Grease nine-inch spring form pan. Mix together crumbs, two tablespoons sugar and margarine. Reserve one tablespoonful of mixture. Press remaining crumb mixture onto bottom and sides of prepared pan. Bake in a 325 degree (slow) oven five minutes. Cool.

Press cottage cheese through strainer twice. Add corn starch and beat with spoon until fluffy. Beat egg yolks; add ½ cup sugar and beat until thick. Mix in lemon rind, juice, vanilla and salt. Fold in cheese mixture; then whipped cream. Beat egg whites until stiff adding remaining ½ cup sugar during beating process. Fold into cheese mixture gently, but thoroughly.

Pour into pan. Sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Bake in a 325 degree (slow) oven one hour. Turn off oven leaving cake in oven 45 minutes longer. Cool completely and remove from pan.

Zingy Dressing

Add a package of taco seasoning mix and ½ cup milk to 1½ cups sour cream for a tossed salad dressing with zing.

Jack Horner Might Like This Pie

A modern Jack Horner just might pull out a plum (or a prune) when he is served this holiday pie.

The liquid in which the prunes and apricots were cooked and an accent of lemon juice go into making the glaze for the fruit. It is thickened with corn starch. Then the cut-up fruit is folded into it and the mixture is cooled and turned into a previously baked pie shell.

Twin fruit pie can be served with whipped cream.

TWIN FRUIT PIE

1 baked (eight-inch) pastry shell
½ pound (1¼ cups) dried prunes
¼ pound (1⅓ cups) dried apricots
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream (optional)

Cook fruits in separate pans according to package directions. Drain each, reserving a total of one cup liquid.

In a saucepan, mix together sugar and corn starch. Stir in reserved one cup juice and the lemon juice. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and cool until thickened and clear. Add fruit. Cool slightly and pour into baked pastry shell.

We Reserve The Right To Refuse Sales To Commercial Establishments

SCOOPING UP a prawn, actor Robert Redford finds himself surrounded by Marin clubwomen playing clubwomen during a scene shot here, yesterday for his new film about an attorney who runs for governor of California. The women, largely from the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of Marin and Sunny Hills Bargain Box volunteers, earned money for their organizations by playing extras in the scenes.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

NAPKIN TUCKED under his arm, actor Robert Redford prepares to sign an autograph in the book for Mrs. Robert Riede (left) while she and Mmes. Geoff Sheldon and Robert Celli, all of San Rafael, wait for the luncheon speech scene to start. The film, "The Candidate" is being made partially in Marin and some 200 Marin clubwomen served as clubwomen in the campaign scenes. The filmakers confer in the background.

IN ROBERT REDFORD FILM

Clubwomen's Big Camera Moments

By BARBARA HOSMER

"He probably won't even see me."

Panavision cameras moved in on the crowd.

The "he" was film star Robert Redford, and the "me" was one of the 200 gloved and suited Marin clubwomen who turned out in the early morning chill yesterday to more or less play themselves in Redford's latest film.

THE SETTING was the Marin Art and Garden' Center's Northgate area, damp from the Sunday rain. The scene was "The Candidate" — Redford — coming to make a campaign speech to the women's club as he stumps the state as the liberal candidate making his bid for the governorship.

The women stood chatting among the round, clothed tables and shivered as the director asked them to shed their coats.

"It's a summer scene," he explained, although many of the women came in light wool clothes. Urns of hot coffee were running dry.

A white LTD drew up and several men got out. Was it Redford? No, his stand-in in leather jacket and dungarees.

When the welcoming scene was set and the women briefed, the car drew up again. This time Redford emerged, his blondish hair in a patch of sunlight, and the women crowded toward him in earnest.

"I'VE NEVER seen him — I don't go to movies," said one. "He looked better as the Sundance Kid," commented another, straining for a better view of the star.

"All right, cut," said a director.

Trim in his grey suit, white shirt and conservative tie, Redford strolled over to the porch near the Livermore Room to begin one of the 15 to 20 minute waits that were to fill out the morning. Talking with some of crew, he stretched and yawned near one of two wide-angle cameras.

"Ill run over — okay?" joked one of the women. "Be careful, she'll do it," said her companion to another.

ACTRESS KAREN Carlson has her corsage pinned on by Mrs. Clifford Meagher (left) of San Anselmo for the actresses' scenes as Redford's wife in the film, whose working title is "The Candidate." "I'm not really this type of person," Miss Carlson told some of women later, pointing to her hat and gloves. "I auditioned wearing dungarees."

One more — Redford into the crowd.

"This will be filmed," warned the director through a white bullhorn.

"Hey, Jeremy, put on a skirt or get out of the crowd," called one of the film crew.

REDFORD THROUGH the crowd again met the giggles and high-pitched voices as the women crowded close.

"All those giddy ladies crowding around," remarked another on the edge of the group of clubwomen.

"Over and over and over you do this," commented another extra, who by then had an hour's film work under her belt.

"... if you were getting the money, you wouldn't mind," said her friend, nodding at Redford.

Waiting again, the few teenagers and film fans were growing bolder. Some produced cameras, others autograph paper. Redford cooperated, signing and posing good naturedly, as he was to do into the early afternoon.

"How are you?" he asked Ellen Podgorny and Wendy Bowman of San Rafael, who managed to edge close and talk with the star.

"Tell him to turn around," an elder said timidly from behind him.

Her camera was focussed.

SOME OF the crew brushed leaves off of a nearby bench and gave it a quick-over with brown spray paint. One resprinkled fallen leaves onto it until stopped by a "No, no, it's supposed to be summer."

"We call it 'The Candidate' but that's a working title; there is no title yet," volunteered Vernon White, the film's public relations man. He said that Bob (Redford) plays an attorney who decides to run for governor of California, and the film is supposedly following him up and down California on the campaign trail. But actually, he said, much of it will be in Marin, although they will go to Monterey this week, and Sacramento and San Francisco. They also filmed a parade in Tracy.

Another teen-ager produced a worn newspaper picture of him as the Sundance Kid, and Redford inked on his signature without comment.

"I met his wife — but it might be his wife in the movie (Karen Carlson)," someone told a friend, as they waited to go before the cameras again.

While film production people passed out purple raffle tickets for some 15 promised gifts, the bullhorn asked the women to be seated at the round tables under the trees for what eventually turned out to be a buffet luncheon scene.

"Aw ... he cut his hair," snapped a teen-aged girl as Redford passed by to where the scene was being set. More delay; a buffet table was by then loaded with French pastries, cream puffs, skewered prawns and gelatin salad rings topped with gooey cream. Two of the extras, most of whom were from the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of Marin and Sunny Hills groups, hurried over to their two teen-age daughters nearby to urge them to get autographs from the star.

"But I wanna talk to him," one protested.

"HI, MARY Jo. Are you famous?" one woman called to another in the crowd. "My family thinks so," Mary Jo responded.

EATING HAD begun and the camera moved close into the buffet line where Redford, now with a deep red rose in his buttonhole, joined the clubwomen, lucky enough to get picked for the scene. The women were taking it easily in stride but talking, as per script, excitedly. Nerves showed, though, when one skidded her black purse through the whipped cream topping of a gelatin ring, and there was flutter while she and her companions fished out a handkerchief to wipe off the goo.

The director told Redford to bend to the woman next to him in the buffet line as if answering a question, eating the while. He lifted a skewer from the buffet and munched a green olive or two as the women bent over the table, surrounding him and filling their plates. Then he lifted a couple of large prawns for the camera.

"If they don't eat it all they can freeze it," said a woman during the food scene.

"Are you playing hooky today?" another asked a friend.

"He touched my pen," a teenager told another, who then picked it up.

The plates kept being reloaded even though the cameras had stopped.

THEN THE inevitable shot — in which the "club president" calls for silence to introduce the candidate and the women go right on talking.

"When they say, 'Ladies, please pay attention', you don't," was the bullhorn instruction, drawing a crowd laugh. "The second time, you do.

"Then when Bob comes up and says 'I ate all the shrimp' you laugh. You laugh on 'shrimp !" Redford rubbed his hands in the chilly air, adjusted his shirt front and belt and strode to the stage on cue of his introduction to the "audience."

"Shrimp" — laugh. "Shrimp" — laugh. The third time the film crew was satisfied.

"I got a spoon," one woman cried triumphantly, pushing through the crowd toward her table with a plateful of food.

"That's all prop food you've been eating," the bullhorn informed the women. "We'll have another lunch for you later."

"YOU MEAN I've gained 10 pounds already on prop food and there's more?" one woman remarked to her table.

Some five hours of eating, standing, talking and star-gazing will make their charity groups richer by some $250 each and the women were having a grand time "being in the movies" for the morning, surrounded by their friends.

And one of the filmmakers confided to another, "It looked just perfect."

And in the film, the "candidate" becomes California's next governor.

Marin Women

Free Choices: The Key To Feminist Movement

"What this movement is about is women making free choices" about their lives, Aileen Hernandez told her audience at the College of Marin last night. Court challenges are beginning to help, but traditional attitudes are holding it back, she said.

"I'm not negating the wife and mother role," the former national president of the National Organization for Women, said in clearing up a myth about the New Feminist movement.

She said that the movement is saying that boys and girls get tracked into rigid sex roles very young — "I call it the pink and blue syndrome" — and their minds also get wrapped up in the pink or blue blanket.

"WE SEE the patterning and programming throughout children's toys and books."

The boys have balls, planes and active toys while the girls are given tea sets, stoves and ironing boards to play with, she said. Ms. Hernandez said being active and aggressive is considered a plus for boys, while girls are taught to be passive and to seek their identity through men.

She named two books for children, saying that the boy's book ended with the hero standing before a podium with the seal of the President of the United States on it, while the girl's book ended with the girl pushing a baby carriage with a kitten in it.

"I had a little trouble with that one for awhile," she said, drawing a laugh. "Then I realized that it was probably a sop to the environmentalists — we're not supposed to have children and they don't know what to do with us right now, so it's a kitten."

GIRLS SEE that they don't have to succeed and are expected to play a dependent role throughout their lives, she said. Another science book had Madame Curie peering over Pierre's shoulder, she added.

What the women's rights movement is saying is the same thing that the black, Chicano and other liberation movements are saying: that they want a voice in making the decisions that affect our lives, she said.

Describing the traditional male-female game, Miss Hernandez said that about age 12 girls find out that they are expected to be "young ladies" — not get dirty, sit in a ladylike manner and to revert to "Dumb Dora." They learn they must bat the eyes to get what they want and hide intelligence even though they may have been A students to that point.

Boys, too, are programmed to know that men are not supposed to like bright women and they play the game too. Boys and girls who at a younger age had a good rapport suddenly start acting silly toward each other and lose that rapport, she said.

"Girls see other girls as enemies because they see there are more women than men and since society says you must get married, other women become the enemy if you are to find Mr. Right."

WOMEN BEGIN to play out the feminine mystique, and when a man and woman who are locked into these roles get married, two become one — "You have become the husband. You lose your identity and even lose your name," she said about women.

"Unless you decide to break out of it and have a career or job. Now most men do not consider it a threat to their masculinity to wash a dish or to play with their own children."

She said that child care was a large priority in the National Organization for Women's program because without it the nuclear family leaves the woman locked and isolated at home and the children are deprived from meeting all kinds of others.

The right to control their own bodies is a basic tenet of the NOW program also, as begun in 1966, she said. Without that women are not free and can never be free, she said. — B.H.

The 'Computer' Doesn't Care

CHAGRIN FALLS, Mich. — Bob Ullman has a terrific computer.

For his fuel oil and gasoline business he advertises: "Fold, spindle or mutilate our bill. Our computer (my wife) doesn't care as long as you pay it." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

John Trewin To Wed Constance Partmann

A Feb. 12 wedding date has been set by Constance Marie Partmann of San Francisco and John Edward Trewin of Greenbrae. Announcement of the engagement was made by the future bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Partmann of San Carlos, at a cocktail party given in the couple's honor.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Trewin of Greenbrae are John's parents.

Constance is the sister of Bill Partmann, a student at the University of San Francisco, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Anton Hodas of San Mateo. She is a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Belmont and USF, where she was affiliated with Beta Gamma Sigma sorority. The future bride is employed by the California State Department of Industrial Relations in San Francisco.

John was graduated from high school in Wisconsin and from USF. He has a master's degree from the University of California and is employed by Haskins and Sells Certified Public Accountants. Kathy Trewin of Kayenta, Ariz., is his sister.

She Vows 'Wait Until Next Year'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — "Next year, we'll be stronger than ever." Housewife Mrs. Beulah Davis, who answered a board of education call for community workers in the YMCA's recreation program, decided baseball was the thing. So when 30 10- and 11-year-olds reported for practice, she divided them into two teams and coached both. Lack of equipment was a problem, but that didn't deter Mrs. Davis. She went to business firms to get donations and very convincingly raised enough money to field her two teams.

She may be the world's only feminine organizer, financier, manager and coach of two teams.

Her qualifications for coaching? "I've played baseball with the boys in our neighborhood most of my life." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

At Your Age, It Is Not Surprising To Find Divorce Material Packet

DEAR HELEN:

I only go through my husband's pockets when I must send his clothes to the cleaners.

After he got home from work yesterday, I decided I'd add the sports jacket he wore to my "dry cleaning" pile. There was a big heavy envelope in his inside pocket and something made me explore, though it was addressed to him.

Helen, it was a "confidential report on divorce" in our state. About a month before, I'd seen this service advertised in a magazine for $25.

My husband has been unusually quiet lately, but I didn't dream anything was wrong with our marriage. I just thought he was tired. We're both 45. True, we don't talk together very much — so little that I'm afraid to ask him how and why he got this report.

Is it possible for a man to consider divorce without his wife guessing there's a problem? — SHOCKED NUMB

DEAR NUMB:

It's not only possible, but I'd estimate that in at least one-sixth of all "older" marriage break-ups, the request for divorce comes as a numbing surprise to the other partner. This because they have stopped talking — really communicating — a long time before.

For Pete's sake, ask you husband about the divorce report! If he spent $25 to get it, then his yearning for freedom is more than an idle dream, and it's long past time you found out why. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Hou do you feel about babysitting fees as income tax deductions? When a woman must work, she often spends half her paycheck on child care. Isn't she just as entitled to declare this as a man is to declare his secretarial or janitorial expenses at the office? — WORKING MOTHER

DEAR W. MOTHER:

She certainly is — and I hope the IRS soon realizes it! However, this situation doesn't apply entirely to women. I know several young widowed fathers who could also benefit from baby-sitter deductions. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband's office gives parties almost every month, and they're closed to mates who don't work there. Here's an example: the summer outing was at a country club. It started at 10 a.m., with all kinds of outdoor games, and ended with cocktails, dinner and dancing until after midnight.

I think this is immoral and that it's unfair to encourage misbehavior between married men and female workers. Don't you? — TIRED OF BEING LEFT OUT

DEAR TIRED:

Are you certain this is "company policy," or is it husband's policy? Very few organizations these days encourage partying without mates: Causes too much friction on the home front. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 23 and in love with a wonderful guy — with "morals" up to here! Before I marry him (as he has asked me), I want an affair. After all, a girl needs to be sure. But he says it's marriage first or nothing.

He's very manly, but he was brought up super-straight. I wasn't. My being a non-virgin doesn't bother him, but he refuses to settle for less than marriage, even for a night. This isn't a sex hangup so much as just stubborness. (I think.) — WHAT TO DO?

DEAR WHAT:

Get married! If he's willing to take a chance, why not you? — H.

Vows Said In San Rafael

Lynn Anne Oliver and James E. Macfarlan were married Nov. 21. The wedding and reception were held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Forrest M. Ratliff, of San Rafael.

Mrs. William Joyce of Ashburnham, Mass., was her sister's matron of honor, and Kieran Murphy of Rohnert Park was best man.

The couple is living in San Francisco.

Lynn was graduated from Paris American High School in Paris, France, and College of Marin. She is a nurse. Forrest M. Ratliff II of San Rafael is her brother.

James is the son of Mrs. Rose Macfarlan of San Francisco. He is a graduate of St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco, City College of San Francisco and University of California Extension. The bridegroom is a civil engineer.

Sessions On Alcoholism Being Held

Rap sessions on the problems of alcoholism are being held on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m. at Harlan Center of the College of Marin.

The discussions are informal, small group, open discussions led by members of the Alcohol Information Committee of Marin for persons affected by drinking problems, according to Helane Anderson, coordinator.

Another session began this week at the Terra Linda Recreation Center and will continue on Tuesday mornings at 11 beyond the planned six weeks if there is enough interest, according to Mrs. Anderson.

More information is available from Mrs. Anderson at the Marin Volunteer Bureau or from the Marin Institute.

Milk Is Helper

Evaporated milk is an homogenized concentrate of fresh whole cow's milk, fortified by the addition of vitamin D and sterilized in the sealed can by heating. The concentration and heat treatment of the protein give evaporated milk new qualities of cooking performance. It is a good coating agent and an excellent binder.

Public Can Now Join Drive In Policing Advertising World

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — One of the most ambitious plans ever tried by the business community to raise the standards of advertising is now officially under way and ready to prove its worth to the general public.

It is the combined effort of three advertising associations and the Council of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB). Together they have formed the National Advertising Review Board (NARB) with an office at 845 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

The purpose, as stated in a press release, is "to sustain high standards of truth in national advertising through independent review of cases referred to it" by the CBBB.

NARB BEGAN receiving complaints even before it had a chance to develop standards and guidelines for determining when an advertiser has stepped over the line of truth and accuracy.

On the day prior to its first meeting, Mark Silbergeld, an aide to Ralph Nader, publicly asked the NARB to creack down on 10 advertisements which he called either deceptive or untrue.

But, if the procedure works according to plan, few cases will get to the 50-member review board. The principal task of investigating complaints belongs not to the board but to the national advertising division of the BBB council.

The division is supposed to check out complaints, evaluate them and try to resolve them by mutual agreement.

Only those cases that cannot be resolved are referred to NARB. The next step is to assign each case to a panel of five members of the board, which seeks to settle the matter.

IF THE panel fails to find a satisfactory answer to the problem, it can publicize the matter and turn over the information to a government agency for further investigation and possible prosecution.

Thirty of the 50 members are representatives of advertisers, 10 are from advertising agencies and 10 are called public members. Among the latter are Prof. Raymond A. Bauer of Harvard Business School and Norman Cousins, former magazine editor who submitted a statement in support of the ad industry at recent hearings by the Federal Trade Commission on television ads.

Individuals with complaints about advertising for products and services sold nation-wide should send them to the nearest Better Business Bureau, which will then forward them to the National Advertising Division.

Where there is no BBB, individuals can contact the Council of Better Business Bureaus at its Operations Office, 1150 17th St., NW., Washington, D.C., 20036.

The council is supposed to acknowledge receipt of such complaints promptly and directly by mail to those submitting them. It also notifies the company involved.

IF THE flow of complaints seems to establish a pattern, indicating a widespread problem, a report is made similar to one already issued publicly on multi-level selling plans.

The NARB procedure is not the only avenue open to people who have complaints about advertising. Other channels include consumer organizations, government agencies and, of course, the company doing the advertising.

Most promising, however, is the NARB plan. For more can be accomplished through self-regulation than in any other way.

She's Going Back To School

STONE CITY, Iowa — Before her marriage, Mrs. Cecil Sims had one year of college. Now she's back in school, majoring in elementary education and minoring in history, but:

"My husband approves and because he does, I have his complete co-operation." Sims' co-operation was absolutely essential in this case because they have 11 children.

They range in age from 20 down to 2-year-old twins, but because three are not yet in school they need care. "But I have a wonderful sister who looks after them for me," says Mrs. Sims. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. SAUTER
Saturday evening nuptials

Vows Repeated In Temple Rodef Sholom

Bonnie Rae Hahn became the bride of John Michael Sauter in a ceremony Saturday evening at Congregation Rodef Sholom in San Rafael. A reception at the temple followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt L. Hahn of San Rafael are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sauter, also of San Rafael.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Richard Flynn of Burbank, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister Renee Hahn of San Rafael; the bridegroom's sisters, Karen Sauter of Oakland and Nora Sauter of Chico; and Pam Heitzman of La Mesa.

Frank Silvestri of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Dave Misakian, Richard Loomer, Robert Sauter and John M. Cabarrus, all of San Rafael.

Bonnie is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and College of Marin. She attended San Diego State College and is employed by Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco.

A graduate of San Rafael High School and College of Marin, John is employed by Stuart-Sauter Company in South San Francisco.

The newlyweds are living in Larkspur.

This Year's Makeup Is Richer, Brighter

This year makeup is richer, brighter and more exhuberant than it has been in some time. Gone are the pale no-color faces of the '60s. Instead, sleeked back hair and flipped brimmed hats leave a clear field for focus on the face.

The '70s hail the return of soft fluid fashion and the art of blending rich colors to create new and changing moods for the face.

ON THE AGENDA

Service League Charity Bazaar To Be At San Domenico School

San Domenico Service League's Christmas charity bazaar will be held Sunday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at San Domenico School in San Anselmo. Chairman is Mrs. Philip Madden of Mill Valley.

Pietro Pinoni will autograph copies of his book, "Pietro on Wine," illustrated by his daughter, Francesca, a junior at the school.

Items for sale will include Christmas gifts and decorations and homemade foods. Lunch will be served between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. A dollhouse designed by Ralston Hodgson of Ross will be for sale.

Proceeds will be used for the service league's charities, which include the San Domenico building fund.

Committee chairmen for the bazaar are Mmes. Scott Stewart, telephone; Jerome Downs, needlecraft; Imre Vizkelety, stitchery; M. S. Denman, knitting; John Richard, luncheon; Pierre Grigaut, candy; Bruce Shafer and Gerald Kelleher, children's books; Philip Brown and Howard Marquis, Cook's Corner; John F. Weaver and Richard Dinkelspiel, parcel post; Joseph Wilson, tree decorations; Carlos Gonzales, awards; Manfred Fels and Naomi Dominic, finances; and Miss Gail McGowan, school representative.

MEMBERS OF Marin Branch, American Association of University Women, are having a Wassail party Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKinney in San Rafael. Chairman is Mrs. Ed Meyers of San Rafael.

The party will be hosted by members of the newly formed Recent Graduate Section of AAUW, and the Music Section will provide holiday music.

A TAPE recording of a talk given by Dr. Wilson Riles, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be played at the meeting of the Sleepy Hollow School Parent Club meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the school in San Anselmo.

The speech, "Can We Save Public Education — Who Pays," was given Oct. 22 to the Common wealth Club of California in San Francisco.

Members of the San Anselmo School Board have been invited to attend the public meeting, and San Anselmo School Superintendent Ken Lowry will discuss the district plan to involve the community in the decision-making process for planning the next school year.

SOCIAL-LITES OF Sonoma and Marin counties will have a dance for single adults Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Hotel Santa Rosa in Santa Rosa.

There will be live music, according to M. E. Van Hoosen of Novato, president.

PETALUMA NEWCOMERS Club is having its annual dinner dance Friday at 8 p.m. at Herzog Hall in Petaluma.

"Feliz Navidad" is the theme for the semi-formal event.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Jack L. Gates and Mrs. Ralph Rungo Jr. of Petaluma.

THE "NUTCRACKER Suite," Tchaikovsky's famed ballet, will provide the theme for the Sausalito Woman's Club's fund-raising Christmas party for members and guests Sunday at 4 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Chairmen for the occasion, which will start with cocktail hour, are Mmes. Howard Sievers and Perry Brock. A hot buffet supper will be served.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Willard A. Hall and Edwin G. Klinck. Others assisting are Mmes. Andrew Downes, Charles Henderson, Lee Wolterding, John Alexander, A. Harvey Riley, Robert Knutson, L. W. Thomas May, Gary Hodgson and Jack Woods.

ELIM LUTHERAN Church Women will meet Saturday at the church for its annual Christmas in many lands potluck dinner and dessert.

A musical program, planned by Mrs. George Matt, will precede an installation of officers. Mrs. Martin Bohn has been reelected president and her executive board will be Mmes. James Odgers, vice-president; Gene Pugh, secretary; Michael Pesutish, treasurer; George Matt, education; and Gene Smith, stewardship.

Chairmen of the event are Mrs. Karl Lind and Mrs. Ernest Hansen.

Family Act —Helping Children

CANOGA PARK — Parishioners at the church the Robert Bielmanns attend were pretty puzzled for a while because the Bielmanns brought a different baby to church so often.

Now they know that the Bielmanns are foster parents — they are caring for their 26th foster child in five years.

"The babies come to us directly from the hospitals," Mrs. Bielmann explains, "and are from three to five days old. We keep them, an average of six weeks, until the Bureau of Adoptions finds adoptive parents.

"We are doing this because we wanted to do something to help others. Even my husband, who is manager of a bank, and our two young children take turns at feeding and diaper changing."

Mrs. Bielmann's advice to young mothers: "Relax and enjoy your babies —they are tiny for such a short time." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Jodie Gentile, one of the dancers in an original ballet, "The Amusement Park," is all seriousness before the television camera as Mrs. David Hildebrand applies her makeup. KRON (Channel 4) cameraman Dick Williams (foreground) shot scenes from the production, running this week at Dominican College, for presentation on the television station later this month. The ballet for children will be presented again at 10:30 a.m. Friday and 8 p.m. Saturday in Angelico Hall.

Development Funds Will Be Considered

An application for state matching funds of about $2 million for site development of the Indian Valley Colleges and for work at the College of Marin will be considered by the Marin Community College District board today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the Science Building at College of Marin.

The board on Nov. 22 authorized a maximum tax rate of 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation toward $4 million in projects at the Novato site and the Kentfield campus. However, the tax cannot be levied unless various state agencies approve the building projects and state matching funds are approved.

The application is due Dec. 31.

Also on tap are continued discussion of capital improvement financing alternates to a $16.8 million bond issue which failed last month, and specifications for marshland reclamation at the Kentfield campus and site development at the Novato campus.

Some Must Still Dial Numeral '1'

While most Marin telephone users can now dial anywhere in the country without dialing the numeral 1 first, the Independent-Journal neglected in a Nov. 15 story to report that Novato, Ignacio and West Marin residents must still precede toll calls with the "1."

Rob. G. Leigh, manager of the Pacific Telephone Co. business office in San Rafael, explained that new equipment is making it possible to drop the "1" in most of the county but that such equipment has not been installed in all areas.

At some future date, new equipment may also make it possible for Novato, Ignacio, Inverness, Nicasio, Point Reyes and Stinson Beach-Bolinas residents to drop the "1," he said.

Leigh assured Marinites who may be confused by the new system that if they dial incorrectly, a recording will direct them to ask the operator for help.

Petaluman Struck By Car, Hospitalized

Ernest D. Evans, 67, of 425 Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma, was reported in Satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a possible broken left shoulder suffered when he was struck by a car yesterday at 7:12 p.m. at Petaluma Boulevard South near G Street.

Police said Evans was walking across the street when he was struck by a car driven by Harold A. Anderson, 67, of 1303 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

Single Acts From Plays Scheduled

Single acts from three different plays will be presented in "An Evening of Theater," at 8 p.m. Friday in the San Rafael High School drama department in the school auditorium.

One act will be presented from "Blithe Spirit," by Noel Coward, "Lysistrada," by Aristophanies, and "Under Milkwood," by Dylan Thomas, said Barbara Jay, drama director.

All 32 students of the drama department will take lead roles in one play, supporting roles in another or handle technical work in a third. Four main roles are featured in "Blithe Spirit" and "Lysistrada," and 22 roles in "Under Milkwood," she said. In the latter play, the actors play several roles, she said.

Admission to the event will be charged.

School Chief Is Released

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Guerrero State University Rector Dr. Jaime Castrejon Diez was released today four days after his wife paid kidnapers $200,000 ransom and the government sent nine "political prisoners" to Cuba in exchange for his freedom.

A government official found Diez, 35, walking along a road about 5 a.m. near the site of his capture in the state of Guerrero. He was dirty, bearded, almost without shoes and very tired, authorities said.

Diez was kidnaped by five men armed with guns Nov. 19. Five days after his capture, the men contacted his American wife, Ruby Nickel, and ordered that she pay them $200,000 ransom and that the Mexican government send nine so-called "political prisoners" to Cuba.

'Renaissance Faire' Set At School

A Reanissance Faire, complete with all the Christmas trimmings of old England, will be presented from noon until 6 p.m. Sunday by the students of Adaline E. Kent Junior High School at the schoolgrounds in Kentfield.

The Duke of Kent — in this case, Gerald Miramontes, art instructor — has coordinated the affair and supervised the art work.

Students have made Christmas decorations from cookie dough and will have cookies and other refreshments for sale.

The school's drama department will present portions of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Hamlet," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Romeo and Juliet."

The music department will furnish guitar music and choral singing. There also will be folk dancing, games of skill and other entertainment.

Arts Quartet's Season-Opener In Mill Valley

The Marin Arts Quartet will present the opening conert of its 1971-72 season Sunday at 3 p.m. at Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Quartet members are Charles Meacham and Michael Gerling, violins; Lucien Mitchell, viola, and Jean Mitchell, cello. Guest pianist will be Robaline Meacham.

The program will include the quartet in B minor, Opus 11, by Samuel Barber; quartet in D major, K. 575, by Mozart, and the quintet in F minor for piano and strings by Franck.

Other concert dates in the series are Feb. 6 and May 14. Tea will be served following each program.

Theft Suspect Bound Over

Dennis K. Smith, 18, of San Rafael must appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 13 to face burglary charges.

Following a preliminary hearing Tuesday, Judge David Menary of Marin Municipal Court bound over Smith to the higher court.

Smith is accused of burglarizing a home on Galway Lane in Terra Linda on Nov. 11.

Pops Concert Set At Sonoma State

The Sonoma State College philharmonic orchestra will present a "thinking man's pops concert" Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Ives Hall of Music.

The concert, directed by David Sloss of San Rafael, will feature special staging, lighting, films, slides and narrations along with rarely performed music.

Dr. James B. Enochs, college executive vice-president, will narrate "Babar the Elephant," a children's story classic put to music by Francis Poulenc. David Young of Novato will conduct Haydn's "Toy Symphony" as his senior project.

Students from the drama and dance departments will take part in a production of Eric Satie's "Parade," a ballet that tells the story of a group of carnival side show performers trying to interest an audience in buying tickets to their show. The production will be done in the round on a large, tri-level scaffolding.

The Salamander Gets A New Lease On Life

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—The rare long-toed salamander—a spotty, squiggly amphibian that only breeds in a Santa Cruz marsh—has a new lease on life.

The species' only habitat was to be made into a trailer park until conservation groups campaigned to save its 33-acre marshy site near La Selva Beach.

Tuesday, the Santa Cruz County Board of Supervisors voted to preserve the site after several biologists testified that the five inch salahander was believed to have lived there for 10,000 to 20,000 years.

The salamander which has a sooty belly with a black back and orange spots, first was discovered 17 years ago and is on the "rare and endangered species" list.

Quake-Like Tragedy

FRATTAMINORE, Italy (UPI) — A three-story apartment house occupied by at least 24 persons collapsed in rubble today after two explosions tore it apart with such force neighbors thought there had been an earthquake.

Authorities said at least nine persons died.

Youth Wins Right For Synanon Life

A 15-year-old boy, who prefers to live at the Synanon community in Marshall, will not be forced to return to his mother in Beverly Hills.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday refused to intercede for Mrs. Anne M. Sturges, widow of movie writer and director Preston Sturges, who wants her son Thomas Preston Sturges to leave Synanon and join her.

"I realize that the relations between the mother and son are left up in the air," said the judge. "Personally, I'd rather have it left up in the air and unresolved than produce turmoil and hatred by forcing him against his will."

The judge asked what if the boy were made to return to Beverly Hills and then "runs right back to Synanon. What then?" Judge Wilson explained he hesitates to force the boy against his will because he is afraid "the intrusion of coercive power would worsen the parental relationship."

Walter I. Colby of Sherman Oaks, representing the mother, charged that the boy is being emancipated by force against the wishes of the natural mother. "She has all the duties of a parent and does not even have visitation rights."

Sharon Green of Oakland, attorney for the boy and for Mrs. Dorothy G. Salant, one of his Synanon teachers, declared that the mother is free to visit with her son, either at Synanon or outside. However, such visits should be voluntary and not coerced, said Miss Green.

Mrs. Salant petitioned for guardianship of the youth, whereas Mrs. Sturges demanded the boy's return to Beverly Hills.

The judge declined to act on either petition and ordered that the status quo be maintained. If Mrs. Sturges finds that Synanon interferes with her right to visit the boy, then she can petition for a writ of habeas corpus, the judge declared.

Yesterday's ruling by the judge confirmed a previous decision made a month ago by Marin Court Commissioner E. L. Nininger.

Nepal Riots Were Over Cow

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—An official commission of inquiry into rioting during which 51 persons died and 1,874 houses burned reported Tuesday that the violence resulted from the killing of a cow by a Moslem.

Houses in two Moslem villages were burned by enraged Hindus after the incident, and widespread looting was reported.

Nepal is a Hindu kingdom where the cow is sacred and motorists who hit a cow by accident can be jailed for up to 14 years.

FIGHTS CITATION

Driver Gambles, But Loses Day In Court

By C.P. McCARTHY

James J. Bergman of San Francisco gambled yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and lost.

Bergman, who fought a routine traffic citation all the way through a jury trial, was found guilty of one of the charges against him and innocent of another.

He was not merely trying to "beat" a ticket, he said, but was rather attempting to prove his innocence of the charges. "If you're in the right, you should be able to convince a jury," he said, but it was a feat he failed to accomplish.

Most people don't even try. In fiscal 1970-71, the last period for which figures were available, only seven of 39,437 citations for moving violations went to jury trials in Marin County.

Bergman's case was unusual, however, not only because it went to jury — an option in traffic cases that may be eliminated by the state legislature — but also because of some cost-cutting variations from a normal jury trial.

Only six persons sat on the jury, a move suggested by Judge Peter Allen Smith and agreed to by Bergman and the district attorney's office.

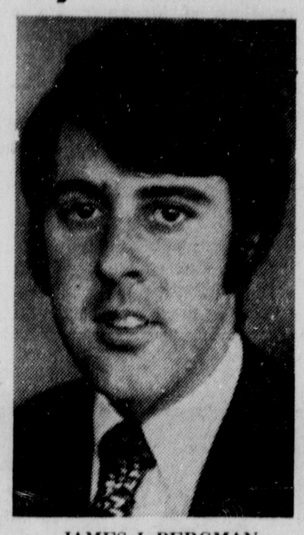
They also agreed to select the jury without a judge present, thus freeing Judge Smith to preside over another case while Bergman — acting as his own attorney — and a deputy district attorney questioned prospective jurors and selected the six who would hear the case.

The smaller jury is an adaptation Smith said he uses "whenever I can get a defendant to agree to do it."

In minor traffic cases, the courts attempt to discourage jury trials at all, Smith said.

A jury trial is a burden on the courts and the taxpayers, he said, and the fine — if the defendant is found guilty — doesn't approach the cost of having a jury.

Defendants have a right to a 12-man jury, but can waive the right and agree to a smaller one.



JAMES J. BERGMAN
Jury gamble lost

Many lawyers, however, will not waive the right for their clients, the judge said, on the belief that with 12 jurors the chances are greater of getting at least one to disagree with the prosecution and preventing the unanimous verdict needed to convict.

Smith said he "unqualifiedly supports" proposed legislation which would eliminate the unanimous verdict requirement in misdemeanor cases as well as legislation to do away with jury trials in traffic cases, unless the violation carries a possible jail sentence.

Smith had no estimate of what a one-day jury trial, such as Bergman's costs the county, but he said "substantial economies were effected" by the smaller jury and the absence of a judge during jury selection.

Bergman himself effected a substantial economy in representing himself, saving the $300 Judge Smith estimated it would have cost him for an attorney for the trial.

But representing oneself also pits the amateur against a professional trial lawyer, and to battle without experience is "like operating on yourself," as the judge told Bergman yesterday during the trial while explaining a rule of evidence.

Bergman, 29, was cited Sept. 5 in Sausalito for making an unsafe start and an unsafe lane change.

In addition to maintaining his innocence of charges, Bergman suggested that the citation resulted from an overzealous ticketing policy on the part of Sausalito police (a charge being investigated by the Marin County Grand Jury), as well as an effort by the police to get him personally.

He testified that the officer who stopped him Sept. 5 said something like "I've been on the lookout for you" or "We've been looking for you."

Milen C. Dempster, foreman of the grand jury, sat in on Bergman's trial yesterday, taking notes throughout it, but he declined to confirm his presence as part of the grand jury's investigation of the Sausalito police.

The trial lasted an hour and 45 minutes. Sausalito Police Officer Whitney K. Simpson was the sole witness for Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael A. Gridley. Bergman and a friend, Helen Lopez, who was with him the night of the citation, testified in his defense.

In his final argument, Bergman repeated he "did not commit those offenses" and appealed to the jury of five women and a man to consider their own children and how they would react "to something like this happening to them."

Gridley ended his case by conceding there may have been a "reasonable doubt" about the unsafe lane change, but argued that there was none about the unsafe start.

After an hour's deliberation, the jury agreed with Gridley, finding Bergman guilty of the unsafe start.

Smith complimented Bergman on his "skills as an advocate," reviewed his driving record — which included six previous moving violations in the last two years — and fined him $38.

Hospital Wing Use Discussed

The possibility of providing space for various county health services in a proposed new wing at Marin General Hospital was discussed last night by the Marin Hospital District board.

The board president, Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion, said she had written the board of supervisors asking if they would like to request space in long-range expansion plans of the hospital for out-patients, a laboratory and a morgue.

Dr. Campion told the board the matter has been turned over to the county administrator for a recommendation to the board of supervisors.

Out-patient and laboratory services for the county health department are now scattered in several buildings and there is no county morgue. Pathology work is done at various mortuaries in the county.

No date has been set for possible expansion of the hospital.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted gifts of $7,500 from board member Thomas K. Procter and his wife and $5,000 from M & T Inc. owners of Northgate Shopping Center No. 2, toward purchase of monitoring equipment for the intensive coronary care unit.

FILL — Learned that filling of the parking lot across the street from the hospital is about 25 per cent complete.

STUDENTS — Approved allowing six students from the College of California Medical Affiliates in San Francisco to gain operating room training at the hospital, subject to legal and insurance approval.

SALARIES — Approved raises for three administrators, including Community Mental Health Center Director John Guerrant from $2,500 a month to $2,625 a month; hospital Admin. Ray K. Bolinger, from $2,583 a month to $2,2725 a month and Asst. Administrator Lawrence B. Malkin from $1,550 a month to $1,635 a month, all effective today.

INCINERATOR — Voted to spend $8,000 to improve the hospital incinerator in order to meet new Bay Area Air Pollution Control District standards.

RATES — Voted to change categories and raise rates for care of newborn babies in the hospital nursery. The current rates are normal care, $34 a day, and extra care, $43 a day. Effective Jan. 1, the daily rates will be normal, $35; high-risk, $45, and maximum care, $65.

Approval Seen For Nominees

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield indicated today the Supreme Court nominations of Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist may come before the Senate shortly.

Mansfield said he would schedule debate on the Court nominees following Senate action on the nomination of Earl L. Butz to be President Nixon's new Agriculture secretary. That vote was tentatively set today for 1 p.m. EST Thursday.

In some brief speeches, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., announced support of Rehnquist —"not entirely without reservation" —while Sen. James F. Buckley, R-N.Y., urged confirmation of both nominees.

There has been little opposition voiced to Powell, but some liberal Democratic senators continued efforts to block confirmation of Rehnquist.

In the late Middle Ages, the French word "chaperon" referred to a hood which was worn by men and women generally.

Dope Haul Case Guilt Admitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorney Harry J. Kreamer of Bolinas pleaded guilty yesterday to charges growing out of two cases involving confiscation of large amounts of marijuana in Marin County.

The pleas came as Kreamer, 32, was scheduled to go on trial in U.S. District Court in connection with the Aug. 16 seizure of about 20 pounds of marijuana in his car in Novato. A motion to suppress evidence in the case was dismissed Monday.

He pleaded guilty to misdemeanor possession in that case, as well as guilty to a charge of felony conspiracy to possess and distribute marijuana that resulted from the Oct. 17 seizure of 800 pounds of pot in San Rafael's Northgate Industrial Park.

Judge William Matthew Byrne Jr., a visiting jurist from Los Angeles, set sentencing for Feb. 18. Asst. U.S. Atty. John G. Milano said Kreamer faces maximum sentences of a year in prison and a $5,000 fine on the felony complaint.

In the Northgate case, Kreamer was arrested with three other men — Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs — after agents stopped a truck containing the illicit haul.

The other three men are to return to court Dec. 17 for pretrial motions.

Kent Defendant Pleads Guilty

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—A former Kent State University student pleaded guilty today to first degree riot charges in connection with the 1970 campus disorders at the school which came to a climax when four students were shot to death by National Guardsmen.

Larry Shub, 20, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, entered his surprising plea just one day after Jerry Rupe, first of 25 persons to be tried in the Kent State disturbances, was found guilty of interfering with a fireman at a burning campus ROTC building, and charges against Peter C. Bliek, 23, Rochester, N.Y., a second defendant, were dropped.

Shub, third person to be tried, was a student at the time of the disorders, which occurred from May 2, 1970 until the four students were killed May 4, 1970.

The capital cities of four states are named for Presidents: Jackson, Miss.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Lincoln, Neb., and Madison, Wis.

Hub Council Sort Of Approves Marin County's General Plan

The San Anselmo City Council last night voiced a sort of general approval to the preliminary countywide general plan proposed for Marin, but took no official stand.

"It would take a month of meetings to go through it and examine it item by item as it affects San Anselmo," Councilman Lewis W. Stewart said at the end of the council's meeting with county planning aides Sol Silver and Robert Harrison.

Silver said the county staff was not necessarily seeking an endorsement of the plan, but the purpose of last night's session — which the San Anselmo Planning Commission also attended — was to get a general reaction of the City of San Anselmo to the preliminary plan.

Silver said the preliminary plan will be formally presented to the City-County Planning Council tomorrow, together with changes resulting from public reaction at the long series of hearings already held throughout the county.

If the city-county panel "adopts it as a living, breathing document," it will be returned to the cities and the county for formal ratification and can serve as an "interim guide" while the final draft is being worked out for adoption by mid-1972, Silver explained. It could not legally replace existing plans and zoning until its final adoption.

Several cities, including Mill Valley and Tiburon, have delayed considering the preliminary plan because it has not yet been formally endorsed by the city-county council, Sivler said.

Much of the discussion last night centered on countywide growth and transit proposals, with only a few questions relating specifically to Sn Anselmo.

Councilman James F. Reed and Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson both expressed a concern about the need for a definition of San Anselmo's role in the plan.

Reed wanted to know what the effects on San Anselmo's remaining primarily single-family dwelling units would be, but Silver said densities for various cities had not yet been thoroughly studied.

The aim now, he said, was to establish goals and determine if they are the goals Marin should be pursuing.

Anderson asked, "If this plan is adopted, what will be expected of San Anselmo?" Again, Silver said the question was premature.

But it would not mean, Silver said, that because San Anselmo was one of 11 cities that San Anselmo would be expected to absorb one-eleventh of the projected population growth.

Silver later defended the plan's contention that Marin could absorb 60,000 new persons a decade without "clogging" the county by 1990. He said the plan did not recommend the growth, but merely said there is room for it.

The plan's inclusion of roads linking Terra Linda with the Sleepy Hollow area and Lucas Valley road with the White's Hill area near Fairfax was questioned by Councilman Stewart, who said priority should be given transit systems before being given the automobile.

Silver said that was a sentiment that "we've heard over and over again."

Harrison said that at the time transportation data was needed for preparation of the preliminary plan, the connector roads looked best, but that the emphasis now is turning to a bus transit system.

In reply to a question from Stewart, Harrison said it is "very possible" the connector roads could be forgotten for at least 10 years if the bus transit system is established.

The text of the plan was praised by councilmen for its "very human" writing style which, Reed said, was "unusual for planners."

Merchants In Mill Valley Set Holiday Hours

Mill Valley merchants have begun their annual Christmas promotion with holiday decorations, two hours of free parking, longer shopping hours and a visit from Santa Claus.

Christmas lights have been strung up in downtown Mill Valley and along Miller Avenue from Camino Alto to Willow Street.

Many stores will stay open until 9 p.m. Dec. 3 and 10, 13 through 17 and 20 through 23, with Sunday hours from noon to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will arrive Dec. 4 in Lytton Square and will be there again Dec. 10, 11, and 13 through 24 except for Dec. 19.

Contract Will Be Renewed

The contract of Fairfax schools Supt. H. Reginald Hammond will be renewed, the school board decided last night.

Hammond reported the board's decision followed an evaluation of his performance and that a formal report on the evaluation will be made by board president Dr. George C. Stone at a later date.

The board continued the subject of Hammond's contract until Dec. 21 when a salary will be set. The board's next meeting is at 7:45 p.m. Dec. 7 at White Hill School.

Watts, Biard To Be Arraigned

George Gregory Watts, 18, and Ernest Barrow Biard, 18, both of San Francisco, will be arraigned in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 15 on charges of armed robbery.

Following a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge David Menary bound over the pair to the higher court.

Watts and Biard are accused of holding up John D. Mackie and Sandra A. Pazamickas in their apartment in San Rafael on Oct. 29. The victims told police four men robbed them of $600 in cash and personal possessions at gunpoint, then tied gagged and threatened them before leaving.

Car Collision In San Rafael

A 31-year-old Oakland woman complained of neck pain following a traffic accident at the intersection of Irwin and Third streets at 9:10 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said Emily M. Sitkin told them she would consult her own doctor about the pain.

She was injured when the car she was driving north on Irwin Street collided with a dar driven west on Third Street by Joan A. Costamagna, 37, of 71 Surfwood Circle, San Rafael, police said.

New Group To Meet Thursday

A group of Marin residents described as "middle class Americans (who have) finally decided to do something about being taxed to death by politicians, school boards and the welfare society" will gather in Ross Thursday.

The meeting, the second for the group, will be at 8 p.m. at the home of Edward J. Gilmore at 100 Laurel Grove Avenue.

Gilmore said that his group, expected to sweli in number from the 15 who met two weeks ago, is "just getting off the ground" but that it hopes to spread a "middle class revolution."

Fisherman's Body Found

The body of a commercial fisherman from Sebastopol, who had been missing off Bodega Bay since April 14, washed ashore at Dillon's Beach yesterday morning.

He was Virgil Clifford Berry, 58, a commercial fisherman for about 15 years.

His son, Virgil Berry Jr. of 829 Ashton Avenue, Santa Rosa, said funeral services have been completed, and his remains will be cremated at the Analy Funeral Home in Sebastopol.

Guilty Plea To Forgery Charge

George Dewey Beauchamp, 27, no known address, has pleaded guilty to a check forgery charge.

He appeared yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and admitted he had forged a $300 check at the Bank of America on Oct. 17. The check was drawn on the account of Edith M. Denny of Mill Valley.

Beauchamp was ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 2 for sentencing.

Richard Hongisto: He'll Be A Most Unusual Sheriff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—During his campaign for sheriff, Richard Hongisto's posters showed a peace sign inside a lawman's star "to symbolize the analogy between our approach to Vietnam and to crime."

After his surprising victory, Hongisto announced plans to act as a watchdog over other law enforcement agencies in San Francisco and to lobby for changes in laws concerning homosexuality, marijuana possession and other "non-victim" crime.

Obviously, Hongisto, 35, a pipe-puffing former policeman with a professorial mien is going to be one of the nation's most unusual sheriffs when he takes office in January.

As sheriff of San Francisco County, Hongisto will command 182 deputies who run two jails—one in the Hall of Justice and one in suburban San Bruno—and who serve as bailiffs in some courts. Other law enforcement duties under San Francisco's joint city-county government are handled by the police department.

He has already upset municipal court judges by insisting their huge case backlog could be cut if they'd work longer hours. One judge reacted by calling for a contempt citation against Hongisto and the presiding municipal judge shifted courtroom security responsibilities from the sheriff's office to city police.

The mild-mannered Hongisto, who keeps his dark hair neatly trimmed, his face clean-shaven and his suits conservative, was elected sheriff of the City and County of San Francisco by 21,000 votes over 15-year incumbent Matthew Carberry.

The new sheriff, who listed himself as a "criminologist" on the ballot, took 36 per cent of the vote in a four-man race, running well throughout the city but doing best among homosexuals, liberals, the young and minorities.

Hongisto, interviewed after his victory, said the peace symbol on his campaign posters indicated "the parallel between what is happening in Vietnam—more guns, more money, more force and a failure to produce results—and what is happening in criminal justice—more and bigger guns, more taxes, more people stuffed in jail, and a continuing rise in crime."

"My opponents were criminal justice hawks—they advocated more of the same," said Hongisto, who resigned after 10 years on the San Francisco police force to become an educational television newsman and work on his doctorate at the University of California in nearby berkeley.

Hongisto definitely doesn't advocate more of the same. His plans include:

—Appointment of Reuben Greenberg, associate professor of Sociology of Hayward State College, as the country's first black undersheriff.

—Reform of the two county jails, which have been criticized repeatedly by investigating groups in recent years for poor conditions and treatment of inmates.

"We can treat the prisoners better and more fairly and still protect society," said Hongisto. "Our jail won't be pleasant—it won't be like living in a hotel. But the prisoners will be treated as well as those in adjoining counties, though even that will take at least a year.

"Our main concern is in keeping the peace and preventing violence—preventing violence, not reacting to it in a conditioned response. It's always your option to pounce on somebody—you do it first or last. In our department, it will always come last."

Hongisto shrugged off suggestions that the Attica prison deaths may have made it a bad time for reform by saying "there has never been a good time in this country's history." He said specific changes will involve food, visiting hours, medical treatment and rehabilitation programs.

"I don't kid myself—I'll be in the business of applying bandaids to a cancer. The jail reflects the social hatreds and circumstances of society, including inequitable distribution of wealth, ghettoization of large numbers of identifiable people, discrimination in employment, education and housing. These are the root causes of crime."

—Acting as a watchdog over other law enforcement agencies, including the courts, police, probation department, district attorney's office and juvenile detention home.

Hongisto criticized the police for not having stricter controls on use of guns by officers, saying the department has "a bad habit of letting its men shoot people."

"I was a policeman for 10 years and I know there's a need to keep an eye on all city departments—nothing is perfect," he said. He said a new public information unit would seek citizen complaints and try to set up "two-way" dialogue with community groups.

"The sheriff of San Francisco should be prepared to make statements about criminal justice in his county—and I'm going to," the sheriff-elect said.

—Donating $750 each month—one-third of his salary—to a non-profit foundation which will help neighborhood groups deal with problems of social and criminal justice.

—Appearing before city and state legislative groups to argue for changes in laws affecting "non-victim crime."

Hongisto said he supported a bill which would remove all legal sanctions against private sexual activities between consenting adults. "What adults do in the privacy of their own bedrooms is their own business—and not a fit area for the law," he said.

He also called for "greatly reduced" penalties for marijuana possession, although he declined to advocate its legalization.

"I don't expect to singlehandedly change the law or create a movement, but I will lend my voice as a 10-year police officer, a criminologist and as sheriff of San Francisco," he said.

New Federal Building Eyed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal official disclosed Monday that the U.S. government may erect a new $100 million office building here.

Thomas Hannon, regional administrator for the General Services Administration, told the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association that the structure would be 1 ½ to two times as large as the federal building on Golden Gate Avenue.

Hannon said the government's present quarters were not adequate even on the day they opened seven years ago.

Oklahoma City Bishop Selected

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today appointed a Californian as bishop of Oklahoma City.

He is Msgr. John R. Quinn, 42, Riverside, Calif., who received priestly ordination in 1953 and has served since 1967 as an auxiliary bishop of San Diego.

In other action, the Pope set up a new diocese in Charlotte, N.C., and appointed the Rev. Michael J. Begley, 62, Mittineague, Mass., as its first bishop.

Historic Pact To Mean More Jobs

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—The Frigidaire Division of General Motors announced today the signing of an "historic agreement" with an electrical workers union calling for 5,000 workers to forego previously agreed on pay raises in order that 1,050 laid-off workers could be rehired.

Company officials said the workers were laid off during the past year because of low sales and high labor costs.

The recall is a result of a contract modification with the International Union of Electrical Workers. It negates an $18 per week pay raise and cost of living increases.

Pac Tel Explains Rate Hike Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Telephone Co. said yesterday its request for a $77.4 million rate increase to offset recent wage hikes had nothing to do with a California Supreme Court decision last week which could result in refunds to its subscribers.

Telephone company attorneys also said the company intends to seek a rehearing of the court decision, which held that PT&T used "imprudent" accounting procedures and consequently paid too much federal income-taxes.

Company attorney Richard W. Odgers said the company felt there were "vital defects" in the decision which would be discussed in the request for a rehearing.

"Until this application . . . is acted upon, any suggestions that the wage offset proceeding should be dismissed or should be deferred are premature," Odgers said.

A consumer group called Consumers Arise Now, one of two plaintiffs in the suit in which the Supreme Court ruled last week, demanded Monday that the California Public Utilities Commission order an immediate $25 million refund, and also reject the $77.4 million application.

Odgers said the $77.4 million application resulted from wage increases paid employes following a strike earlier this year.

Even if the PUC ultimately orders refunds as a result of the Supreme Court decision, he said, "the additional expense to which Pacific would be subject by reason of the wage increases would still require offsetting revenues of $77.4 million."

Public Money Will Fund Private Study

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday voted to spend an unspecified amount of public money on a private study to determine how to improve the legislature's efficiency.

The vote, which was cast audibly, thus avoiding a roll call which would put every assemblyman on record, came after a lengthy debate in which some Republicans criticized excessive legislative spending.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, questioned the study and said he has received many letters from citizens complaining about the length of the legislative session.

The legislature through October had already spent $20 million and every day it meets costs an additional $11,000 just for such items as expenses, printing and clerical help.

"There has to be a better way of doing business than what we're doing now," said the chief sponsor of the proposed study, Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco.

Burton was the floor sponsor of a resolution by Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, authorizing the study.

In response to repeated questioning, Burton indicated he did not know how much the study would cost. He said it would be conducted by private consultants, whom he did not identify.

Murphy questioned why outside consultants should be used when the legislature already has a well-equipped full-time staff.

Another Republican, Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson of Chico, added, "I happen to be one who thinks we have too many consultants around here. This study is geared to finding out whether we're spending our money wisely, and I don't think we are in many cases."

"All year long when I begged for these items you said 'wait 'til Christmas!'"

Euromart Rekindles Soviet Fear

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Britain's imminent entry into the European Common Market has rekindled Soviet fears of an independent West European nuclear force, according to diplomatic sources.

Western diplomats discount the idea of the independent nuclear force but say cooperation in defense will certainly be part of a 10-nation enlarged Common Market.

Efforts to build closer European political unity and increased U.S. pressure for Europe to pay more for its own defense will be the main spurs to the Common Market nations getting together on defense matters, they said.

"Defense questions will be forced upon us because they are so closely linked to economic and political problems," a senior British diplomat said.

The Treaty of Rome, which binds France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, does not mention cooperation in defense questions. Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland are expected to become members of the community Jan. 1, 1973.

Already, a member of the community's Executive Commission, Jean-Francois Deniau, has written in the Paris newspaper Le Monde:

"To envisage a European (defense) contribution which will be only the classic army, with the nuclear power remaining with the United States only, is an outlook that has already been condemned.

"But to envisage a European atomic weapon would create more problems than we could hope to solve," he said.

Deniau said repeal of the U.S. McMahon act, which prohibits Britain from passing on U.S. atomic secrets to any other country, should be part of any deal for Europe to take over its own defense.

The Soviet reaction to Deniau's article was a column in the official Communist party newspaper Pravda by its top commentator, Yuri Zhukov.

"In connection with the forthcoming entry of Britain and possibly some other states into the European Economic Community (EEC), incorrigible adherents of division on the continent have recently resumed their hysterical clamor to revive the old project of a West European armed forces, in particular a West European strike force," Zhukov wrote.

"As must be clear to everyone, such a military and political grouping would play the role of an auxiliary organ of NATO, and its creation would only deepen the division of the continent," the article said.

Britain already is linked to the other members of the future enlarged community through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), although France withdrew from military integration in 1966.

Britain and the six current Common Market members also are linked through the Western European Union (WEU), a largely moribund organization dealing mainly with arms control in Europe.

Lord Gladwyn, former British ambassador in Paris, said in a report on the future of the WEU that "in the long run the EEC will have to concern itself with defense as well as foreign policy if only for the fact that the two are inseparable..."

Gladwyn said he thought the ultimate objective of the current Soviet policy of detente "undoubtedly is gradually to secure total American withdrawal from Europe and then to exercise a predominant political influence over a still divided peninsula."

Warehouse Theft

Painting equipment, valued at a total of $1,065, was stolen in a burglary of a warehouse owned by John M. Calhoon at 513 Francisco Boulevard, last Saturday or Sunday, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

HOW TO PLAY

This Four-Spade Hand Will Likely Plaque An Expert For Many Years

When a match ends, an expert thinks of the opportunities he muffed. If he has made a real blunder, he wonders why. Was he tired? Was his physical condition poor? If he has merely missed a chance to do better, he still worries about how he should have known at the time. The hand shown today, played a few weeks ago in New Orleans in a match held to select the U.S. team for the 1972 Olympics, will plague one of the experts for many years.

Opening lead — ♣ A

THE TOP CLUB

West opened the ace of clubs and thought for a few moments. Then he led the queen of clubs.

Declarer ruffed in dummy, entered his hand with the ten of diamonds and led a low trump to try a finesse with a queen. East won with the king and returned a club, forcing dummy to ruff once more.

Declarer, Bobby Goldman, of the world championship Dallas Aces, cashed the ace of spades, dropping the jack, and got to his hand with the queen of diamonds to draw the last trump with the ten of spades.

Now it was easy for declarer to run the diamonds, discarding his last club, and then force out the ace of hearts. The defenders got their two aces and the king of spades, but nothing else.

SIMPLE REASONING

West should have found the killing defense by simple reasoning. He could be sure of taking his two aces, and therefore needed two tricks from his partner to defeat the contract. Which two tricks could his partner possibly win?

So few high cards were missing from his own hand and the dummy that West could hope only for a ruffing trick and a high trump. Which suit could his partner ruff? Not clubs, since East had raised clubs. Not diamonds, since West was short in that suit himself. Hearts, therefore.

TO LOW CLUB

West should shift at the second trick to a low heart. When East gets in with the king of spades, he returns a heart and ruffs the third round of the suit.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A Q 8 2
♥ - K Q 9 4
♦ - A K J 5
♣ - K.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Some experts would bid one spade, but the best opening bid is one diamond.

Make it as easy as possible for partner to respond in a major suit. You will then make sure of getting to at least a game.

Non-Smoking Experiment Ends

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI)—This city's noble experiment against smoking has ended.

Officials have ordered a halt to the sirens that shrieked at 11 a.m. each day for the past five months indicating it was time for the "hour of sacrifice" — when everyone was to put down his cigarette until the all-clear was sounded at noon.

Cleave Baker, borough council president, said smokers and nonsmokers objected to the idea because the siren should be used for emergencies.

Burl Ives Sued For Ad 'Overpayment'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Burl Ives, the folk singer and actor who currently portrays a lawyer in a television series, heard from some real lawyers Monday.

Ives and Ives Productions Ltd. was sued for $15,000 by an advertising agency which complained that it had accidentally paid Ives twice for a commercial for the H. J. Heinz Co. Ives got $30,000 instead of the $15,000 he was entitled to and refuses to return the overpayment.

Singapore Smog Drive Pressed

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Singapore, where the government fines motorists for smoky exhausts or tossing cigarette butts out car windows, is about to carry its campaign against pollution a step further by fining the owners of smoke-producing factories.

The government is trying to prevent large-scale pollution of the atmosphere before it assumes the proportions of New York or Tokyo.

The level of air pollution, as monitored by a dozen stations on this fast industrializing island, is still within safety limits, Health Minister Dr. Chua Sian Chin said after a tour of factories recently.

But he said legislation must be enacted to compel Singapore's growing industries to install antipollution devices to minimize the hazards.

That's the purpose of "the Clean Air Bill, 1971", now before Parliament and expected to be passed in the near future.

The bill empowers the health minister to make far-reaching regulations enforceable under written law. He may prescribe the types of control equipment to be used and the manner in which such equipment shall be operated and maintained and the type and composition of fuel to be used in Singapore factories.

The minister also may make regulations prescribing standards of concentration or rates of emission of air impurities from any source of air pollution and the method of making tests.

Singapore's first antiair pollution measures went into action last March against motor vehicles, especially diesel-powered ones, with smoky exhausts.

Diesel vehicles comprised about 10 per cent of the total number of licensed vehicles then on the roads. Most of them were poorly maintained, unlicensed "pirate" taxis, which have since been banned.

In the first year of the campaign, 32,680 vehicles were cited for emitting obnoxious smoke.

Two "Keep Singapore Clean and Green" campaigns launched subsequently centered around personal hygiene and environmental health. A ban was clamped on throwing paper, cigarette butts and any debris onto public places.

The public works department followed by opening up new parks and transplanting trees and palms, shrubs and flowers to them and in open spaces around markets and along highways. The end result was a sparklingly clean and green Singapore. Tourists described it as "the cleanest city in Asia."

Another month-long campaign just concluded gave particular emphasis on water pollution.

Regulations are already in force requiring industries to pretreat their effluents to prescribed standards before discharging them into open drains and, to less stringent standards, if discharged into sewers where available.

Householders and hawkers are being asked to dispose of their waste into sewers instead of open drains.

No GI Wants An Asterisk After Name

SAIGON (UPI)—One American serviceman in Vietnam is destined to make history.

No one knows who he is now, but someday his name will appear, perhaps under an asterisk, when the books are written on American involvement in Indochina. He will have become the last GI killed in Vietnam.

This one worry underlines the thinking of Americans in Vietnam. No one wants to catch that last bullet or step on that final land mine.

You see it in their faces everywhere—on the lonely fire bases and on crowded C130 transport planes flying them on new operations.

"That's going to be a hell of a story for you guys," a young major remarks with heavy sarcasm to a reporter. "You're really going to like that one."

You reply that it's one you would just as soon pass up.

The Americans in the field aren't forcing the issue now when contact is made with the guerrillas. The preferred method of fighting these days is at long range, by artillery and aircraft.

At a fire base in the mountains of the north, some artillery men casually pump out several motar rounds on a suspected target. Then they learn the suspected target was a group of Viet Cong believed to be carrying the feared B40 rockets which could be used against the U.S. base.

"My God! Let's put some more rounds down there quick," a mortar man says, leaning to adjust his weapon. Soon another 20 shells are whining away in a high arc, exploding 26 seconds later in a valley far below.

On Nov. 18 an American reconnaissance company of 175 men was ambushed by a battalion of 500 guerrillas, 58 miles northeast of Saigon. The U.S. unit, which in past years would have quickly assumed the offensive, this time withdrew and called in jets and helicopter gunships to hit the Communists.

On their part, the guerrillas are also reluctant to tangle with American troops. But the reason probably is not so much out of fear as of knowing the foe will soon be gone. There is little percentage in such a fight. American patrols in the field, although conditions are as dirty and rough as ever, seldom make significant contact.

The Americans drawing the most fire are the helicopter crews and the advisers to Vietnamese field units.

The chopper gunners keep their machineguns ready, a chain of bullets looped over an old C-ration can to make certain of an orderly feed into the chamber. The pilots of the unarmed little Loach helicopters zip over possible trouble spots at treetop level and 100 miles-an-hour to make as small a target as possible for any Communist gunners.

The watchword is caution. In the past, only the men who were "short"—with a few weeks left in country — were the ones to take the extra steps for protection. Now everyone does. Extra defenses—sentinels, trip wires, warning devices— are set up when a patrol beds down. Weapons are kept cleaned, oiled and ready.

Guards are more alert at isolated fire bases. Each man yearns to wear the little piece of string or ribbon that marks him as the one in his unit with the fewest days remaining in Vietnam.

It boils down to the words of a young paratrooper sitting on his rucksack, his M16 handy:

"Nobody wants to be the last one to die over here."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some People Question National Food Supply's Nutritive Value

Many question the nutritive value of our food supply. Not only is it the safest, but the cheapest, most diverse and most abundant in the world. A few radicals on the subject actually foment alarm against food additives and agricultural chemicals. Many of their ideas are highly exaggerated and not based on fact. Actually, enrichment of foods will solve many of our nutritional problems.

Alarmists, for example, say that traces of chemical residues will be retained by the body and build up to dangerous levels. They do not know or care to add that there is always some excretion of chemicals by the body. Furthermore, the amount stored represents the balance between intake and excretion. This is as true of DDT as it is of table salt or the iron we receive in certain foods. No completely cumulative effect exists. DDT is stored in the fat and steadily broken down and excreted via the urine.

NO MENTION is made of how laboratory tests are conducted. When a chemical, such as DDT or sodium gluconate, is injected in a mouse, the results are likely to be fatal. When taken by mouth, the results are different. Quantity also is an important factor. So, is it necessary to push the panic button when only enormous amounts of a substance produce toxic effects? There is no valid reason to incriminate tiny amounts of the same chemical in foods. Ingesting large amounts of table salt, iodine, copper, iron, and hydrocloric acid is dangerous, yet small doses are not harmful.

WE MUST also remember that the pros and cons of chemical residues in foods started after new analytical techniques were discovered to detect minute traces of the substances. These traces are usually present in biologically meaningless levels and should not be considered a threat to life. For all we know, foods contained traces of these elements long before pollution became a household word. A good example is the mercury found in fish preserved at the Smithsonian Institution for 40 years.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

LIGHT BREAKFAST

L. D. writes: Would eating a breakfast of tea and toast every morning eventually lead to a serious nutritional deficiency?

REPLY

Not unless the lunches and dinners were lopsided also. Many persons do a better job if they eat a good breakfast. But there is no harm in a light breakfast if the food consumed in a 24-hour period contains the basic items. This means all the necessary carbohydrates, fats, proteins, minerals, and vitamins.

COLORED SWEAT

P. writes: Sometimes a reddish discoloration developes under my arms and on my T-shirt. Do you think I'm bleeding from somewhere?

REPLY

No. Occasionally colonies of red or orange bacteria live in the armpits on the hair shafts. These microorganisms color the sweat so that it is mistaken for blood.

DOUBLE CHIN

A reader writes: How can a person get rid of a double chin?

REPLY

Some women wear a chin strap, practice holding up the head, or try massage. A definite double chin is difficult to eliminate without the aid of a plastic surgeon.

Bobby's Remains Are Transferred

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The remains of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy were transferred from a temporary to a permanent site at Arlington National Cemetery late Tuesday night.

Kennedy was buried at the cemetery near the grave of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, following his death in Los Angeles June 6, 1968.

The transfer, carried out after the cemetery closed, took slightly more than three hours.

His widow, Ethel, and his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., were present.

Heroin Suspect To Be Arraigned

Felicia Mary Fouche, 25, of Gate 5 in Sausalito, accused of selling heroin, will be arraigned in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 20.

Following a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge Robert A. Smallman held her to answer to the charge in superior court.

State narcotics agents arrested Miss Fouche on Oct. 13 and charged her with selling heroin on Sept. 28.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Kills Coastal Agency Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill creating the North Coast Planning Organization to deal with problems in environmental protection and law enforcement was vetoed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

In rejecting the measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, Reagan said the bill was unnecessary because what it seeks to accomplish can be done under the Joint Exercise of Powers Act.

Collier's bill would have allowed Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino Lake and Sonoma counties to join the organization, with the membership of at least three of them needed to put it into effect.

"If local governmental entities in the North Coast area wished to use their existing authority to accomplish what is intended by SB920, they could do so," Reagan said.

"But, it is a decision they should make, not one which should be imposed on them by the state."

However, the bill declared that the need for water and sewage facilities, law enforcement, transportation systems and environmental protection controls "present problems which cannot be adequately met by individual counties or cities."

UNCERTAINTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved two tax bills conforming California law to federal tax statutes and thereby raising $6.5 million in new revenue.

The bills, originally tied to an omnibus $370 million tax increase measure by Sent. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, face an uncertain future. Stiern's tax bill has been shelved by the Senate.

One bill by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, dealt with tax-exempt and charitable institutions and would bring in the $6.5 million. It was approved 65-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

The second, by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, would have a negligible net revenue effect, according to Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post. It was approved 56-2 and also returned to the Senate.

The bill concerned such areas as excess investment interest, moving expenses and corporate acquisitions.

NEWSMEN WIN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan legislation prohibiting a newsman from being held in contempt of court for refusing to identify the sources of information gathered but not used. Casting a 'yes' vote was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Newsmen currently cannot be held in contempt for refusing to divulge the source of information which is published or broadcast. The bill would extend that privilege to unused information.

It also allows a person no longer employed by a news-gathering organization to refuse to identify the source of information gathered while he was a newsman.

NOISE STANDARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved legislation to prohibit the sale of excessively noisy machinery ranging from piledrivers to lawnmowers.

The bill by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, passed yesterday on a 43-18 vote and was returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

Under the measure, the state Public Health Department would be required to establish noise standards for machinery, equipment and household appliances.

Manufacturers would be required to "certify" that their products meet the standards before they could be sold. If spot checks by the department found appliances which violated the standards, they would be required to be withdrawn from the market.

STUDY FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved a proposal to spend an unspecified amount of public money for a study on how to improve the legislature's efficiency.

The study would include a contract with private consultants, including the former top aide to ex-Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, according to Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz.

"It's a bum deal because we don't know how much it is going to cost," Murphy said.

Murphy challenged why outside consultants should be hired when the legislature already has a well-equipped, full-time staff.

"We've got so much staff around that the building has kind of shrunk," Murphy said.

The Republican whip identified the private consultants as Phil Schott, the former Unruh aide, and Jud Clark, a magazine publisher who once was a legislative employe.

PARKS LAW

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to preserve public parks in California was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure requires any governmental body or public utility which takes park land for other purposes to pay replacement costs. The money would be used to develop a park of comparable size in the same general area.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, the bill's author, said it would assure "that existing parks are not removed, even for worthwhile public facilities, unless another park of comparable size is provided in the same community."

PARKS BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has passed a bill establishing a state "wilderness" concept in California for the first time and barring high rise buildings from state parks.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was returned to the Senate yesterday on a 53-10 vote for concurrence in minor Assembly amendments.

Beilenson said current law is so vaguely worded that it could be interpreted to permit construction of major buildings in state parks.

AIRING RIGHT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill empowering the Fair Employment Practices Commission to initiate complaints reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

It received final legislative approval Tuesday on a 41-27 vote by the Assembly, the bare majority needed for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Supporters said the bill by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, would permit an employee who feared for his job to request secretly that the commission investigate and file complaints if it finds them warranted.

Opponents had contended that it would lead to harrassment of employers and encourage FEPC staff members "to go out and drum up business on a slow day."

TEETH CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved legislation setting up a voluntary program for fluoridating the teeth of public school children.

On a 45-12 vote, the measure by Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, was returned to the Senate yesterday for concurrence in amendments.

Way's bill, which has the support of the California Dental Association, was opposed by Assemblyman James W. Dent, R-Concord, who said it "imposes an additional chore on school districts not related to instruction."

TEAR GAS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill allowing licensed private detectives and security patrolmen to use tear gas weapons was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto, would restrict the use of such weapons to "defensive purposes."

Private investigators, private patrol operators and employes of private patrols would be allowed to use the tear gas weapons only after they had satisfactorily completed a state-approved course in tear gas instruction.

VETO POWER

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The voters will decide whether the Senate should have veto power over gubernatorial appointments to the University of California Board of Regents under legislation approved by the Assembly.

Reversing itself, the Assembly Tuesday approved on a 54-14 vote a proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, so empowering the Senate.

The proposed amendment will be submitted to the voters in the November 1972 election. If approved, persons appointed to the regents would have to be confirmed by 21 members of the 40-member Senate. Currently, regental appointees are excluded from confirmation.

Noise In The Cities Makes For Bad Vibes

DAVIS — The whirring of machinery in factories, the pounding of a jackhammer on the sidewalk, the sound of sirens and screechings wheels on streets merge in a symphonic collage of hostile vibrations ringing in the cars of the contemporary city dweller.

Noise — defined as unwanted sound — has become so much a part of our life that many of us are not aware of it at a conscious level.

Nevertheless, these unwanted sounds may have a deleterious effect not only on our hearing, but on other bodily functions as well, according to Dr. Kenneth Henry of the University of California, Davis, psychology department.

Henry has done extensive research testing the physiological effect of noise on mice, creatures with a hearing mechanism closely resembling that of man.

Some of his findings have been quite graphic — and frightening.

For instance, he has found that by "acoustic priming" — conditioning the mouse to a certain sound, say a doorbell, shortly after birth — the animal will convulse and die when the same sound is repeated days or weeks later.

"We know that loud noise can ultimately lead to deafness in humans," Henry observes, "But what we're looking for now is what other physiological effects it has.

"We of course, don't maintain that the sound of a doorbell can kill human beings. But we do think that sound can bring about changes in the human body chemistry which can lead to increased irritability, and perhaps other dangerous side effects.

"The 'acoustic priming' technique can be used to induce fatal seizures in larger mammals, such as cats, which have been fed large, but not fatal, doses of aspirin or tranquilizers.

"We feel that somehow the sound mixes with the changes in body chemistry brought on by the drugs to bring about death in these test animals.

"The brain acts as a selective system to screen out many sounds so that the individual is not consciously aware of them but they still have an effect on the body."

It will be awhile before research in loud sounds is performed on human beings, but in view of the increase in noise pollution, the need for further study in this field is loud and clear.

Heart Switch Patient Is Dead

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— An award-winning writer who received a heart transplant at Stanford University Medical Center nearly three years ago has died.

Sasha Gilien, 46, was Stanford's second longest surviving heart transplant patient. He died of a heart attack Monday night at his Santa Cruz home, the medical center announced Tuesday.

Gilien coauthored "The Begatting of a President" which sold 200,000 copies and was released on a record narrated by Orson Welles. He recently was honored by the annual writer's award banquet in Los Angeles for a television episode he wrote for "Hawaii Five-O".

Advice For Fight Against Pollution

NEW YORK (UPI) —Mrs. Howard Cromwell, of Lafayette, Ind., representing the League of Woman Voters, told the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association about the best antipollution action by individuals.

She said it would be to "be aware of community and neighborhood solutions to environmental problems, become the catalyst to do something about them, and then zero in on one specific issue."

Guilty Plea Made To Beating Officer

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — John Turner, 25, of Mill Valley, has pleaded guilty to a felony count of battery on a police officer, stemming from a free-for-all at a pretrial hearing for the Soledad Brothers last spring.

Two additional counts of the same offense were dismissed at the request of the district attorney's office when Turner entered the guilty plea Mnday as he was due to go on trial in superior court.

He is to be sentenced Jan. 4.

Turner was arrested April 6 in a courtroom brawl in the Hall of Justice where George Jackson, Fleeta Drumgo and John Clutchette were appearing. Jackson was killed in an Aug. 21 uprising at San Quentin Prison.

Panel Talk's Date Is Given

The date of a panel discussion on "Youth: Law and Justice in Marin," to be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, was inadvertently omitted from a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The panel, open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Speakers will be Erick F. Yarchin, supervisor of Marin Juvenile Hall; Deputy Public Defender Joseph Watt and Robert B. McCreadie, a Novato attorney who often handles juvenile cases.

Don Timoteo School Robbed On Weekend

An electric heater, tape recorder and a small quantity of educational materials were taken in a burglary of a trailer at Don Timoteo School, 37 Trellis Drive, during the four-day Thanksgiving weekend; San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Value of the stolen goods was about $70, police said.

CHANNEL CHUCKLES

"Some woman just walked in with a common cold."

Marinite Is Being Held For Yreka

A Marin man, arrested Monday night at his home by sheriff's deputies, was to be taken to Siskiyou County where a warrant was issued when he failed to show up for a trial in superior court on drug charges.

Held in lieu of $12,500 bail was Michael Bruce Millar, 20, of 506 Pixie Trail, Homestead Valley.

Authorities in Yreka said Millar was arrested there last June 7 and charged with possessing pot. He was due to go to trial Nov. 22 but did not appear.

After his nonappearance, the Siskiyou County district attorney filed a charge of willfully failing to appear in court. Additional drug charges of having possessed barbituates, mescaline and cocaine at the time of his arrest also were added after the substances found were analyzed.

Authorities said he had small amounts of the drugs with him when arrested.

Stanford Plans Fund Campaign

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University trustees plan a massive campaign to raise $260 million over the next five years, largest fund-raising program in the university's history.

The aim of the campaign is to maintain Stanford's reputation for learning and research. The university has been running on an operating deficit since 1969, according to sources, despite tuition hikes now reaching $2,600 annually. with living costs, the average academic student now must pay an estimated $4,500 annually.

Stanford officials believe they no longer can raise tuition without forcing lower income students out.

SPORT NOTES

Bright Hopes For Water Ski Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo has plans for a water ski tournament in Marin County that would be the biggest and richest event in the sport's history.

Jaap, whose son Mike happens to be the water ski champion of the world, is putting together plans for a $30,000 California International Cup tournament at Bahia development just east of Novato. If all goes well with final arrangements, $20,000 will go for prize money, the first time the skiers would be getting more than trophies and expenses paid. Tournament costs would take the other $10,000.

Suyderhoud, who has been tournament chairman of the first two California Cup events, held at Berkeley's Aquatic Park, said he already has approval from the Hoffman Co., developers of the multi-million dollar Bahia layout, to put on the event at the lagoon there Sept. 16-17 of 1972. Next will come talks with a bank in Los Angeles. Jaap's keeping his fingers crossed.

FOR THOSE of you new to the sport of world class water skiing, it will get plenty of television coverage Saturday at 4:30 p.m. on ABC's Wide World of Sports. The telecast will cover the World Water Ski tournament held a couple of months ago at Banolas, Spain. Mike Suyderhoud was a double winner at this tourney, winning the slalom and jumping world championships. He jumped 159 feet, six feet short of his world record leap from the floating ramp. It should be quite a telecast. At least Mike will be seen doing a better job on skis than in those Wheaties commercials.

IF THE 49ERS and Raiders each win their divisions, it's going to a heck of a busy Christmas weekend around the Bay Area. The schedule calls for the National Football Conference Western Division champs — hopefully the 49ers — to host the best second-place finisher in the playoff opener on the weekend of Dec. 25-26.

The schedule also calls for the American Football Conference Western Division champs — hopefully the Raiders — to host the champs of the East on the same weekend. The actual day won't be set until the championships are determined, so don't make plans to go too far for Christmas, you season ticket holders.

THE GOOD GUY award for the week goes to Dave Suloff, a member of the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers. He was a repeat winner of a 49er autographed football in a drawing at last Monday's luncheon meeting.

"I've already won one," said he. "Give someone else a chance." So Ernie Boegershausen ended up winning the ball, and Suloff won the applause.

BILL LEE, a product of Terra Linda High School, was voted the Red Sox' best reliever by the Boston sports writers recently. Lee won nine games and lost two and was 8-1 out of the bullpen. I think the champ Baltimore Orioles would agree with the scribes, as Lee, in facing the Orioles twice last season, was fantastic. On Aug. 2, he pitched 8⅓ innings and gave up two hits, no runs, struck out six and won the game, 9-2. Then on Sept. 1, he pitched up 3⅓ innings, gave up four hits, no runs, and struck out 3. That's 11⅔ shutout innings against some pretty mean bats.

BOB SEARS, former prepster at Novato and now a gridder at Sonoma State College, was named to the All-Far West Conference second team as a defensive back. Sears intercepted three passes for 78 yards returned.

A little further from home, Tim Nissen of San Rafael, a tackle at Claremont Men's College, was named to the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference second team.

Marinaro, Allen Top East Shrine Lineup

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two of the nation's top collegiate running backs —Ed Marinaro of Cornell and Eric Allen of Michigan State, have been named to head the East team for the 47th annual Shrine East-West football game Dec. 31 at Candlestick Park.

Marinaro, who finished second to Auburn's Pat Sullivan in the Heisman Trophy balloting, rushed for 1,881 yards to set a NCAA record. Allen grabbed all the headlines in the Big 10 as he led the league with 18 touchdowns and rushed for a new Big 10 record of 1,494 yards in 1971.

Named at quarterback were Florida's John Reaves, who set a NCAA career passing record of 7,549 yards and threw 17 TD passes this season, and Minnesota's Craig Curry, who completed 118 passes for 1,691 yards in his senior season.

Reaves and Florida teammate Mike Rich, a fullback, are the first players from their school ever named to a Shrine East squad.

As passing targets for the two quarterbacks, Shrine officials selected receivers Jerome Barkum of Jackson (Miss.) State, Mike Siani of Villanova and John Makin of Clemson.

On defense, the East front four will be anchored by Ronnie Estay of Louisiana State, Ron Curl of Michigan State, Fred Swedsen of Notre Dame and Will Hemby of Northwestern.

Two other Louisiana State players were named to the defensive unit —linebacker Lloyd Frye and safety Tommy Casanova.

Other linebackers named were Bill Light of Minnesota and Jack Derning of Northwestern. Joining Casanova in the secondary will by Dick Harris of South Carolina, Ralph Stepaniak of Notre Dame and Harry Howard of Ohio State.

Murray Warmath of Minnesota heads the East coaching staff. He will be assisted by Alex Agase of Northwestern and Charles McLendon of Louisiana State.

EAST OFFENSE

E — Mike Siani, Villanova; Jerome Barkum, Jackson State; John McMakin, Clemson. T — Lionel Antoine, Southern Illinois; Dick Simon, Ohio State. G — Bart Buetow, Minnesota; Tom Luken, Purdue; Jim Osborne, Southern. C — John Hill, Lehigh; Robert Kuziel, Pittsburgh. QB — Craig Curry, Minnesota; John Reaves, Florida. RB — Ed Marinaro, Cornell; Eric Allen, Michigan State; Mike Rich, Florida. K — Chester Marcol, Hillsdale.

EAST DEFENSE

E — Will Hemby, Northwestern; Fred Swendsen, Notre Dame. T — Ronnie Estay, LSU; Ron Curl, Michigan State. LB — Bill Light, Minnesota; Jack Derning, Northwestern; Lloyd Frye, LSU; Ed Bradley, Wake Forest. DB — Tom Myers, Syracuse; Dick Harris, South Carolina; Tommy Casanova, LSU; Ralph Stepaniak, Notre Dame; Harry Howard, Ohio State.

Prep Cagers Win Four Of Four

By LEW CODDINGTON

Good gamblers and good basketball teams always have an ace in the hole, and Redwood High School Giants proved no exception to this rule last night. They pulled some slick maneuvers under the basket just in the nick of time and eked out a 61-55 victory over tough Santa Rosa.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Terra Linda mashed Rancho Cotate, 70-57, in a game that was nowhere near as close as the score indicated; Novato overpowered Hogan of Vallejo, 70-51; and Drake held on to edge Analy of Sebastopol, 50-47. Both Novato and Drake won for the first time this year.

San Rafael's game with Washington of San Francisco was called off due to a scheduling mixup. The visitors thought the game was slated for Dec. 1 and scheduled another clash for yesterday. The game was to be played today at San Rafael.

Redwood (2-0) was denied access to short-range shots by Santa Rosa during most of the game, and the teams were tied at 53 with about two minutes left. Then the Giants unveiled their tricks.

First Steve McGee snatched a rebound and sank a layup. Then Tim Hennessy passed to Darrell Elder for a layup. Later McGee made a clever pass off a drive to set up another Elder layup. Suddenly it was 59-55 with 1:11 left, and Redwood consumed most of the rest of the clock with a five-man stall.

Hennessy played a fine game, adding two free throws later for a 22-point total before fouling out. He contributed some timely rebounds as well.

"Our foul shooting kept us in the game," said coach Dick Hart. The Giants made 19 of 24 from the line compared to 13 of 23 for Santa Rosa. The free throws were especially significant in the first quarter, when Redwood couldn't buy a field goal.

Redwood guard Mike Connor came up with a fine individual effort to get the Giants untracked after Santa Rosa grabbed a 17-10 lead in the first period. He scored six straight points to put Redwood ahead, 23-18.

Santa Rosa replied with the deadly outside shooting of the Allen brothers. Tom finished with 20 and Chris with 19. The game turned into a seesaw affair in the second quarter and stayed that way until the final moments.

"We made 25 turnovers," said Hart, wincing slightly. Most of them came on bad passes, particularly bounce passes into congested areas. "Their press was a problem for us."

Connor finished with 12 points, while Elder had 10, McGee nine and guard Sam Farb 8.

Terra Linda's game against Rancho Cotate was a puzzler. After feeling out the visitors in the first quarter, the Trojans (2-1) blew them out of the gym with a 44-14 spree. Unfortunately for the script, Rancho returned and went on a 34-11 binge against the reserves to make the score respectable.

Several Trojans looked good in limited action, as coach Bob Corley used all 13 players, 11 of whom scored. Guard Eric Borcherding was sharp early

Marin Quint Has An Easy Time In 86-68 Triumph

Third Win In A Row For Tars

By RON LENT

"We were flat. We didn't come to play. We just weren't running."

This sounds like a losing cage coach offering an autopsy after his team was flattened, but it wasn't; it was merely coach John Panagakis' thoughts after his College of Marin Tars stormed past a visiting Stanislaus State junior varsity, 86-68 last night.

The invading Warriors of Turlock simply had too many Joes to contend with, namely Joe Smith and Joe DeMaestri; this high-scoring guard tandem accounted for 32 points garnered from the Black and Gold's fast break attack.

Smith, a shooting sensation, buried 17 on an assortment of jumpers and acrobatic layups. His back court mate, DeMaestri, came off the bench to spark Marin's surge in the waning first-half moments.

"We ran well during those final five minutes of the opening half," Panagakis recalled, "but before that, we were just flat."

When DeMaestri came on, so did the Tars. He promplty pilfered a trio of errant Warrior passes, turning two into easy layups, while amassing 13 of his 15 points in the first half.

The Tars, undefeated after three games, led from the outset, but the gritty Warriors stayed within striking distance. The Tars clung to an eight-point lead before center Roosevelt Green tapped in a misguided shot, upping the margin to 33-23.

DeMaestri then sandwiched two baskets around a Warrior bucket, making the count 37-25.

Former Terra Linda High standout Pat Purcell contributed one of his three corner shots before Smith ripped through two baskets, a foul line jumper and then a layup off a steal.

Another Terra Lindan, Joe Casteel, tossed in a layup to bolster the bulge to 19 at 45-26. Smith and Green, two transplanted San Franciscans, added a basket apiece in the final 30 seconds to climax the belated first half explosion at 49-28.

After this overwhelming assault, Marin coasted. The Tars increased the point differential to 29 on the heels of Ed Herrnberger's final-period splurge. The Novato graduate turned in four straight buckets to widen the gap to 68-39.

The remaining 10-plus minutes belonged to the substitutes.

Though the issue was long since decided, several Marin reserves, particularly Ken Blasingame, acquitted themselves admirably.

For example, the ever-hustling Blasingame claimed a couple of baskets and dominated both backboards during his brief stint.

Blasingame and his mates will get another chance to show their skills when facing the University of Nevada freshmen in Reno Friday, 8 p.m.

Individual scoring:

Stanislaus State — Van Over 2-8-12; Moss 1-1-3; Wright 4-3-11; Trail 1-2-4; Roberts 4-5-13; Williams 3-4-10; Blahnik 4-4-12; Baldasseroni 1-1-3. Totals — 20-28-68.

Marin — Castee! 1-1-3; Herrnberger 4-4-12; Traub 1-2-4; Smith 6-5-17; Flynn 0-1-1; DeMaestri 7-1-15; Purcell 3-0-6; Green 4-0-8; Groshong 3-2-8; Blasingame 2-0-4; Small 2-4-8. Totals — 33-20-86.

'Misinterpreted,' Says Pistol Pete

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks' Pete Maravich says there is no truth to a newspaper report that he is so weak from a two-month bout with mononucleosis that he might not finish out the season.

Maravich said the Atlanta Journal misinterpreted his statements, which he said were made during a moment of depression after the reeling Hawks lost to Boston last Sunday. He was quoted as saying, "I'm just so weak after a game, I don't know what to do. I can't seem to go on."

Hawks coach Richie Guerin said there was "no substance whatsoever" to the newspaper report. He said Maravich is going to play out the year and has no plans to visit a doctor. The Journal said the star guard planned to see a doctor to check for possible pleurisy Thursday when the team returns home.

Maravich, who has been below par in scoring in the seven games he has played since returning to the lineup, scored eight points Tuesday night as the Hawks dropped their sixth straight, 86-85, to the Chicago Bulls. He played 35 of the 48 minutes in the game.

Maravich said he had every intention of playing out the season and that team doctors have said it was just a matter of him getting in shape.

He said a statement in the Journal that he would "never be back, at least not this year," referred only to playing up to his full capabilities and reaching a playing weight of 200 pounds.

Severe Test Ahead For Battered 49er Secondary

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)--The San Francisco 49ers battered defensive secondary has another severe test facing it Monday night—the Kansas City Chiefs.

The defensive back situation could be crucial for 49er coach Dick Nolan, who faces a possibility of winding up with three backs for four defensive positions if three starters are knocked out of the game.

Even with the starters in the game, the 49ers aren't at full speed.

All-pro corner back Jim Johnson has played the last two games with a cast on his fractured right wrist, and playing hasn't helped the injury to heal.

If Johnson is able to go Monday night, he'll be facing the Chiefs' Otis Taylor, one of the league's top receivers.

Strong safety Mel Phillips has been hobbled for several weeks with a sore ankle. If he plays, he must contend with Chiefs' tight end Morris Stroud, 6-10.

Strong safety Roosevelt Taylor is recovering from a shoulder injury, and corner back Bruce Taylor has a severe shoulder bruise.

Nolan's only defensive secondary reserves are Johnny Fuller and Mike Simpson, both of whom have seen heavy action in recent weeks.

Nolan has thought about the possibility of three of his starters getting knocked out of action against the Chiefs. What would he do?

"I'd use linebacker Jim Sniadecki and play a four linebacker, three-man secondary zone," Nolan said.

Meeting Planned In Terra Linda

The Terra Linda Athletic Association will meet next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Terra Linda recreation Center to discuss the youth baseball program.

Plans for the newly organized girls' softball league will be announced, and any other pertinent topics will be discussed. For information about the meeting, contact club president Jean Lacoste of 740 Bamboo Terrace, San Rafael.

106-103 TRIUMPH

Warriors Earn Role Of David

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors have earned the role of David in the National Basketball Association.

Twice this season the Warriors have knocked off Goliath — the Milwaukee Bucks.

The second time came Tuesday night as Cazzie Russell sank a free throw with 10 seconds left and Jim Barnett tossed in a long jumper at the buzzer to give Golden State a 106-103 victory.

The Bucks, leaders in the NBA Midwest division, had only lost three games in 24 before Tuesday night, one of them to the Warriors two weeks ago in Oakland.

It was only the fourth loss in their last 56 games at home for the Bucks, and the first time they have dropped a home contest since last January.

Both teams played without a super star Tuesday night. The Bucks were missing guard and playmaker Oscar Robertson, who was out with the flu. The Warriors were without center Nate Thurmond, who is usually counted on to hold down Bucks' center Kareem Jabbar. Thurmond is out with a severely cut hand.

But the Warriors' Clyde Lee, filling in for Thurmond, did a commendable job on Jabbar even though the Milwaukee pivot man led his team with 30 points.

The Warriors came out running in the third quarter after a 53-53 halftime tie and built an 88-79 lead early in the fourth period. But the Bucks came back and tied it at 92.

The game was tied again at 99 when Joe Ellis hit on two long jumpers to give the Warriors a 103-99 edge. Jon McGlocklin pulled the Bucks to within two. But Russell hit his free throw, and Bob Dandridge got a bucket with two seconds left to move Milwaukee to 104-103 just before Barnett's final shot.

Ellis led the Warriors with 25 points, followed by Jeff Mullins with 24, Russell, 24, and Lee, 20.

The Warriors get a short rest in the current road trip before playing Friday night at Portland. They return to the Oakland Coliseum arena Saturday night against Phoenix.

Seals Lose; North Stars Next Foes

MINNESOTA (UPI) —The California Golden Seals, still holding on to third place iin the National Hockey League West division, face the Minnesota North Stars, leaders in the West, tonight as they continue their short road trip.

The Seals fell to the St. Louis Blues, 5-2, Tuesday night, but hung on to a one-point advantage for the third spot over Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, which all have 18 points.

Garry Unger scored one goal and had two assists Tuesday night in the Blues' victory.

Both California goals were on screen shots within 62 seconds of the first period. Ivan Boldirev scored on a hard 20-foot shot on a power play, and Gary Croteau sliced a booming shot pase Blues' goaltender Jim McLeod's short side.

After the contest with Minnesota, the Seals return home to host Chicago Friday night, but leave again Sunday on another road trip.

SEASON STARTS

Low Turnouts In Wrestling

By LEW CODDINGTON

Wrestling season is here, but its arrival was so stealthy that a lot of people didn't notice, even at the respective schools.

Five of the seven Marin County Athletic League coaches reported disappointingly low turnouts for the season, which opens today and tomorrow with six teams seeing non-league action.

Today, Redwood entertained Del Valle of Walnut Creek and Novato journeyed to Vallejo to meet Hogan. Tomorrow, Tamalpais visits Fremont, San Marin treks to Petaluma, San Rafael hosts De Anza of Richmond and Terra Linda entertains Kennedy of Fremont.

Drake will have a team for the first time this year. Imants Abers, who started the soccer team from scratch four years ago and guided it to a league title this year, will coach the matmen.

Although disappointed by the turnout of only 17, Abers will press ahead with plans to build a future contender. "We have a lot of freshmen, which is encouraging," he said.

Terra Linda and San Rafael are expected to duel for the league championship, with Redwood rated as a possible spoiler. Terra Linda's Trojans were unbeaten in league matches last year at 5-0, but San Rafael matmen turned in better performances in the MCAL meet.

The Trojans appear to be strong up and down the line with many topflight performers returning. Brian Jordan is the incumbent 175-pound champion and will wrestle at the same weight this year.

Also back are Mark Egide at 103, Mike Weinstein and Augie Venezia at 112 or 120, Reggie Grant at 127, Keith Ratio at 138, Mike Corwin at 165 and Ron Losk at 191. Ratio's crucial victory in the head-to-head match with San Rafael last year was the key to the Trojans' championship season.

"We hope to be strong, although we must replace key personnel," said coach Bob Hetherington. Terra Linda was the only school to have a large turnout, with 40 or 45 prospective matmen showing up, and this is bad news for other MCAL teams.

San Rafael returns some fine individuals, but lacks depth.

David Hughes is back to wrestle at 145 pounds after starring at 138 last year before injuring his elbow. "Hughes is the best wrestler in the league," said coach Larry Lack. "He won the MCAL as a sophomore and is very dedicated." Hughes went 24-2 last year.

Rich Murphy was third in the league last year at 127 and has moved up to 133. "He's very fast and strong," said Lack. "He's bothered by an eye injury now — seven stitches — but he'll be tough when he recovers."

Wolf Kristensen won the league at 145 and now wrestles at 154, and Dirk Correnti will remain in the 191 class he won a year ago.

"But that's it, coach," said Lack. Only a few promising former junior varsity wrestlers stand between San Rafael and oblivion. A mere 25 people came out for wrestling this year, and Lack finds it hard to conceal his disappointment after previous turnouts in the 40s.

Redwood finished third last year at 3-2 and returns two champions. Ellard Roush won at 175 and now steps up to 191 to give Correnti a run for his honors. Dan Young was the top heavyweight.

Other promising Redwood matmen include Don Littmann at 103 pounds, Steve MacRae at 133 and Peder Pedersen at 138. MacRae and Pedersen were on the junior varsity last year. Massoud Farah, a 120-pound Persian who transferred from Michigan, also looks promising.

"We are thin in the lower weight classes, but we'll be a good club," said coach Wes Price.

Novato returns an exceptional individual, Alan Brazell, who will step up to 120 after a triumphant season at 112. Brazell was undefeated in both league and non-league matches and waited until the North Coast Sectionals before suffering a loss. He finished third there.

Otherwise, the Hornets are in trouble. "We don't have a 191-pounder of a heavyweight," said coach Ralph Cutler. "A forefeit costs you six points this season, so that's 12 points against us right there." Only 26 students tried out for the team.

Other promising Novato matmen are Dave Hutton, an improved senior who will go at 120 or 127, and Bob Christman, a 133-pounder transfer from Oregon.

Tamalpais has a new coach, Dennis Untermann, and a new outlook to go with it. "We are very green," he said, "but we should do better and better as the weeks go along." Untermann was assistant mat coach at San Francisco State last year while a student.

Jerry Ford, who starred at 112 last year, returns to go at 120 or 127. Ford has won the league at his weight two years in a row. Alvin Price, a 154-pounder, was third in the MCAL a year ago, as was Greg Ford at 95. Some promising youngsters include Bob Morrison at 165 and Craig Marshall at 191.

Tam's turnout was only 24, but that's more than last year, and Untermann is pleased. "About a third are freshmen," he said, "Interest is building."

San Marin will be "young and inexperienced, but with a lot of drive," in the words of coach Bill Graves. Two Mustang matmen merit particular scrutiny. Pete Mumma, a top unlimited, added 20 pounds to his frame and will wrestle at 232, which is not good news for Redwood's heavyweight Dan Young.

Dave Jensvold is a most unusual 98-pounder. A junior, he will be older and more experienced than most of his foes. He gave a fine account of himself last year while actually weighing only about 85 pounds, and the added weight should make him a wrestler to be reckoned with.

Three other lettermen are back — Brian Saling at 145, Steve Fowler at 165 and Lynn Cason at 191. San Marin suffers from the same problem most every body else does — only 20 wrestlers tried out.

Drake has exactly zero experienced wrestlers — and by "experience," Abers means anybody who has been on a mat before. Five weights will be unfilled for the first-year team.

Abers was reluctant to name any prospective stars, but coaxing brought forth the name of Corky Ingram, a 165-pounder.

Water Polo: Terra Linda In Key Win

Terra Linda High School played a tight defensive game against usually high-scoring Redwood to win an important early-season water polo game at Redwood yesterday afternoon, 12-6.

In other Marin County Athletic League action, San Rafael whipped San Marin, 12-4, and Novato edged Drake, 10-6. Tamalpais drew a bye.

"I thought at the start of the year that Novato, San Rafael and Redwood would be our strongest opponents," said Terra Linda coach Charles Metz. "Now we have beaten all three." The Trojans are 3-0 in league play, with 19 straight league wins over two seasons.

John Fearn and Ted Gazulis scored four goals each for Terra Linda to overcome a four-goal effort by Redwood's John Guepp, but Metz was happiest about his team's defensive play.

"They (Redwood) usually score well in that small pool," he said. "I thought Keith Strange and Gazulis did fine work on defense. Ted stole the ball 12 times, easily the season high for us. Bert Johansson had 18 saves in goal."

San Rafael's Scott Dicker scored six goals against San Marin, while Gary Walraven added four and Mike Kamler two. "We're improving," said coach Bill Ranney.

Friday's schedule finds Tamalpais at Novato, Redwood at San Rafael and San Marin at Terra Linda. Drake gets the bye.

The standings:
Terra Linda 3-0, San Rafael 2-1, Novato 1-1, Redwood 1-1, Tamalpais 1-1, San Marin 1-2, Drake 0-3.

Seattle Rallies To Edge Knicks

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The Seattle Super Sonics ended the New York Knicks' seven-game winning skein in unbelievable fashion.

New York, gunning for a first place tie with Boston in the Atlantic Division of the National Basketball Association, thought it had the mission accomplished Tuesday night when the Knicks grabbed a 26-point lead over Seattle early in the third period.

The SuperSonics, however, took a script right out of Mission Impossible and rallied for a 110-109 victory.

The blowing of a big lead is something new for the surging Knicks, who have been playing the last dozen games without injured Willis Reed. They have been on the other end of the stick, however. On Nov. 16, New York trailed Phoenix by 19 points in the fourth quarter and came back to win.

"You get too complacent, sometimes," shrugged Dave DeBusschere, who led New York with 29 points, but suddenly found he couldn't contain Spencer Haywood in the second half.

New York was in front, 65-43, at halftime and built the lead to 76-50 early in the third period when the Knicks abruptly turned cold. Haywood, outmuscled by DeBusschere in the first 28 minutes of the game, began stepping back and pumping shots over the Big D.

Haywood scored 14 points in the final period, including a soft jumper from the key with 42 seconds remaining to break a 107 tie. Lennie Wilkens followed with a foul shot to give the Sonics a run of 10 straight points that put them in front by three after they roared back from a 107-100 deficit.

In other games, Golden State edged Milwaukee 106-103; Chicago nipped Atlanta, 86-85; Cincinnati stopped Baltimore 118-103; Houston defeated Buffalo, 115-101, and Phoenix spoiled Geoff Petrie's season debut by downing Portland, 121-111 in overtime.

Chicago moved within four games of first place Milwaukee in the Midwest Division by beating Atlanta. Tom Boerwinkle's two free throws broke an 83 -83 tie, but Lou Hudson's basket moved the Hawks to within 86-85 with 1:28 left. There was no scoring the rest of the way. Bob Love led Chicago with 22 points, Hudson had a game-high 30.

Nate Williams scored 29 points and Nate Archibald added 28 as Cincinnati closed to within a half game of first place. Baltimore in the Central Division. Jack Marin paced the Bullets with 20 points.

Stu Lantz and Calvin Murphy each tallied 18 points for Houston in the rout of Buffalo. The Braves, guilty of 23 turnovers, were led by interim coach Walt Hazzard's 26 points. Buffalo coach John McCarthy was hospitalized Tuesday with an intestinal obstruction.

Rookie Dennis Layton, who missed a 15-foot jumper with two seconds remaining in regulation time, made amends for it by scoring seven points in slightly over a minute of overtime as the Suns handed Portland its sixth straight defeat and 15th in the last 16 games.

Petrie, a co-rookie of the year last season, underwent knee surgery nine weeks ago. He scored 11 points in 27 minutes of play but showed his rust with a 4-of-15 performance from the floor.

CONGRESSMEN APPEAL

Bring Back Baseball

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—A delegation of Washington, D.C. officials, headed by five Congressmen, told major league baseball today it "must" put another team in the nation's capital to replace the departed Washington Senators by the start of the 1973 season.

"We impressed upon them the necessity of returning baseball to Washington and we left it up to them how to do it," said Rep. B. F. Sisk (D-Calif.). The team was switched to Dallas-Fortworth at the end of the 1971 season.

The delegation, which said its bid to the top officials of the game was received in a "friendly manner," arrived in Phoenix late last night and was closeted with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and other baseball officials until 1:30 a.m. (MST).

The delegation was scheduled to make a formal presentation of Washington's effort to return to the big leagues during the Wednesday sessions of baseball's winter meetings in progress here.

"There are three ways by which a new team could be found for Washington," said Rep. Frank Horton (R-NY). "The first would be through expansion of the major leagues; the second would be for a present big league owner to move a currently existing team to Washington. The third would be for a group in Washington to purchase a team and move it.

"We told them we are prepared to do it anyone of those three ways," Horton said. "We left it up to them how they will do it."

Spokesmen for the group which also included Washington mayor, Walter Washington, said the group "impressed on the baseball people that this must be done, that the majority of the Congress insists that it be done."

The delegation was asked whether its insistence that the return of baseball to Washington "must" be accomplished was accompanied by any threat of Congressional action, such as a review of baseball's status under the anti-trust laws.

"We did not go into that," Sisk said. "We simply indicated what had to be done."

Included in the group was John H. Kaufmann, president of the Washington Evening Star newspaper which owns WMAL-TV and he also represented station WTOP-TV, which is the Washington Post-owned station. Short had complained that one of his problems was an inability to obtain a good TV contract in Washington. Kaufmann was asked whether the Washington stations now are prepared to offer a new club a better TV contract than the Senators had.

"Not necessarily," Kaufmann replied. "The contract would have to be viable from our point of view. It can't be a complete giveaway."

The Washington delegation travelled here in a 10-passenger chartered plane, the four Congressmen in the group paying their own way. The other Congressmen were Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va.) and Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.).

The baseball meetings switched over to the major league phase today with several player trades pending.

The Atlanta Braves and Texas Rangers were involved in a discussion of a possible deal which would bring controversial pitcher Denny McLain to the Braves. The California Angels were offering six-time All Star shortstop Jim Fregosi to severa clubs interested in him either for short or third base.

Fregosi bacame available for trading when the Angels obtained shortstop Leo Cardenas from Minnesota for lefthanded relief pitcher Dave LaRoche in the only deal announced on Tuesday.

Coast Cage Teams Tip Off New Season

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Houston, ranked sixth in the United Press International preseason ratings, invades Stanford while USC, holding down the third spot in the UPI listings, plays at Arizona State tonight as the West Coast college basketball season gets underway.

Defending NCAA champion UCLA, which was picked by the UPI Board of Coaches to win still another national title, waits until Friday to open its season at home against The Citadel.

Other Pacific-8 Conference schools in action tonight are Oregon, which hosts Montana; Oregon State, which travels to Hawaii to play a service team; Washington State, which plays at Gonzaga; and Washington, opening at home against Portland University.

Houston moves over to Berkeley Thursday night to meet California in the Bears' season-opener.

Santa Clara, a co-favorite along with Nevada-Las Vegas to win the West Coast Athletic Conference opens tonight at home against UC-Davis.

University of Pacific, led by all-star center John Gianelli and picked to fight it out with Long Beach State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, travels to Hayward State tonight.

In other games tonight, San Diego State is at Colorado, UC-Santa Barbara at Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo, Loyola at Utah and Nevada-Reno at Portland State. Fresno State hosts Corpus Christi, and St. Mary's opens at home against Sacramento State.

This outstanding wine is made from 100% Pinot Chardonnay grapes. We have tasted it against French Montrachet at at least two dollars more per bottle — the B.V. is better! The price for this exceptional wine is admittedly high, but the knowledgeable wine drinker will delight in its quality and not quarrel with the price.

Also, this lovely wine is a very prestigious gift item.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Soling Gets A Chance In the 1972 Olympics

"What's a Soling?" a reader asks, in extolling the virtues of sailing. He also wonders whether sailboats have caught up to power boats in popularity.

In answer to the last question, outboard-powered boats still outnumber sailing craft by about nine to one.

A Soling is a three-man keel sailboat that is in the news because it has been picked for competition in the 1972 Olympics. It's 26 feet, 9 inches overall and 20 feet at the waterline. It has a beam of 6-foot-3 and a draft of 4-foot-3. The sail area is 233 square feet plus a spinnaker.

The hull is fiber glass and the mast and spar of aluminum. It costs about $4,500, les sails. The designer is a European, J. H. Linge.

Although sailboats are still outnumbered, their popularity is increasing steadily every year and we get asked many questions about sailing.

Q. How can you recognize a sailboat at night by its lights?

A. From a position ahead of the sailboat it's easy. A boat under sail alone is not required to show a white light forward. If you can see a white light and a red or green navigation light, it's almost certain the boat is under power. For the full story on lights, send for the Coast Guard Boating Guide (booklet CG-340) with 45c to Supt. of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Q. If two sailboats are approaching each otheron different tacks, which has right of way?

A. The boat on the starboard tack (with the wind coming over its right or starboard side) has the right of way. The boat with the wind on its left or port side has to give way.

Q. What is the whistle signal to give if you intend to pass a boat ahead on his right side?

A. One blast. It says: "I am altering my course to starboard (right)" and that you intend to overtake and leave the boat on your left or port side.

Q. Is it the law that you must keep your hands on the tiller or steering wheel at all times?

A. No. The law doesn't say this. However, if you get into an accident while you leave the tiller unattended, you might be charged with reckless or negligent operation. And it doesn't seem too hard to prove, now does it?

Q. Do the "Rules of the Road" apply on water, too?

A. The expression "Rules of the Road" doesn't mean a highway law or traffic regulation. It's a term common in the U. S. (and all other English language countries) and means the rules which apply to all vessels to avoid collisions. The simplest to remember is that when two vessels are approaching, each turns to the right. Please get a copy of the Coast Guard Boating Guide. It explains all.

Q. If a sailboat running downwind appraches another tacking upwind on a collision course, who gives way?

A. The boat running with the wind must give way. Because this rule was made back in the days of square riggers and was based on their capabilities, most boaters think the procedure should be reversed. Present day sailing rigs are much more maneuverable when beating against the wind. However, don't expect this anachronism to be changed overnight.

PREPS

and his replacement, Brian Wall, was just as good later. The other guard, sparkplug John Buckley, played his usual fiery game. Center Mark Lowey led the scoring with 14 points and was impressive otherwise.

"We got a lot of points off our fast break, and I'm sure we had a high shooting percentage," said Corley. "On the other hand, we didn't play as a unit when those other players (reserves) were in there. Their (Rancho's) press was effective and we didn't react to it."

Novato's Marty Moroski played only the first and third quarters but scored 23 points anyhow as the Hornets (1-2) led all the way against Hogan in Vallejo.

"He was very impressive," said coach Jim Carimica. "We used all 12 players and nobody played a full game. Willie Barnes does a fine job for us, especially for a sophomore, and Dan Del Rose also played well."

Barnes scored six points, Stan Conteseven, Dan Del Rose eight and Joe Robinson nine.

Drake (1-2) held an eight or nine-point lead most of the way against Analy in Sebastopol, but saw it melt to 47-45 with 1:30 remaining. Then Dave Wilkinson hit a free throw and John Channell added two more to clinch the victory for the improving Pirates.

Channel led all scorers with 20 points, hitting seven of 10 shots from the floor. Wilkinson added 10.

No Brooding Over Loss By Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Atlanta Falcons will be the first to know whether the Oakland Raiders can bounce back from a humiliating 37-14 loss to the Baltimore Colts.

"I've said before that you can't get all hepped up after a win," Oakland coach John Madden said Tuesday as he put the Raiders through a light drill in preparation for Sunday's game in Atlanta.

"Well, it's the same with a loss," Madden said. "We'll just have to start over and hope we can bounce back."

Veteran backup quarterback and place kicker George Blanda didn't try to explain the loss to Baltimore.

"It's in the past," he said. "I've forgotten about it already."

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, who played some against the Colts after recovering from a leg injury, expects to see more action against the Falcons and help put the Raiders back on the track of winning their fifth straight divisional title.

"We're not the type of team to brood over a loss like this," Keating said.

Smith Wins Pepsi Series

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stan Smith was named winner of the Pepsi Grand Prix of Tennis series Tuesday and earned $25,000 for taking the title. He picked up 10 points in the last event, the South American Open, for a total of 187.

Ilie Nastase of Romania finished second with 172 points and collects $17,000. Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., the 1970 Pepsi winner, was fifth with 98 points that was worth $10,500. Clark Graebner of New York had 79 points for seventh place and $8,500.

NEW YEAR'S SHOWDOWN

A Warning To Nebraska: 'Bear' Has His Hat Back

By DAVID MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — President Nixon probably has heard by now, but if he hasn't, he'll be pleased to learn that, yes, "Bear" Bryant did indeed get his hat back.

Bryant was advised, after his Alabama football team completed a perfect season with a 31-7 rout of previously unbeaten Auburn, that the president was trying to call him.

"I understand," the Crimson Tide coach said later, "that he was interested about my hat. Maybe I shouldn't let folks know I got it back. I might get another one given to me."

The hat in question is a soft, houndstooth similar to the ones the English huntsman often wears. It (actually there have been several) has become Bryant's sidelines symbol.

The Bear used to wear a baseball cap with a big "A" on the front. He still wears a cap like that at practice but he hasn't worn it at a game since underdog Florida State tied the Tide, 37-37, in the nationally televised 1967 opener.

Bear Bryant, like many another football coach, is a bit superstitious. So, when an Auburn fan grabbed his "houndstooth" after Saturday's game, Bryant was a bit upset.

"It's the principle of the thing," Bryant explained later. "If I keep losing those hats, it's going to break Mary Harmon (Bryant's wife) if she has to keep buying me new ones."

Bryant lost one of his "houndstooth" hats after Alabama's game with Mississippi State in Jackson a month ago. That one, he hasn't seen since.

But he had better luck Saturday. One of his assistants spotted the hat thief running toward the Auburn side of the field, flagged him down and recovered Bryant's head gear.

If that hat played any role at all in Alabama's 11-0 season, it is understandable why all Crimson Tide fans wanted it back. For 2nd-ranked Alabama still has one game remaining —the New Year's night showdown in the Orange Bowl with top-ranked Nebraska.

You can imagine the fever pitch that will be building up across the state of Alabama the next month. Some were calling the Nebraska-Oklahoma game last Thrusday the "game of the decade" and others gave the same title to the Alabama-Auburn game. That being the case, what does one call it when the winner of those two contests get together?

Bryant pointed out Saturday that his players had been pulling for Nebraska two days earlier and that when the Cornhuskers won, 35-31, it gave the Tidemen "a psychological lift."

"Knowing what the Orange Bowl could mean to us if we beat Auburn had everybody charged up. With so much at stake, what else was there to add?"

The perfect season, his fourth in the past 11 years, was a boost also for Bear Bryant. There had been those who claimed his time had passed after he had two sub-par (6-4, 6-5) campaigns.

But, there's still that one test remaining. Alabama hasn't won a bowl victory since beating Nebraska, 34-7, in the 1967 Sugar Bowl. Since then, the Tide has lost in the Cotton Bowl to Texas A&M, in the Gator Bowl to Missouri, and in the Liberty Bowl to Colorado and last winter tied Oklahoma in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

"We didn't want to think about Nebraska until we got past Auburn," said Bryant.

Horse Racing Bill Goes To Assembly

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SACRAMENTO — The Senate has approved and sent to the Assembly major legislation expanding California horse racing seasons and giving owners of prize breeding stock a $200,000 tax break.

The bill, which first cleared the Assembly as an insignificant measure dealing with parimutuel tickets, was returned to the lower house in a drastically revised form on a 27-8 vote.

Sen. Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, the Senate floor manager, said the measure was a "compromise" worked out by the horse racing industry. But Sen. Water Stiern, D-Bakersfield, denounced it as "self-serving."

One section of the bill, authored originally by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, would cost local government about $200,000 a year in lost property tax revenue.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Bobby Allison, who has won seven 500-mile stock car races, the World 600 and $231,000 in a Holman-Moody Mercury this year, will be behind the wheel of a Junior Johnson Chevrolet on the NASCAR Grand National circuit in 1972.

Soccer

PHILADELPHIA — Andy Rymarczuk scored two goals to lead Penn State to a 2-1 upset win over nationally-ranked University of Pennsylvania yesterday in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. regional soccer tournament.

Penn State, now 9-2-1, will meet Howard University in the finals.

Bowling

NEW YORK — The Professional Bowlers Association announced today that its 1972 nationwide tour would exceed the $2,000,000 mark in prize money.

The 13-city winter tour will offer $1,000,000 in prize money and an additional 22 national tournaments plus some 50 regional tournaments will add another $1,000,000 to the pot.

Football

STANFORD — Middle linebacker Jeff Siemon of Bakersfield, Calif., has been named as Stanford's "outstanding player" of the 1971 season.

Seimon, already named to several All-American teams, led the Indians with 112 tackles and had two interceptions.

Golf

PEBBLE BEACH — Defending champion Shelly Hamlin and medalist Laura Baugh each scored victories yesterday in the opening match-play round of the fifth annual California Women's Amateur golf tournament.

The 16 survivors play today over the Pebble Beach course.

Felipe Retires From Winter Ball

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Felipe Alou will retire from Dominican winter baseball after today's league game. The New York Yankee outfielder, who played 15 seasons with Leones of Escogido, will remain active as a major league player.

Canucks Top Black Hawks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There's an old folk saying that goes, "Make do with what you got."

Vancouver followed that advice Tuesday night, getting only 21 shots on goal but connecting on four of them as the Canucks kept the Chicago Black Hawks from gaining a tie with Minnesota in the National Hockey League West with a 4-2 victory.

Wayne Maki scored the decisive goal just 47 seconds into the third period on an assist by Orland Kurtenbach as the Canucks won for only the seventh time in 25 games.

Dave Balon staked Vancouver to a 1-0 lead with a 15-foot back-hander past Chicago goalie Tony Esposito at 10:43 of the first period. The Black Hawks tied it on Dennis Hull's seventh goal of the season, in the second period, but Wayne Connelly pocketed his sixth goal of the campaign about four minutes later to give the Canucks a 2-1 edge.

Wayne Maki made it 3-1 but his older brother Chico answered back 3:01 later with a score for Chicago. Andre Boudrias added an insurance tally 56 seconds from the final siren.

The loss leaves the Black Hawks with a 16-6-2 record and 34 points.

Bill HickeTraded

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Penguins announced Monday the sale of right wing Bill Hicke, a former California Seal, to the Detroit Wings for a undisclosed sum.

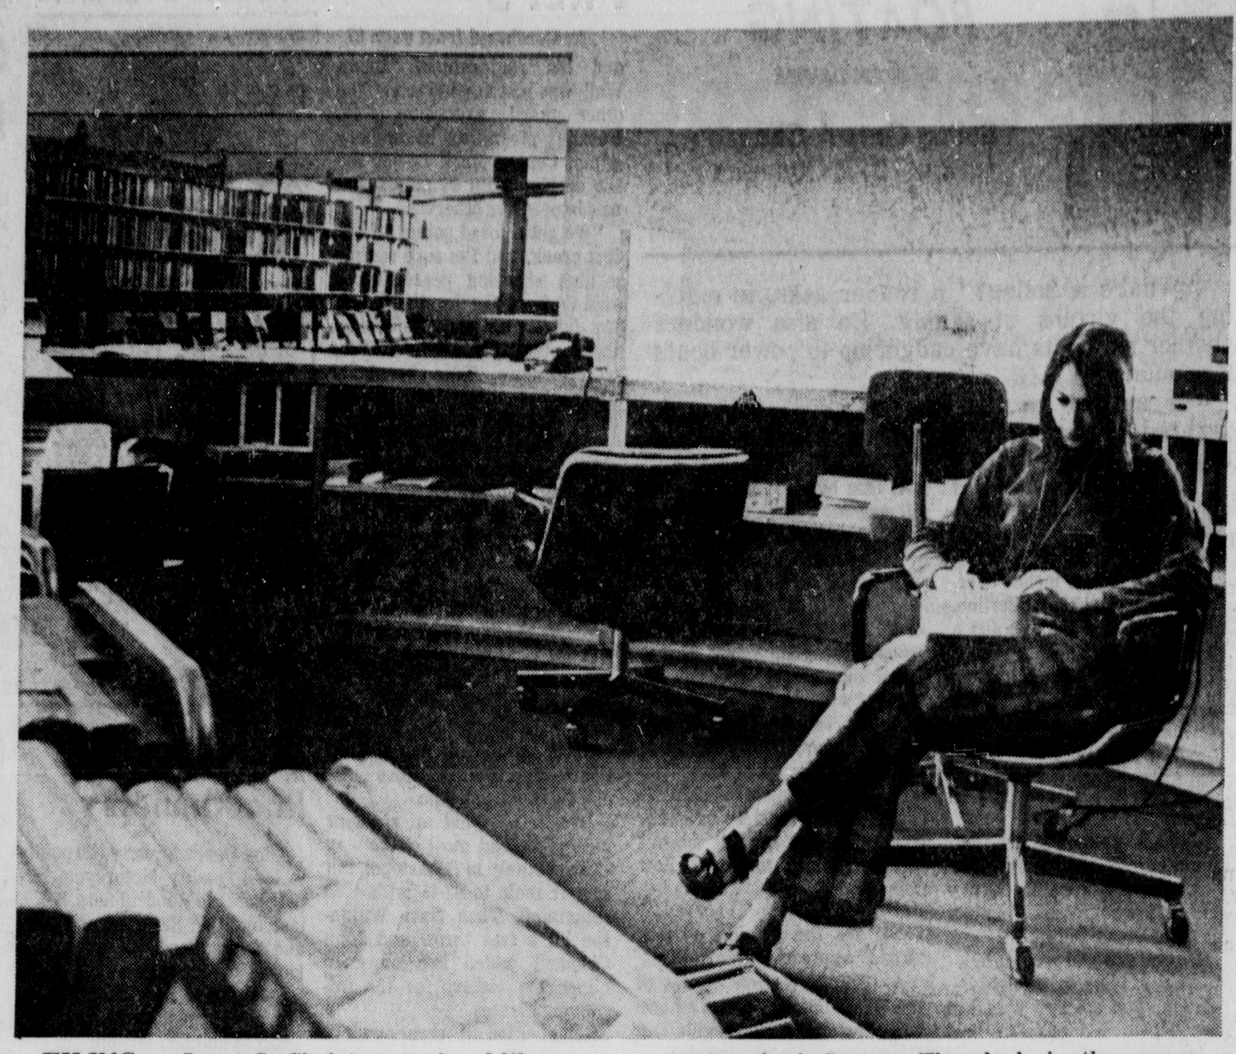
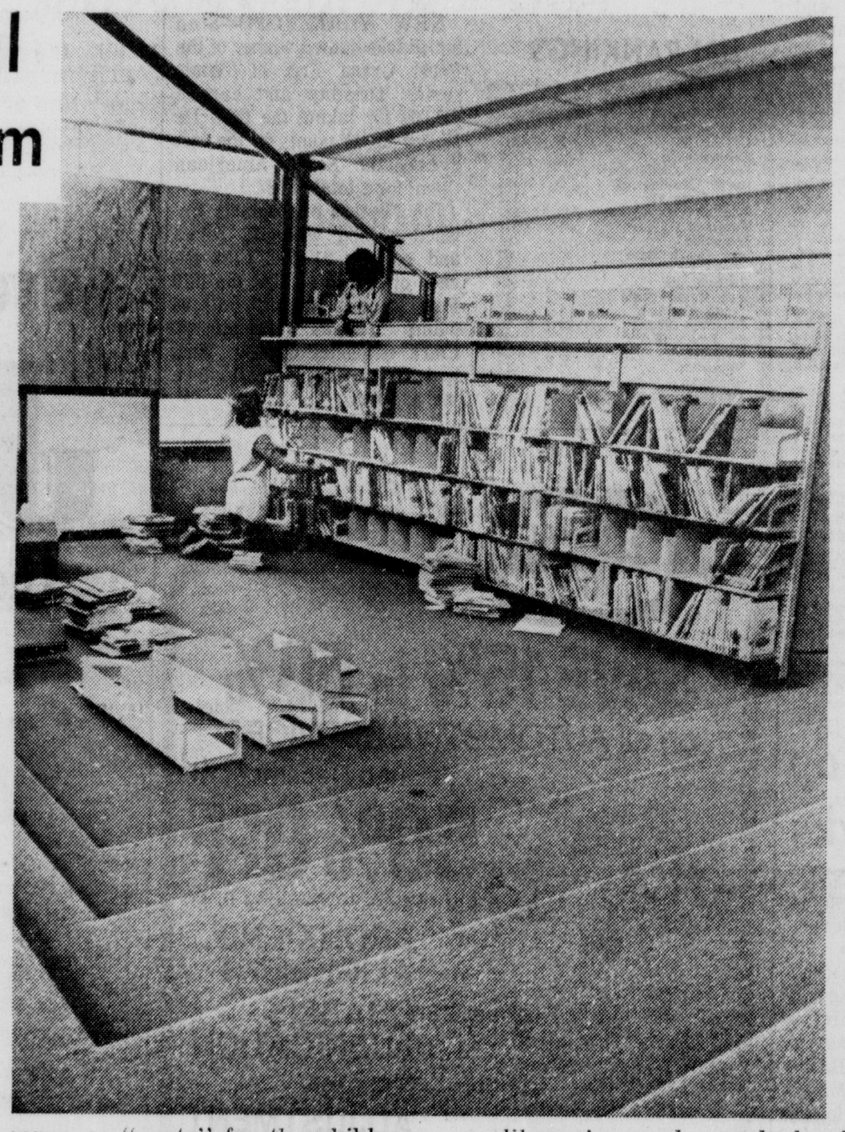
BOOK CHECKPOINT — A large, semicircular check-out desk is the focal point of the new Corte Madera Regional Library. Library employees (rear) prepared for today's opening. The facility, built at a cost of $680,000, is a joint venture of the town and the County of Marin.

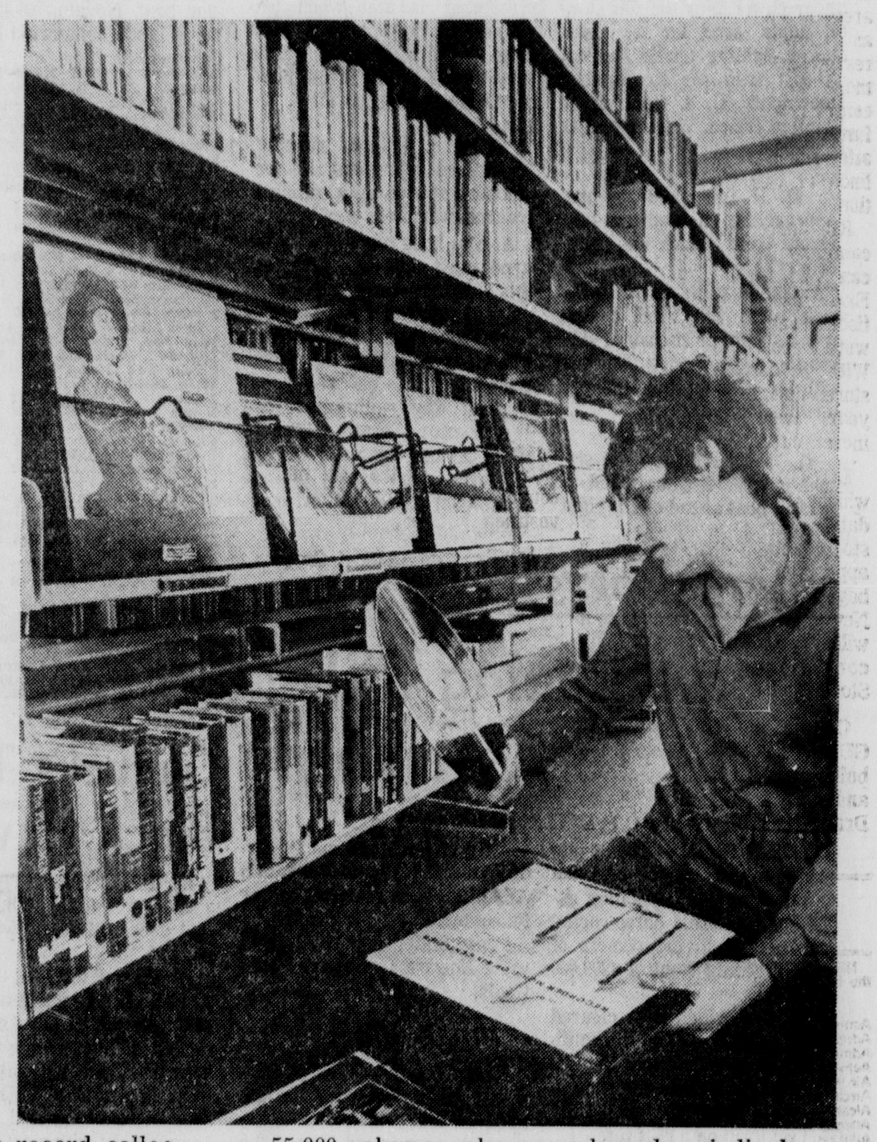
(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)



FILING — Janet S. Christensen, head librarian, checks files behind the main desk of the new library, located on Meadowsweet Drive at Stanford Street. The desk is the nerve center of the library where books are checked in and out and questions answered.

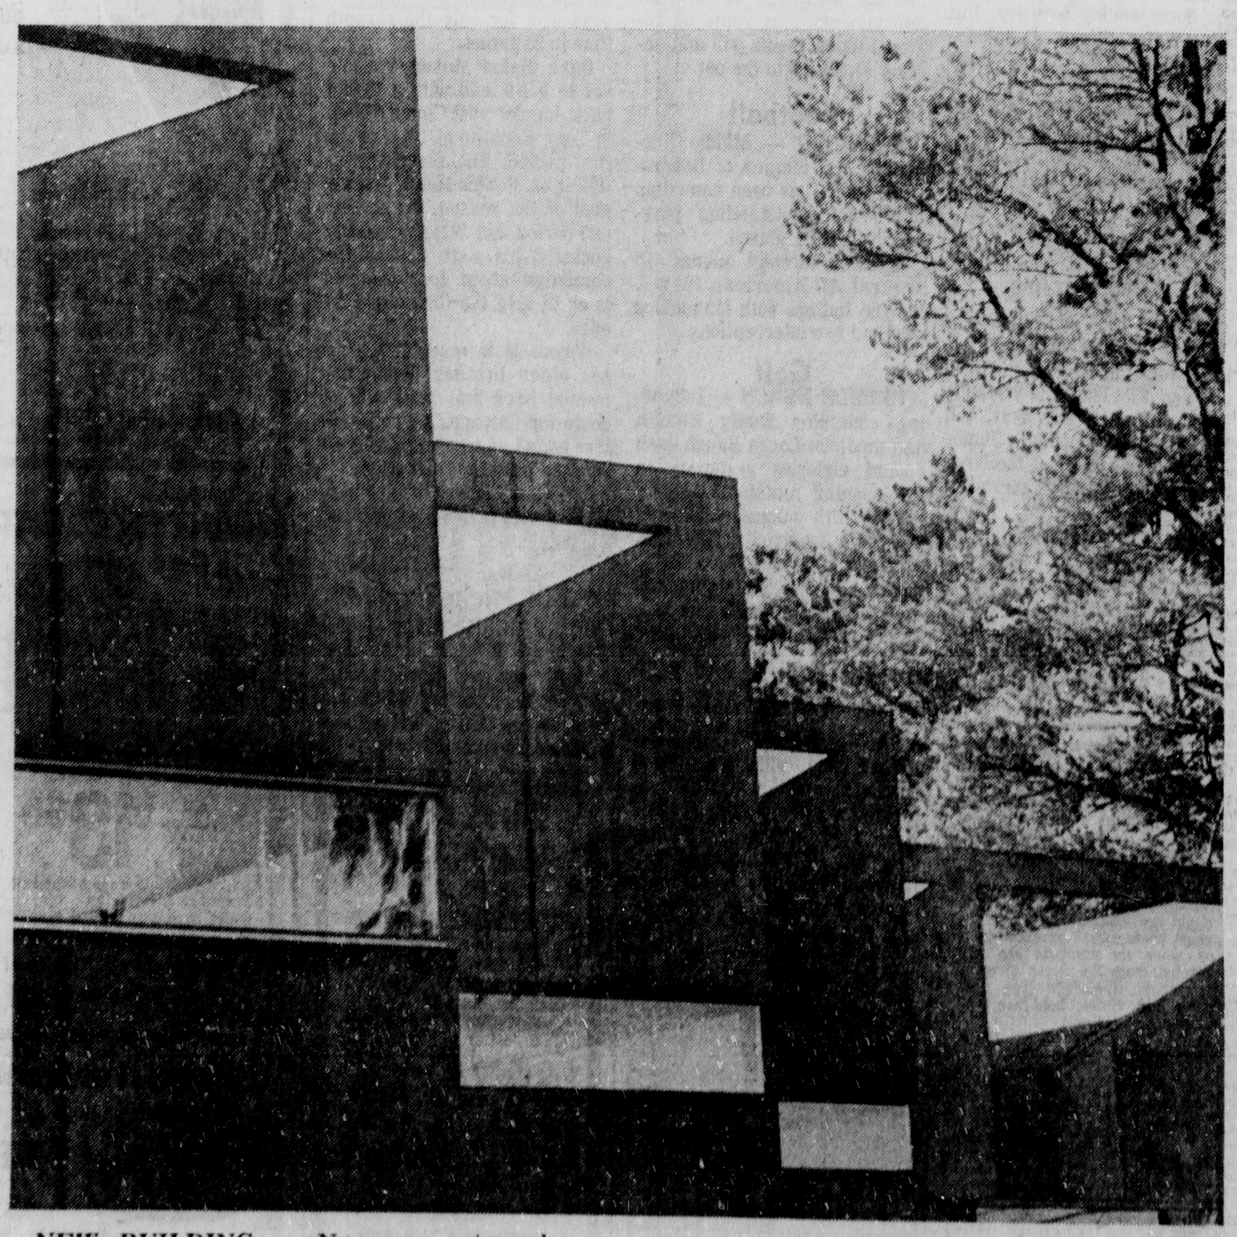
Corte Madera Regional Library—A Long Dream





GETTING READY — Volunteers place cards in books (left) and prepare the children's room (center) which has carpeted steps. They will serve as "seats" for the children during the library's story hours. At right, Susan Glassman checks the condition of the library's popular and classic record collection, which is one of the big attractions of any library. The library is expected to house 55,000 volumes, plus records and periodicals. It was to open today.

DOUBLECHECKING — JoAnn Joy, a clerk at the new library, makes sure that check out cards have been placed in all the books at the new library. The library currently houses 35,000 volumes.



NEW BUILDING — Narrow, rectangular windows and heavy use of wood highlight the exterior of the new regional library. The building features natural lighting, sliding walls, a meeting room for community groups, and a sunken story-telling area.

New Furniture Store Readies For Mid-January Opening Day

New construction now under way at the west side of Highway 101 in the Northgate area is that of the 20,000-square-foot, $500,000 R B Furniture Store, which is expected to be ready for an opening about the middle of January.

It till be the 35th showroom store of R B Industries, Inc., a rapidly growing Southern California firm which has scheduled five new stores for its fiscal year ending June 30, 1972. These consist of a Sacramento store which will open Dec. 15, the Northgate store, a second store in Sacramento and one in Stockton expected to open in the spring and one in Las Vegas. The latter will be the company's first venture outside of California.

The Northgate facility, designed and built by Laurel Development Co., an R B subsidiary, features a wide expanse of glass frontage, toned steel trim and masonry, following the style of all RB stores. Although it appears to front on Highway 101, its address will be 3773 Tamalpais Avenue, this being the west frontage road in the area. R B outlets are described as "showroom stores" for the reason that they are devoted more to the display of the company's complete lines of furniture products rather than attempting to stock all these lines at each individual location.

RB Industries is a public company listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges. Its revenues for the fiscal year ended last June 30 were reported at $20 million. With the addition of five more stores during the current fiscal year, revenues are expected to increase to $25 million.

LONGS DRUG STORES, which has been carried on our daily over-the-counter list of stock quotations, no longer will appear on this list as its stock began trading this week on the New York Stock Exchange. It will appear on our Saturday complete list of New York Stock Exchange quotations.

CONSTRUCTION HAS BEGUN on the new administration building of Frank Howard Allen and Co. at 511 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae. An opening is expected here by Feb. 15.

This will house Allen's commercial and income property departments as well as a residential office. Managing the Greenbrae residential office will be James Speer of Mill Valley, who has been an associate member of the Marin Board of Realtors since 1967 and recently with Home and Land Co. Prior to his realty work in the county he was associated with advertising agencies in Chicago and San Francisco.

J and E. Builders is doing the construction.

Machado

ROBELLO BROS. PLUMBING in San Rafael has been taken over by Joseph S. Machado of Terra Linda from Louis and Alfred Robello, who are retiring from business. They have operated it since 1945.

Machado joined the firm in 1954, so has been closely identified with company operations. The business will continue under the same name.

MISSION REALTY members James and Gertrude Picchi are back from the national convention of the National Institute of Real Estate Boards at Miami Beach where Picchi was elected a member of the governing council of the commercial investment division.

ARLEN O. ELLIS of Greenbrae, manager of real estate for Industrial Indemnity Co., has been elected president of the San Francisco Bay Area chapter of the Institute of Real Estate Management. He has been 16 years in the real estate field and holds a brokers license. He is a director of the San Francisco Building Owners and Managers Association.

NEW REALTY OFFICE — Now under construction is this 4,500-square-foot building for Frank Howard Allen and Co. at 511 Sir Francis Drake Highway in Greenbrae. Designed by Bushnell-Jessup-Murphy and Van De Weghe, it is scheduled for completion in February and will house Allen's commercial and income property divisions.

Stocks Take Sharp Climb

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks climbed sharply through the second hour on the New York Stock Exchange today with news from Rome that the United States was considering devaluation of the dollar as part of a new western monetary system.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up for the fifth consecutive session, showed a gain of more than 9 points at 840.46 near noon. Other leading indicators also strengthened, and advances held a commanding 1,057 to 236 margin over declines.

Electronics, motors, chemicals and oils were among the big board's strongest features.

Selected specialty issues also climbed sharply. Mission Corp., which spurted 11 3-8 Tuesday, gained another 10. Getty said Tuesday that it will purchase all of the more than 300,000 shares of Mission common tendered at $120 each. Getty edged up 5-8.

Corning Glass added 8 1-2, IBM 3 1-4, Honeywell 3 1-8, Texas Instruments 2 1-2, Superior Oil 4, Du Pont 2 1-2, and Westinghouse 2 1-4.

Among the stocks up a point or so were Ford Motor, general Motors, Monsanto, Allied Chemical, General Electric, RCA, Zenith, Admiral, Polaroid, and Levitz Furniture.

Median Family Income Of 1980

NEW YORK (UPI) —The median family income will reach $15,000 annually by 1980, according to a research report by Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill Noyes, New York investment banking and brokerage houses. This compares with the present $9,500, which is 70 per cent higher than 10 years ago.

In 1950, 11 per cent of the population had family incomes of $10,000 or more in today's buying power, the report says. This figure now is 45 per cent of a much larger population base.

The rise in dicretionary income is especially significant. In 1955, Hornblower & Weeks reports, 8 per cent of family income was spent on non-necessities. In 1970 this figure was up to 20 per cent, and may reach to 20 per cent, and may reach 30 per cent by 1980.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investment Club Asks Some Advice

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We — a group of 12 — have just formed an investment club. With the $20 monthly contribution from our membership we have made our initial purchase. Continental Mortgage Investors. We are now discussing the relative merits of Heublein and Kellogg. What is your view on these two consumer companies? Do you have any other hints for us? — M.C.

A. If you have not already done so I would suggest you join the National Association of Investment Clubs. This nonprofit organization has 13,000 member clubs and provides educational material for members. The association is located at E. 11 Mile Rd., Royal Oak, Mich. 48067. A recent survey of a cross-section of its membership showed that the average club has 20 members each contributing $17 per month, much the same as your group.

Of greater interest is the disclosure that the club's investments earned close to 15 per cent compounded annually over the life of the club. In the year ended April 30, 1971, assets rose 37.5 per cent compared with a 28.9 per cent gain in the Standard & Poor 425-stock average. There are 60,000 clubs thought to be in operation throughout the U.S., the value of their combined portfolios is estimated at $1 billion.

Your first investment selection, Continental Mortgage (NYSE) was among the top 35 favorites of the polled clubs. Likewise, Heublein (NYSE) was 25th and Kellogg (NYSE) was 10th in popularity. The choice between these two issues depends principally on how conservative a portfolio your club intends to build. Kellogg has a five year 6 per cent compound average growth rate whereas Heublein has an 18 per cent rate. The former is trading at an earnings multiple of 18x versus 26x for the latter.

In order to upgrade its growth rate, Kellogg has expanded overseas operations, and made two acquisitions in other product areas. A line of snack foods is being test marketed and a chain of restaurants is to be opened in Australia. Heublein's merger with Kentucky Fried Chicken could eventually add 25 cents a share to earnings.

Shrimp Output

MANILA (UPI) —The Philippine Institute of Export Development reports that the Philippines produces an average of $10,862 metric tons of shrimps a year, of which 58 tons are exported to Japn and 45 tons to the United States.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Government Knows No Belt-Tightening

Two different items that came to our desk in the same mail the other day from two different sources serve to point up one of the prime causes of inflation.

One was a lament in the California Associated Press Report about the length of this year's legislative session.

"Twenty years ago," it said, "covering the California Legislature must have been a lark.

"You'd show up for two weeks in January, then knock off until mid-March and run on until late June.

"That sounds easy compared with the current session, which began Jan. 4 and has been going practically nowhere ever since."

THEN IT WENT ON to say that "there's a good reason for the longer sessions these days:

"Today we have fulltime legislators, paid $19,200 a year instead of the $6,000-a-year salary they used to draw. And there's another point which explains why it's profitable for a legislator to work the year around. That's his $30-a-day expense allowance for every day he's on legislative business."

The other item was in John S. Knight's "Notebook" column from the Detroit Free Press. The senior editor of the Knight newspapers, after expressing some doubts about Phase Two of the so-called "freeze," commented:

"Federal employes, who have received 10 pay increases totaling 75 per cent since 1962, are now exempt from all wage controls.

"The price, covering both civilian and military employes, will be around $5 billion in pay hikes by mid-1972."

THE MOUNTING COST of the California Legislature and the increase in the federal payroll are two parts of one picture: the tremendous growth in the cost of government.

This is a cost increase that is in no way based on productivity. This year's record-length California legislative session has been markedly non-productive. Scarcely anyone would pretend that the federal bureaucracy has increased in efficiency to match its increased payroll.

For that matter, government is essentially non-productive. The creation of jobs in the government structure —whether at federal, state or local level — does not improve the standard of living nor add to the gross national product. When you come right down to it, most government bureaus are largely make-work projects, shuffling papers and writing reports to create work for themselves as justification for their existence.

And as the cost of government increases, taxes extract more and more from the pockets of the producing public, making "prosperity" a chimera in which we pay more and more for less and less.

MAYBE WE SHOULD forget for awhile about "tax reform" and concentrate on government reform. Tax reform might then follow quite naturally.

One way to start would be to put the state legislature back on a part-time basis.

"In Vietnam? Oh, I learned how to kill people and — yeah, how to do some needlework."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Individual Initiative' Via Welfare Route

Your editorial of Nov. 19, "Residency Ruling vs. Equality for All," stated that a "horde" of newcomers to the Golden State "come solely to enjoy our generous public assistance programs," etc.

Although I am sure it was not your intention, the editorial was an excellent argument for the establishment of uniform national welfare residence rules, as well as for a uniform national standard of welfare payments.

There is, indeed, no "equality" in welfare throughout the nation. If there were, the migration of "hordes" of indigents to California and other states (if such is the case) would diminish or cease.

In keeping with the great American tradition of doing the best one can for oneself and family (commonly known as "individual initiative" or "pulling oneself up by the bootstraps"), should not the poor be commended for leaving states where welfare payments are below even bare subsistence levels?

Dragging "red herring" generalities through your editorials, particularly on such topics as welfare, results in an editorial policy of inflaming, rather than informing. . .

Public welfare is certainly one subject that should be reported on objectively and factually.

Complaint On Stock Listings — And Taxes

For quite some time I have been on the verge of writing you in regard to the quoting of the 2 p.m. Dow Jones averages instead of the closing ones.

I played golf the other day with a neighbor who told me that he took a San Francisco evening paper (instead of the I-J) because it gave him market information not available in your paper, enough said?

Somewhat to my surprise the piece on the front page of the I-J for Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, headed "College Board Approves 32-Cent N. Campus Tax" has not resulted in a storm of protest.

I would very much like to know (a) how the Marin Community College District Board became empowered to raise my taxes and (b) how this board arrived at 32 cents instead of say $3.20 per $100 of assessed value.

This is a perfect example of "the power to tax is the power to destroy."

Can you explain to me and other homeowners around Novato how this board came into being and where it derived its taxing authority?

L. T. KETT
Novato.

(As has been explained in the Independent-Journal, the Junior College Construction Act of 1968 gives community college districts the right to levy a special tax for building construction without asking the voters. How the Marin Community College District board arrived at 32 cents was described in stories in this newspaper on meetings of the board. — Editor.)

Should Try Closing Bridge On Sunday

We, who live in Marin County, are quite concerned about the ever-expanding impact of automobile traffic on our environment especially on Sundays.

This suggests a possible experiment that could afford some relief: the authorities, some Sunday after proper notice is given, could close the Golden Gate Bridge to private automobile traffic from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. Public buses, service vehicles, police cars and emegency cases would be excepted. This procedure would eliminate about 95 per cent of the total traffic crossing the bridge from both south and north.

Should this experiment prove out to be fruitful for both Marin County and San Francisco it could be turned into a regular Sunday arrangement.

Class In Martinez Replies To Nave

I teach at Alhambra High School in Martinez, although I live in San Anselmo. Several times each week I provide my English classes with news on the ecological front, because this generation faces a tremendous problem in preserving what natural resources remain untouched or unpolluted. I am teaching a unit in persuasion in my junior English class, and thought I would combine some ecological news along with an assignment.

As I read your coverage on Richard P. Nave's rebuttal to present plans for Point Reyes National Seashore, I asked the students to utilize what I had taught them about argumentation to break down his premise and his points which substantiated his premise. To my surprise, they wanted to write a letter with their "breakdowns" to your paper.

I am sending you the attached letter which they wrote collectively in class . . .

MRS. DORRIS VITEK
San Anselmo.

Richard P. Nave, president of the Marin Property Owners Association, recently attacked conservationists and their plans for restricted development at Point Reyes National Seashore.

Nave, whose family owns a bowling alley and shopping center, believes the wilderness area should be open to all for "family fun," including grandmother, and not to "limited interest groups . . . with mahogany backpacks." Therefore, instead of clean trails, fresh streams, ancient forests and a natural habitat for wildlife, Mr. Nave wants an "excellent highway to feed the seashore." He feels that miles of asphalt and concrete would insure family fun and provide a Sunday ride for grandmother.

It would seem that the "limited interest group" consists of Nave and his cohorts who, along with bulldozers, would cut through and around one of the few remaining natural areas enjoyed by all who value open space. Bring in the bulldozer, and the wildlife is cut back. Put down the asphalt and the natural ground and growth is gone forever. Bring in the automobile, and the all-American beer can, cigarette butt and gum wrapper will do away with clean trails.

He complains that a countywide master plan to conserve an area of Point Reyes would "bankrupt us all." It is our environment which is all but bankrupt at this point. Wouldn't it be less short-sighted to propose a state-owned park minus the "excellent highway" as an answer for "family fun" not only for this generation but for future generations as well?

Take grandmother somewhere else for her Sunday outing, and leave Point Reyes in its naturalness for the unlimited groups of any age who want to hike all day in order to get away from carbon-monoxide and ubiquitous litter. And for Mr. Nave's information, only a person naive to the trail would hike 16 miles with the weight of a mahogany backpack strapped to his shoulders. Furthermore, bowlers wear "club shirts;" hikers wear sweatshirts.

By RUS WALTON:

Goodbye, Wild Rivers; Hello, Peripheral Canal

SACRAMENTO — If you're the type that gets upset with dam builders and water pirates, if you are one concerned about the environment, gather 'round.

You'll be interested in a speech by Kerry Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board. Mulligan made some rather candid and controversial remarks when he spoke to the California Water Resources Association in Bakersfield.

First, you'll be interested to know that Governor Reagan goofed in 1969 when he put the quietus on the controversial Dos Rios Dam — when he saved the Indians and the town of Covelo from being inundated. At least, that's what Mulligan said.

Ike Livermore, state secretary of resources, wanted the valley saved. He opposed the dam. Bill Gianelli, director of the Department of Water Resources, wanted the dam built.

Governor Reagan sided with Livermore. Some feel it was one of the Governor's finest hours.

BUT MULLIGAN says Gianelli was right and the governor was wrong. Here are Mulligan's words:

"There's no question in my mind that Gianelli's position. . . on Dos Rios was correct, 1,000 per cent. And time will prove that out."

But come, let us jig deeper into Mulligan's stew.

This past summer his water resources board held that the state water project must leave enough fresh water in the 1,100-square mile Sacramento- San Joaquin Delta to protect that area from salt water intrusion. Environmentalists and sportsmen and farmers hailed the decision. It raised their hopes. It also raised the hackles on the water boys.

THE DELTA DECISION also raised some serious questions about the future of the few remaining wild rivers in the state, especially the Eel, the Klamath and the Trinity rivers in the north coastal area.

Those questions have been resolved, as far as Mr. Mulligan is concerned. Take a gulp at what he said to the water resources associaiton:

"You can't possibly do what we propose in the state's delta standards without additional water.

"It's not my responsibility to say where we are going to get it, but if you don't develop the North Coast I don't know where you are going to get it."

So much for the wild rivers — the Eel, the Klamath and the Trinity. There goes another piece of the magic of California.

AND ANOTHER THING, says Mulligan: "We cannot protect water quality (of the delta) and still meet the contractual obligations of the project without a peripheral canal."

And, who do you think is going to foot the bill for a peripheral canal to transport northern waters south around the delta? Well, check this chunk from the Mulligan stew:

"The cost has become a tremendous factor in the (delta) decision. Who pays for it? Our legal staff advises us that it comes out of the general fund of the state. . . . "

General fund! That's bureaucrat talk for the common taxpayer's money. I can remember when Governor Brown said the state water project wouldn't cost the taxpayers a "sou marquee." The water and the power users would pay it all. That's what the man said.

But Mulligan says "I agree wholeheartedly that the water users, the contractors, shouldn't have to pay. There's no question about it."

Which makes sense in a distorted, Keynesian sort of way. Why should some corporate farm, some conglomerate water user, pay the costs when the taxpayer will do it for him? That way he can use subsidized water to grow — or not to grow — subsidized crops.

I mean, that way he gets it coming and going. And, so do you!

Malik-Chiao Set-To Illustrates Double Standard Applied In U.N.

WASHINGTON — One of the lesser but interesting dividends of the presence of Red China in the United Nations is that it is drawing much of the political fire away from the United States.

Apparently, the People's Republic of China and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are going to be so busy calling each other names that they will have far less time to take out their frustrations on the United States.

A good example is the diplomatic shoot-out on the last day of the general assembly debate during which the Chinese and Soviet delegates emptied both barrels — at one another.

IT CAN HARDLY FAIL to be something of a relief to have the Peking and the Moscow spokesmen, Chiao Kuan-hua and Jacob Malik, standing to-to-toe shouting, in effect, "You're another!"

When Chiao called Moscow's proposed everybody-come disarmament conference an attempt to "hoodwink world opinion" and play the "imperialist" game, Malik instantly rushed to the rostrum to reply in kind.

It was at this point that the double standard which numerous Third World diplomats and some Americans apply to the United States and to Communist countries was apparent.

You will recall that Ambassador George Bush issued a mild press release describing the Chinese delegate's opening speech as a "disappointment." The tsk-tsk diplomats quietly whispered about that the United States was being shockingly "impolite" and showing "disdain" for the United Nations. But when Malik retorted to Chiao, charging him with "monstrous invention against the Soviet Union" and "pouring out a flood of slander," these diplomats uttered not a word. They folded their hands and pretended they didn't hear.

CHIAO HIMSELF evidently feels no need to be consistent.

He allows himself to argue that Red China is developing nuclear weapons "entirely for defensive purposes" but he doesn't concede that any other country should develop nuclear weapons for defensive purposes.

He contends that it is an act of peace for China to go nuclear. But it would be an act of war for Japan to go nuclear.

Chiao avers that the Chinese government "stands for the thorough destruction of nuclear weapons," but China refuses to attend a Russian-proposed five-nation conference to do anything about it.

He argues that the atmospheric test ban signed by the United States and Russia was a "plot" to get a big-power monopoly in nuclear weapons. It wasn't. Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union really wanted it but yielded to worldwide pressure to end atmospheric radiation. The Chinese say in effect that atmospheric contamination is all right with them — even if the winds blow it over their neighbors.

CHIAO REJECTS the kind of world conference on disarmament which the Russians propose and Malik rejects the kind of world conference on disarmament which the Chinese advocate.

It is important that to the Chinese anything which the Russians propose is bad and that to the Russians anything which the Chinese propose is bad.

This is not very constructive, but for the time being it is a relief to the United States to have the two big Communist powers aiming their diatribes elsewhere.

One thing is clear: The United States is enjoying better relations with China and Russia than they are with each other. Something may come of that.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

The Fat Society Finds Its Emblem: Snowmobile

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The first snowfall of the year used to set us all to sanding the rust off the runners of our Flexible Flyers, which was the most complicated mechanical operation required before bellywhopping down hills, toasting hands beside bonfires, and throwing snowballs at the local bullies. The whole outfit cost about $10, including army surplus wardrobe, and it was great cheek-pinking exercise and the loudest noise it produced was girls squealing when you took the curves too fast.

That was before America became the Fat Society.

THE FAT SOCIETY never walks, runs, skis or bellywhops when it can ride. It never rides quietly when it can announce its coming with overwhelming noise. It never leaves the world undisturbed by its passing when it can instead memorialize itself by destruction. It is overfed and underexercised and therefore lazy, which is not a condition conducive to manifesting masculinity in the most basic way.

To compensate for this, to prove to the world that beneath the flab the male animal still throbs ferociously, the master of the Fat Society buys machines to speed him about almost as if he himself were doing something physical, which make more noise than a thousand bull elephants, which despoil his surroundings much in the manner of an army permitted to rape and pillage.

Thus, the motorcycle. The trailbike. The all-terrain vehicle. Thus, this week in most of the northern half of the country and all of Canada, the snowmobile.

NO BETTER REASON exists for a return to the seven-day work week and subsistence wages. Spare time and excess cash have never combined so rapidly into a hobby-cum-industry whose enthusiasts mindlessly abuse other people's privacy, property and peace of mind, fans to whom the values of the wilderness mean nothing.

Newspapers and town meetings all over the snow belt are alive with complaints about snowmobilers destroying fences, shrubs and winter crops; shattering the quiet so diligently sought by other humans; vandalizing cabins previously safe in their isolation; cruelly and illegally chasing deer and other game until it falls in the snow exhausted, then killing it; packing down the snow so that the small creatures that live beneath it die.

There are demands for controls. Neighbors become enemies over the issue. Church congregations and local political parties are split over it. Regulations are passed, but hard to enforce. Legislation is resisted emotionally by the snowmobilers, who see controls on their abuses as infringements on their rights. Wherever the demand for regulation arises, the countercry goes up to the snowmobilers: Join a club — organize, organize. The lobby against controls is growing at the local level to the proportions of the National Rifle Association, with which it has much in common.

THE FACT IS that in most places, it is too late. Those who own snowmobiles and those who cater to them already have grown into a major vested interest wherever the snow lies all winter.

The first commercial snowmobile was produced only 12 years ago by the Bombardier Co. of Quebec. Now virtually every major tractor, boat motor and motorcycle manufacturer is in the business, along with dozens of independents. Annual sales are measured now in tens of thousands of vehicles a year.

Snowgoer, a magazine published in St. Paul, is one of several publications devoted entirely to snowmobiling. This month its sparse editorial content includes a secondhand report on a Michigan state seminar on the vehicles, predictably concluding: "Does the snowmobile raise havoc in the wilderness? Considering the evidence, it's far too early to say for sure."

But it is not too early for the magazine to be able to print a tabulation of specifications and prices on no less than 424 makes and models of 1972 snowmobiles, costing up to $2,600 each. Most of its pages are advertising, for vehicles, accessories and a whole new world of insulated clothing designed for the "sport."

THE SNOWMOBILE BOOM and its accompanying roughshod destruction point a strong moral for all the country, not just the high mountains and the states above the 40th parallel. The moral is to control nuisances before they grow into monsters.

The factories go on mass-producing more machines than the countryside can absorb, machines built intentionally loud for the masculinity noise implies, and they are probably beyond control now. The "sportsmen" involved are too many (some families in the snow belt buy one vehicle for each person in the household, down to 8-year-old girls). And serious efforts at regulation and limitation are met now with the same sad rejoinder we hear when we want to control strip mining or industrial pollution.

It will cost jobs, they say. It will deprive them of advertising. And most intolerably, it will violate the right of the members of the Fat Society to trample on the rights of their neighbors.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 1, 1961

The Steering Committee for Fallout Shelters in Dixie School District proposed creation of a $1.2 million assessment district to install shelters underneath the playgrounds of all the district's schools.

Troops opened fire on demonstrators in Santo Domingo who were calling for the ouster of President Joaquin Balaguer of the Dominican Republic.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 1, 1951

A four-inch rain storm combined with high tide flooded many low-lying parts of Marin.

Delegates of the Big Four opened a disarmament conference in Paris behind closed doors.

COUNTRY PARSON

Somebody Leaves Santa's Christmas List For Marin

A memo to Santa Claus:
Dear Sir:

Evidently some gnome borrowed my typewriter overnight to compose a list of civic-minded gifts for the folks of Marin County, but got scared off before the list was ready to mail to you.

I'm therefore passing along to you the list just as I found it when I came to work in the morning.

Wanted for:

SAN RAFAEL — Howard Hughes to build a park and a three-level garage where the old courthouse stood, perhaps with a subterranean penthouse. (Reporter's note — What do you call the reverse of a penthouse?)

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — More night meetings and free dinners.

LEON G. KALIMOS — A booking for a six-month revival by Billy Graham in the eterans Memorial Building.

MILL VALLEY — Now that they're rid of the Miller Avenue slide, what can they possibly need for Christmas?

COLLEGE OF MARIN — A sojourning tribe of Indians to build a lot of wigwams for classrooms at Indian Valley Colleges.

SAUSALITO — Somehow to help Sally Stanford get elected to the city council.

LARKSPUR — A toy motorboat that won't make waves on Corte Madera Creek. Maybe, also, a new paving job for Madrone Avenue.

NOVATO — A new Boys Club, some new paving and, especially, a new bypass around downtown.

FAIRFAX — A combined police and fire department merged with the city administrator's office.

SAN ANSELMO — A state visit from Chairman Mao, to present a set of flags for the mundialization project.

ROSS — A dry winter to keep the Commons dry. Failing that, a lot of buckets.

TIBURON — Reserve Tiburon Boulevard for bicycles, the new path for horses, and park all the commute cars in Sausalito.

BELVEDERE — Freeze the lagoon, so all the underprivileged youngsters can go ice skating.

CORTE MADERA — Six more auto agencies, a ferryboat terminal, and a partridge on Christmas Tree Hill.

MARIN MUNICIPAL WATER DISTRICT — A lifetime supply of those new bumper stickers that read "Save Water — Drink Southern Comfort."

WEST MARIN — Incorporation as a city, construction of a new superhighway to the Golden Gate Bridge, and toll booths to charge everyone leaving Point Reyes National Seashore.

SAN QUENTIN — Conversion into an apartment house for single swingers.

LUCAS VALLEY — Selection as the site for the 1972 World Fair.

PIERRE W. JOSKE AND MARCELLE McCOY — One hundred acres of Astroturf, to prepare an alternate site for the Lucas Valley World's Fair.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Plenty Of Infighting In Teacher Organizations

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Intramural wars among educators' organizations are breaking out all over.

Richard Mason, president of Professional Educators of Los Angeles, and Albert Johnson, Sacramento lobbyist for Professional Educators Group of California, have mounted a challenge to the mammoth National Education Association with organization of the National Association of Professional Educators.

Mason and Johnson announced the challenge after an eastern trip during which, they reported, their new organization won adherents in Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kansas. They blamed NEA militance for loss of public support for schools, and said the NAPE will be dedicated to freeing teachers from "bossism and coercion."

NEA IS HAVING troubles in its own house, too.

The California Teachers Association's representative assembly defied the national organization — of which CTA is a state unit — in voting to revoke the charter of United Teachers of Los Angeles as a CTA chapter.

Donald Morrison NEA president who is on leave from his job as a San Diego teacher, warned CTA that its action might result in NEA chartering UTLA as a separate affiliate in Los Angeles. This, he declared, would mean "total warfare." But the 475-member CTA representative assembly voted for war.

THERE ALSO IS in-house trouble for CTA.

The California Association of Teachers of English and John Swett Education Association have attacked CTA for endorsing a proposed statewide Planning, Programming, Budgeting System (PPBS) oriented toward "behavioral goals." CATE president Robert Palazzi of Burlingame and JSEA president Robert E. Beck of Crockett tried without success to get CTA to cancel a Nov. 18-19 PPBS conference in San Diego.

On the local level, there are fights over representation on certificated employee councils — the committees set up under the Winton Act to negotiate for teachers.

On these councils, teacher organizations are entitled to membership proportionate to that they hold among the total teaching staff of a school district. If one organization gets a majority of the members it, of course, controls the council.

IN LOS ANGELES, the council was controlled by UTLA — a merger of locals of CTA and California Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) — until this fall's nose-count. Then, finding themselves no longer in control, the UTLA members walked out. They returned after legal steps were started to reorganize the council without them.

In San Francisco, the CFT chapter and the Classroom Teachers Association of San Francisco (CTA) ended up with four council positions each, the ninth seat going to the Personnel and Guidance Assocaition, an unaffiliated group.

The CTA chapter, however, sent five representatives to the November council meeting, claiming its membership among San Francisco teachers was greater than the combined total of the other two. As this was written, the dispute appeared headed for the courts.

THE INFIGHTING bodes ill for the much-discussed merger of NEA with the American Federation of Teachers (CFT's) parent union). It was the merger of their Los Angeles locals last year which led to a strike and to formation of Professional Educators of Los Angeles — and, last month, of the National Association of Professional Educators.

A statewide AFT-NEA merger in New York was rejected last month by the New York State Teachers Association (NEA). It also announced creation of a war chest to fight the union. Whereupon Albert Shanker, president of United Federation of Teachers (AFT), blasted the NEA group in a paid advertisement in the New York Times, which declared:

"Clearly, to view their fellow teachers as the enemy, rather than the national administration, the anti-teacher legislature, and anti-school local forces, is to condemn the schools to further setbacks, while teacher fights teacher."

Shanker headed the advertisement: "Know Your Enemy."

Giant Airplane's Maiden Flight

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI)—A huge jet freighter, the Boeing 747F, made its maiden flight Tuesday and was aloft for 2-½ hours before landing at Boeing Field in Seattle.

Veteran test pilot Jack Waddell was at the controls for the jumbo freighter's flight.

Boeing officials hope to have the aircraft certified by the Federal Aviation Administration early next year. Lufthansa, the German airlines, is scheduled to begin transatlantic freight service with the plane in April.

New Sanitary Board Member Resigns Abruptly

A newly appointed member of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board resigned last night and was replaced by a former board member who had declined to run for the seat Nov. 2.

George K. Elkington, who was appointed to the board in September along with Dean Carey, and whose term was due to begin last night, abruptly resigned, citing the press of other obligations, according to board president Cyril G. Hansen.

In his place, Hansen said, directors appointed John Hinman, who was appointed to a board vacancy in August but who had decided not to run for a full term Nov. 2. Because only Elkington and Carey filed for the two vacant seats, the election was not held and their appointments were ratified by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Audience In Belvedere Supports Limited Growth

More than 50 persons attending the first public hearing on Belvedere's new planning study generally agreed with the report's conclusions that growth should be discouraged in the island community.

Lawrence Livingston Jr., of the San Francisco planning firm of Livingston and Blayney, was present Monday night to explain the 19-page, $7,500 study and answer questions from the audience.

Planning Commissioner William H. Rafter said those present endorsed Livingston's conclusion that steps should be taken to discourage the development of the city's remaining 140 building sites and the replacement of old structures with apartments and duplexes.

Several residents questioned the recommendation that moderate income housing or housing for the elderly should be built on the Belvedere School site if the school is abandoned by the Reed School District.

They cited traffic along Laurel Avenue and the steepness of the hillside lot as reasons for not using the site for such housing, Rafter said.

The report recommends limiting growth through rejecting buildings on substandard lots and by instituting density regulations. It also recommends the city take steps to preserve open space, limit the bulk of new buildings, make design review procedures more stringent, resist the widening of streets and forbid septic tanks.

The planning commission will hodl another hearing on the study at 8 p.m. Dec. 20 at the community center.

Strep Throat Tops List Of Diseases

Streptococcus infections, with 50 cases reported last week, led the list of communicable diseases reported in Marin County last week, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer, said.

Other diseases reported were gonorrhea, 18 cases, and rubella, one case.

Russ Farm Experts Set Midwest Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Six Soviet farm experts will visit the United States from Dec. 8 to 19 to tour farm production, research and supply centers in the Midwest and Southwest.

The itinerary still was being worked out. The visit is in response to an invitation from former Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

Countywide Plan Before Council

The City-County Planning Council of Marin, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Civic Cente, will consider a proposal that the county use the preliminary countywide plan as a "working guide" until the plan is adopted.

As a working guide, the plan would serve as an unofficial recommendation as to where and how the county should develop.

Final adoption of the plan is not expected until later next year. A series of hearings on elements of the plan have been scheduled for the spring.

Tools Missing

Tools valued at $200 were taken from an automobile owned by Robert A. Birdsall of 330 Irwin Street, San Rafael, while the car was parked in his driveway Monday night, police reported today.

BIG STACK — Marin County Clerk George H. Gnoss prepares to pack up the pile of transcripts and legal papers amassed in the months of pretrial proceedings in the Angela Davis case. He said the file is the largest in his memory — "and the case hasn't come to trial yet." The files along with guns used in the August 1970 shoot-out (wrapped in plastic in the foreground of the picture) are due to be moved along with Miss Davis to Santa Clara County sometime after midnight.

Development Plan Can Go To Vote

Marin Country Club Anti-Housing Move

Backers of an initiative petition — aimed primarily at preventing development of Marin Town and Country Club for housing — announced today they have acquired enough signatures to qualify the measure for an election.

Although the committee to Preserve Land and Nature (PLAN) was given until Jan. 25, 1972, to acquire the needed signatures, the group's chairman, Priscilla C. Gray, said the petition already has been signed by more persons than is required.

Mrs. Gray could not be reached today for further comment and it was unknown if the petition had been signed by more than 10 or 15 per cent of Fairfax's registered voters.

PLAN needs 10 per cent of the city's 3,388 voters to qualify the measure for the next city election. If it obtains 15 per cent, the city council must either adopt the measure itself or call a special election.

The petition calls upon the Fairfax City Council to establish a commercial-recreation zoning ordinance governing large parcels such as Marin Town and Country Club.

The group hopes to preserve the club site as a recreation area.

PLAN was organized following reports that the 23.5-acre town and country club was being sold by owner Max Friedman to Kaiser-Aetna Corp., an Oakland land development firm that is interested in building 350 to 450 apartment units on the site.

Friedman told the Independent-Journal in July that the property had been sold for an undisclosed price. The county recorder's office, however, said today that no sale of the property has been recorded.

A Marin Title Guaranty Co. spokesman in San Rafael said today sale of the property to Kaiser-Aetna was "pending" but had not yet been completed.

The City of Fairfax, meanwhile, is still awaiting word from the federal government on a preliminary application for $1 million in matching funds for the city to buy the site and develop it as a park, City Administrator Robert E. Crowe reported.

The city council already has set next Monday for a public hearing on a new zoning ordinance which includes the proposed commerical-recreation zoning.

Mrs. Gray said she was elected chairman of PLAN at a recent meeting of the committee. Adelaide P.Wilson was elected secretary and Joseph Walla, treasurer.

The committee will meet again at 8 p.m. today at Manor School, she said.

MIDNIGHT DEADLINE

Angela Davis Packing Up

By MARY LEYDECKER

Barring a last-minute high court order, Angela Davis is due to be moved some time after midnight tonight from her top-floor cell at the Marin Hall of Justice which she has occupied for almost a year.

She is to be transferred to Santa Clara County, but exactly where, when and how remained a mystery today.

Santa Clara County officials have not yet disclosed whether she will be taken to jail in Palo Alto, Milpitas or San Jose, but Palo Alto seemed the most likely choice since the jail there directly connects with a courtroom.

(Women prisoners in Santa Clara County are customarily housed in a jail in Milpitas.) Miss Davis's actual move to the South Bay county also was expected to be shrouded in secrecy and take place probably in the late night or early morning.

With her will go the piles of books and legal papers she has amassed in a second cell in the women's section of Marin County Jail, a cell which she has used for a workroom.

Miss Davis has been incarcerated in Marin since last Dec. 22 when she was flown under heavy guard from New York, where she had unsuccessfully resisted extradition. She was arrested in October 1970 in New York following a nationwide hunt and was charged with murder, conspiracy and kidnapping in connection with the August 1970 shoot-out at the Marin Civic Center.

It has taken almost a year for the case to reach the trial stage, with lengthy pretrial proceedings which often were delayed by Miss Davis's own attorneys and by her codefendant, Ruchell Magee. (His case was finally separated from hers last summer.)

It appeared today that Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County, the sixth judge in the case who has heard pretrial matters since last May, may preside over the actual trial.

Judge John T. Racanelli, presiding judge of Santa Clara County Superior Court, said yesterday he plans to ask the state Judicial Council to assign an outside judge to hear the case.

It seemed likely to court observers that Arnason will be offered a chance to continue in the case if he wants to.

Racanelli asked Miss Davis's attorneys and the attorney general's staff, who are prosecuting the case, to confer with him in San Jose today.

No date has been set yet for a court appearance in Santa Clara County.

Miss Davis's chief attorney, Howard Moore Jr., has said he planned to file for a writ of prohibition in the District Court of Appeals to stop her transfer to Santa Clara County, but no such petition had been filed by noon today.

Moore had wanted the former UCLA instructor's trial held in San Francisco, where he said residents were less prejudiced against his client than in five other Northern California counties polled by the defense.

Along with Miss Davis (although not in the same vehicle), the enormous file of pretrial proceedings will be moved this week to Santa Clara County.

Transcripts of lengthy hearings, motions, evidence and assorted legal documents will fill several boxes, according to court clerks.

Also to be transported out of Marin are the guns used in the shoot-out, which are yet to be unveiled in court.

A Remap Gamble By Demos

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democrats have decided to push through separate Senate and Assembly reapportionment bills, ignoring veto threats by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Democratic leaders met privately last night to map their strategy after bipartisan negotiations to write a compromise Assembly redistricting bill collapsed.

The Senate has passed a bipartisan plan, but it was amended into the Assembly's measure. Senators later rejected the combined plans.

A two-house conference committee failed to reconcile their differences, and Assembly Democrats yesterday rejected what Republicans said was a "last" effort to compromise. Democrats from both houses then decided to try separate bills.

Although Democrats on paper control both houses—42-38 in the Assembly and 21-19 in the Senate —not all of their members are content with the reapportionment of their districts.

Sen. Lawrence Walsh, DHuntington Park, who is dissatisfied and would prefer continued negotiations, would probably vote against either separate bill to give himself more bargaining time.

Senate Republican leader Fred Marler Jr. of Redding told newsmen the GOP could not be counted on to give Democrats the vote strength they need to pass separate bills.

"We're not inclined into getting blackjacked to get the bills separated," Marler said. "We feel the Assembly bill, as it is now drawn, is a bad bill."

But he said "every man is on his own" to vote whichever way he chooses in a showdown on both bills.

Assembly Republican leader Bob Monagan of Tracy said he expects the reapportionment issue to ultimately wind up in a special reapportionment commission outlined in the constitu-

ORR HEARING

A Heated Round On Policewoman

By LARRY MOWELL

In the most heated hearing to date on the firing of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr, controversy centered last night on whether clerk-typist Marsha S. Kittelman is also a policewoman.

Orr's attorney Leonard Shaw, claimed that in April 1968, the city council, in a closed session, approved her work as an undercover policewoman. He said that while the action may have been illegal, city officials have known all along about her policewoman duties.

"I think I am entitled to show they made every effort to place her in the role of policewoman and that she acted that way," he told the Fairfax Board of Review.

Under cross-examination by Shaw, Mrs. Kittelman — originally called as a hostile witness by the city's attorney, Wallace S. Myers — was asked to give a "thumbnail sketch" of her duties. But it took more than an hour because of objections by Myers, who argued that acting like a police officer doesn't make one an officer. As Myers put it later, "Just because the chief let her do it doesn't make it authentic."

The board, which has final say on whether Orr was properly fired, waved aside Myers's repeated objections to learn Mrs. Kittelman's duties. It declined to rule on whether Mrs. Kittelman was properly appointed a policewoman.

Among more than 20 charges used to justify Orr's firing is that he improperly made Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman on Feb. 1, 1968. City Admin: Robert E. Crowe fired the chief Sept. 30 and was upheld four days later on a 3-2 vote of the city council. Orr then appealed to the board of review.

Mrs. Kittelman testified two hours Monday, four more hours yesterday and will be called again tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The slender, darkhaired police employee is a key figure in many of the charges against Orr. The ousted chief is charged with favoritism toward her and with improper social relations with her.

She was also a passenger when Orr was stopped for a minor traffic violation in Corte Madera in 1969. The charges drawn up by Crowe claim that Orr had been drinking and became "quarrelsome and obstre-

Withholding Agreement Is Reached

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan and the legislature have reached basic agreement on a $550 million tax increase that establishes California's first income tax withholding system and contains a property tax relief bonus for senior citizens.

The senior citizens tax break affecting 241,500 Californians age 62 and over—provided the key to settlement of the months-long legislative struggle over how to balance the state's red ink budget and enact the federal-type income tax collection system.

The property tax relief for senior citizens would cost $46 million and be financed by a combination of fiscal savings and a new tax on take-out hot food, such as chicken and hamburgers.

The compromise, reached last night in a two-house conference committee and agreed to by Reagan, resolved one of the legislature's two lingering major issues.

The second issue, reapportionment, was tied up in a Democratic-Republican stalemate over adoption of an Assembly redistricting plan. The impasse threatened to delay scheduled adjournament Thursday night of the 1971 Legislature's record-length session.

Both houses hoped to vote late today on the tax bill, sponsored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Under the bill, taxes would be raised high enough during the remainder of this fiscal year to plug a $310 million revenue gap in the $6.8 billion state budget, finance $200 million in one-time building construction and provide $21 million in business inventory tax relief.

It would do this by enacting withholding on Jan. 1, a device which would affect eight million Californians and net the state $470 million this fiscal year. The other $80 million would come from increasing taxes on banks, corporations, the oil industry and wealthy individuals

December Offers An Icy Hello

December offered an icy greeting early today to Marin and Southern Sonoma.

Temperatures dipped into the upper 20s in some areas, covering auto. windshields with ice and blanketing the landscape with frost.

Low for the area was 29 in Woodacre. Other temperatures reported were 31 in Novato, 32 in Petaluma, 37 in Tamalpais Valley and Ross, 38 in Mill Valley, 39 in San Rafael and 40 in Sausalito and Bolinas. San Anselmo reported 42 — mild by comparison.

The National Weather Service said the chill would continue tonight, but that a 70 per cent chance of rain was expected tomorrow.

Additional Areas Face Building Ban

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — Construction bans in four more areas of Marin may be ordered early this coming year to halt further water pollution, the staff of the Regional Water Quality Control Board reported yesterday.

Targeted for possible crackdown were the Sausalito-Marin City, Tiburon and Las Gallinas Valley sanitary districts and San Rafael Sanitation District.

The board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, told the board that the four Marin sewage dischargers — among 23 in the region earmarked for possible "enforcement proceedings" — had "a record of violation of board requirements."

Each will be investigated by the staff to determine if action against them should be taken by the board, Dierker said. But he stressed that the staff did not expect to recommend action against all 23.

"Enforcement proceedings" under state law have triggered construction bans in four other Marin jurisdictions, the City of Mill Valley, Richardson Bay Sanitary District, Ross Valley Sanitary District and Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

With yesterday's threatened crackdown against the four other Marin sewage agencies, only the Novato Sanitary District was left free of the threat of a construction ban. The Novato district is under a regional board order to upgrade its sewage treatment and discharge, and the board's staff noted that the district has been meeting a series of deadlines in the order.

Also cited yesterday by the staff for possible action was San Quentin Prison, but the board has unclear jurisdiction over the state institution.

Dierker said the staff would decide by February whether to act against the Sausalito-Marin

Devaluation Of Dollar Considered

ROME (UPI)—The United States today considered devaluation of the once mighty and now seriously beleaguered dollar as part of a new Western monetary system.

Karl Schiller, the West German economic and finance minister, agreed with a questioner that American readiness to discuss concrete figures, including the dollar, represented a breakthrough in monetary negotiations.

"All sorts of figures have been placed on the bargaining table," a European Common Market official said. "The lowest figure as far as the dollar is concerned is a 4.5 per cent devaluation."

He said none of the other figures was lower than 5 per cent.

The United States conceded the possibility of dollar devaluation in negotiations with other members of the so-called "Group of 10."

West European officials said they were "reasonably optimistic that a basis for monetary realignment was possible with final negotiations early next year.

"There is every sign that America is now prepared to see a framework for a new system which would include a change in the dollar's value, provided the conditions are right," a European Common Market participant said.

ORR DINNER TO BE HELD ON DEC. 13

A dinner to honor James R. Orr, Fairfax police chief who was fired by the city manager with concurrence of the city council, will be held Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. at Deer Park Villa, Fairfax.

Susan Tennler of Greenbrae has arranged the dinner, which she said was designed to show support for Orr and raise funds to assist in his defense. A hearing on his ouster is being held by the Fairfax Board of Review.

Mrs. Tennler said 160 tickets to the dinner already have been sold. Most police chiefs in Marin County will be among those attending, she said.

Nixon Gives Reluctant Wage Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon sent reluctant word to Congress today that he would go along with contractual wage boosts denied during the recent freeze. This appeared to clear the way for prompt Senate passage of Phase II economic controls good through April 30, 1973.

In the House however, the Banking committee, on an 18-18 tie vote, refused to approve its own version of the continued economic control bill. Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the action "easily" could delay final enactment of control legislation by 30 days and keep Congress in session until after Christmas.

The House committee bill, as did the Senate bill on which a final vote was expected later today, contained a number of provisions to which the Nixon administration objected, including approval of most pay raises that had been contracted for prior to the 90-day freeze.

Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., of the Senate Banking

GIANT JAPANESE OIL SPILL

This aerial view spots the bow (foreground) and stern of the Liberian oil tanker Juliana off Niigata, Japan. The tanker was split in two yesterday by heavy seas, dumping between 2,300 and 4,600 tons of oil into Japan's coastal waters. Japanese maritime officials said today they will bombard the oil slick with neutralizing chemicals to prevent fire or explosions. The tanker's 47-member-crew — mostly Chinese — was rescued by helicopter.

Red Shells Blast South Viet Base

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops hammered a South Vietnamese base in the Central Highlands with hundreds of high explosive shells Tuesday and launched smaller barrages at other Vietnamese soldiers operating in the Cambodian rubber country north of Saigon, spokesmen said.

There was heavy U.S. air support from B52 bombers and helicopter gunships in both areas, U.S. spokesmen said. At least two waves of B52s struck in the Highlands areas against Communist infiltration routes near the junction of the Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam Borders.

The U.S. command said there also were heavy B52 raids in support of the 45,000-man South Vietnamese push into the rubber country, but declined to give a number. American helicopter gunships flew nearly 230 missions in that area.

At the headquarters of the operation in Tay Ninh province, one American UH1 Huey helicopter was heavily damaged, when struck by an M79 grenade round fired by South Vietnamese Rangers celebrating their monthly payday.

The Rangers battled Popular Forces (PF) militiamen assigned to guard the base with automatic weapons and grenade launchers. One man was killed and seven wounded.

Other brawling soldiers ignited a fire in a dependent housing area of the 25th Infantry Division on the sprawling base, and nine huts were burned.

In Saigon the U.S. command announced the withdrawal of 1,250 more GIs from Vietnam as it sped to meet the bulk of President Nixon's 45,000-man December-January pullout schedule by two days before Christmas.

President Nguyen Van Thieu flew to the Mekong Delta city of Ca Mau Wednesday and in a speech there rejected a recent proposal by other Southeast Asian nations for neutralization of the area. "Nobody can force the Vietnamese to accept a solution that we have not made ourselves," Thieu said.

Campaign Ads Bill Goes Through House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With strong bipartisan support, the House has approved legislation that supporters hope will become the first major campaign reform law in 46 years. The bill sharply curtails election advertising by presidential and congressional candidates.

The House passed the bill in a 373-23 vote Tuesday and sent it to a House-Senate Conference Committee, where major differences remain to be reconciled.

Russell D. Hemenway, national director of the Committee for an Effective Congress, hailed the House version as "veto proof" and described it as "far stronger than anyone thought possible when we began." The House turned back an attempt to insert in the measure a provision to limit individual contributions to federal candidates. Republicans had warned this clause would inspire a presidential veto.

The House refused to repeal the equal time provision of the Communications Act, which inhibits television debates. The repeal is included in the Senate bill.

This is the most controversial difference in the two bills which House and Senate negotiators will try to remedy in time for final approval before Congress adjourns later this month.

In a series of votes, House members showed they will not approve repeal of the equal time provision for House candidates, partly out of fear that broadcasters could give unlimited free time to one candidate at the expense of another. The equal time provision requires broadcasters to give the same amount of air time to all candidates seeking the same office. The White House has warned that the President would veto a bill in which repeal applied only to presidential candidates.

In addition to the apparent impasse over equal time repeal, conferees also must try to compromise differences over monitoring of campaign receipts and expenditures and exactly what is covered by the spending limits.

The House voted to limit spending by all federal candidates to 10 cents per voter or $50,000, whichever is higher.

Nixon's Red China Visit A Free-Wheeling Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's one week visit to China will feature a series of free-wheeling talks with Communist leaders, with no set list of topics and the minimum aim of establishing some basic communication.

The White House offered that appraisal Tuesday along with some more details of Nixon's trip beginning Feb. 21. He will spend about four days in Peking, where most of the diplomatic discussions will take place, then visit Shanghai and Hangchow. Mrs. Nixon will accompany him.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's security affairs adviser, said there were no expectations the visit would produce dramatic results, such as U.S. recognition for the Peking government. He admitted that both the Indochina War and the status of Nationalist China would probably come up. But overall, the talks will be "free-wheeling with each side free to raise any subject it considers crucial."

Kissinger said Nixon's position on the war would be that the United States hopes to settle it through Vietnamization and at the peace talks, and his stand on Taiwan would be that the issue should be settled by the two Chinas.

Kissinger said the "minimum" objective of Nixon's China visit would be opening the lines of communication and establishing exchanges on cultural and intellectual levels.

"There will be no deals made by either side at the expense of other countries or concerning other countries," Kissinger said.

"No agreements will be made about third-party problems," he added. He also said that the United States would continue to maintain its mutual defense treaty with the government of Taiwan.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A "Judge' Now

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Michael A. Simmons, a red haired 18-year-old with a 1-Y deferment, will judge whether his friends should be called into military service.

"When they come before the board, they aren't my friends anymore," he said yesterday, after taking the oath of office to sit on local draft board 118 in Perry County, Pa.

Simmons, of Marysville, Pa., is believed the nation's youngest local draft board member. An employee of an auto-parts firm in Harrisburg, he supports President Nixon's Vietnam policy and a proposed all-volunteer army.

Seeding Praised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two weather scientists estimated today that cloud seeding in drought-stricken Florida last spring increased rainfall by at least 100,000 acre-feet and quenched fires ravaging the Everglades.

They said the value of the water to Florida was 32 to 68 times the project's cost.

The estimate was reported by Dr. Joanne Simpson and Dr. William L. Woodley of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Experimental Meteorology Laboratory in Miami.

The seeding was carried out by NOAA and the state. Gov. Reubin Askew had asked NOAA's help in an attempt to relieve Florida's worst drought.

Pays For Murder

SATTAHIP, Thailland (UPI) — Thep Kawenkao, a 29-year-old Thai accused of murdering a U.S. Air Force colonel, was executed today by a five-man firing squad on personal orders of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn.

Thousands of spectators crowded onto the execution site, a barren hill overlooking the Gulf of Thailand and the Utapao Air Base, but a cloth screen hid Thep's final agony. The firing squad fired several short bursts at a bullseye tacked onto the screen.

Thep, 29, publicly confessed minutes before he died that he shot and killed Lt. Col. Harry M. Funk, 50, of Lockbourne, Ohio. He said robbery was the motive and expressed the hope that "maybe in my next life I will be a rich man."

Butz Will Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate will confirm Earl L. Butz as agriculture secretary by a margin of at least 10 votes, administration forces predicted today. Butz also forecast victory.

The Senate planned to begin debating the Butz nomination late today, although a vote was not expected until later in the week. One GOP source said a poll taken in the Senate showed 47 votes committed to the former Eisenhower administration farm adviser, with more expected.

To be confirmed, Butz would need a simple majority of those senators present and voting. If all 100 vote that figure would be 51; but absentees and illnesses made it likely that fewer than 100 would be present for the vote.

Diplomatic Break

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq has decided to break off diplomatic relations with Britain and Iran following Tehran's military occupation of three strategic islands in the Persian Gulf, Baghdad Radio said today.

The Syrian government also condemned the occupation and called on the United Nations to act immediately to return them to their "rightful owners."

The islands — Abu Mussa, Big Tumb and Little Tumb — have been under British protecting power, but Britain will pull the last of its own troops out of the area by the end of the year.

Big Trade Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — A group of American companies has signed a business agreement with the Soviet Union swelling the value of all U.S.-Soviet trade by more than 60 per cent, a spokesman said today.

The agreement, signed yesterday, provides for the exchange of about $65 million worth of U.S. industrial goods for about $60 million worth of Soviet nonferrous metals, an American embassy spokesman said.

The agreement was signed at the foreign ministry in the presence of U.S. Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who just completed 10 days of exploratory talks with the Soviets.

Mrs. Meir D.C. Trip Is 'A Great Mission'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon has termed Premier Golda Meir's trip to Washington to meet with President Nixon one of the "greatest missions a statesman has ever undertaken."

Allon spoke Tuesday night to an all-woman audience in Tel Aviv hours after Mrs. Meir left for Washington for meetings with both Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

He said Mrs. Meir's mission was aimed at smoothing U.S.Israeli relations and promoting a Middle East settlement.

"I have never known any greater mission a stateman has ever undertaken," Allon said in an address to the Jubilee of the Women Workers Council. He said the great powers could promote a Middle East peace if they realized that negotiations were the right way for achieving a settlement.

Officials have said Mrs. Meir will press for renewal of shipments to Israel of U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers and greater American support for Isarel on the political front.

Allon said that despite threatening speeches from Egypt, there still were good chances for preserving the 17-month-old Suez Canal cease-fire as "part of further efforts towards an overall Middle East accord."

But he told Egyptian leaders that any new war boded ill for them.

"The time has come, before it is too late, for the Egyptian leaders to realize that a fourth round of fighting holds great disasters for the war mongers," he said.

Army Clears Firing Zone At Dacca

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pakistani army has begun leveling a number of villages in the area around the East Pakistan capital of Dacca to give a clear zone of fire around military installations and communication centers, reports from Dacca said today.

Foreign travelers arriving in Dacca said they saw bodies floating in the Burhi Ganga River and there were estimates that as many as 250 Bengalis were killed in the clearing operations.

The Pakistan army is caught up in a series of border skirmishes with Indian troops and is fighting a civil war with Bangla Desh guerrillas who have been increasingly active in the Dacca area.

Police sources in Dacca said guerrillas assassinated two right-wing politicians Tuesday night, Shah Jahan and Sheikh Nasirullah, and reported five armed men attacked a commercial bank in the city and shot and killed a night watchman.

Morning Meeting Draws Criticism

A Novato resident last night said a scheduled breakfast meeting of the Novato Unified School District Board and Novato City Council is "not fair to the public."

Betty Machado, two-time candidate for the council, told school trustees last night that having a breakfast meeting showed a "lack of consideration."

Trustees and councilmen are to meet at 7:30 a.m. Dec. 14 at Sambo's restaurant to discuss common problems.

Supt. James G. Bunker said he shared Mrs. Machado's misgivings and that breakfast meetings "tend to violate the spirit of the Brown Act," passed to insure that its public business is publicly conducted.

Mrs. Machado requested that the meeting be changed to 7:30 p.m. at Novato High School, so residents working on revisions tothe Novato Area General Plan could attend.

Trustees said the joint meeting at the restaurant is open to the public, will be conducted informally and no attempt will be made to arrive at any decisions.

Mrs. Machado said she couldn't make it to Sambo's restaurant at 7:30 a.m. and neither could members of neighborhood committees on the area general plan.

Trustees suggested that they could meet with committee members at another time and answer their questions on school facilities. Meeting at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14, just prior to the 8 p.m. regular board meeting, wouldn't permit enough time for discussion, they said.

Novato School Facility Utilization Fees Hiked

The Novato Unified School District Board last night increased its fees for use of school facilities and then set use priorities for the facilities.

School-sponsored groups, such as clubs, student body or school employee groups have top priority.

Second are groups connected with the schools, such as parent-teacher associations; third, character building youth groups, such as the Boy Scouts; fourth, groups sponsored by the Novato Recreation Department; and fifth, other groups.

Fees will be charged only to organizations that charge admission that isn't used "entirely for the benefit of the pupils of the district."

The hourly fees (with past fees in parentheses) are:

Multi-purpose room, when custodian is normally on duty, $7.50 ($6) and when custodian isn't normally on duty, $10 ($7.50);

High School gymnasium, $20 (no change); high school cafeteria, $8 ($5), plus cafeteria personnel, $4 ($2.50); classroom, $4 ($3) and custodial overtime, $5.50 ($3.75).

In each case there is a minimum fee equal to the fee for two hours.

Nativity Scene Ban Is Sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The display in public schools of Christmas cribs, nativity scenes or other holiday symbols with a religious origin violates the constitutional separation of church and state, the American Civil Liberties Union says.

The ACLU's Southern California chapter has mailed a set of "constitutional guidelines" for Christmas and other holidays to school superintendents, a spokesman said.

The guildelines told school officials they should not permit display of cribs, nativity scenes, crosses, menorahs — the seven branched candelabra used in Jewish holiday observances — or other religious symbols, and that students should not be required to attend any holiday observance.

Truck Drivers Get Pay Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Wage boosts gained by Northern California construction truck drivers during a 4 1-2-week strike have been approved by the federal government, the Teamsters Union announced Tuesday.

Morris Less, a union spokesman, said the two-year labor contract between the union and contractors had been approved by the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

He added that the pact does not require further approval by President Nixon's Pay Board and that the agreement provides

A 29-year-old Los Angeles County man has been named assistant city manager of San Rafael.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said he would offer the appointment of William J. Bielsen of Covina to the city council for confirmation Monday.

The appointment to the $15,600-a-year post would be effective Jan. 1, McCown said.

Bielsen, a 1965 public administration graduate of San Francisco State College, is assistant to the city manager of Covina. Prior to taking that post in 1970, he had been an administrative assistant with the City of Palo Alto for four years.

He is married and has three children.

The assistant city manager post was created by the San Rafael council earlier this year following the retirement because of physical disability of John T. Goodale, one of two administrative assistants to McCown.

The new post will carry more responsibilities and provide continuity in heading the city's operations, McCown said.

Virginia H. Congdon remains as the one administrative assistant under the reorganization of the city manager's office.

State Holiday Bill To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate yesterday passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill making the second Monday in September a state holiday in recognition of California's admission to the union.

The measure by Assemblyman Peter Chacon, D-San Diego, was approved 22-11 despite complaints by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, who said the old admission date of Sept. 9 held "sentimental" value for him.

11 Killed In Truck Ambush

MANILA (UPI) — Suspected Moslem terrorists ambushed a logging truck in the Southern Philippines province of Cotabato Del Norte Tuesday, killing 11 persons and wounding six.

Philippine Constabulary (National Police) authorities said the truck was attacked on the outskirts of Maganoy Town, 480 miles south of Manila.

Novato Schools Lift Ban On Food Sales

Novato Unified School District trustees last night agreed to lift the ban on volunteer food sales at elementary schools, opening the way for such events as "hot-dog days" and cupcake sales.

Trustees voted 6-to-1 to permit such sales, usually conducted by parent-teacher associations, subject to approval of guidelines.

The lone dissenter, Trustee Carolyn Crabtree, said: "I just don't believe this best serves the children of the district."

The vote came after Carolyn S. Jones, chairman of the food service sales study committee of the North Marin Council of Parent-Teacher Association, reported parent support for "a weekly volunteer food sale."

A committee survey, which covered all elementary schools except San Ramon, showed the majority in support, Mrs. Jones said.

Trustees requested that the committee submit guidelines covering health standards, frequency of sales, preparation and dispensing of foods.

"We had enough hassle getting out of the food business and this is just going to put us in it again," Mrs. Crabtree said.

Trustees decided last February after the school lunch program was discontinued to halt volunteer food sales in elementary schools until a policy was set on food sales.

The matter came before the board again on Nov. 3 when the Meadow Park-Hamilton Parent-Teacher Association requested permission to sell hot dogs one day a week.

Trustees then asked the food service sales study committee to report on the food program. The committee's final report last night endorsed volunteer food sales.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

LIBRARY PROJECTS — Approved application for federal funds, $14,449 for library supplies including $374 for Our Lady of Loretto School, since the funds are for all schools in the area; and $58,548 to establish a media center at Sinaloa Junior High School, which would include films, recordings, slides, maps and books.

INSTRUCTION FOR BLIND — Approved a contract, in conjunction with six other school districts, to provide three blind students with special instruction in mobility, at a cost of $1,950 in state aid funds.

BAD SCORES — Were told by Supt. James G. Bunker that a state report rating Novato 12th-graders low in spelling was inaccurate, because some of those tested missed the spelling portion of the state test and their zeroes were recorded in the average. The Novato schools administration will conduct a test of its own, Bunker said.

HEALTH STUDY — Commended school nurses Margaret Feldstein and Linda Swaab for creating a program of health studies, which intermingles health with other fields, such as history.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Dec. 14 at Novato High School lecture hall, instead of the regularly scheduled Dec. 7 date, with a joint meeting on tap with the Novato City Council at 7:30 a.m. Dec. 14 at Sambo's restaurant.

Marin City Seminar Set

Antoher in a series of seminars on community-police relations will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Manzanita center in Marin City.

The session will give residents a chance to discuss local law enforcement procedures, the jurisdiction of police and to find ways to improve police services and answer the needs of the community, according to Bella H. Aaron, project director for Marin County police-community relations.

Dr. William Scalapino of the College of Marin behaviorial sciences department will be chairman. He will be assisted by a panel of 11 public officials and police representatives.

Civil Defense Alarm Surprising To Marin

Marin County police and fire departments were surprised, if not startled, today when a Civil Defense take-cover alarm went off at 1:45 a.m.

But it turned out to be a test.

John H. Atkinson, director of county communications, said the alarm normally is tested each morning at 9:45 a.m., but that it went off eight hours early today.

Atkinson said the alarm apparently was triggered by a test of the system in Alameda County and some stations on the circuit weren't turned off.

He said officials at the county communications center quickly determined the alarm was a test, and word was broadcast to Marin public safety agencies.

While police and firemen on duty in Marin may have been surprised by the alarm, Atkinson said the communications center received an inquiry only from Fairfax firemen.

Treatment Plant Plans Submitted

Plans for $400,000 in improvements to Mill Valley's sewage treatment plant — improvements which could result in a partial lifitng of the Southern Marin building ban — have been submitted to the regional water quality control board.

The proposal calls for a system of microstrainers — fine mesh screens designed to filter solids out of sewage effluent — and holding ponds to treat wet-weather sewage which now is bypassed directly into the bay.

The plans were submitted by Yoder, Trotter, Orlob and Associates, Mill Valley's sewage consultants, seven months ahead of a July 1, 1972, deadline imposed by the regional board, which ordered the building ban.

If the board approves the plans, the project would be eligible for up to 80 per cent federal and state financing. The interim project would be used only until Southern Marin sanitary districts are merged, an estimated five years from now.

ORR

perous" when told not to drive because of his intoxicated condition.

Mrs. Kittelman again denied all the charges in which she is linked with Orr, but the policewoman question was the biggest bone of contention.

Myer's repeated declaration that the promotion to policewoman was illegal no matter what duties Mrs. Kittelman performed or who knew about them led Shaw to comment: "Apparently everybody is out of step except the current administration."

Shaw's remark won muttered agreement from the audience of about 60 and a warning from chairman Freeman Blake to stay on the subject.

Mrs. Kittelman said she first went to work as an undercover agent of the Marin County Narcotics Bureau in 1968, three years after she was hired as a clerk on the Fairfax force.

She said she was sworn in as a peace officer by Orr at that time. She said she thought the oath she took made her a policewoman although she took no Civic Service test, received no pay increase and was not formally appointed by the city council.

Myers argued that hiring of a police officer is not valid unless the officer first takes a Civil Service exam and is approved by action of the city council.

Board member William T. Benson wondered why Myers and other city officials allowed her to act as a policewoman for three years if it was common knowledge among city officials that she was not formally appointed. Myers's only reply was that she worked as a clerk matron during the day and confined most of her narcotics work to evening hours.

Under Shaw's questioning, she said she made many evening undercover narcotics buys, often accompanied by Orr as a backup. She again stated she and Orr have never behaved improperly together.

On the contrary, she said, Orr was a friend of both her son and her husband. She painted a warm family relationship in which the police chief often enjoyed recreational activities with her husband, Alan, and babysat for her 9-year-old son while she was at evening law enforcement classes.

Testimony by three of the four prior witnesses indicated Orr's car was often seen at the Kittelman residence during evening and early morning hours.

On other subjects raised by Myers, she said cancellation of three parking tickets on her vehicle this year were initiated by Sgt. Andy Grimes, not Chief Orr.

She also said delays of six to eight months in filing reports with the state Bureau of Criminal Statistics earlier this year were caused by complex new procedures. She said other police agencies had the same difficulty.

She also admitted studying for night police courses while on duty on occasion and on at least one occasion leaving orders for policemen to type up their own reports.

tion as the fallback when lawmakers fail to agree.

"The inability of the California Legislature to reapportion legislative districts is regrettable, but probably not surprising in a year that has been marked by failure and frustration," Monagan said.

The commission —composed of the lieutenant governor, controller, attorney general, secretary of state and state superintendent of public instruction —would be controlled by the GOP three to two. Democrats contend the commission is unconstitutional.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, said he believes the California Supreme Court ultimately will decide reapportionment.

The Republican proposal, according to Monagan, would have retained the current partisan complexion of the Assembly, but would also have created two GOP seats in San Mateo and Orange counties.

It probably would have resulted in the defeat of Republicans Charles Conrad of Sherman Oaks and Floyd Wakefield of South Gate— something Democrats say is non-negotiable.

It would have increased the GOP registration of newly elected Assembly Bill Brophy, R-Los Angeles, in a district Democrats still hope to recapture next year.

Marler also said until reapportionment is settled Republicans will refuse to vote for adjournment of the legislative session.

CONTROLS

Committee and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., the committee's ranking Republican, said the White House had decided not to fight retroactive pay to millions of workers who were denied raises during the 90-day freeze.

Tower said the administration also has given up its fight against an amendment adopted by the Senate to grant a 5.5 per cent pay increase to the government's civilian and military employes on Jan. 1. President Nixon had sought to postpone the increase until July 1.

The increase will add $1 billion to the government's deficit of $28 billion this fiscal year — the largest peacetime deficit in American history.

The administration's willingness to yield on those two issues cleared the way for quick congressional action of a bill extending to April 30, 1973, Nixon's broad powers to control the economy.

TAXES

now enjoying "preferential income" loopholes.

The bill passed the Senate with strong bipartisan support last week, but the Assembly forced it into a two-House conference committee where Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, held out for more senior citizens property tax relief.

The Senate-passed bill would have provided $16 million in additional senior citizens property tax relief starting next July. The conference committee, at Assembly Democrats' urging, pushed that up another $30 million.

$3 Million Jewel Wardrobe For Liz

PARIS (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor will wear $3 million worth of diamonds when she goes to a party Thursday night, a spokesman for the actress said today.

Along with Miss Taylor and the diamonds will go a heavy police escort to surround the Chateau de Ferriere estate where Baron Guy de Rothschild is giving the party, the spokesman said.

OBITUARIES

George C. Goheen Jr., Resident Of Tiburon

GEORGE C. GOHEEN JR.
Marin builder dies

George C. Goheen Jr., Tiburon resident and Mill Valley home builder, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital following surgery last month for a brain tumor. He was 45.

Goheen also was associated with the Brebner Agency of San Francisco in producing advertising and documentary films and was a prize-winning amateur painter. Twenty years ago, he owned and operated his own fishing boat along the Pacific Coast, then turned to rebuilding old homes in the Carmel area, before joining the building firm owned by his father, George C. Goheen Sr., longtime Mill Valley resident. He later established his own building firm.

Goheen was a third-generation native of San Francisco. He graduated from St. Ignatius High School and studied medicine at University of Southern California before joining the Navy in World War II. He was a charter member of the Belvedere Tennis Club.

He is survived by his wife, Lynn, of the family home; four sons, George, of British Columbia, and Brian, Mark and Dane of the home, his father in Mill Valley, and his mother, Mrs. Jane Boccilli of San Francisco.

Memorial service will be conducted at 5 p.m. tomorrow in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, by Father Robert Morse of Oakland, who is godfather to Goheen's four sons.

Friends have suggested memorial contributions to the Goheen College Fund, care of Rev. Robert Morse, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Oakland.

MISS KIILERICH

Private funeral was held today for Karen Kiilerich, 7, at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato.

Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kiilerich of 642 Louise Avenue, Novato, died Monday at a local hospital following an illness. She was a pupil at West Novato School.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a sister, Jane, and a brother, Jerry, both of Novato.

Inurnment was private.

ALENA ANGELL

Funeral for Alena F. Angell, 71, a 44-year resident of Marin, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Angell died Friday at a local rest home, apparently of natural causes, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

She was born in Oregon and came to California as an infant. She had lived in Marin since 1927.

She is survived by a daughter, Myrtle Wright, of Lancaster, Los Angeles County.

Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley, is in charge of arrangements.

MRS. La SANCE

Private graveside services for Ruth LaSance, 87, of Santa Venetia, will be held Friday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Hollywood Hills.

Mrs. LaSance, widow of Joseph LaSance, died Monday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was a native of Cincinnati and had lived in California for 39 years.

She was a resident of Marin for six years and lived with her daughter, Jane Hill London, at 9 Cushing Avenue.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are two grandchildren.

ROY JOHNSON

Funeral arrangements were pending today in Brookings, Ore. for Roy F. Johnson, 69, a former Petaluma resident.

Johnson died Monday at a Brookings Hospital after a long illness. A native of San Francisco, he had moved to Petaluma at the age of 14 and had operated a ranch on Spring Hill Road until a year ago when he retired to Oregon. He had also worked as a fisherman.

He is survived by his wife, Marie of Brookings; two sons, Roy R. Johnson and William Johnson of Petaluma; a daughter, Margaret Johnson of Brookings; his mother, Christine Johnson of Petaluma; a sister, Lillian Bostrom of Petaluma, and three grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the Heart Fund or Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, San Francisco.

MRS. HARDY

Funeral for Dorothy A. Hardy, 56, of Petaluma, will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Mrs. Hardy collapsed Monday at her home, 1405 Goodwin Avenue, and was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

She was born and reared in Eureka and moved to San Francisco as a child where she graduated from Commerce High School. She and her husband, Charles Hardy, a truck driver, moved to Petaluma 29 years ago.

Mrs. Hardy was a charter member of the Penngrove Grange.

She is also survived by three sons, Ronald, Jerry and Charles Hardy; two daughters, Carol Lee and Sandra Hawkins, all of Petaluma; a brother, Jerry Lee of Sonoma, and 11 grandchildren.

Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

MRS HICKS

Patricia A. Hicks of Tiburon died unexpectedly yesterday after collapsing at her home. Coroner's investigator Keith C. Craig said cause of death would not be known until an autopsy had been performed. She was 36.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Hicks had lived in California and Marin County one year, residing at 21 Tanfield Road. She was a member of St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon. Her husband, Richard, is a vice president for Dean Witter and Company in San Francisco.

Mrs. Hicks is also survived by three sons, Christopher, Thomas and Brian and two daughters, Tracy and Kelly, all of Tiburon. Other survivors include her mother, Mrs. Mildred Rabideau of Toledo; four brothers, Gerald, James and Robert Rabideau of Ohio and John Rabideau of Florida and a sister, Mrs. Mary Jasper of Florida.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Hilary's Church. Rosary will be recited at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Burial will be in San Rafael.

JOHN GOWLAND

John Gowland, 70, of San Rafael, a retired customs official, died yesterday in a local hospital following a short illness.

He was born in Leeds, England, and came to the U.S. with his parents when he was 6 years old. He lived in Daly City and worked for the U.S. Mint and then for seven years was a customs officer until he retired. He and his wife, Mary, moved to 1135 Grand Avenue, 21 years ago.

He was a member of Crocker Lodge 454 Free and Accepted Masons of Daly City; California Consistory, Scottish Rite Bodies of San Francisco and Islam Temple Shrine.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter Judith Eline Gowland of San Jose.

Masonic funeral by Crocker Lodge 454 will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Olivet Memorial Park, Colma.

BANS

City, Las Gallinas Valley and Tiburon sanitary districts, and by April whether to act against the San Rafael district and San Quentin.

Construction bans imposed last summer by the board against Mill Valley, Richardson Bay and the Ross Valley districts allowed new construction in each only to the extent that interim improvements reduced pollution. The ban in Bolinas allows no construction until the community builds a sewage treatment system — with plans still up in the air.

The board's area engineer for Marin, Dennis Mishek, reported that sewer leaks in the Ross Valley district had been corrected enough to allow 459 new residential units. The result was the district had earned a surplus "credit" of 77 units more than it estimates will be built by next July — thus the ban in effect has been lifted temporarily until a new construction spurt.

In Mill Valley, however, some 60 planned units will continue to be held up indefinitely until the city's sewage system is upgraded, Mishek reported.

Figures for the Richardson Bay district were more complex because it is divided into three watersheds. In the Ricardo Road watershed, district improvements have earned 123 new residential units, or only one more unit than the district estimates will be built by next July.

In the Salt Works watershed, however, there is a surplus of new permits available, with 88 earned through improvements against only 48 expected by next July.

But in the Trestle Glen watershed, the district's "credit" is for only 31 new units, while it expects plans for 34 by July.

Yesterday's report could have the effect of drying up financing for new construction in the four districts slated for possible construction bans — as happened in Mill Valley, Richardson Bay and Ross Valley early this year when the board's staff suggested construction bans in these districts.

Emergency Ordinance On Grading

A 90-day interim ordinance to curb indiscriminate grading of roads in West Marin was adopted yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The emergency ordinance was requested months ago by conservationists but had become entangled in red tape.

As adopted, the ordinance greatly reduces the limits under which land developers and speculators can grade new roads without county authorization and supervision.

Approval of the long-awaited measure came during the board's third experimental "swing shift" meeting.

While such meetings have been held once a month since September to encourage greater public attendance, yesterday's session drew only 40 persons at peak attendance.

The audience, larger before the 5 p.m. dinner break than after, sat silently during most of the meeting. Only five persons spoke in support of the interim ordiance. None spoke in opposition.

The only negative board vote was by Supervisor John F. McInnis who based his opposition on the ordinance's lack of provision for a committee to review applications for future road grading. The ordinance now leaves review to the department of public works.

At his urging, creation of such a committee — to be made up of officials from the county counsel's office, public works and planning departments — will be considered at the board's Dec. 14 meeting.

The interim ordinance, Public Works Director Ray K. Foreaker told the board, will help control damaging road grading until the ordinance previously in effect is updated.

Under conditions of the interim ordinance, land developers must have county permission if their proposed road is longer than 250 feet, requires hillside cuts of more than eight feet, fills of more than three feet or grading of more than 500 cubic yards.

Under the previous ordinance, there was no limit to length. However, it required county permission for hillside cuts of more than 10 feet, fills of more than 25 feet or grading of more than 1,000 cubic yards.

The action was prompted by an increasing number of illegally "pioneered" roads in West Marin.

Delay in adopting the interim ordinance was caused when planning department and public works department officials worked independently of each other and came up with two ordinances. Supervisors, when handed the two ordinances, returned them without action and requested the two be merged.

Supervisors Delay Rock Concert Policy

The future of rock concerts at the new Marin Veterans Memorial Building — left damaged last Wednesday after its first such affair — will not be decided for another two weeks, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

The delay came as about 40 persons sat quietly in the audience waiting to hear the board's reaction to the concert which drew about 2,200 persons and left the building littered and stained. (A second rock concert last Saturday night was a financial failure and did not produce any damage.)

In delaying the decision, however, the board voted unanimously to extend a moratorium banning rock concerts until after the question of future shows is resolved.

That decision is expected at the Dec. 14 meeting when a special committee made up of supervisors John F. McInnis and Peter R. Arrigoni will report on policy guidelines for use of the auditorium.

The moratorium was imposed last week — prior to Wednesday's concert — to give the committee time to delve into problems connected with opening the auditorium to affairs such as rock concerts.

McInnis told the board yesterday that the committee needed another two weeks to come up with proposed guidelines.

While no decision was made on whether such concerts will be allowed in the future, several supervisors expressed regret and dismay at the results of Wednesday's affair.

"As far as I'm concerned, rock concerts are through," chairman Louis H. Baar said. "We made it clear that how they (youths) behaved would determine the building's use in the future."

He was joined by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste who said there was "no excuse for what happened."

McInnis, while expressing "deep regret" for the damage, said he had no intent to "willy-nilly prohibit every rock concert from the auditorium."

"The entire matter would have been handled differently," he said, "if the board had had policy (guidelines) to operate by. "I think we have learned a great deal from it," he added.

Damage to the building yesterday was set at $2,240 excluding repair or replacement of carpeting. A figure on carpets, and a recommendation on whether to replace or repair them will come after further negotiations with the insurance company, Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said.

He requested and got board approval to withhold a $2,000 security deposit and about $5,000 in gate receipts from concert promoters until settlement with the insurance company.

The concert was put on as a benefit for the Marin Open House drug abuse center by Sausalito pharmacist Frederick S. Mayer. Mayer did not attend yesterdays meeting.

Girl, 17, Held In Theft Case

A 17-year-old San Rafael girl was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall yesterday after she attempted to exchange a pair of stolen boots for cash at a San Rafael shoe store.

Police said Marilyn Paula Gaines, of 50 Merrydale Road, was booked on suspicion of possessing stolen property after a clerk at Barney's Shoe Store, 821 Francisco Boulevard, recognized the boots as ones having been reported stolen earlier from the automobile of David A. Battaglia of 268 Devon Drive, San Rafael.

The sales slip made out to Battaglia was still in the boots, police said.

Nativity Tableaux To Be Staged At School

A public showing of tableaux on the Nativity, staged by students, will be given at 8 p.m., Dec. 15 and 16 at Alumnae Hall, San Domenico School in San Anselmo.

The tableaux will represent the story of the Nativity as told in Fra Angelico's 15th Century frescoes. The tableaux will be augmented by Bibical readings, chants and carols, with mimes between them.

Bus Service Radio Topic

The Golden Gate Bridge District's local Marin bus service will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speaking on the panel will be Stephan C. Leonoundakis, member of the bridge district board of directors; Michael Wornum, Marin County supervisor, member of the bridge district board of directors and chairman of the district's transportation committee; James B. Robertson, general manager of Marin Transit District, and Jerome M. Kuykendall, transit developer of the bridge district.

Questions telephoned in during the broadcast tomorrow will be answered. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Easing On Houseboat Ruling Urged

Marin supervisors, prompted by a lack of progress in cleaning up the houseboat mess on Richardson Bay, called last night for the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to relax a regulation which supervisors say is to blame.

The long-standing and complex houseboat issue centers on county attempts to weed out substandard vessels from several marinas and to force sewer service to the remaining houseboats.

Marina operators have contended they can not finance sewer and dock improvements unless they are permitted to expand their houseboat colonies to provide the extra revenue. But, they say, they cannot afford to expand because BCDC requires that all houseboats brought to the bay after May must float at all times. Houseboats in the past have rested on bay mud during low tide.

The result of the ruling is that expensive dredging — to insure floatation — would be required for new houseboats taking the place of those judged substandard.

The supervisors, meeting with BCDC Executive Director Joseph E. Bodovitz, called on the commission to impose the floatation ruling only when the number of houseboats exceeds the number now allowed to lie in the mud.

Under this proposal, new houseboats could take the place of those ruled substandard without requiring expensive dredging for floatation.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

COURTHOUSE — Appointed Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni to the county's negotiating team for sale of the old courthouse site in San Rafael to the City of San Rafael.

CENTER POINT — Authorized the health department to forward an application for Center Point drug abuse center to the California Council on Criminal Justice for $61,180 for a drug abuse treatment program.

FIRE TRUCK — Authorized the transfer of a used county fire truck from the Bello Beach Volunteer Fire Company to the Muir Beach Community Services District.

COURTROOM — Authorized a $434 change order to the $147,050 contract for repair of the bombed courtroom at the Hall of Justice to relocate a jury box.

BON AIR ROAD — Approved a $7,612 agreement with the engineering firm of Coleman, Selmi and Simpkins for preliminary engineering of the proposed realignment of Bon Air Road near Marin General Hospital.

MANY ROLES — Women perform many roles in guerrilla warfare which is currently taking place in Northern Ireland. In this photo supplied to United Press International by Life magazine women of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) — wearing stockings over their heads to mask their identities — receive training in the use of revolvers at a secret camp. Meanwhile today, the IRA was accused of luring a British soldier into a death trap.

Novato Neighborhood Committees Are Set

The five Novato neighborhood committees participating in revision of the Novato Area General Plan are moving to have preliminary reports by Jan. 7.

The committees, which will recommend Novato area goals and policies to the city planning commission, elected chairmen and set meeting dates during organizational gatherings Monday night.

The chairmen and meeting schedules, all at 8 p.m., are:

Area One, San Marin and downtown, Robert Burke of 211 San Felipe Way, Mondays at San Ramon School.

Area Two, east of Highway 101, Al Rivasplata of 302 Olive Avenue, Wednesdays at Olive School.

Area Three, West Novato, George Barnwell of 842 Sutro Avenue, Wednesdays at Sinaloa Junior High School.

Area Four, west of Highway 101 and south of Diablo Avenue, Harold K. Blue of 1294 Leafwood Drive, Thursdays at Rancho School.

Area Five, Marin Country Club Estates, Lima Verde and Hamilton Air Force Base, D.P. Donovan of 435 Fairway Drive, Tuesdays at Loma Verde School.

16 Compete In Novato 'Junior Miss' Pageant

Sixteen students from Novato and San Marin High schools have entered the eighth annual Junior Miss Pageant sponsored by the Novato Jaycees.

The entries, double the number on last year's list, will be competing to win the local title and advance to district competition in the nationwide contest.

The pageant will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12 at the Novato Community House, according to Thomas McGruder, pageant chairman.

The local winner will receive a $150 scholarship; first runnerup, a $75 scholarship, and second runnerup, a $50 scholarship. Each also will receive a trophy.

Entries from San Marin High are Lorraine Faires, Kathy Maillard, Delores Heiswinkel, Michalle Van Horn, Pat Loegering, Gloria Franklin, Mary Killian and Karen Kristock.

From Novato High entries are Rosalind Miles, Jan Denny, Susan Smith, Charlene Manzoni, Jan Tschache, Donna King, Maria Craft and Blythe Beswick.

Shots Fired At Burglar

A resident of a Strawberry motel fired three shots at a burglar early yesterday, but the intruder leaped out a bathroom window and vanished.

Gilbert Blum, 63, a retired merchant seaman, told sheriff's deputies he awoke about 5 a.m. in his room at the Tamalpais Motel, and seeing a prowler in the kitchen, he grabbed his .38 — caliber revolver.

He said he told the burglar, "hold it." The intruder, noticing the gun, yelled, "Oh my God. I've got a gun too. Don't shoot. Don't shoot." Officer said Blum fired three shots, but apparently none hit the intruder, who dashed into the bathroom and sailed out the window.

Girl Hurt In Car-Bike Crash

An 11-year-old Corte Madera girl was hospitalized with a broken left leg and broken right foot yesterday, after an auto-bicycle collision in the Corte Madera Center parking lot.

Marin General Hospital reported today that Patt Quigley of 232 Willow Avenue was in good condition.

Corte Madera police said no report had yet been written, and they could supply no details of the accident other than that it happened shortly before 4 p.m.

BART Post To Alioto's Cousin

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto named his cousin, Frank N. Alioto, Tuesday to replace Garland D. Graves as one of San Francisco's four directors for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Frank Alioto had previously been on the Fire Commission.

The term of Graves, who is a Transamerica Corp. vice president, has expired.

Nun-As-Deputy Sees No Conflict

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Sister Mary Ann Burgess sees no conflict between being a nun and being a deputy attorney general for the state of New Jersey. She thinks the two go together rather well.

Today was her first day on the job as a legal adviser to the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs. The position gives her an opportunity, she said, "to become really involved in the problems of society."

Sister Burgess, 28, with a trace of a Brooklyn accent, was admitted to the bar Tuesday morning with several hundred other attorneys here, the first member of the Sisters of Charity to be an attorney.

Tuesday afternoon she was sworn in as a deputy attorney by Attorney General George F. Kugler, Jr.

Clerks' Union Resumes Moving-Firm Picketing

A clerical union's strike against six Bay Area moving and storage companies has had spotty effects in Marin County, company spokesmen said today.

Freight Checkers, Clerical Employees and Helpers Union Local 856, affiliated with the Teamsters Union, yesterday resumed a sporadic strike against Bekins, Global, Lyon, City Transfer, Neptune and Smyth moving and storage companies. The first three are represented by Marin County offices,and only the Bekins office in San Rafael has union membership in its office, a moving firm official reported.

Local 856 members picketed the Bekins office for only one day, shortly following the expiration of Phase I of the wage-price freeze in mid-November. Otherwise, moving vans have come and gone freely at Marin County warehouses, the companies spokesmen reported.

The union clerks had been working without a contract since Aug. 31. Bargaining talks were broken off Monday and picketing resumed in San Francisco, but not in Marin.

New Ministry To Be Started

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A former priest said he was starting a "ministry to gay Roman Catholics" that would include workshops where homosexuals "can expose their life styles and problems to the larger community."

Thomas M. Frey, who resigned from the archdiocese of San Francisco two years ago, said he would "work toward the elimination of employment discrimination based on sexual orientation" and would help homosexuals find priests who will minister to them and lead them on retreats.

He said funds for a year's work in this area have come "by voluntary contributions from more than 60 Bay Area Catholic priests and a few laymen."

Attica Prison Riot Is Blamed On 'Far Left'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The superintendent of New York's Attica state prison has told the House Crime Committee "Marxists or the far left" inspired the September riot at the prison which killed 43 persons.

Vincent Mancusi appeared Monday as the leadoff witness as the committee started a week of hearings into prison riots. The superintendent was asked by Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., if he meant the riot was the "result of a communist conspiracy."

"I did not use the term communist," Mancusi replied. "I said it was a group who desired to overthrow our governmental system, and it could be Marxist or the far left."

Hijacker Search Has Been Closed

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)—The temporary headquarters in the search for a hijacker who parachuted from a jetliner a week ago with $200,000 ransom has been closed.

The FBI and Clark County sheriff's deputies ended six days of scouring a 15-square mile area around Woodland, Wash., Tuesday without a trace of the man who called himself "D.B. Cooper." He bailed out of a Northwest airlines plane between Seattle and Reno, Nev.

"There's nothing new, and we've taken our men off unless something else turns up," said Sheriff Eugene Cotton.

The FBI would say only "the investigation is continuing."

Slain British Soldier Said Lured Into Trap

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Detectives said today they believe an Irish Republican Army (IRA) execution squad lured a British soldier into a death trap visit to friends in Northern Ireland.

Detectives and British Army Special Investigation Branch said a man found two days ago lying beside a road at Teer, Crossmaglen, about 20 miles southwest of Belfast was Pvt. Robert Benner, 25.

They said Benner had been shot through the head at close range and apparently was the fourth British soldier lured to his death this year. He was off duty and wearing civilian clothes.

Earlier in the year, three members of the Royal Highland Fusilisiers, two of them brothers, were shot and killed when gunmen lured them to a lonely road overlooking Belfast.

Detectives said they were trying to piece together Benner's last movements, and theorized he may have been on the way to visit friends in the Crossmaglen area.

In Belfast, a gunman fired and wounded a 15-year-old boy who was walking in the Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area of the city while wearing a green jacket army officials said was similar in color to those worn by British troops.

Three men bombed a warehouse in downtown Belfast. The gunmen shot a man employed at the warehouse in the shoulder when he grappled with them. Four other persons were injured in the blast, none seriously.

Northern Ireland spent a quiet night, one of its few in two years of almost uninterrupted four-way bloodshed involving the province's protestant majority, Roman Catholic minority, the troops and the IRA.

The IRA's avowed aim is to unite Northern Ireland by force with its Roman Catholic Irish Republic under the republic's flag, wresting its six counties from British hands.

Carbone Wins Cotati School Seat

Anthony Carbone Sr., 36, of Rohnert Park, was elected yesterday to a seat on the Cotati School District board.

Carbone, an institutional sales representative for Kraft Foods, received 190 votes or 33.2 per cent of the 572 votes cast. A total of 3,508 persons was eligible to vote, but only 16.3 per cent turned out.

Second in the balloting was Penny-Davis Hanley with 117 votes, followed by Richard Clarey, 47 votes, and Karl J. Clark, 15.

Carbone, president of the Rohnert Park Police Reserves Association, will take the board seat vacated by Lester H. Petersen when Petersen was appointed to the Cotati City Council.

Defense In Henderson Case Rests

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—The defense has rested its case in the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson on My Lai coverup charges, but the jury's request to hear additional witnesses could delay further the protracted proceedings.

The jurors went back into private deliberations today to decide whether they would ask to hear even more witnesses before final arguments by both sides and the judge's instructions to the jury.

After defense attorneys rested their case Tuesday, the military judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, had expressed hope the Henderson case, which began Aug. 23, might go to the jury by Dec. 10.

But then the jurors filed back into the courtroom after a conference and asked to hear testimony from Fred Blakey, who was clerk and driver for the commander of the My Lai task force, Lt. Col. Frank Barker; Lt. Col. Henry I. Lowder, who was a staff member in the Americal Division at the time of the My Lai massacre, and former Army Chaplain Carl Creswell.

It appeared the jurors wanted more information about a report on the 1968 My Lai operation prepared by Barker, who was killed in a helicopter crash three months after the incident.

Periodically throughout the trial, hearings have been held in the jury's absence on the whereabouts of the Barker report, which never has been found. Lowder testified at one of those sessions.

Hussein Says Jordan Must Be Mobilized

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

King Hussein of Jordan said today in Amman his nation must mobilize all its resources to fight Israel and pledged that the Jordanian armed forces will continue training "until the day of holy victory" and the Arabs recapture their occupied lands.

Hussein's speech opening Parliament was reminiscent of recent speeches by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat who has said a military solution is the only way of ending the current situation which is neither peace nor war.

As Hussein spoke, heavily armed troops patrolled the grounds of the parliament building, the rooftops and the streets following news reports that four accused assassins of Prime Minister Wasfi Tel in Cairo on Sunday also planned to kill the king and his family.

Peking's Internal Powder Keg Opened

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China's internal power struggle burst into the open today.

A major policy editorial in the newspapers of the Communist Party and the armed forces admitted that some high level leaders were involved in "conspiracies and intrigues."

The editorial, published jointly by the two papers and the party's theoretical journal, Red Flag magazine, also indicated some of the plotters were involved in "illicit relations with foreign countries."

Analysts in this listening post considered the editorial the most open and direct attack yet against Defense Minister Lin Piao and other military leaders purged during the past three months, although none of them was mentioned by name.

It also was considered the start of a wider rectification campaign in which others would fall as Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai consolidate their positions and the party seeks to reassert its dominance over the military.

The editorial quoted remarks made by Mao in 1964 in which he recounted antiparty plots led by military men.

"Some persons are bent on plotting," the editorial quoted Mao as saying. "They want to do this, so what can be done. Even now there are such persons at it. That there are persons plotting is an objective fact. It is not a question of whether we like it or not."

Although Mao's quote was taken from the past, analysts specializing in Chinese affairs considered it applicable to the leadership crisis which developed in mid-September.

Since that crisis, Lin obviously has been deposed and no longer is the "successor" to Mao as stipulated by the new party constitution adopted in April, 1969. Other top military leaders associated with Lin, including Huang Yung-sheng, chief of the general staff, also have dropped out of sight and are believed to have been purged.

"As chieftains of opportunist lines are engaged in splitting activities, they are bound to resort to conspiracies and intrigues," the editorial said.

"In our party's history, those bourgeois careerists, conspirators and persons having illicit relations with foreign countries, who clung to opportunist lines and engaged in conspiracies, could not but bring ruin, disgrace and destruction upon themselves in the end."

The editorial emphasized that "senior party cadres" must toe the line and that the party must maintain control over all elements.

Coal Firm Price Hike Is Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The federal Price Commission announced approval today of the first of a string of applications by coal companies for price raises to help cover recently authorized wage increases for miners. But it cut back the request sharply.

The commission chairman C. Jackson Grayson, announced approval of increases of 3.78 per cent for Old Ben Coal Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio. The company asked for a 6.71 per cent increase in the wake of a pay boost of 15 per cent permitted by the Pay Board for coal miners in the first year of a new contract.

Grayson told reporters the Price Commission based its decision on additional labor costs that could be "passed through" as increased prices upon the 5.5 per cent national guideline established by the Pay Board when it set up in business in mid-November.

The Old Ben price increase approval also included an allowance for coal miner pensions which brought the total increase permitted by the Commission to a level that was said to absorb slightly less than two-thirds of the coal miner wage settlement.

The action on the coal price boost is the first out of requests from about 20 mining firms for boosts before the Commission.

Bell System Discriminates In Hiring, Agency Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) accused the Bell telephone system today of blatant, illegal job discrimination against women, blacks and Spanish-Americans.

The independent agency filed several thousand pages of evidence and findings with the Federal Communications Commission as the FCC asked it to back up charges first made a year ago. The FCC has scheduled hearings Jan. 31 to determine if the charges are true and whether there is a connection between job discrimination by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and AT&T revenue requirements. The FCC must approve all AT&T rates.

In a 300-page summary, the EEOC claimed that if AT&T had not discriminated against women, for example, it could have produced a net labor cost-saving that would lower overall phone rates by 2 per cent to 4 per cent annually.

"We have a good record," Robert D. Lilley, executive vice president of AT&T, replied in a statement for reporters. "We have made progress and we are at the present time doing more than ever to assure equality of opportunity for minority people and women."

Of every four new employes hired in each of the past three years, Lilley said, one is either black, American Indian or Spanish-surnamed. He said Bell employs more than 135,000 minority persons and 524,000 women.

The EEOC report dealt only with AT&T itself and its 22 Bell system operating companies which employ approximately 800,000 persons. The AT&T response covered the entire system of one million employes, including Bell Laboratories and Western Electric Co.

"The Bell monolith is, without doubt, the largest oppressor of women workers in the United States," EEOC said. "Bell's policies toward women are morally and ethically indefensible and since July 2, 1965, they have been against the law. Nevertheless, the discrimination continues."

EEOC charged Bell with raising artifically high educational and testing requirements for blacks. It said for this and other reasons, "the failure of the Bell system to provide real equality of opportunity for blacks must be considered a national tragedy."

"The same pernicious system which has blocked the progress of blacks also serves as an obstacle to Spanish-surnamed Americans," EEOC said. "There is really only one pattern in Bell's employment of Spanish-surnamed Americans: exclusion."

Torah Donated In Memory Of Smothered Son

TEL AVIV (UPI)—A survivor of the Nazis donated a Torah scroll to a synagogue Tuesday in memory of the 18-month-old son he smothered 29 years ago to save 47 other Jewish fugitives from capture by the Germans.

Josef Kramer tearfully told a handful of relatives and friends that he and his son were huddled together with other members of the Jewish community of Duhlinow, Latvia, in an underground bunker as German soldiers searched for Jews.

As the German troops drew closer to the hideout, Kramer said, the baby broke out into uncontrollable sobbing. Fearful that the sobbing would give away the entire group Kramer smothered his son with his hands to quiet him.

THE WHITE HOUSE TREE

The sun's rays broke through clouds and cast a beam through the branches of the national Christmas tree after it was hoisted into place on the Ellipse across from the White House yesterday. The 65-foot tree, a Fraser fir from the North Carolina mountains, will be trimmed in preparation for lighting by President Nixon later this month. The Washington Monument is in the background.

Tahoe Gambling Figure Jailed, Claims Frameup

INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. (UPI) — Nate Jacobson, who recently announced the sale of his plush North Lake Tahoe gambling casino for $23 million, has been arrested on kidnap and extortion charges and said he was the victim of a "vicious" frameup by Washoe County District Attorney Robert Rose.

Jacobson, 56, and Thomas Burno, 32, described as his personal bodyguard, were both arrested and released on $10,000 bail Tuesday.

Washoe County Sheriff's deputies said Ray M. Landucci, keno operations manager of the casino, was kidnapped Sept. 2 and filed a complaint with the district attorney.

The Washoe County Grand Jury handed down a secret indictment last week charging Jacobson and Bruno with one count of kidnaping with bodily harm, one count of kidnaping and one count of extortion.

Jacobson called a news conference Tuesday night and said he had received a tip from an informer of a plot by Landucci and an accomplice to rob the casino. Jacobson said he and Bruno talked to Landucci alone in a hotel room and got a signed confession from him.

He said it was his duty as a casino operator to investigate any robbery plot and denied that force or kidnaping occurred. He said the district attorney's office was guilty of "harassment" and malfeasance."

The alleged plot was not reported to police because they had taken no action on similar cases, Jacobson said. He said a report was made to Nevada gaming authorities.

Jacobson recently announced the sale of King's Castle to two California buyers and said he was retiring.

The buyers, August Marra, 40, Castro Valley, and Dr. Joseph Barkett, 43, Stockton, were granted permission by the Nevada Gaming Commission to operate the casino on an emergency basis pending official licensing.

Comedian Buddy Hackett filed a $3.5 million lawsuit against Jacobson Nov. 19, charging that he never received the $32,000 a year salary promised him for serving as a director of two of the casino owner's corporations.

CAUSES EXPLORED

A New Twist To St. Joan's Visions

LONDON (UPI)—Most of the visions for which St. Joan of Arc was burned at the stake probably were the result of an unusual mental ability and in some case an upset stomach, a British psychiatrist said today.

Dr. F.E. Kenyon, of the Wanneford hospital in Oxford, said the 15th Century martyr's visions of saints and other figures may have been "a well-documented case of eidetic imagery."

"This is a rather concrete preverbal type of ability occuring mostly in children and young adolescents," he wrote in the medical journal, The Practitioner.

"It can persist for long periods and it's projected externally by the observer," he wrote. "If a person has such an image before her, she will turn her eyes to the relevant spot if asked to report on a relevant detail."

Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines the word eidetic as "of or relating to voluntarily producible visual images, having almost photographic accuracy." This, said Kenyon, was almost certainly the case with Joan.

But he said some of her visions may also have been brought on by "gastroenteritis (upset stomach), resulting from her imprisonment, her debilitated state," and perhaps even food poisoning.

"We know her trial had to be interrupted because of illness," Kenyon wrote. "We also know she had visual hallucinations which included Lilliputian figures."

Either way, the phantoms were "probably reinforced" by long periods of fasting and prayer, the psychiatrist said.

Working from what slim evidence is available, Kenyon said Joan of Arc probably was about 5-feet-2, with "closecropped dark hair, well-developed breasts and a dark, sunburned complexion."

She was tough. "One calculation made was that in 15 months in 1429-30 she traveled on foot and horseback no less than 3,330 miles," he said.

Joan claimed the saints she saw in her visions directed her to go to Orleans in 1428 and take part in the siege of the city.

Kenyon said eidetic imagery was first described medically in 1908 and has been "well-described in brain-damaged children or non brain-damaged children of poor intellectual endowment."

Joan was "basically a simple, pious girl, immature, suggestible ... at the same time she was made use of for political ends," he said.

Fletcher Quits Post At U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Arthur A. Fletcher, one of the most outspoken black men in the Nixon administration, has resigned from the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, the White House announced today.

Fletcher is the author of the "Philadelphia Plan" and of similar proposals affecting other cities to require employment of more persons of minority races in construction industry jobs.

Mars Probes Have Scoopers

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia said today Soviet scientists have indicated Mars 2 and Mars 3 were equipped to scoop up soil from the Martian surface and study it for life forms.

The article published in connection with the probes, which scored a first Tuesday by depositing a Soviet Hammer and Sickle flag on the dustblown Red Planet, quoted scientists at a round table discussion on the probes as saying:

"If there are any microorganisms in the soil, they may start to propagate and the instruments will register a certain dynamic picture of changes in the physical and chemical conditions in the (capsule) chamber as a result of the life."

NO, HE IS ONE OF THE SUPERVISORS

The Marin County Sheriff's office apparently has a new deputy prowling the Civic Center parking lots in search of parking violators.

Or so Supervisor John F. McInnis discovered last night after leaving the late-hour board meeting to find a pink summons neatly folded and slipped under his windshield wiper.

The violation: parking in a space reserved for supervisors.

The ticket was handed over to County Administrator John F. Barrows for "non-routine" handling.

Cost-Of-Living Hikes Effected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Cost-of-living increases went into effect today for California's 472,000 aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients.

State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said the increases amount to $5 per month for recipients in the Old Age Security and Aid to Disabled programs and $6 per month for those receiving Aid to the Blind.

The 472,000 recipients represent about 90 per cent of those receiving adult assistance and who are in independent living arrangements.

Abel To Have Eye Operation

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — United Steelworkers Union President I. W. Abel will enter Eye and Ear Hospital here Monday for an operation on his eyes.

A union announcement said Tuesday the operation was designed to correct an eversion of the tear ducts.

Abel, 63, will be hospitalized for about two days following the surgery.

Two Police Testify At Newton's Trial

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two policemen testified for the prosecution at Huey P. Newton's third manslaughter trial Tuesday, attempting to show that the Black Panther leader had a record of violence before the shooting of officer John Frey.

Sgt. Frank Sabatini of the Berkeley police department said Newton attacked him March 17, 1966, while he was arresting Panther member Bobby Seale.

Sabatini said Newton hit him twice in the face and that he chased Newton, ran him down, and engaged in a scuffle during which "he grabbed the butt of my gun."

Richmond Police Sgt. Patrick Boyle, testified that Newton once struck him twice "out of the blue" when he was trying to arrest a drunk driver.

An Oakland physician was also called to the stand by prosecutor Donald Whyte to show that Newton did not black out after the 1967 gunbattle as the defendant maintains.

Dr. Robert Rabkin said he believed the 29-year-old Panther leader was neither unconscious nor in shock after he was shot in the stomach while grappling with Frey.

"It is my surgical and medical opinion that there was insufficient loss of blood to cause shock," he said.

He said he studied treatment records at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland where Newton was treated for the wound.

TINY WOMAN SAVES PAIR IN CAR FIRE

CREIGHTON, S.D. — Mrs. Harlan Eisenbraun doesn't mind getting involved. She was on her way home when she came on a burning car beside the road. A man, Walter Neugebauer, was trying to crawl out of the wreckage. Mrs. Eisenbraun pulled him to safety and then extricated Mrs. Neugebauer from the car.

A few mintues later the car exploded in flames.

The injured couple recovered nicely.

Mrs. Eisenbraun, a small woman, said she had to use all of her strength to pull the people from the car, but "When you have to do something, you just do it. I was more scared than anything." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Execution Stay In Pot Case

Frank N. Werber, 42, sentenced to six months in jail and fined $2,000 for a 1970 conviction on marijuana possession and cultivation charges, has won a stay of execution until Dec. 13.

Benjamine Dreyfus, attorney for the former manager of the Kingston Trio, won the extension Monday from Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Dreyfus said he appealed the conviction to U.S. district court in San Francisco on constitutional grounds. A hearing on the appeal will be held Dec. 6.

McGuire said he would wait until Dec. 13 to see how the federal court would rule on the appeal.

Werber was arrested in 1968 after drug agents seized six seabags of pot at his DeSilva Island home. He was convicted in February of 1970.

Screams — Man Leaves Her Alone

The screams of a 22-year-old Mill Valley woman went unheeded Monday night in a parking lot at Northgate Shopping Center, but a man who attacked her finally fled, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Officers said the woman, a sales clerk at the Emporium, got into her car about 6:40 p.m. when she left work.

Before she could drive away, however, a man approached the car, opened the door, and shoved her over on the front seat.

He began choking her, she told police, as she screamed and struggled for five to 10 minutes. He told her he was going to take her car, but he finally left when she continued to scream, police said.

Trio Taken Into Service In November

Three men were inducted into the armed forces in November by the Marin Selective Service Board, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported yesterday.

Sixty-two men had been ordered to report for induction.

Mrs. Kinzer said that five refused induction, 10 received postponements, 20 failed the physical examination, two were being recalled for further physical examination, one man walked out and failed to complete the examination, three are pending waivers, one was held in abeyance for security clearance and 17 failed to report.

Those who refused induction or who failed to report f... possible court action, Mrs. Kinzer said.

The three inducted were Mark S. Byers, Michael L. Roman and Jimmy R. Fountain, all of Novato.

A Shorter Leash Soon For Okinawa GIs

TOKYO (UPI)—The American fighting man on Okinawa soon will be a tiger on a new and much shorter leash.

Japan soon will take back Okinawa, the only base in the orient where Uncle Sam legally can make his military moves without consulting a foreign government.

Okinawa is a green dot of pineapple and sugar cane fields in the China Sea 1,000 miles south of Tokyo. It lies only 400 miles from Shanghai, the largest city in mainland China.

American troops conquered this Japanese isle—about one third the size of Rhode Island—in 1945. The U.S. Defense Department has ruled it ever since. At a cost of billions of dollars, it has built a nest of supply centers, airfields and repair shops that are the backbone of the U.S. military presence in Asia.

Okinawa was where American B52 bombers took off for raids over Vietnam in the early stages of the war, before the Air Force set up shop in Thailand. Okinawa was where U.S. troops were assembled and outfitted for deployment to Indochina.

It is the island where the United States has trained antiCommunist intelligence men and guerrillas from allied Asian nations. Also, Okinawa is the island from which Air Force planes were dispatched in a futile effort to rescue the Pueblo when the Navy intelligence vessel was seized by North Korea in January, 1968.

They were not dispatched from nearby Japan, because the Japanese government's consent would have been needed. Navy men testified at the Pueblo board of inquiry in 1969 that Japan never was asked.

President Nixon agreed in November, 1969, to return this crowded island with its one million population to Japan sometime in 1972. The switch probably will take place about July 1.

The American complex of more than 100 bases will remain intact, but Japan will have a loud voice in how they might be used against any third country, including the Soviet Union and Communist China, because of the U.S.-Japanese security treaty that calls for consultation with Japan before a strike is launched.

Legally, the Japanese even will have the right to order the Americans out of Okinawa entirely, simply by revoking the U.S.-Japan military alliance. But that is unlikely to happen. Japan is ruled by businessmen, fearful of their Communist neighbors, and unable to provide for Japan's defense without American help.

Among the major rights the United States is giving up on Okinawa is the right to store nuclear, chemical and biological warfare weapons.

About 13,000 tons of poison gas shells secretly were deposited there during the Kennedy administration. They were withdrawn with considerable fuss last summer, after an accident at the Chibana storage depot revealed their presence to the general public.

Also on their way out are nuclear weapons, which the Japanese say have long been kept on Okinawa. The United States has refused openly to discuss the subject, but Nixon promised in 1969 that Japan's wishes on the nuclear storage question would be respected.

Japanese sources claim the "nukes" on Okinawa included Mace-B missiles targeted against Communist China and North Korea, and SUBROC antisubmarine devices.

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato told Nixon in 1969 that Japan's own safety was closely bound up with that of South Korea and taiwan. The U.S. Embassy in Tokyo tjkes this as assurance that Japan would quickly approve operations from Okinawa in defense of those countries.

However, there is no written treaty binding Japan to agree. Sato is scheduled to retire in the autumn of 1973 at the latest,

Automobile Stolen From Parking Lot

A 1962 white Volkswagen, with California license plates HON 453, was stolen Friday from a parking lot at the rear of 1042 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The car is owned by Reinhold F. Bergstrom of 77 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, police said.

NOW BOYS, IT'S THIS WAY

When Sister Martha comes out to play at Grace Day Home in Sacramento, the football team sends up a cheer. The pint-sized players often get pointers when their "quarterback" supervises the play period. In this photo, taken recently, she might be saying: "Okay, you go down deep and you cut across the middle... I'll fade and throw to whoever is open." (UPI Telephoto)

Talks Resumed In Lay Teacher Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Negotiations resumed today in a two and one-half week strike by lay teachers against seven high schools operated by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco.

The decision to resume talks broken off Saturday came yesterday in the midst of disruptions at two schools here and one in San Jose.

A third of the male students at San Francisco's Sacred Heart school walked out of classes, marched to Cathedral High to enlist girls there to join them on a hike to City Hall.

At Archbiship Mitty High in San Jose, Brother Allen Delaney said several teachers entered hallways in an unusual attempt to persuade students to leave classes.

(No disturbance was reported at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield. Rev. Francis A. Lacey, principal, said school in has been operating normally since early in the strike.)

Rev. Bernard Cummins, diocesan schools superintendent, asserted the diocesan schools superintendent, asserted the disruptions were fomented by the American Federation of teachers, with which the striking secondary Teachers Association has affiliated.

Jerry Killian, STA president, denied that and said students were complaining against the hiring of what he called "scab" teachers.

"The students want teachers instead of babysitters," he said.

At issue in the strike are wages and the size of classes. The archdiocese, saying funds are not available for boosts this year, has offered 4 per cent increases in each of the next two years.

$500,000 Blaze

BELLFLOWER (UPI) — A fire at the Hammond Lumber Co. caused an estimated $500,000 damage early today. It was the third lumber yard fire in this area in as many days.

Fire officials believed that all three fires were intentionally set.

Top Aide Sees Legalized Dope

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The chairman of the Louisiana Narcotics and Rehabilitation Commission predicts that marijuana someday will be legalized because "the users of today will be the lawyers and judges of tomorrow."

Dr. C. B. Scrignar said at an American Medical Association panel discussion Tuesday that he personally was against marijuana legalization because he feared it would lead to further drug abuse.

But Scrignar, also an associate professor of psychiatry at Louisiana State University, said he thought it was just a matter of time before the drug is made legal because so many young people now use it.

Oxnard Flood Danger Abates

OXNARD (UPI)—Danger to beachfront homes here abated today as winds shifted direction and waves broke only six feet high as the tide peaked at seven feet.

Beach residents had braced for heavy swells after Tuesday's battering by the surf.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

8:33 a.m., San Anselmo — Smoke check on Van Tassel Avenue; no fire.

3:16 p.m., Tamalpais Valley — Fire in basement of the Howard Morrill residence at 907 Vernal Way; cause undetermined; $150 damage to contents of basement and some smoke damage to house.

5:11 p.m., Cotati — Stove fire at home of Frances McDivitt at 5925 Gravenstein Highway; caused by faulty electric switch on stove plate; minor damage.

3:29 p.m., San Anselmo — Children ignited combustible material in grass container in 400 block of Redwood Road; no damage.

3:48 p.m., Novato — Backfire through carburetor in motorcycle in garage at home of Roderick W. Sutliss at 64 San Luis Court; fire extinguished by garden hose before department arrived; $200 damage.

5:27 p.m., Novato — Flash fire at Gulf Service Station on Highway 101 at Olive Avenue while filling propane tank of Pinky's Pizza Parlor truck; no damage.

7:31 p.m., San Rafael — Power failure at Independent-Journal 1030 B Street accidentally set off fire alarm.

8:58 p.m., Kentfield — Hot ashes dumped on leaves ignited a shed in back yard of J. M. Hetherington at 224 Evergreen Drive; no estimate of damage.

Bike Rider Hits Bus, Is Injured

A 15-year-old San Rafael boy suffered a broken bone in his right foot and cuts and bruises yesterday when his bicycle struck a school bus discharging passengers at Manuel T. Freitas Parkway and Del Ganado Road.

Steven J. Bartleson, of 469 Hickory Street, was eastbound on Freitas Parkway at 3:30 p.m. when the accident occurred, according to the California Highway Patrol. He was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The patrol said the school bus is owned by the San Rafael High School District and was driven by Frances L. Rhodes.

Yule Gift From Selective Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Selective Service does not plan to draft anyone between Dec. 9 and Dec. 31 of this year so that young men who might otherwise be inducted during that period will be able to stay home during the holidays.

Those who would have been called during that period, however, still will be liable to a callup during the first three months of 1972. The Selective Service this year is drafting men with lottery numbers up to 125.

Marin Festival Of Trees To Feature Holiday Breads

Some of Mrs. Jock Miller's special holiday breads will be a feature of the Marin Festival of Trees Friday and Saturday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. Mrs. Miller and others sponsoring Boyd Marin Museum of Science Guild members have been busy baking in their kitchens.

Here Mrs. Miller shares some of the recipes with I-J Food Page readers. Of the Carrot Bread, she says she received the recipe from a friend, who had gotten it from a tearoom in Honolulu. Mrs. Miller says that she has served it with success for dessert, meetings and as an addition to a buffet dinner.

The other breads are her standard holiday breads which she makes ahead and freezes for use later when guests drop in.

CARROT BREAD

2 Cup flour
2 Tsp. soda
2 Tsp. cinnamon
2 Tsp. salt
¼ Cup chopped nuts
1 Cup cooking oil
2 Tsp. vanilla
1½ Cup sugar
2 Cups grated carrots
3 Eggs
½ Cup coconut
½ Cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in a bowl and mix well. Pour into a well greased angel food cake pan. Bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Store in refrigerator.

(For a shortcut use a blender for the oil and carrots. Slice six medium carrots and add to the oil in the blender.)

HOLIDAY DATE BREAD

1 Tbsp. melted butter
1 Cup sugar
1 Egg
1 Cup finely chopped dates
Pinch salt
¾ Cup boiling water
1¾ Cup sifted flour
1 Tsp. soda
1 Tsp. vanilla
1 Cup chopped nuts

Cream together butter, sugar, egg and salt. Add the dry ingredients. Soak dates in boiling water for 10 minutes then add the water from dates and finally the dates, vanilla and nuts. Place in a greased floured pan and bake at 350 degrees for 35-45 minutes. Let cool before taking out of pan.

BANANA NUT BREAD

2 Eggs, well beaten
1 Cup sugar
⅓ Cup melted shortening
4 Crushed bananas
1 Tsp. soda, dissolved in 1 tbsp. warm water.
2 Cup sifted flour
½ Cup chopped nuts

Add sugar to beaten eggs, gradually; add melted shortening to this mixture. Mix in bananas and soda; add flour and nuts. Bake in oven at 375 degrees for one hour.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE BREAD

1 Cup cranberries, coarsely chopped
1½ Cup sugar
2 Cups flour
1½ Tsp. baking powder
½ Cups chopped walnuts
1½ Tsp. soda
½ Tsp. salt
1 Orange (juice and rind)
2 Tbsp. melted butter
1 Egg

Mix cranberries with ¼ cup of the sugar and set aside. Cut orange in quarters and put through food chopper. Put juice and rind into measuring cup and fill with boiling water or orange juice to make one cup. Add the butter, egg and sifted dry ingredients (remembering the 1¼ cup remaining sugar) and mix well. Finally fold in the cranberries and nuts and pour batter into well-greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Turn out and cool on rack. Wrap in foil to store.

Primary Source Of Calcium

Milk, cheese and ice cream are primary sources of calcium, the mineral that helps build bones and teeth, according to the Dairy Council of California. Blood could not clot without it nor muscles contract and relax normally.

Calcium also delays fatigue and helps tired muscles recover. And without calcium, the body could not properly use the other important minerals.

HAM IS a natural for the holiday buffet, served either hot or cold. It takes minimal preparation and with its pineapple topping you have a glaze and relish for the meat all together.

DANISH FAVORITE

Veal Copenhagen: A Tasty Entree

The Danes, like all Europeans, are particularly fond of pink-white, fine grained veal. They couldn't make their famous Frikadeller (Danish meatballs) without veal combined with pork.

And, when they combine veal with their Danish cheese and Danish ham in Veal Copenhagen, you can be assured this is one of their most mouth-watering entrees.

Served with red table wine and a tossed fresh spinach-mushroom salad you have the epitome of good dining for which the Danes are renowed.

Danish Tybo cheese is compatible with veal.

The Danes cook with lots of butter. Sometimes they combine butter and margarine for meat cookery. Americans frequently combine butter and vegetable oil, using the butter to add flavor as meats are browned for special dishes. This, too, will work with this recipe.

VEAL COPENHAGEN

One and a half to 2 pounds veal, or 6 cutlets of size comparable to Danish ham slices or a bit larger; pounded on one side by meat cutter.
Mustard
6 long slices Danish Ham
6 slices Tybo cheese
2 eggs, lightly beaten
2 cups fresh white bread crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
Butter and margarine for browning veal

Spread each veal slice with mustard on the pounded side of the meat. Cut the ham slices to fit, overlapping if desired, using one slice for each slice of veal.

Top with Tybo cheese slices on lower half of the veal cutlet. Fold veal and ham over cheese and skewer securely, using the small metal skewers.

To bread crumbs add salt, pepper and paprika.

Holding meat in one hand, dip into the egg. Then place in seasoned crumbs. With second hand, turn the cutlets in the crumbs for a thick coating. Place on a baking sheet to dry out slightly before frying.

In a heavy skillet for surface unit, or electric skillet, melt one stick each of butter and margarine on medium-low heat, taking care not to overheat. Brown the veal packets on both sides, a few at a time and remove when browned; repeating until all the veal is browned. More butter and margarine may be added if necessary.

Drain off any excess fat and return the veal packets to the skillet. Add one-half cup water; cover and let cook slowly on low heat until veal is tender, about 15 to 20 minutes.

Garnish: In a small skillet, quickly saute cherry tomato halves. Sprinkle lightly with salt and a bit of sugar as they saute. Serve atop the veal cutlets which are served at the table in the frying pan.

Makes 6 servings.

THE DANISH way with veal is to combine it with ham and cheese and cook it in a skillet. Served with it here are red table wine and a salad of fresh spinach and sliced mushrooms.

Here's A Steam Pudding

Persimmons are in season and as every year at this time pose a question. What can you do with persimmons? Mrs. Wendell Butler of Kentfield submitted a Persimmon Steam Pudding used in the Women's Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society cookbook, published last year.

Her use of the fruit allows it to be kept in a refrigerator up to six months or frozen.

PERSIMMON STEAM PUDDING

1 cup persimmon pulp, very ripe
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ cup milk
½ cup chopped nuts.

Mix in given order. Pour into well-oiled steamer mold. (If steamer mold not available, use gelatin mold or cofee can. Cover with heavy foil and hold in place with rubber band.) Cover tightly. Steam above water approximately two hours. (If using improvised mold, place covered mold in larger kettle, above water. Cover kettle and steam improvised mold about two hours.) Do not overcook. Serve with hard sauce. To reheat, wrap in foil and place in a moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Topping Crowns The Ham

A pineapple topping crowns this succulent holiday ham. The full flavored glaze goes together quickly and easily. All ingredients are usual kitchen-shelf items. The ham itself can be purchased in advance too; store the unopened can in the refrigerator. Besides glazing the ham to a deep gloss, the pineapple mixture also serves as a meat relish.

Also, this is a great dish to serve cold the next day. Be sure to cover and refrigerate promptly. The flavors in the glaze are more accented in the leftover version.

HIGHLAND YULETIDE HAM

5-lb. ham, canned
1 can (1 lb., 4-oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup orange marmalade
1 tablespoon Dijon style mustard
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

Remove ham from can; wipe off gelatin. Place in shallow roasting pan. Bake at 325 degrees 1½ hours or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees internal. Meanwhile drain pineapple well. Combine with marmalade, mustard and cloves. Remove ham from oven one-half hour before done. Spoon pineapple mixture over top. Return to oven and cook one-half hour longer.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Walnut Cheese Sticks' Uses

Serve walnut cheese sticks with fruit or vegetable salads, with seafood cocktails, with soups, or for party hors d'oeuvres.

Prepare piecrust from one stick piecrust mix, blending in ½ cup shredded sharp cheese. Roll thin, sprinkle with ½ cup finely sliced, crisp walnuts, then roll again lightly. Cut in strips. Bake on cookie sheet at 450 degrees about six minutes or until golden.

Texture Of Walnuts Is Protected By Toasting

The toasting protects the crunchy texture of walnuts, making them an ideal crouton for tossed green salads, and a tasty garnish for soups or vegetables.

1. Drop Diamond Walnut kernels into rapidly boiling water; boil three minutes. Drain well.

2. Spread evenly in shallow pan and bake at 350 degrees, stirring often, 12 to 15 minutes or until crisp and golden.

3. While hot, brush lightly with butter and sprinkle generously with salt. (Use garlic salt or other seasoned salt, if you like.) Cool. Store, tightly covered, in refrigerator.

Lemon Cheese Cake: Any Day Is Right Day

Any day is the right day to make a lemon cheese cake.

LEMON CHEESE CAKE

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup margarine, melted
1 pound small curd creamed cottage cheese
¼ cup corn starch
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Grease nine-inch spring form pan. Mix together crumbs, two tablespoons sugar and margarine. Reserve one tablespoonful of mixture. Press remaining crumb mixture onto bottom and sides of prepared pan. Bake in a 325 degree (slow) oven five minutes. Cool.

Press cottage cheese through strainer twice. Add corn starch and beat with spoon until fluffy. Beat egg yolks; add ½ cup sugar and beat until thick. Mix in lemon rind, juice, vanilla and salt. Fold in cheese mixture; then whipped cream. Beat egg whites until stiff adding remaining ½ cup sugar during beating process. Fold into cheese mixture gently, but thoroughly.

Pour into pan. Sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Bake in a 325 degree (slow) oven one hour. Turn off oven leaving cake in oven 45 minutes longer. Cool completely and remove from pan.

Zingy Dressing

Add a package of taco seasoning mix and ½ cup milk to 1½ cups sour cream for a tossed salad dressing with zing.

Jack Horner Might Like This Pie

A modern Jack Horner just might pull out a plum (or a prune) when he is served this holiday pie.

The liquid in which the prunes and apricots were cooked and an accent of lemon juice go into making the glaze for the fruit. It is thickened with corn starch. Then the cut-up fruit is folded into it and the mixture is cooled and turned into a previously baked pie shell.

Twin fruit pie can be served with whipped cream.

TWIN FRUIT PIE

1 baked (eight-inch) pastry shell
½ pound (1¼ cups) dried prunes
¼ pound (1⅓ cups) dried apricots
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream (optional)

Cook fruits in separate pans according to package directions. Drain each, reserving a total of one cup liquid.

In a saucepan, mix together sugar and corn starch. Stir in reserved one cup juice and the lemon juice. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and cool until thickened and clear. Add fruit. Cool slightly and pour into baked pastry shell.

SCOOPING UP a prawn, actor Robert Redford finds himself surrounded by Marin clubwomen playing clubwomen during a scene shot here, yesterday for his new film about an attorney who runs for governor of California. The women, largely from the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of Marin and Sunny Hills Bargain Box volunteers, earned money for their organizations by playing extras in the scenes.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

NAPKIN TUCKED under his arm, actor Robert Redford prepares to sign an autograph in the book for Mrs. Robert Riede (left) while she and Mmes. Geoff Sheldon and Robert Celli, all of San Rafael, wait for the luncheon speech scene to start. The film, "The Candidate" is being made partially in Marin and some 200 Marin clubwomen served as clubwomen in the campaign scenes. The filmakers confer in the background.

IN ROBERT REDFORD FILM

Clubwomen's Big Camera Moments

By BARBARA HOSMER

"He probably won't even see me."

Panavision cameras moved in on the crowd.

The "he" was film star Robert Redford, and the "me" was one of the 200 gloved and suited Marin clubwomen who turned out in the early morning chill yesterday to more or less play themselves in Redford's latest film.

THE SETTING was the Marin Art and Garden' Center's Northgate area, damp from the Sunday rain. The scene was "The Candidate" — Redford — coming to make a campaign speech to the women's club as he stumps the state as the liberal candidate making his bid for the governorship.

The women stood chatting among the round, clothed tables and shivered as the director asked them to shed their coats.

"It's a summer scene," he explained, although many of the women came in light wool clothes. Urns of hot coffee were running dry.

A white LTD drew up and several men got out. Was it Redford? No, his stand-in in leather jacket and dungarees.

When the welcoming scene was set and the women briefed, the car drew up again. This time Redford emerged, his blondish hair in a patch of sunlight, and the women crowded toward him in earnest.

"I'VE NEVER seen him — I don't go to movies," said one. "He looked better as the Sundance Kid," commented another, straining for a better view of the star.

"All right, cut," said a director.

Trim in his grey suit, white shirt and conservative tie, Redford strolled over to the porch near the Livermore Room to begin one of the 15 to 20 minute waits that were to fill out the morning. Talking with some of crew, he stretched and yawned near one of two wide-angle cameras.

"Ill run over — okay?" joked one of the women. "Be careful, she'll do it," said her companion to another.

ACTRESS KAREN Carlson has her corsage pinned on by Mrs. Clifford Meagher (left) of San Anselmo for the actresses' scenes as Redford's wife in the film, whose working title is "The Candidate." "I'm not really this type of person," Miss Carlson told some of women later, pointing to her hat and gloves. "I auditioned wearing dungarees."

One more — Redford into the crowd.

"This will be filmed," warned the director through a white bullhorn.

"Hey, Jeremy, put on a skirt or get out of the crowd," called one of the film crew.

REDFORD THROUGH the crowd again met the giggles and high-pitched voices as the women crowded close.

"All those giddy ladies crowding around," remarked another on the edge of the group of clubwomen.

"Over and over and over you do this," commented another extra, who by then had an hour's film work under her belt.

"... if you were getting the money, you wouldn't mind," said her friend, nodding at Redford.

Waiting again, the few teenagers and film fans were growing bolder. Some produced cameras, others autograph paper. Redford cooperated, signing and posing good naturedly, as he was to do into the early afternoon.

"How are you?" he asked Ellen Podgorny and Wendy Bowman of San Rafael, who managed to edge close and talk with the star.

"Tell him to turn around," an elder said timidly from behind him.

Her camera was focussed.

SOME OF the crew brushed leaves off of a nearby bench and gave it a quick-over with brown spray paint. One resprinkled fallen leaves onto it until stopped by a "No, no, it's supposed to be summer."

"We call it 'The Candidate' but that's a working title; there is no title yet," volunteered Vernon White, the film's public relations man. He said that Bob (Redford) plays an attorney who decides to run for governor of California, and the film is supposedly following him up and down California on the campaign trail. But actually, he said, much of it will be in Marin, although they will go to Monterey this week, and Sacramento and San Francisco. They also filmed a parade in Tracy.

Another teen-ager produced a worn newspaper picture of him as the Sundance Kid, and Redford inked on his signature without comment.

"I met his wife — but it might be his wife in the movie (Karen Carlson)," someone told a friend, as they waited to go before the cameras again.

While film production people passed out purple raffle tickets for some 15 promised gifts, the bullhorn asked the women to be seated at the round tables under the trees for what eventually turned out to be a buffet luncheon scene.

"Aw ... he cut his hair," snapped a teen-aged girl as Redford passed by to where the scene was being set. More delay; a buffet table was by then loaded with French pastries, cream puffs, skewered prawns and gelatin salad rings topped with gooey cream. Two of the extras, most of whom were from the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of Marin and Sunny Hills groups, hurried over to their two teen-age daughters nearby to urge them to get autographs from the star.

"But I wanna talk to him," one protested.

"HI, MARY Jo. Are you famous?" one woman called to another in the crowd. "My family thinks so," Mary Jo responded.

EATING HAD begun and the camera moved close into the buffet line where Redford, now with a deep red rose in his buttonhole, joined the clubwomen, lucky enough to get picked for the scene. The women were taking it easily in stride but talking, as per script, excitedly. Nerves showed, though, when one skidded her black purse through the whipped cream topping of a gelatin ring, and there was flutter while she and her companions fished out a handkerchief to wipe off the goo.

The director told Redford to bend to the woman next to him in the buffet line as if answering a question, eating the while. He lifted a skewer from the buffet and munched a green olive or two as the women bent over the table, surrounding him and filling their plates. Then he lifted a couple of large prawns for the camera.

"If they don't eat it all they can freeze it," said a woman during the food scene.

"Are you playing hooky today?" another asked a friend.

"He touched my pen," a teenager told another, who then picked it up.

The plates kept being reloaded even though the cameras had stopped.

THEN THE inevitable shot — in which the "club president" calls for silence to introduce the candidate and the women go right on talking.

"When they say, 'Ladies, please pay attention', you don't," was the bullhorn instruction, drawing a crowd laugh. "The second time, you do.

"Then when Bob comes up and says 'I ate all the shrimp' you laugh. You laugh on 'shrimp !" Redford rubbed his hands in the chilly air, adjusted his shirt front and belt and strode to the stage on cue of his introduction to the "audience."

"Shrimp" — laugh. "Shrimp" — laugh. The third time the film crew was satisfied.

"I got a spoon," one woman cried triumphantly, pushing through the crowd toward her table with a plateful of food.

"That's all prop food you've been eating," the bullhorn informed the women. "We'll have another lunch for you later."

"YOU MEAN I've gained 10 pounds already on prop food and there's more?" one woman remarked to her table.

Some five hours of eating, standing, talking and star-gazing will make their charity groups richer by some $250 each and the women were having a grand time "being in the movies" for the morning, surrounded by their friends.

And one of the filmmakers confided to another, "It looked just perfect."

And in the film, the "candidate" becomes California's next governor.

Free Choices: The Key To Feminist Movement

"What this movement is about is women making free choices" about their lives, Aileen Hernandez told her audience at the College of Marin last night. Court challenges are beginning to help, but traditional attitudes are holding it back, she said.

"I'm not negating the wife and mother role," the former national president of the National Organization for Women, said in clearing up a myth about the New Feminist movement.

She said that the movement is saying that boys and girls get tracked into rigid sex roles very young — "I call it the pink and blue syndrome" — and their minds also get wrapped up in the pink or blue blanket.

"WE SEE the patterning and programming throughout children's toys and books."

The boys have balls, planes and active toys while the girls are given tea sets, stoves and ironing boards to play with, she said. Ms. Hernandez said being active and aggressive is considered a plus for boys, while girls are taught to be passive and to seek their identity through men.

She named two books for children, saying that the boy's book ended with the hero standing before a podium with the seal of the President of the United States on it, while the girl's book ended with the girl pushing a baby carriage with a kitten in it.

"I had a little trouble with that one for awhile," she said, drawing a laugh. "Then I realized that it was probably a sop to the environmentalists — we're not supposed to have children and they don't know what to do with us right now, so it's a kitten."

GIRLS SEE that they don't have to succeed and are expected to play a dependent role throughout their lives, she said. Another science book had Madame Curie peering over Pierre's shoulder, she added.

What the women's rights movement is saying is the same thing that the black, Chicano and other liberation movements are saying:that they want a voice in making the decisions that affect our lives, she said.

Describing the traditional male-female game, Miss Hernandez said that about age 12 girls find out that they are expected to be "young ladies" — not get dirty, sit in a ladylike manner and to revert to "Dumb Dora." They learn they must bat the eyes to get what they want and hide intelligence even though they may have been A students to that point.

Boys, too, are programmed to know that men are not supposed to like bright women and they play the game too. Boys and girls who at a younger age had a good rapport suddenly start acting silly toward each other and lose that rapport, she said.

"Girls see other girls as enemies because they see there are more women than men and since society says you must get married, other women become the enemy if you are to find Mr. Right."

WOMEN BEGIN to play out the feminine mystique, and when a man and woman who are locked into these roles get married, two become one — "You have become the husband. You lose your identity and even lose your name," she said about women.

"Unless you decide to break out of it and have a career or job. Now most men do not consider it a threat to their masculinity to wash a dish or to play with their own children."

She said that child care was a large priority in the National Organization for Women's program because without it the nuclear family leaves the woman locked and isolated at home and the children are deprived from meeting all kinds of others.

The right to control their own bodies is a basic tenet of the NOW program also, as begun in 1966, she said.Without that women are not free and can never be free, she said. — B.H.

The 'Computer' Doesn't Care

CHAGRIN FALLS, Mich. — Bob Ullman has a terrific computer.

John Trewin To Wed Constance Partmann

A Feb. 12 wedding date has been set by Constance Marie Partmann of San Francisco and John Edward Trewin of Greenbrae. Announcement of the engagement was made by the future bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Partmann of San Carlos, at a cocktail party given in the couple's honor.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Trewin of Greenbrae are John's parents.

Constance is the sister of Bill Partmann, a student at the University of San Francisco, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Anton Hodas of San Mateo. She is a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Belmont and USF, where she was affiliated with Beta Gamma Sigma sorority. The future bride is employed by the California State Department of Industrial Relations in San Francisco.

John was graduated from high school in Wisconsin and from USF. He has a master's degree from the University of California and is employed by Haskins and Sells Certified Public Accountants. Kathy Trewin of Kayenta, Ariz., is his sister.

She Vows 'Wait Until Next Year'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — "Next year, we'll be stronger than ever." Housewife Mrs. Beulah Davis, who answered a board of education call for community workers in the YMCA's recreation program, decided baseball was the thing. So when 30 10- and 11-year-olds reported for practice, she divided them into two teams and coached both. Lack of equipment was a problem, but that didn't deter Mrs. Davis. She went to business firms to get donations and very convincingly raised enough money to field her two teams.

She may be the world's only feminine organizer, financier, manager and coach of two teams.

Her qualifications for coaching? "I've played baseball with the boys in our neighborhood most of my life." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

At Your Age, It Is Not Surprising To Find Divorce Material Packet

DEAR HELEN:

I only go through my husband's pockets when I must send his clothes to the cleaners.

After he got home from work yesterday, I decided I'd add the sports jacket he wore to my "dry cleaning" pile. There was a big heavy envelope in his inside pocket and something made me explore, though it was addressed to him.

Helen, it was a "confidential report on divorce" in our state. About a month before, I'd seen this service advertised in a magazine for $25.

My husband has been unusually quiet lately, but I didn't dream anything was wrong with our marriage. I just thought he was tired. We're both 45. True, we don't talk together very much — so little that I'm afraid to ask him how and why he got this report.

Is it possible for a man to consider divorce without his wife guessing there's a problem? — SHOCKED NUMB

DEAR NUMB:

It's not only possible, but I'd estimate that in at least one-sixth of all "older" marriage break-ups, the request for divorce comes as a numbing surprise to the other partner. This because they have stopped talking — really communicating — a long time before.

For Pete's sake, ask you husband about the divorce report! If he spent $25 to get it, then his yearning for freedom is more than an idle dream, and it's long past time you found out why. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Hou do you feel about babysitting fees as income tax deductions? When a woman must work, she often spends half her paycheck on child care. Isn't she just as entitled to declare this as a man is to declare his secretarial or janitorial expenses at the office? — WORKING MOTHER

DEAR W. MOTHER:

She certainly is — and I hope the IRS soon realizes it! However, this situation doesn't apply entirely to women. I know several young widowed fathers who could also benefit from baby-sitter deductions. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband's office gives parties almost every month, and they're closed to mates who don't work there. Here's an example: the summer outing was at a country club. It started at 10 a.m., with all kinds of outdoor games, and ended with cocktails, dinner and dancing until after midnight.

I think this is immoral and that it's unfair to encourage misbehavior between married men and female workers. Don't you? — TIRED OF BEING LEFT OUT

DEAR TIRED:

Are you certain this is "company policy," or is it husband's policy? Very few organizations these days encourage partying without mates: Causes too much friction on the home front. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 23 and in love with a wonderful guy — with "morals" up to here! Before I marry him (as he has asked me), I want an affair. After all, a girl needs to be sure. But he says it's marriage first or nothing.

He's very manly, but he was brought up super-straight. I wasn't. My being a non-virgin doesn't bother him, but he refuses to settle for less than marriage, even for a night. This isn't a sex hangup so much as just stubborness. (I think.) — WHAT TO DO?

DEAR WHAT:

Get married! If he's willing to take a chance, why not you? — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address them to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Sessions On Alcoholism Being Held

Rap sessions on the problems of alcoholism are being held on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m. at Harlan Center of the College of Marin.

The discussions are informal, small group, open discussions led by members of the Alcohol Information Committee of Marin for persons affected by drinking problems, according to Helane Anderson, coordinator.

Another session began this week at the Terra Linda Recreation Center and will continue on Tuesday mornings at 11 beyond the planned six weeks if there is enough interest, according to Mrs. Anderson.

More information is available from Mrs. Anderson at the Marin Volunteer Bureau or from the Marin Institute.

Milk Is Helper

Evaporated milk is an homogenized concentrate of fresh whole cow's milk, fortified by the addition of vitamin D and sterilized in the sealed can by heating. The concentration and heat treatment of the protein give evaporated milk new qualities of cooking performance. It is a good coating agent and an excellent binder.

Vows Said In San Rafael

Lynn Anne Oliver and James E. Macfarlan were married Nov. 21. The wedding and reception were held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Forrest M. Ratliff, of San Rafael.

Mrs. William Joyce of Ashburnham, Mass., was her sister's matron of honor, and Kieran Murphy of Rohnert Park was best man.

The couple is living in San Francisco.

Lynn was graduated from Paris American High School in Paris, France, and College of Marin. She is a nurse. Forrest M. Ratliff II of San Rafael is her brother.

James is the son of Mrs. Rose Macfarlan of San Francisco. He is a graduate of St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco, City College of San Francisco and University of California Extension. The bridegroom is a civil engineer.

Public Can Now Join Drive In Policing Advertising World

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — One of the most ambitious plans ever tried by the business community to raise the standards of advertising is now officially under way and ready to prove its worth to the general public.

It is the combined effort of three advertising associations and the Council of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB). Together they have formed the National Advertising Review Board (NARB) with an office at 845 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

The purpose, as stated in a press release, is "to sustain high standards of truth in national advertising through independent review of cases referred to it" by the CBBB.

NARB BEGAN receiving complaints even before it had a chance to develop standards and guidelines for determining when an advertiser has stepped over the line of truth and accuracy.

On the day prior to its first meeting, Mark Silbergeld, an aide to Ralph Nader, publicly asked the NARB to creack down on 10 advertisements which he called either deceptive or untrue.

But, if the procedure works according to plan, few cases will get to the 50-member review board. The principal task of investigating complaints belongs not to the board but to the national advertising division of the BBB council.

The division is supposed to check out complaints, evaluate them and try to resolve them by mutual agreement.

Only those cases that cannot be resolved are referred to NARB. The next step is to assign each case to a panel of five members of the board, which seeks to settle the matter.

IF THE panel fails to find a satisfactory answer to the problem, it can publicize the matter and turn over the information to a government agency for further investigation and possible prosecution.

Thirty of the 50 members are representatives of advertisers, 10 are from advertising agencies and 10 are called public members. Among the latter are Prof. Raymond A. Bauer of Harvard Business School and Norman Cousins, former magazine editor who submitted a statement in support of the ad industry at recent hearings by the Federal Trade Commission on television ads.

Individuals with complaints about advertising for products and services sold nation-wide should send them to the nearest Better Business Bureau, which will then forward them to the National Advertising Division.

Where there is no BBB, individuals can contact the Council of Better Business Bureaus at its Operations Office, 1150 17th St., NW., Washington, D.C., 20036.

The council is supposed to acknowledge receipt of such complaints promptly and directly by mail to those submitting them. It also notifies the company involved.

IF THE flow of complaints seems to establish a pattern, indicating a widespread problem, a report is made similar to one already issued publicly on multi-level selling plans.

The NARB procedure is not the only avenue open to people who have complaints about advertising. Other channels include consumer organizations, government agencies and, of course, the company doing the advertising.

Most promising, however, is the NARB plan. For more can be accomplished through self-regulation than in any other way.

She's Going Back To School

STONE CITY, Iowa — Before her marriage, Mrs. Cecil Sims had one year of college. Now she's back in school, majoring in elementary education and minoring in history, but:

"My husband approves and because he does, I have his complete co-operation." Sims' co-operation was absolutely essential in this case because they have 11 children.

They range in age from 20 down to 2-year-old twins, but because three are not yet in school they need care. "But I have a wonderful sister who looks after them for me," says Mrs. Sims. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. SAUTER
Saturday evening nuptials

(Ed Owen photo)

Vows Repeated In Temple Rodef Sholom

Bonnie Rae Hahn became the bride of John Michael Sauter in a ceremony Saturday evening at Congregation Rodef Sholom in San Rafael. A reception at the temple followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt L. Hahn of San Rafael are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sauter, also of San Rafael.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Richard Flynn of Burbank, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister Renee Hahn of San Rafael; the bridegroom's sisters, Karen Sauter of Oakland and Nora Sauter of Chico; and Pam Heitzman of La Mesa.

Frank Silvestri of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Dave Misakian, Richard Loomer, Robert Sauter and John M. Cabarrus, all of San Rafael.

Bonnie is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and College of Marin. She attended San Diego State College and is employed by Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco.

A graduate of San Rafael High School and College of Marin, John is employed by Stuart-Sauter Company in South San Francisco.

The newlyweds are living in Larkspur.

This Year's Makeup Is Richer, Brighter

This year makeup is richer, brighter and more exhuberant than it has been in some time. Gone are the pale no-color faces of the '60s. Instead, sleeked back hair and flipped brimmed hats leave a clear field for focus on the face.

The '70s hail the return of soft fluid fashion and the art of blending rich colors to create new and changing moods for the face.

ON THE AGENDA

Service League Charity Bazaar To Be At San Domenico School

San Domenico Service League's Christmas charity bazaar will be held Sunday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at San Domenico School in San Anselmo. Chairman is Mrs. Philip Madden of Mill Valley.

Pietro Pinoni will autograph copies of his book, "Pietro on Wine," illustrated by his daughter, Francesca, a junior at the school.

Items for sale will include Christmas gifts and decorations and homemade foods. Lunch will be served between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. A dollhouse designed by Ralston Hodgson of Ross will be for sale.

Proceeds will be used for the service league's charities, which include the San Domenico building fund.

Committee chairmen for the bazaar are Mmes. Scott Stewart, telephone; Jerome Downs, needlecraft; Imre Vizkelety, stitchery; M. S. Denman, knitting; John Richard, luncheon; Pierre Grigaut, candy; Bruce Shafer and Gerald Kelleher, children's books; Philip Brown and Howard Marquis, Cook's Corner; John F. Weaver and Richard Dinkelspiel, parcel post; Joseph Wilson, tree decorations; Carlos Gonzales, awards; Manfred Fels and Naomi Dominic, finances; and Miss Gail McGowan, school representative.

MEMBERS OF Marin Branch, American Association of University Women, are having a Wassail party Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKinney in San Rafael. Chairman is Mrs. Ed Meyers of San Rafael.

The party will be hosted by members of the newly formed Recent Graduate Section of AAUW, and the Music Section will provide holiday music.

A TAPE recording of a talk given by Dr. Wilson Riles, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be played at the meeting of the Sleepy Hollow School Parent Club meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the school in San Anselmo.

The speech, "Can We Save Public Education — Who Pays," was given Oct. 22 to the Common wealth Club of California in San Francisco.

Members of the San Anselmo School Board have been invited to attend the public meeting, and San Anselmo School Superintendent Ken Lowry will discuss the district plan to involve the community in the decision-making process for planning the next school year.

SOCIAL-LITES OF Sonoma and Marin counties will have a dance for single adults Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Hotel Santa Rosa in Santa Rosa.

There will be live music, according to M. E. Van Hoosen of Novato, president.

PETALUMA NEWCOMERS Club is having its annual dinner dance Friday at 8 p.m. at Herzog Hall in Petaluma.

"Feliz Navidad" is the theme for the semi-formal event.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Jack L. Gates and Mrs. Ralph Rungo Jr. of Petaluma.

THE "NUTCRACKER Suite," Tchaikovsky's famed ballet, will provide the theme for the Sausalito Woman's Club's fund-raising Christmas party for members and guests Sunday at 4 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Chairmen for the occasion, which will start with cocktail hour, are Mmes. Howard Sievers and Perry Brock. A hot buffet supper will be served.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Willard A. Hall and Edwin G. Klinck. Others assisting are Mmes. Andrew Downes, Charles Henderson, Lee Wolterding, John Alexander, A. Harvey Riley, Robert Knutson, L. W. Thomas May, Gary Hodgson and Jack Woods.

ELIM LUTHERAN Church Women will meet Saturday at the church for its annual Christmas in many lands potluck dinner and dessert.

A musical program, planned by Mrs. George Matt, will precede an installation of officers. Mrs. Martin Bohn has been reelected president and her executive board will be Mmes. James Odgers, vice-president; Gene Pugh, secretary; Michael Pesutish, treasurer; George Matt, education; and Gene Smith, stewardship.

Chairmen of the event are Mrs. Karl Lind and Mrs. Ernest Hansen.

Family Act —Helping Children

CANOGA PARK — Parishioners at the church the Robert Bielmanns attend were pretty puzzled for a while because the Bielmanns brought a different baby to church so often.

Now they know that the Bielmanns are foster parents — they are caring for their 26th foster child in five years.

"The babies come to us directly from the hospitals," Mrs. Bielmann explains, "and are from three to five days old. We keep them, an average of six weeks, until the Bureau of Adoptions finds adoptive parents.

"We are doing this because we wanted to do something to help others. Even my husband, who is manager of a bank, and our two young children take turns at feeding and diaper changing."

Mrs. Bielmann's advice to young mothers: "Relax and enjoy your babies —they are tiny for such a short time." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Jodie Gentile, one of the dancers in an original ballet, "The Amusement Park," is all seriousness before the television camera as Mrs. David Hildebrand applies her makeup. KRON (Channel 4) cameraman Dick Williams (foreground) shot scenes from the production, running this week at Dominican College, for presentation on the television station later this month. The ballet for children will be presented again at 10:30 a.m. Friday and 8 p.m. Saturday in Angelico Hall.

Development Funds Will Be Considered

An application for state matching funds of about $2 million for site development of the Indian Valley Colleges and for work at the College of Marin will be considered by the Marin Community College District board today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the Science Building at College of Marin.

The board on Nov. 22 authorized a maximum tax rate of 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation toward $4 million in projects at the Novato site and the Kentfield campus. However, the tax cannot be levied unless various state agencies approve the building projects and state matching funds are approved.

The application is due Dec. 31.

Also on tap are continued discussion of capital improvement financing alternates to a $16.8 million bond issue which failed last month, and specifications for marshland reclamation at the Kentfield campus and site development at the Novato campus.

Single Acts From Plays Scheduled

Single acts from three different plays will be presented in "An Evening of Theater," at 8 p.m. Friday in the San Rafael High School drama department in the school auditorium.

One act will be presented from "Blithe Spirit," by Noel Coward, "Lysistrada," by Aristophanies, and "Under Milkwood," by Dylan Thomas, said Barbara Jay, drama director.

All 32 students of the drama department will take lead roles in one play, supporting roles in another or handle technical work in a third. Four main roles are featured in "Blithe Spirit" and "Lysistrada," and 22 roles in "Under Milkwood," she said. In the latter play, the actors play several roles, she said.

Admission to the event will be charged.

'Renaissance Faire' Set At School

A Reanissance Faire, complete with all the Christmas trimmings of old England, will be presented from noon until 6 p.m. Sunday by the students of Adaline E. Kent Junior High School at the schoolgrounds in Kentfield.

The Duke of Kent — in this case, Gerald Miramontes, art instructor — has coordinated the affair and supervised the art work.

Students have made Christmas decorations from cookie dough and will have cookies and other refreshments for sale.

The school's drama department will present portions of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Hamlet," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Romeo and Juliet."

The music department will furnish guitar music and choral singing. There also will be folk dancing, games of skill and other entertainment.

Pops Concert Set At Sonoma State

The Sonoma State College philharmonic orchestra will present a "thinking man's pops concert" Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Ives Hall of Music.

The concert, directed by David Sloss of San Rafael, will feature special staging, lighting, films, slides and narrations along with rarely performed music.

Dr. James B. Enochs, college executive vice-president, will narrate "Babar the Elephant," a children's story classic put to music by Francis Poulenc. David Young of Novato will conduct Haydn's "Toy Symphony" as his senior project.

Students from the drama and dance departments will take part in a production of Eric Satie's "Parade," a ballet that tells the story of a group of carnival side show performers trying to interest an audience in buying tickets to their show. The production will be done in the round on a large, tri-level scaffolding.

Some Must Still Dial Numeral '1'

While most Marin telephone users can now dial anywhere in the country without dialing the numeral 1 first, the Independent-Journal neglected in a Nov. 15 story to report that Novato, Ignacio and West Marin residents must still precede toll calls with the "1."

Rob. G. Leigh, manager of the Pacific Telephone Co. business office in San Rafael, explained that new equipment is making it possible to drop the "1" in most of the county but that such equipment has not been installed in all areas.

At some future date, new equipment may also make it possible for Novato, Ignacio, Inverness, Nicasio, Point Reyes and Stinson Beach-Bolinas residents to drop the "1," he said.

Leigh assured Marinites who may be confused by the new system that if they dial incorrectly, a recording will direct them to ask the operator for help.

Petaluman Struck By Car, Hospitalized

Ernest D. Evans, 67, of 425 Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma, was reported in Satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a possible broken left shoulder suffered when he was struck by a car yesterday at 7:12 p.m. at Petaluma Boulevard South near G Street.

Police said Evans was walking across the street when he was struck by a car driven by Harold A. Anderson, 67, of 1303 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

School Chief Is Released

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Guerrero State University Rector Dr. Jaime Castrejon Diez was released today four days after his wife paid kidnapers $200,000 ransom and the government sent nine "political prisoners" to Cuba in exchange for his freedom.

A government official found Diez, 35, walking along a road about 5 a.m. near the site of his capture in the state of Guerrero. He was dirty, bearded, almost without shoes and very tired, authorities said.

Diez was kidnaped by five men armed with guns Nov. 19. Five days after his capture, the men contacted his American wife, Ruby Nickel, and ordered that she pay them $200,000 ransom and that the Mexican government send nine so-called "political prisoners" to Cuba.

Arts Quartet's Season-Opener In Mill Valley

The Marin Arts Quartet will present the opening conert of its 1971-72 season Sunday at 3 p.m. at Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Quartet members are Charles Meacham and Michael Gerling, violins; Lucien Mitchell, viola, and Jean Mitchell, cello. Guest pianist will be Robaline Meacham.

The program will include the quartet in B minor, Opus 11, by Samuel Barber; quartet in D major, K. 575, by Mozart, and the quintet in F minor for piano and strings by Franck.

Other concert dates in the series are Feb. 6 and May 14. Tea will be served following each program.

Theft Suspect Bound Over

Dennis K. Smith, 18, of San Rafael must appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 13 to face burglary charges.

Following a preliminary hearing Tuesday, Judge David Menary of Marin Municipal Court bound over Smith to the higher court.

Smith is accused of burglarizing a home on Galway Lane in Terra Linda on Nov. 11.

The Salamander Gets A New Lease On Life

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—The rare long-toed salamander—a spotty, squiggly amphibian that only breeds in a Santa Cruz marsh—has a new lease on life.

The species' only habitat was to be made into a trailer park until conservation groups campaigned to save its 33-acre marshy site near La Selva Beach.

Tuesday, the Santa Cruz County Board of Supervisors voted to preserve the site after several biologists testified that the five inch salahander was believed to have lived there for 10,000 to 20,000 years.

The salamander which has a sooty belly with a black back and orange spots, first was discovered 17 years ago and is on the "rare and endangered species" list.

Quake-Like Tragedy

FRATTAMINORE, Italy (UPI) — A three-story apartment house occupied by at least 24 persons collapsed in rubble today after two explosions tore it apart with such force neighbors thought there had been an earthquake.

Authorities said at least nine persons died.

Youth Wins Right For Synanon Life

A 15-year-old boy, who prefers to live at the Synanon community in Marshall, will not be forced to return to his mother in Beverly Hills.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday refused to intercede for Mrs. Anne M. Sturges, widow of movie writer and director Preston Sturges, who wants her son Thomas Preston Sturges to leave Synanon and join her.

"I realize that the relations between the mother and son are left up in the air," said the judge. "Personally, I'd rather have it left up in the air and unresolved than produce turmoil and hatred by forcing him against his will."

The judge asked what if the boy were made to return to Beverly Hills and then "runs right back to Synanon. What then?" Judge Wilson explained he hesitates to force the boy against his will because he is afraid "the intrusion of coercive power would worsen the parental relationship."

Walter I. Colby of Sherman Oaks, representing the mother, charged that the boy is being emancipated by force against the wishes of the natural mother. "She has all the duties of a parent and does not even have visitation rights."

Sharon Green of Oakland, attorney for the boy and for Mrs. Dorothy G. Salant, one of his Synanon teachers, declared that the mother is free to visit with her son, either at Synanon or outside. However, such visits should be voluntary and not coerced, said Miss Green.

Mrs. Salant petitioned for guardianship of the youth, whereas Mrs. Sturges demanded the boy's return to Beverly Hills.

The judge declined to act on either petition and ordered that the status quo be maintained. If Mrs. Sturges finds that Synanon interferes with her right to visit the boy, then she can petition for a writ of habeas corpus, the judge declared.

Yesterday's ruling by the judge confirmed a previous decision made a month ago by Marin Court Commissioner E. L. Nininger.

Nepal Riots Were Over Cow

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—An official commission of inquiry into rioting during which 51 persons died and 1,874 houses burned reported Tuesday that the violence resulted from the killing of a cow by a Moslem.

Houses in two Moslem villages were burned by enraged Hindus after the incident, and widespread looting was reported.

Nepal is a Hindu kingdom where the cow is sacred and motorists who hit a cow by accident can be jailed for up to 14 years.

FIGHTS CITATION

Driver Gambles, But Loses Day In Court

By C.P. McCARTHY

James J. Bergman of San Francisco gambled yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and lost.

Bergman, who fought a routine traffic citation all the way through a jury trial, was found guilty of one of the charges against him and innocent of another.

He was not merely trying to "beat" a ticket, he said, but was rather attempting to prove his innocence of the charges. "If you're in the right, you should be able to convince a jury," he said, but it was a feat he failed to accomplish.

Most people don't even try. In fiscal 1970-71, the last period for which figures were available, only seven of 39,437 citations for moving violations went to jury trials in Marin County.

Bergman's case was unusual, however, not only because it went to jury — an option in traffic cases that may be eliminated by the state legislature — but also because of some cost-cutting variations from a normal jury trial.

Only six persons sat on the jury, a move suggested by Judge Peter Allen Smith and agreed to by Bergman and the district attorney's office.

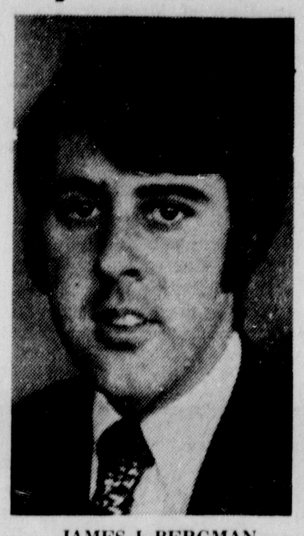
They also agreed to select the jury without a judge present, thus freeing Judge Smith to preside over another case while Bergman — acting as his own attorney — and a deputy district attorney questioned prospective jurors and selected the six who would hear the case.

The smaller jury is an adaptation Smith said he uses "whenever I can get a defendant to agree to do it."

In minor traffic cases, the courts attempt to discourage jury trials at all, Smith said.

A jury trial is a burden on the courts and the taxpayers, he said, and the fine — if the defendant is found guilty — doesn't approach the cost of having a jury.

Defendants have a right to a 12-man jury, but can waive the right and agree to a smaller one.



JAMES J. BERGMAN
Jury gamble lost

Many lawyers, however, will not waive the right for their clients, the judge said, on the belief that with 12 jurors the chances are greater of getting at least one to disagree with the prosecution and preventing the unanimous verdict needed to convict.

Smith said he "unqualifiedly supports" proposed legislation which would eliminate the unanimous verdict requirement in misdemeanor cases as well as legislation to do away with jury trials in traffic cases, unless the violation carries a possible jail sentence.

Smith had no estimate of what a one-day jury trial, such as Bergman's costs the county, but he said "substantial economies were effected" by the smaller jury and the absence of a judge during jury selection.

Bergman himself effected a substantial economy in representing himself, saving the $300 Judge Smith estimated it would have cost him for an attorney for the trial.

But representing oneself also pits the amateur against a professional trial lawyer, and to battle without experience is "like operating on yourself," as the judge told Bergman yesterday during the trial while explaining a rule of evidence.

Bergman, 29, was cited Sept. 5 in Sausalito for making an unsafe start and an unsafe lane change.

In addition to maintaining his innocence of charges, Bergman suggested that the citation resulted from an overzealous ticketing policy on the part of Sausalito police (a charge being investigated by the Marin County Grand Jury), as well as an effort by the police to get him personally.

He testified that the officer who stopped him Sept. 5 said something like "I've been on the lookout for you" or "We've been looking for you."

Milen C. Dempster, foreman of the grand jury, sat in on Bergman's trial yesterday, taking notes throughout it, but he declined to confirm his presence as part of the grand jury's investigation of the Sausalito police.

The trial lasted an hour and 45 minutes. Sausalito Police Officer Whitney K. Simpson was the sole witness for Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael A. Gridley. Bergman and a friend, Helen Lopez, who was with him the night of the citation, testified in his defense.

In his final argument, Bergman repeated he "did not commit those offenses" and appealed to the jury of five women and a man to consider their own children and how they would react "to something like this happening to them."

Gridley ended his case by conceding there may have been a "reasonable doubt" about the unsafe lane change, but argued that there was none about the unsafe start.

After an hour's deliberation, the jury agreed with Gridley, finding Bergman guilty of the unsafe start.

Smith complimented Bergman on his "skills as an advocate," reviewed his driving record — which included six previous moving violations in the last two years — and fined him $38.

Hospital Wing Use Discussed

The possibility of providing space for various county health services in a proposed new wing at Marin General Hospital was discussed last night by the Marin Hospital District board.

The board president, Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion, said she had written the board of supervisors asking if they would like to request space in long-range expansion plans of the hospital for out-patients, a laboratory and a morgue.

Dr. Campion told the board the matter has been turned over to the county administrator for a recommendation to the board of supervisors.

Out-patient and laboratory services for the county health department are now scattered in several buildings and there is no county morgue. Pathology work is done at various mortuaries in the county.

No date has been set for possible expansion of the hospital.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted gifts of $7,500 from board member Thomas K. Procter and his wife and $5,000 from M & T Inc. owners of Northgate Shopping Center No. 2, toward purchase of monitoring equipment for the intensive coronary care unit.

FILL — Learned that filling of the parking lot across the street from the hospital is about 25 per cent complete.

STUDENTS — Approved allowing six students from the College of California Medical Affiliates in San Francisco to gain operating room training at the hospital, subject to legal and insurance approval.

SALARIES — Approved raises for three administrators, including Community Mental Health Center Director John Guerrant from $2,500 a month to $2,625 a month; hospital Admin. Ray K. Bolinger, from $2,583 a month to $2,2725 a month and Asst. Administrator Lawrence B. Malkin from $1,550 a month to $1,635 a month, all effective today.

INCINERATOR — Voted to spend $8,000 to improve the hospital incinerator in order to meet new Bay Area Air Pollution Control District standards.

RATES — Voted to change categories and raise rates for care of newborn babies in the hospital nursery. The current rates are normal care, $34 a day, and extra care, $43 a day. Effective Jan. 1, the daily rates will be normal, $35; high-risk, $45, and maximum care, $65.

Approval Seen For Nominees

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield indicated today the Supreme Court nominations of Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist may come before the Senate shortly.

Mansfield said he would schedule debate on the Court nominees following Senate action on the nomination of Earl L. Butz to be President Nixon's new Agriculture secretary. That vote was tentatively set today for 1 p.m. EST Thursday.

In some brief speeches, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., announced support of Rehnquist —"not entirely without reservation" —while Sen. James F. Buckley, R-N.Y., urged confirmation of both nominees.

There has been little opposition voiced to Powell, but some liberal Democratic senators continued efforts to block confirmation of Rehnquist.

In the late Middle Ages, the French word "chaperon" referred to a hood which was worn by men and women generally.

Dope Haul Case Guilt Admitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorney Harry J. Kreamer of Bolinas pleaded guilty yesterday to charges growing out of two cases involving confiscation of large amounts of marijuana in Marin County.

The pleas came as Kreamer, 32, was scheduled to go on trial in U.S. District Court in connection with the Aug. 16 seizure of about 20 pounds of marijuana in his car in Novato. A motion to suppress evidence in the case was dismissed Monday.

He pleaded guilty to misdemeanor possession in that case, as well as guilty to a charge of felony conspiracy to possess and distribute marijuana that resulted from the Oct. 17 seizure of 800 pounds of pot in San Rafael's Northgate Industrial Park.

Judge William Matthew Byrne Jr., a visiting jurist from Los Angeles, set sentencing for Feb. 18. Asst. U.S. Atty. John G. Milano said Kreamer faces maximum sentences of a year in prison and a $5,000 fine on the felony complaint.

In the Northgate case, Kreamer was arrested with three other men — Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs — after agents stopped a truck containing the illicit haul.

The other three men are to return to court Dec. 17 for pretrial motions.

Kent Defendant Pleads Guilty

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—A former Kent State University student pleaded guilty today to first degree riot charges in connection with the 1970 campus disorders at the school which came to a climax when four students were shot to death by National Guardsmen.

Larry Shub, 20, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, entered his surprising plea just one day after Jerry Rupe, first of 25 persons to be tried in the Kent State disturbances, was found guilty of interfering with a fireman at a burning campus ROTC building, and charges against Peter C. Bliek, 23, Rochester, N.Y., a second defendant, were dropped.

Shub, third person to be tried, was a student at the time of the disorders, which occurred from May 2, 1970 until the four students were killed May 4, 1970.

The capital cities of four states are named for Presidents: Jackson, Miss.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Lincoln, Neb., and Madison, Wis.

Hub Council Sort Of Approves Marin County's General Plan

The San Anselmo City Council last night voiced a sort of general approval to the preliminary countywide general plan proposed for Marin, but took no official stand.

"It would take a month of meetings to go through it and examine it item by item as it affects San Anselmo," Councilman Lewis W. Stewart said at the end of the council's meeting with county planning aides Sol Silver and Robert Harrison.

Silver said the county staff was not necessarily seeking an endorsement of the plan, but the purpose of last night's session — which the San Anselmo Planning Commission also attended — was to get a general reaction of the City of San Anselmo to the preliminary plan.

Silver said the preliminary plan will be formally presented to the City-County Planning Council tomorrow, together with changes resulting from public reaction at the long series of hearings already held throughout the county.

If the city-county panel "adopts it as a living, breathing document," it will be returned to the cities and the county for formal ratification and can serve as an "interim guide" while the final draft is being worked out for adoption by mid-1972, Silver explained. It could not legally replace existing plans and zoning until its final adoption.

Several cities, including Mill Valley and Tiburon, have delayed considering the preliminary plan because it has not yet been formally endorsed by the city-county council, Sivler said.

Much of the discussion last night centered on countywide growth and transit proposals, with only a few questions relating specifically to Sn Anselmo.

Councilman James F. Reed and Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson both expressed a concern about the need for a definition of San Anselmo's role in the plan.

Reed wanted to know what the effects on San Anselmo's remaining primarily single-family dwelling units would be, but Silver said densities for various cities had not yet been thoroughly studied.

The aim now, he said, was to establish goals and determine if they are the goals Marin should be pursuing.

Anderson asked, "If this plan is adopted, what will be expected of San Anselmo?" Again, Silver said the question was premature.

But it would not mean, Silver said, that because San Anselmo was one of 11 cities that San Anselmo would be expected to absorb one-eleventh of the projected population growth.

Silver later defended the plan's contention that Marin could absorb 60,000 new persons a decade without "clogging" the county by 1990. He said the plan did not recommend the growth, but merely said there is room for it.

The plan's inclusion of roads linking Terra Linda with the Sleepy Hollow area and Lucas Valley road with the White's Hill area near Fairfax was questioned by Councilman Stewart, who said priority should be given transit systems before being given the automobile.

Silver said that was a sentiment that "we've heard over and over again."

Harrison said that at the time transportation data was needed for preparation of the preliminary plan, the connector roads looked best, but that the emphasis now is turning to a bus transit system.

In reply to a question from Stewart, Harrison said it is "very possible" the connector roads could be forgotten for at least 10 years if the bus transit system is established.

The text of the plan was praised by councilmen for its "very human" writing style which, Reed said, was "unusual for planners."

Merchants In Mill Valley Set Holiday Hours

Mill Valley merchants have begun their annual Christmas promotion with holiday decorations, two hours of free parking, longer shopping hours and a visit from Santa Claus.

Christmas lights have been strung up in downtown Mill Valley and along Miller Avenue from Camino Alto to Willow Street.

Many stores will stay open until 9 p.m. Dec. 3 and 10, 13 through 17 and 20 through 23, with Sunday hours from noon to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will arrive Dec. 4 in Lytton Square and will be there again Dec. 10, 11, and 13 through 24 except for Dec. 19.

Contract Will Be Renewed

The contract of Fairfax schools Supt. H. Reginald Hammond will be renewed, the school board decided last night.

Hammond reported the board's decision followed an evaluation of his performance and that a formal report on the evaluation will be made by board president Dr. George C. Stone at a later date.

The board continued the subject of Hammond's contract until Dec. 21 when a salary will be set. The board's next meeting is at 7:45 p.m. Dec. 7 at White Hill School.

Watts, Biard To Be Arraigned

George Gregory Watts, 18, and Ernest Barrow Biard, 18, both of San Francisco, will be arraigned in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 15 on charges of armed robbery.

Following a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge David Menary bound over the pair to the higher court.

Watts and Biard are accused of holding up John D. Mackie and Sandra A. Pazamickas in their apartment in San Rafael on Oct. 29. The victims told police four men robbed them of $600 in cash and personal possessions at gunpoint, then tied gagged and threatened them before leaving.

Car Collision In San Rafael

A 31-year-old Oakland woman complained of neck pain following a traffic accident at the intersection of Irwin and Third streets at 9:10 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said Emily M. Sitkin told them she would consult her own doctor about the pain.

She was injured when the car she was driving north on Irwin Street collided with a dar driven west on Third Street by Joan A. Costamagna, 37, of 71 Surfwood Circle, San Rafael, police said.

New Group To Meet Thursday

A group of Marin residents described as "middle class Americans (who have) finally decided to do something about being taxed to death by politicians, school boards and the welfare society" will gather in Ross Thursday.

The meeting, the second for the group, will be at 8 p.m. at the home of Edward J. Gilmore at 100 Laurel Grove Avenue.

Gilmore said that his group, expected to sweli in number from the 15 who met two weeks ago, is "just getting off the ground" but that it hopes to spread a "middle class revolution."

Fisherman's Body Found

The body of a commercial fisherman from Sebastopol, who had been missing off Bodega Bay since April 14, washed ashore at Dillon's Beach yesterday morning.

He was Virgil Clifford Berry, 58, a commercial fisherman for about 15 years.

His son, Virgil Berry Jr. of 829 Ashton Avenue, Santa Rosa, said funeral services have been completed, and his remains will be cremated at the Analy Funeral Home in Sebastopol.

Guilty Plea To Forgery Charge

George Dewey Beauchamp, 27, no known address, has pleaded guilty to a check forgery charge.

He appeared yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and admitted he had forged a $300 check at the Bank of America on Oct. 17. The check was drawn on the account of Edith M. Denny of Mill Valley.

Beauchamp was ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 2 for sentencing.

Richard Hongisto: He'll Be A Most Unusual Sheriff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—During his campaign for sheriff, Richard Hongisto's posters showed a peace sign inside a lawman's star "to symbolize the analogy between our approach to Vietnam and to crime."

After his surprising victory, Hongisto announced plans to act as a watchdog over other law enforcement agencies in San Francisco and to lobby for changes in laws concerning homosexuality, marijuana possession and other "non-victim" crime.

Obviously, Hongisto, 35, a pipe-puffing former policeman with a professorial mien is going to be one of the nation's most unusual sheriffs when he takes office in January.

As sheriff of San Francisco County, Hongisto will command 182 deputies who run two jails—one in the Hall of Justice and one in suburban San Bruno—and who serve as bailiffs in some courts. Other law enforcement duties under San Francisco's joint city-county government are handled by the police department.

He has already upset municipal court judges by insisting their huge case backlog could be cut if they'd work longer hours. One judge reacted by calling for a contempt citation against Hongisto and the presiding municipal judge shifted courtroom security responsibilities from the sheriff's office to city police.

The mild-mannered Hongisto, who keeps his dark hair neatly trimmed, his face clean-shaven and his suits conservative, was elected sheriff of the City and County of San Francisco by 21,000 votes over 15-year incumbent Matthew Carberry.

The new sheriff, who listed himself as a "criminologist" on the ballot, took 36 per cent of the vote in a four-man race, running well throughout the city but doing best among homosexuals, liberals, the young and minorities.

Hongisto, interviewed after his victory, said the peace symbol on his campaign posters indicated "the parallel between what is happening in Vietnam—more guns, more money, more force and a failure to produce results—and what is happening in criminal justice—more and bigger guns, more taxes, more people stuffed in jail, and a continuing rise in crime."

"My opponents were criminal justice hawks—they advocated more of the same," said Hongisto, who resigned after 10 years on the San Francisco police force to become an educational television newsman and work on his doctorate at the University of California in nearby berkeley.

Hongisto definitely doesn't advocate more of the same. His plans include:

—Appointment of Reuben Greenberg, associate professor of Sociology at Hayward State College, as the country's first black undersheriff.

—Reform of the two county jails, which have been criticized repeatedly by investigating groups in recent years for poor conditions and treatment of inmates.

"We can treat the prisoners better and more fairly and still protect society," said Hongisto. "Our jail won't be pleasant—it won't be like living in a hotel. But the prisoners will be treated as well as those in adjoining counties, though even that will take at least a year.

"Our main concern is in keeping the peace and preventing violence—preventing violence, not reacting to it in a conditioned response. It's always your option to pounce on somebody—you do it first or last. In our department, it will always come last."

Hongisto shrugged off suggestions that the Attica prison deaths may have made it a bad time for reform by saying "there has never been a good time in this country's history." He said specific changes will involve food, visiting hours, medical treatment and rehabilitation programs.

"I don't kid myself—I'll be in the business of applying bandaids to a cancer. The jail reflects the social hatreds and circumstances of society, including inequitable distribution of wealth, ghettoization of large numbers of identifiable people, discrimination in employment, education and housing. These are the root causes of crime."

—Acting as a watchdog over other law enforcement agencies, including the courts, police, probation department, district attorney's office and juvenile detention home.

Hongisto criticized the police for not having stricter controls on use of guns by officers, saying the department has "a bad habit of letting its men shoot people."

"I was a policeman for 10 years and I know there's a need to keep an eye on all city departments—nothing is perfect," he said. He said a new public information unit would seek citizen complaints and try to set up "two-way" dialogue with community groups.

"The sheriff of San Francisco should be prepared to make statements about criminal justice in his county—and I'm going to," the sheriff-elect said.

—Donating $750 each month—one-third of his salary—to a non-profit foundation which will help neighborhood groups deal with problems of social and criminal justice.

—Appearing before city and state legislative groups to argue for changes in laws affecting "non-victim crime."

Hongisto said he supported a bill which would remove all legal sanctions against private sexual activities between consenting adults. "What adults do in the privacy of their own bedrooms is their own business—and not a fit area for the law," he said.

He also called for "greatly reduced" penalties for marijuana possession, although he declined to advocate its legalization.

"I don't expect to singlehandedly change the law or create a movement, but I will lend my voice as a 10-year police officer, a criminologist and as sheriff of San Francisco," he said.

New Federal Building Eyed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal official disclosed Monday that the U.S. government may erect a new $100 million office building here.

Thomas Hannon, regional administrator for the General Services Administration, told the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association that the structure would be 1 ½ to two times as large as the federal building on Golden Gate Avenue.

Hannon said the government's present quarters were not adequate even on the day they opened seven years ago.

Oklahoma City Bishop Selected

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today appointed a Californian as bishop of Oklahoma City.

He is Msgr. John R. Quinn, 42, Riverside, Calif., who received priestly ordination in 1953 and has served since 1967 as an auxiliary bishop of San Diego.

In other action, the Pope set up a new diocese in Charlotte, N.C., and appointed the Rev. Michael J. Begley, 62, Mittineague, Mass., as its first bishop.

Historic Pact To Mean More Jobs

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—The Frigidaire Division of General Motors announced today the signing of an "historic agreement" with an electrical workers union calling for 5,000 workers to forego previously agreed on pay raises in order that 1,050 laid-off workers could be rehired.

Company officials said the workers were laid off during the past year because of low sales and high labor costs.

The recall is a result of a contract modification with the International Union of Electrical Workers. It negates an $18 per week pay raise and cost of living increases.

Pac Tel Explains Rate Hike Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Telephone Co. said yesterday its request for a $77.4 million rate increase to offset recent wage hikes had nothing to do with a California Supreme Court decision last week which could result in refunds to its subscribers.

Telephone company attorneys also said the company intends to seek a rehearing of the court decision, which held that PT&T used "imprudent" accounting procedures and consequently paid too much federal income-taxes.

Company attorney Richard W. Odgers said the company felt there were "vital defects" in the decision which would be discussed in the request for a rehearing.

"Until this application . . . is acted upon, any suggestions that the wage offset proceeding should be dismissed or should be deferred are premature," Odgers said.

A consumer group called Consumers Arise Now, one of two plaintiffs in the suit in which the Supreme Court ruled last week, demanded Monday that the California Public Utilities Commission order an immediate $25 million refund, and also reject the $77.4 million application.

Odgers said the $77.4 million application resulted from wage increases paid employes following a strike earlier this year.

Even if the PUC ultimately orders refunds as a result of the Supreme Court decision, he said, "the additional expense to which Pacific would be subject by reason of the wage increases would still require offsetting revenues of $77.4 million."

Public Money Will Fund Private Study

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday voted to spend an unspecified amount of public money on a private study to determine how to improve the legislature's efficiency.

The vote, which was cast audibly, thus avoiding a roll call which would put every assemblyman on record, came after a lengthy debate in which some Republicans criticized excessive legislative spending.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, questioned the study and said he has received many letters from citizens complaining about the length of the legislative session.

The legislature through October had already spent $20 million and every day it meets costs an additional $11,000 just for such items as expenses, printing and clerical help.

"There has to be a better way of doing business than what we're doing now," said the chief sponsor of the proposed study, Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco.

Burton was the floor sponsor of a resolution by Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, authorizing the study.

In response to repeated questioning, Burton indicated he did not know how much the study would cost. He said it would be conducted by private consultants, whom he did not identify.

Murphy questioned why outside consultants should be used when the legislature already has a well-equipped full-time staff.

Another Republican, Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson of Chico, added, "I happen to be one who thinks we have too many consultants around here. This study is geared to finding out whether we're spending our money wisely, and I don't think we are in many cases."

"All year long when I begged for these items you said 'wait 'til Christmas!"

Euromart Rekindles Soviet Fear

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Britain's imminent entry into the European Common Market has rekindled Soviet fears of an independent West European nuclear force, according to diplomatic sources.

Western diplomats discount the idea of the independent nuclear force but say cooperation in defense will certainly be part of a 10-nation enlarged Common Market.

Efforts to build closer European political unity and increased U.S. pressure for Europe to pay more for its own defense will be the main spurs to the Common Market nations getting together on defense matters, they said.

"Defense questions will be forced upon us because they are so closely linked to economic and political problems," a senior British diplomat said.

The Treaty of Rome, which binds France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, does not mention cooperation in defense questions. Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland are expected to become members of the community Jan. 1, 1973.

Already, a member of the community's Executive Commission, Jean-Francois Deniau, has written in the Paris newspaper Le Monde:

"To envisage a European (defense) contribution which will be only the classic army, with the nuclear power remaining with the United States only, is an outlook that has already been condemned.

"But to envisage a European atomic weapon would create more problems than we could hope to solve," he said.

Deniau said repeal of the U.S. McMahon act, which prohibits Britain from passing on U.S. atomic secrets to any other country, should be part of any deal for Europe to take over its own defense.

The Soviet reaction to Deniau's article was a column in the official Communist party newspaper Pravda by its top commentator, Yuri Zhukov.

"In connection with the forthcoming entry of Britain and possibly some other states into the European Economic Community (EEC), incorrigible adherents of division on the continent have recently resumed their hysterical clamor to revive the old project of a West European armed forces, in particular a West European strike force," Zhukov wrote.

"As must be clear to everyone, such a military and political grouping would play the role of an auxiliary organ of NATO, and its creation would only deepen the division of the continent," the article said.

Britain already is linked to the other members of the future enlarged community through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), although France withdrew from military integration in 1966.

Britain and the six current Common Market members also are linked through the Western European Union (WEU), a largely moribund organization dealing mainly with arms control in Europe.

Lord Gladwyn, former British ambassador in Paris, said in a report on the future of the WEU that "in the long run the EEC will have to concern itself with defense as well as foreign policy if only for the fact that the two are inseparable..."

Gladwyn said he thought the ultimate objective of the current Soviet policy of detente "undoubtedly is gradually to secure total American withdrawal from Europe and then to exercise a predominant political influence over a still divided peninsula."

Guess who was born today, Dec. 1, and became famous as:

1. An American stage, screen, and TV comedian? Now completing the film version of his "Play It Again, Sam" in the Bay Area, this writer-comedian got his start doing gag lines for Sid Caesar and Art Carney: (A) Jackie Gleason; (B) Dick Cavett; (C) Woody Allen.

2. One of TV's favorite singers? The oldest of four sisters, she made her singing debut with them on "The Lawrence Welk Show" on Christmas Eve in 1955 and then switched to their own show, called "Jimmy Durante Presents . . .": (A) Dianne Lennon; (B) Dorothy McGuire; (C) Patty Andrews.

3. A singing favorite in Broadway musicals? A star since she first sang "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," she's had stage and screen successes for 30 years, including hits like "South Pacific" and "Hello Dolly": (A) Doris Day; (B) Mary Martin; (C) Peggy Lee.

4. An American writer of popular novels? Eighty-five years old today, this talented author is the dean of American mystery writers and the creator of the well read Nero Wolf detective series: (A) Rex Stout; (B) John D. MacDonald; (C) Dashiell Hammet.

ANSWERS

1-(C) (Woody Allen); 2-(A) (Dianne Lennon); 3-(B) (Mary Martin); 4-(A) (Rex Stout).

HOW TO PLAY

This Four-Spade Hand Will Likely Plaque An Expert For Many Years

When a match ends, an expert thinks of the opportunities he muffed. If he has made a real blunder, he wonders why. Was he tired? Was his physical condition poor? If he has merely missed a chance to do better, he still worries about how he should have known at the time. The hand shown today, played a few weeks ago in New Orleans in a match held to select the U.S. team for the 1972 Olympics, will plague one of the experts for many years.

Opening lead — ♣ A

THE TOP CLUB

West opened the ace of clubs and thought for a few moments. Then he led the queen of clubs.

Declarer ruffed in dummy, entered his hand with the ten of diamonds and led a low trump to try a finesse with a queen. East won with the king and returned a club, forcing dummy to ruff once more.

Declarer, Bobby Goldman, of the world championship Dallas Aces, cashed the ace of spades, dropping the jack, and got to his hand with the queen of diamonds to draw the last trump with the ten of spades.

Now it was easy for declarer to run the diamonds, discarding his last club, and then force out the ace of hearts. The defenders got their two aces and the king of spades, but nothing else.

SIMPLE REASONING

West should have found the killing defense by simple reasoning. He could be sure of taking his two aces, and therefore needed two tricks from his partner to defeat the contract. Which two tricks could his partner possibly win?

So few high cards were missing from his own hand and the dummy that West could hope only for a ruffing trick and a high trump. Which suit could his partner ruff? Not clubs, since East had raised clubs. Not diamonds, since West was short in that suit himself. Hearts, therefore.

TO LOW CLUB

West should shift at the second trick to a low heart. When East gets in with the king of spades, he returns a heart and ruffs the third round of the suit.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A Q 8 2
♥ - K Q 9 4
♦ - A K J 5
♣ - K.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Some experts would bid one spade, but the best opening bid is one diamond.

Make it as easy as possible for partner to respond in a major suit. You will then make sure of getting to at least a game.

Non-Smoking Experiment Ends

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI)—This city's noble experiment against smoking has ended.

Officials have ordered a halt to the sirens that shrieked at 11 a.m. each day for the past five months indicating it was time for the "hour of sacrifice" — when everyone was to put down his cigarette until the all-clear was sounded at noon.

Cleave Baker, borough council president, said smokers and nonsmokers objected to the idea because the siren should be used for emergencies.

Burl Ives Sued For Ad 'Overpayment'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Burl Ives, the folk singer and actor who currently portrays a lawyer in a television series, heard from some real lawyers Monday.

Ives and Ives Productions Ltd. was sued for $15,000 by an advertising agency which complained that it had accidentally paid Ives twice for a commercial for the H. J. Heinz Co. Ives got $30,000 instead of the $15,000 he was entitled to and refuses to return the overpayment.

Singapore Smog Drive Pressed

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Singapore, where the government fines motorists for smoky exhausts or tossing cigarette butts out car windows, is about to carry its campaign against pollution a step further by fining the owners of smoke-producing factories.

The government is trying to prevent large-scale pollution of the atmosphere before it assumes the proportions of New York or Tokyo.

The level of air pollution, as monitored by a dozen stations on this fast industrializing island, is still within safety limits, Health Minister Dr. Chua Sian Chin said after a tour of factories recently.

But he said legislation must be enacted to compel Singapore's growing industries to install antipollution devices to minimize the hazards.

That's the purpose of "the Clean Air Bill, 1971", now before Parliament and expected to be passed in the near future.

The bill empowers the health minister to make far-reaching regulations enforceable under written law. He may prescribe the types of control equipment to be used and the manner in which such equipment shall be operated and maintained and the type and composition of fuel to be used in Singapore factories.

The minister also may make regulations prescribing standards of concentration or rates of emission of air impurities from any source of air pollution and the method of making tests.

Singapore's first antiair pollution measures went into action last March against motor vehicles, especially diesel-powered ones, with smoky exhausts.

Diesel vehicles comprised about 10 per cent of the total number of licensed vehicles then on the roads. Most of them were poorly maintained, unlicensed "pirate" taxis, which have since been banned.

In the first year of the campaign, 32,680 vehicles were cited for emitting obnoxious smoke.

Two "Keep Singapore Clean and Green" campaigns launched subsequently centered around personal hygiene and environmental health. A ban was clamped on throwing paper, cigarette butts and any debris onto public places.

The public works department followed by opening up new parks and transplanting trees and palms, shrubs and flowers to them and in open spaces around markets and along highways. The end result was a sparklingly clean and green Singapore. Tourists described it as "the cleanest city in Asia."

Another month-long campaign just concluded gave particular emphasis on water pollution.

Regulations are already in force requiring industries to pretreat their effluents to prescribed standards before discharging them into open drains and, to less stringent standards, if discharged into sewers where available.

Householders and hawkers are being asked to dispose of their waste into sewers instead of open drains.

No GI Wants An Asterisk After Name

SAIGON (UPI)—One American serviceman in Vietnam is destined to make history.

No one knows who he is now, but someday his name will appear, perhaps under an asterisk, when the books are written on American involvement in Indochina. He will have become the last GI killed in Vietnam.

This one worry underlines the thinking of Americans in Vietnam. No one wants to catch that last bullet or step on that final land mine.

You see it in their faces everywhere—on the lonely fire bases and on crowded C130 transport planes flying them on new operations.

"That's going to be a hell of a story for you guys," a young major remarks with heavy sarcasm to a reporter. "You're really going to like that one."

You reply that it's one you would just as soon pass up.

The Americans in the field aren't forcing the issue now when contact is made with the guerrillas. The preferred method of fighting these days is at long range, by artillery and aircraft.

At a fire base in the mountains of the north, some artillery men casually pump out several motar rounds on a suspected target. Then they learn the suspected target was a group of Viet Cong believed to be carrying the feared B40 rockets which could be used against the U.S. base.

"My God! Let's put some more rounds down there quick," a mortar man says, leaning to adjust his weapon. Soon another 20 shells are whining away in a high arc, exploding 26 seconds later in a valley far below.

On Nov. 18 an American reconnaissance company of 175 men was ambushed by a battalion of 500 guerrillas, 58 miles northeast of Saigon. The U.S. unit, which in past years would have quickly assumed the offensive, this time withdrew and called in jets and helicopter gunships to hit the Communists.

On their part, the guerrillas are also reluctant to tangle with American troops. But the reason probably is not so much out of fear as of knowing the foe will soon be gone. There is little percentage in such a fight. American patrols in the field, although conditions are as dirty and rough as ever, seldom make significant contact.

The Americans drawing the most fire are the helicopter crews and the advisers to Vietnamese field units.

The chopper gunners keep their machineguns ready, a chain of bullets looped over an old C-ration can to make certain of an orderly feed into the chamber. The pilots of the unarmed little Loach helicopters zip over possible trouble spots at treetop level and 100 miles-an-hour to make as small a target as possible for any Communist gunners.

The watchword is caution. In the past, only the men who were "short"—with a few weeks left in country — were the ones to take the extra steps for protection. Now everyone does. Extra defenses—sentinels, trip wires, warning devices— are set up when a patrol beds down. Weapons are kept cleaned, oiled and ready.

Guards are more alert at isolated fire bases. Each man yearns to wear the little piece of string or ribbon that marks him as the one in his unit with the fewest days remaining in Vietnam.

It boils down to the words of a young paratrooper sitting on his rucksack, his M16 handy:

"Nobody wants to be the last one to die over here."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some People Question National Food Supply's Nutritive Value

Many question the nutritive value of our food supply. Not only is it the safest, but the cheapest, most diverse and most abundant in the world. A few radicals on the subject actually foment alarm against food additives and agricultural chemicals. Many of their ideas are highly exaggerated and not based on fact. Actually, enrichment of foods will solve many of our nutritional problems.

Alarmists, for example, say that traces of chemical residues will be retained by the body and build up to dangerous levels. They do not know or care to add that there is always some excretion of chemicals by the body. Furthermore, the amount stored represents the balance between intake and excretion. This is as true of DDT as it is of table salt or the iron we receive in certain foods. No completely cumulative effect exists. DDT is stored in the fat and steadily broken down and excreted via the urine.

NO MENTION is made of how laboratory tests are conducted. When a chemical, such as DDT or sodium gluconate, is injected in a mouse, the results are likely to be fatal. When taken by mouth, the results are different. Quantity also is an important factor. So, is it necessary to push the panic button when only enormous amounts of a substance produce toxic effects? There is no valid reason to incriminate tiny amounts of the same chemical in foods. Ingesting large amounts of table salt, iodine, copper, iron, and hydrocloric acid is dangerous, yet small doses are not harmful.

WE MUST also remember that the pros and cons of chemical residues in foods started after new analytical techniques were discovered to detect minute traces of the substances. These traces are usually present in biologically meaningless levels and should not be considered a threat to life. For all we know, foods contained traces of these elements long before pollution became a household word. A good example is the mercury found in fish preserved at the Smithsonian Institution for 40 years.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

LIGHT BREAKFAST

L. D. writes: Would eating a breakfast of tea and toast every morning eventually lead to a serious nutritional deficiency?

REPLY

Not unless the lunches and dinners were lopsided also. Many persons do a better job if they eat a good breakfast. But there is no harm in a light breakfast if the food consumed in a 24-hour period contains the basic items. This means all the necessary carbohydrates, fats, proteins, minerals, and vitamins.

COLORED SWEAT

P. writes: Sometimes a reddish discoloration developes under my arms and on my T-shirt. Do you think I'm bleeding from somewhere?

REPLY

No. Occasionally colonies of red or orange bacteria live in the armpits on the hair shafts. These microorganisms color the sweat so that it is mistaken for blood.

DOUBLE CHIN

A reader writes: How can a person get rid of a double chin?

REPLY

Some women wear a chin strap, practice holding up the head, or try massage. A definite double chin is difficult to eliminate without the aid of a plastic surgeon.

Bobby's Remains Are Transferred

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The remains of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy were transferred from a temporary to a permanent site at Arlington National Cemetery late Tuesday night.

Kennedy was buried at the cemetery near the grave of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, following his death in Los Angeles June 6, 1968.

The transfer, carried out after the cemetery closed, took slightly more than three hours.

His widow, Ethel, and his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., were present.

Heroin Suspect To Be Arraigned

Felicia Mary Fouche, 25, of Gate 5 in Sausalito, accused of selling heroin, will be arraigned in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 20.

Following a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge Robert A. Smallman held her to answer to the charge in superior court.

State narcotics agents arrested Miss Fouche on Oct. 13 and charged her with selling heroin on Sept. 28.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Kills Coastal Agency Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill creating the North Coast Planning Organization to deal with problems in environmental protection and law enforcement was vetoed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

In rejecting the measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, Reagan said the bill was unnecessary because what it seeks to accomplish can be done under the Joint Exercise of Powers Act.

Collier's bill would have allowed Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino Lake and Sonoma counties to join the organization, with the membership of at least three of them needed to put it into effect.

"If local governmental entities in the North Coast area wished to use their existing authority to accomplish what is intended by SB920, they could do so," Reagan said.

"But, it is a decision they should make, not one which should be imposed on them by the state."

However, the bill declared that the need for water and sewage facilities, law enforcement, transportation systems and environmental protection controls "present problems which cannot be adequately met by individual counties or cities."

UNCERTAINTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved two tax bills conforming California law to federal tax statutes and thereby raising $6.5 million in new revenue.

The bills, originally tied to an omnibus $370 million tax increase measure by Sent. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, face an uncertain future. Stiern's tax bill has been shelved by the Senate.

One bill by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, dealt with tax-exempt and charitable institutions and would bring in the $6.5 million. It was approved 65-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

The second, by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, would have a negligible net revenue effect, according to Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post. It was approved 56-2 and also returned to the Senate.

The bill concerned such areas as excess investment interest, moving expenses and corporate acquisitions.

NEWSMEN WIN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan legislation prohibiting a newsman from being held in contempt of court for refusing to identify the sources of information gathered but not used. Casting a 'yes' vote was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Newsmen currently cannot be held in contempt for refusing to divulge the source of information which is published or broadcast. The bill would extend that privilege to unused information.

It also allows a person no longer employed by a news-gathering organization to refuse to identify the source of information gathered while he was a newsman.

NOISE STANDARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved legislation to prohibit the sale of excessively noisy machinery ranging from piledrivers to lawnmowers.

The bill by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, passed yesterday on a 43-18 vote and was returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

Under the measure, the state Public Health Department would be required to establish noise standards for machinery, equipment and household appliances.

Manufacturers would be required to "certify" that their products meet the standards before they could be sold. If spot checks by the department found appliances which violated the standards, they would be required to be withdrawn from the market.

STUDY FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday approved a proposal to spend an unspecified amount of public money for a study on how to improve the legislature's efficiency.

The study would include a contract with private consultants, including the former top aide to ex-Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, according to Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz.

"It's a bum deal because we don't know how much it is going to cost," Murphy said.

Murphy challenged why outside consultants should be hired when the legislature already has a well-equipped, full-time staff.

"We've got so much staff around that the building has kind of shrunk," Murphy said.

The Republican whip identified the private consultants as Phil Schott, the former Unruh aide, and Jud Clark, a magazine publisher who once was a legislative employe.

PARKS LAW

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to preserve public parks in California was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure requires any governmental body or public utility which takes park land for other purposes to pay replacement costs. The money would be used to develop a park of comparable size in the same general area.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, the bill's author, said it would assure "that existing parks are not removed, even for worthwhile public facilities, unless another park of comparable size is provided in the same community."

PARKS BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has passed a bill establishing a state "wilderness" concept in California for the first time and barring high rise buildings from state parks.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was returned to the Senate yesterday on a 53-10 vote for concurrence in minor Assembly amendments.

Beilenson said current law is so vaguely worded that it could be interpreted to permit construction of major buildings in state parks.

AIRING RIGHT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill empowering the Fair Employment Practices Commission to initiate complaints reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

It received final legislative approval Tuesday on a 41-27 vote by the Assembly, the bare majority needed for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Supporters said the bill by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, would permit an employee who feared for his job to request secretly that the commission investigate and file complaints if it finds them warranted.

Opponents had contended that it would lead to harrassment of employers and encourage FEPC staff members "to go out and drum up business on a slow day."

TEETH CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved legislation setting up a voluntary program for fluoridating the teeth of public school children.

On a 45-12 vote, the measure by Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, was returned to the Senate yesterday for concurrence in amendments.

Way's bill, which has the support of the California Dental Association, was opposed by Assemblyman James W. Dent, R-Concord, who said it "imposes an additional chore on school districts not related to instruction."

TEAR GAS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill allowing licensed private detectives and security patrolmen to use tear gas weapons was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto, would restrict the use of such weapons to "defensive purposes."

Private investigators, private patrol operators and employes of private patrols would be allowed to use the tear gas weapons only after they had satisfactorily completed a state-approved course in tear gas instruction.

VETO POWER

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The voters will decide whether the Senate should have veto power over gubernatorial appointments to the University of California Board of Regents under legislation approved by the Assembly.

Reversing itself, the Assembly Tuesday approved on a 54-14 vote a proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, so empowering the Senate.

The proposed amendment will be submitted to the voters in the November 1972 election. If approved, persons appointed to the regents would have to be confirmed by 21 members of the 40-member Senate. Currently, regental appointees are excluded from confirmation.

Noise In The Cities Makes For Bad Vibes

DAVIS — The whirring of machinery in factories, the pounding of a jackhammer on the sidewalk, the sound of sirens and screechings wheels on streets merge in a symphonic collage of hostile vibrations ringing in the cars of the contemporary city dweller.

Noise — defined as unwanted sound — has become so much a part of our life that many of us are not aware of it at a conscious level.

Nevertheless, these unwanted sounds may have a deleterious effect not only on our hearing, but on other bodily functions as well, according to Dr. Kenneth Henry of the University of California, Davis, psychology department.

Henry has done extensive research testing the physiological effect of noise on mice, creatures with a hearing mechanism closely resembling that of man.

Some of his findings have been quite graphic — and frightening.

For instance, he has found that by "acoustic priming" — conditioning the mouse to a certain sound, say a doorbell, shortly after birth — the animal will convulse and die when the same sound is repeated days or weeks later.

"We know that loud noise can ultimately lead to deafness in humans," Henry observes, "But what we're looking for now is what other physiological effects it has.

"We of course, don't maintain that the sound of a doorbell can kill human beings. But we do think that sound can bring about changes in the human body chemistry which can lead to increased irritability, and perhaps other dangerous side effects.

"The 'acoustic priming' technique can be used to induce fatal seizures in larger mammals, such as cats, which have been fed large, but not fatal, doses of aspirin or tranquilizers.

"We feel that somehow the sound mixes with the changes in body chemistry brought on by the drugs to bring about death in these test animals.

"The brain acts as a selective system to screen out many sounds so that the individual is not consciously aware of them but they still have an effect on the body."

It will be awhile before research in loud sounds is performed on human beings, but in view of the increase in noise pollution, the need for further study in this field is loud and clear.

The Reason Behind The Stabbings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A distraught mother who stabbed two teachers with an icepick in a kindergarten classroom says she did it because schools were "putting children in little boxes."

Mrs. Rose Hardy, 35, said Tuesday she stabbed her daughter's teacher, Joan Hoskey, 16 times because her 5-year-old had come home crying on several occasions.

"That woman has chopped people's brains inside their souls," she said. "I am not in no box. Jehovah is my soul."

Miss Hoskey, 39, and Shirley Bayerele, 35, a teacher who heard screams and came to her aid Monday, both were stabbed repeatedly. They were taken off the critical list today.

Police inspectors said Mrs. Hardy, who surrendered several hours after the incident which occurred in front of 26 children, insisted she had a "right and duty as an Afro-American" to attack Miss Hoskey.

"Our children are not x's, o's' circles or dashes," said Mrs. Hardy, a mother of four. "Our brains don't go in a box. She was putting children in little boxes and pegs and holes."

Mrs. Hardy, interviewed by newsmen at city jail, said she was not remorseful. She was held on two counts of attempted murder.

Heart Switch Patient Is Dead

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— An award-winning writer who received a heart transplant at Stanford University Medical Center nearly three years ago has died.

Sasha Gilien, 46, was Stanford's second longest surviving heart transplant patient. He died of a heart attack Monday night at his Santa Cruz home, the medical center announced Tuesday.

Gilien coauthored "The Begatting of a President" which sold 200,000 copies and was released on a record narrated by Orson Welles. He recently was honored by the annual writer's award banquet in Los Angeles for a television episode he wrote for "Hawaii Five-O".

Advice For Fight Against Pollution

NEW YORK (UPI) —Mrs. Howard Cromwell, of Lafayette, Ind., representing the League of Woman Voters, told the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association about the best antipollution action by individuals.

She said it would be to "be aware of community and neighborhood solutions to environmental problems, become the catalyst to do something about them, and then zero in on one specific issue."

Guilty Plea Made To Beating Officer

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — John Turner, 25, of Mill Valley, has pleaded guilty to a felony count of battery on a police officer, stemming from a free-for-all at a pretrial hearing for the Soledad Brothers last spring.

Two additional counts of the same offense were dismissed at the request of the district attorney's office when Turner entered the guilty plea Mnday as he was due to go on trial in superior court.

He is to be sentenced Jan. 4.

Turner was arrested April 6 in a courtroom brawl in the Hall of Justice where George Jackson, Fleeta Drumgo and John Clutchette were appearing. Jackson was killed in an Aug. 21 uprising at San Quentin Prison.

Panel Talk's Date Is Given

The date of a panel discussion on "Youth: Law and Justice in Marin," to be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, was inadvertently omitted from a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The panel, open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Speakers will be Erick F. Yarchin, supervisor of Marin Juvenile Hall; Deputy Public Defender Joseph Watt and Robert B. McCreadie, a Novato attorney who often handles juvenile cases.

Don Timoteo School Robbed On Weekend

An electric heater, tape recorder and a small quantity of educational materials were taken in a burglary of a trailer at Don Timoteo School, 37 Trellis Drive, during the four-day Thanksgiving weekend; San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Value of the stolen goods was about $70, police said.

Marinite Is Being Held For Yreka

A Marin man, arrested Monday night at his home by sheriff's deputies, was to be taken to Siskiyou County where a warrant was issued when he failed to show up for a trial in superior court on drug charges.

Held in lieu of $12,500 bail was Michael Bruce Millar, 20, of 506 Pixie Trail, Homestead Valley.

Authorities in Yreka said Millar was arrested there last June 7 and charged with possessing pot. He was due to go to trial Nov. 22 but did not appear.

After his nonappearance, the Siskiyou County district attorney filed a charge of willfully failing to appear in court. Additional drug charges of having possessed barbituates, mescaline and cocaine at the time of his arrest also were added after the substances found were analyzed.

Authorities said he had small amounts of the drugs with him when arrested.

Stanford Plans Fund Campaign

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University trustees plan a massive campaign to raise $260 million over the next five years, largest fund-raising program in the university's history.

The aim of the campaign is to maintain Stanford's reputation for learning and research. The university has been running on an operating deficit since 1969, according to sources, despite tuition hikes now reaching $2,600 annually. with living costs, the average academic student now must pay an estimated $4,500 annually.

Stanford officials believe they no longer can raise tuition without forcing lower income students out.

SPORT NOTES

Bright Hopes For Water Ski Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo has plans for a water ski tournament in Marin County that would be the biggest and richest event in the sport's history.

Jaap, whose son Mike happens to be the water ski champion of the world, is putting together plans for a $30,000 California International Cup tournament at Bahia development just east of Novato. If all goes well with final arrangements, $20,000 will go for prize money, the first time the skiers would be getting more than trophies and expenses paid. Tournament costs would take the other $10,000.

Suyderhoud, who has been tournament chairman of the first two California Cup events, held at Berkeley's Aquatic Park, said he already has approval from the Hoffman Co., developers of the multi-million dollar Bahia layout, to put on the event at the lagoon there Sept. 16-17 of 1972. Next will come talks with a bank in Los Angeles. Jaap's keeping his fingers crossed.

FOR THOSE of you new to the sport of world class water skiing, it will get plenty of televisicn coverage Saturday at 4:30 p.m. on ABC's Wide World of Sports. The telecast will cover the World Water Ski tournament held a couple of months ago at Banolas, Spain. Mike Suyderhoud was a double winner at this tourney, winning the slalom and jumping world championships. He jumped 159 feet, six feet short of his world record leap from the floating ramp. It should be quite a telecast. At least Mike will be seen doing a better job on skis than in those Wheaties commercials.

IF THE 49ERS and Raiders each win their divisions, it's going to a heck of a busy Christmas weekend around the Bay Area. The schedule calls for the National Football Conference Western Division champs — hopefully the 49ers — to host the best second-place finisher in the playoff opener on the weekend of Dec. 25-26.

The schedule also calls for the American Football Conference Western Division champs — hopefully the Raiders — to host the champs of the East on the same weekend. The actual day won't be set until the championships are determined, so don't make plans to go too far for Christmas, you season ticket holders.

THE GOOD GUY award for the week goes to Dave Suloff, a member of the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers. He was a repeat winner of a 49er autographed football in a drawing at last Monday's luncheon meeting.

"I've already won one," said he. "Give someone else a chance." So Ernie Boegershausen ended up winning the ball, and Suloff won the applause.

BILL LEE, a product of Terra Linda High School, was voted the Red Sox' best reliever by the Boston sports writers recently. Lee won nine games and lost two and was 8-1 out of the bullpen. I think the champ Baltimore Orioles would agree with the scribes, as Lee, in facing the Orioles twice last season, was fantastic. On Aug. 2, he pitched 8⅓ innings and gave up two hits, no runs, struck out six and won the game, 9-2. Then on Sept. 1, he pitched up 3⅓ innings, gave up four hits, no runs, and struck out 3. That's 11⅔ shutout innings against some pretty mean bats.

BOB SEARS, former prepster at Novato and now a gridder at Sonoma State College, was named to the All-Far West Conference second team as a defensive back. Sears intercepted three passes for 78 yards returned.

A little further from home, Tim Nissen of San Rafael, a tackle at Claremont Men's College, was named to the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference second team.

Marinaro, Allen Top East Shrine Lineup

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two of the nation's top collegiate running backs —Ed Marinaro of Cornell and Eric Allen of Michigan State, have been named to head the East team for the 47th annual Shrine East-West football game Dec. 31 at Candlestick Park.

Marinaro, who finished second to Auburn's Pat Sullivan in the Heisman Trophy balloting, rushed for 1,881 yards to set a NCAA record. Allen grabbed all the headlines in the Big 10 as he led the league with 18 touchdowns and rushed for a new Big 10 record of 1,494 yards in 1971.

Named at quarterback were Florida's John Reaves, who set a NCAA career passing record of 7,549 yards and threw 17 TD passes this season, and Minnesota's Craig Curry, who completed 118 passes for 1,691 yards in his senior season.

Reaves and Florida teammate Mike Rich, a fullback, are the first players from their school ever named to a Shrine East squad.

As passing targets for the two quarterbacks, Shrine officials selected receivers Jerome Barkum of Jackson (Miss.) State, Mike Siani of Villanova and John Makin of Clemson.

On defense, the East front four will be anchored by Ronnie Estay of Louisiana State, Ron Curl of Michigan State, Fred Swedsen of Notre Dame and Will Hemby of Northwestern.

Two other Louisiana State players were named to the defensive unit —linebacker Lloyd Frye and safety Tommy Casanova.

Other linebackers named were Bill Light of Minnesota and Jack Derning of Northwestern. Joining Casanova in the secondary will by Dick Harris of South Carolina, Ralph Stepaniak of Notre Dame and Harry Howard of Ohio State.

Murray Warmath of Minnesota heads the East coaching staff. He will be assisted by Alex Agase of Northwestern and Charles McLendon of Louisiana State.

EAST OFFENSE

E — Mike Siani, Villanova; Jerome Barkum, Jackson State; John McMakin, Clemson. T — Lionel Antoine, Southern Illinois; Dick Simon, Ohio State. G — Bart Buetow, Minnesota; Tom Luken, Purdue; Jim Osborne, Southern. C — John Hill, Lehigh; Robert Kuziel, Pittsburgh. QB — Craig Curry, Minnesota; John Reaves, Florida. RB — Ed Marinaro, Cornell; Eric Allen, Michigan State; Mike Rich, Florida. K — Chester Marcol, Hillsdale.

EAST DEFENSE

E — Will Hemby, Northwestern; Fred Swendsen, Notre Dame. T — Ronnie Estay, LSU; Ron Curl, Michigan State. LB — Bill Light, Minnesota; Jack Derning, Northwestern; Lloyd Frye, LSU; Ed Bradley, Wake Forest. DB — Tom Myers, Syracuse; Dick Harris, South Carolina; Tommy Casanova, LSU; Ralph Stepaniak, Notre Dame; Harry Howard, Ohio State.

Prep Cagers Win Four Of Four

By LEW CODDINGTON

Good gamblers and good basketball teams always have an ace in the hole, and Redwood High School Giants proved no exception to this rule last night. They pulled some slick maneuvers under the basket just in the nick of time and eked out a 61-55 victory over tough Santa Rosa.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Terra Linda mashed Rancho Cotate, 70-57, in a game that was nowhere near as close as the score indicated; Novato overpowered Hogan of Vallejo, 70-51; and Drake held on to edge Analy of Sebastopol, 50-47. Both Novato and Drake won for the first time this year.

San Rafael's game with Washington of San Francisco was called off due to a scheduling mixup. The visitors thought the game was slated for Dec. 1 and scheduled another clash for yesterday. The game was to be played today at San Rafael.

Redwood (2-0) was denied access to short-range shots by Santa Rosa during most of the game, and the teams were tied at 53 with about two minutes left. Then the Giants unveiled their tricks.

First Steve McGee snatched a rebound and sank a layup. Then Tim Hennessy passed to Darrell Elder for a layup. Later McGee made a clever pass off a drive to set up another Elder layup. Suddenly it was 59-55 with 1:11 left, and Redwood consumed most of the rest of the clock with a five-man stall.

Hennessy played a fine game, adding two free throws later for a 22-point total before fouling out. He contributed some timely rebounds as well.

"Our foul shooting kept us in the game," said coach Dick Hart. The Giants made 19 of 24 from the line compared to 13 of 23 for Santa Rosa. The free throws were especially significant in the first quarter, when Redwood couldn't buy a field goal.

Redwood guard Mike Connor came up with a fine individual effort to get the Giants untracked after Santa Rosa grabbed a 17-10 lead in the first period. He scored six straight points to put Redwood ahead, 23-18.

Santa Rosa replied with the deadly outside shooting of the Allen brothers. Tom finished with 20 and Chris with 19. The game turned into a seesaw affair in the second quarter and stayed that way until the final moments.

"We made 25 turnovers," said Hart, wincing slightly. Most of them came on bad passes, particularly bounce passes into congested areas. "Their press was a problem for us."

Connor finished with 12 points, while Elder had 10, McGee nine and guard Sam Farb 8.

Terra Linda's game against Rancho Cotate was a puzzler. After feeling out the visitors in the first quarter, the Trojans (2-1) blew them out of the gym with a 44-14 spree. Unfortunately for the script, Rancho returned and went on a 34-11 binge against the reserves to make the score respectable.

Several Trojans looked good in limited action, as coach Bob Corley used all 13 players, 11 of whom scored. Guard Eric Borcherding was sharp early

Marin Quint Has An Easy Time In 86-68 Triumph

Third Win In A Row For Tars

By RON LENT

"We were flat. We didn't come to play. We just weren't running."

This sounds like a losing cage coach offering an autopsy after his team was flattened, but it wasn't; it was merely coach John Panagakis' thoughts after his College of Marin Tars stormed past a visiting Stanislaus State junior varsity, 86-68 last night.

The invading Warriors of Turlock simply had too many Joes to contend with, namely Joe Smith and Joe DeMaestri; this high-scoring guard tandem accounted for 32 points garnered from the Black and Gold's fast break attack.

Smith, a shooting sensation, buried 17 on an assortment of jumpers and acrobatic layups. His back court mate, DeMaestri, came off the bench to spark Marin's surge in the waning first-half moments.

"We ran well during those final five minutes of the opening half," Panagakis recalled, "but before that, we were just flat."

When DeMaestri came on, so did the Tars. He promplty pilfered a trio of errant Warrior passes, turning two into easy layups, while amassing 13 of his 15 points in the first half.

The Tars, undefeated after three games, led from the outset, but the gritty Warriors stayed within striking distance. The Tars clung to an eight-point lead before center Roosevelt Green tapped in a misguided shot, upping the margin to 33-23.

DeMaestri then sandwiched two baskets around a Warrior bucket, making the count 37-25.

Former Terra Linda High standout Pat Purcell contributed one of his three corner shots before Smith ripped through two baskets, a foul line jumper and then a layup off a steal.

Another Terra Lindan, Joe Casteel, tossed in a layup to bolster the bulge to 19 at 45-26. Smith and Green, two transplanted San Franciscans, added a basket apiece in the final 30 seconds to climax the belated first half explosion at 49-28.

After this overwhelming assault, Marin coasted. The Tars increased the point differential to 29 on the heels of Ed Herrnberger's final-period splurge. The Novato graduate turned in four straight buckets to widen the gap to 68-39.

The remaining 10-plus minutes belonged to the substitutes.

Though the issue was long since decided, several Marin reserves, particularly Ken Blasingame, acquitted themselves admirably.

For example, the ever-hustling Blasingame claimed a couple of baskets and dominated both backboards during his brief stint.

Blasingame and his mates will get another chance to show their skills when facing the University of Nevada freshmen in Reno Friday, 8 p.m.

Individual scoring:

Stanislaus State — Van Over 2-8-12; Moss 1-1-3; Wright 4-3-11; Trail 1-2-4; Roberts 4-5-13; Williams 3-4-10; Blahnik 4-4-12; Baldasseroni 1-1-3. Totals — 20-28-68.

Marin — Casteel 1-1-3; Herrnberger 4-4-12; Traub 1-2-4; Smith 6-5-17; Flynn 0-1-1; DeMaestri 7-1-15; Purcell 3-0-6; Green 4-0-8; Groshong 3-2-8; Blasingame 2-0-4; Small 2-4-8. Totals — 33-20-86.

'Misinterpreted,' Says Pistol Pete

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks' Pete Maravich says there is no truth to a newspaper report that he is so weak from a two-month bout with mononucleosis that he might not finish out the season.

Maravich said the Atlanta Journal misinterpreted his statements, which he said were made during a moment of depression after the reeling Hawks lost to Boston last Sunday. He was quoted as saying, "I'm just so weak after a game, I don't know what to do. I can't seem to go on."

Hawks coach Richie Guerin said there was "no substance whatsoever" to the newspaper report. He said Maravich is going to play out the year and has no plans to visit a doctor. The Journal said the star guard planned to see a doctor to check for possible pleurisy Thursday when the team returns home.

Maravich, who has been below par in scoring in the seven games he has played since returning to the lineup, scored eight points Tuesday night as the Hawks dropped their sixth straight, 86-85, to the Chicago Bulls. He played 35 of the 48 minutes in the game.

Maravich said he had every intention of playing out the season and that team doctors have said it was just a matter of him getting in shape.

He said a statement in the Journal that he would "never be back, at least not this year," referred only to playing up to his full capabilities and reaching a playing weight of 200 pounds.

Severe Test Ahead For Battered 49er Secondary

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)--The San Francisco 49ers battered defensive secondary has another severe test facing it Monday night—the Kansas City Chiefs.

The defensive back situation could be crucial for 49er coach Dick Nolan, who faces a possibility of winding up with three backs for four defensive positions if three starters are knocked out of the game.

Even with the starters in the game, the 49ers aren't at full speed.

All-pro corner back Jim Johnson has played the last two games with a cast on his fractured right wrist, and playing hasn't helped the injury to heal.

If Johnson is able to go Monday night, he'll be facing the Chiefs' Otis Taylor, one of the league's top receivers.

Strong safety Mel Phillips has been hobbled for several weeks with a sore ankle. If he plays, he must contend with Chiefs' tight end Morris Stroud, 6-10.

Strong safety Roosevelt Taylor is recovering from a shoulder injury, and corner back Bruce Taylor has a severe shoulder bruise.

Nolan's only defensive secondary reserves are Johnny Fuller and Mike Simpson, both of whom have seen heavy action in recent weeks.

Nolan has thought about the possibility of three of his starters getting knocked out of action against the Chiefs. What would he do?

"I'd use linebacker Jim Sniadecki and play a four linebacker, three-man secondary zone," Nolan said.

Meeting Planned In Terra Linda

The Terra Linda Athletic Association will meet next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Terra Linda recreation Center to discuss the youth baseball program.

Plans for the newly organized girls' softball league will be announced, and any other pertinent topics will be discussed. For information about the meeting, contact club president Jean Lacoste of 740 Bamboo Terrace, San Rafael.

NEW YORK (UPI)—John Clohessy, 217 ¼, Bronx, N.Y., outpointed Howard Darlington, 216, Philadelphia (8); Roy Edmonds, 159, Brooklyn, N.Y., stopped Junius Hinton, 161, Brooklyn, N.Y. (6).

106-103 TRIUMPH

Warriors Earn Role Of David

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors have earned the role of David in the National Basketball Association.

Twice this season the Warriors have knocked off Goliath — the Milwaukee Bucks.

The second time came Tuesday night as Cazzie Russell sank a free throw with 10 seconds left and Jim Barnett tossed in a long jumper at the buzzer to give Golden State a 106-103 victory.

The Bucks, leaders in the NBA Midwest division, had only lost three games in 24 before Tuesday night, one of them to the Warriors two weeks ago in Oakland.

It was only the fourth loss in their last 56 games at home for the Bucks, and the first time they have dropped a home contest since last January.

Both teams played without a super star Tuesday night. The Bucks were missing guard and playmaker Oscar Robertson, who was out with the flu. The Warriors were without center Nate Thurmond, who is usually counted on to hold down Bucks' center Kareem Jabbar. Thurmond is out with a severely cut hand.

But the Warriors' Clyde Lee, filling in for Thurmond, did a commendable job on Jabbar even though the Milwaukee pivot man led his team with 30 points.

The Warriors came out running in the third quarter after a 53-53 halftime tie and built an 88-79 lead early in the fourth period. But the Bucks came back and tied it at 92.

The game was tied again at 99 when Joe Ellis hit on two long jumpers to give the Warriors a 103-99 edge. Jon McGlocklin pulled the Bucks to within two. But Russell hit his free throw, and Bob Dandridge got a bucket with two seconds left to move Milwaukee to 104-103 just before Barnett's final shot.

Ellis led the Warriors with 25 points, followed by Jeff Mullins with 24, Russell, 24, and Lee, 20.

The Warriors get a short rest in the current road trip before playing Friday night at Portland. They return to the Oakland Coliseum arena Saturday night against Phoenix.

Seals Lose; North Stars Next Foes

MINNESOTA (UPI) —The California Golden Seals, still holding on to third place iin the National Hockey League West division, face the Minnesota North Stars, leaders in the West, tonight as they continue their short road trip.

The Seals fell to the St. Louis Blues, 5-2, Tuesday night, but hung on to a one-point advantage for the third spot over Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, which all have 18 points.

Garry Unger scored one goal and had two assists Tuesday night in the Blues' victory.

Both California goals were on screen shots within 62 seconds of the first period. Ivan Boldirev scored on a hard 20-foot shot on a power play, and Gary Croteau sliced a booming shot pase Blues' goaltender Jim McLeod's short side.

After the contest with Minnesota, the Seals return home to host Chicago Friday night, but leave again Sunday on another road trip.

SEASON STARTS

Low Turnouts In Wrestling

By LEW CODDINGTON

Wrestling season is here, but its arrival was so stealthy that a lot of people didn't notice, even at the respective schools.

Five of the seven Marin County Athletic League coaches reported disappointingly low turnouts for the season, which opens today and tomorrow with six teams seeing non-league action.

Today, Redwood entertained Del Valle of Walnut Creek and Novato journeyed to Vallejo to meet Hogan. Tomorrow, Tamalpais visits Fremont, San Marin treks to Petaluma, San Rafael hosts De Anza of Richmond and Terra Linda entertains Kennedy of Fremont.

Drake will have a team for the first time this year. Imants Abers, who started the soccer team from scratch four years ago and guided it to a league title this year, will coach the matmen.

Although disappointed by the turnout of only 17, Abers will press ahead with plans to build a future contender. "We have a lot of freshmen, which is encouraging," he said.

Terra Linda and San Rafael are expected to duel for the league championship, with Redwood rated as a possible spoiler. Terra Linda's Trojans were unbeaten in league matches last year at 5-0, but San Rafael matmen turned in better performances in the MCAL meet.

The Trojans appear to be strong up and down the line with many topflight performers returning. Brian Jordan is the incumbent 175-pound champion and will wrestle at the same weight this year.

Also back are Mark Egide at 103, Mike Weinstein and Augie Venezia at 112 or 120, Reggie Grant at 127, Keith Ratio at 138, Mike Corwin at 165 and Ron Losk at 191. Ratio's crucial victory in the head-to-head match with San Rafael last year was the key to the Trojans' championship season.

"We hope to be strong, although we must replace key personnel," said coach Bob Hetherington. Terra Linda was the only school to have a large turnout, with 40 or 45 prospective matmen showing up, and this is bad news for other MCAL teams.

San Rafael returns some fine individuals, but lacks depth.

David Hughes is back to wrestle at 145 pounds after starring at 138 last year before injuring his elbow. "Hughes is the best wrestler in the league," said coach Larry Lack. "He won the MCAL as a sophomore and is very dedicated." Hughes went 24-2 last year.

Rich Murphy was third in the league last year at 127 and has moved up to 133. "He's very fast and strong," said Lack. "He's bothered by an eye injury now — seven stitches — but he'll be tough when he recovers."

Wolf Kristensen won the league at 145 and now wrestles at 154, and Dirk Correnti will remain in the 191 class he won a year ago.

"But that's it, coach," said Lack. Only a few promising former junior varsity wrestlers stand between San Rafael and oblivion. A mere 25 people came out for wrestling this year, and Lack finds it hard to conceal his disappointment after previous turnouts in the 40s.

Redwood finished third last year at 3-2 and returns two champions. Ellard Roush won at 175 and now steps up to 191 to give Correnti a run for his honors. Dan Young was the top heavyweight.

Other promising Redwood matmen include Don Littmann at 103 pounds, Steve MacRae at 133 and Peder Pedersen at 138. MacRae and Pedersen were on the junior varsity last year. Massoud Farah, a 120-pound Persian who transferred from Michigan, also looks promising.

"We are thin in the lower weight classes, but we'll be a good club," said coach Wes Price.

Novato returns an exceptional individual, Alan Brazell, who will step up to 120 after a triumphant season at 112. Brazell was undefeated in both league and non-league matches and waited until the North Coast Sectionals before suffering a loss. He finished third there.

Otherwise, the Hornets are in trouble. "We don't have a 191-pounder of a heavyweight," said coach Ralph Cutler. "A forefeit costs you six points this season, so that's 12 points against us right there." Only 26 students tried out for the team.

Other promising Novato matmen are Dave Hutton, an improved senior who will go at 120 or 127, and Bob Christman, a 133-pounder transfer from Oregon.

Tamalpais has a new coach, Dennis Untermann, and a new outlook to go with it. "We are very green," he said, "but we should do better and better as the weeks go along." Untermann was assistant mat coach at San Francisco State last year while a student.

Jerry Ford, who starred at 112 last year, returns to go at 120 or 127. Ford has won the league at his weight two years in a row. Alvin Price, a 154-pounder, was third in the MCAL a year ago, as was Greg Ford at 95. Some promising youngsters include Bob Morrison at 165 and Craig Marshall at 191.

Tam's turnout was only 24, but that's more than last year, and Untermann is pleased. "About a third are freshmen," he said, "Interest is building."

San Marin will be "young and inexperienced, but with a lot of drive," in the words of coach Bill Graves. Two Mustang matmen merit particular scrutiny. Pete Mumma, a top unlimited, added 20 pounds to his frame and will wrestle at 232, which is not good news for Redwood's heavyweight Dan Young.

Dave Jensvold is a most unusual 98-pounder. A junior, he will be older and more experienced than most of his foes. He gave a fine account of himself last year while actually weighing only about 85 pounds, and the added weight should make him a wrestler to be reckoned with.

Three other lettermen are back — Brian Saling at 145, Steve Fowler at 165 and Lynn Cason at 191. San Marin suffers from the same problem most every body else does — only 20 wrestlers tried out.

Drake has exactly zero experienced wrestlers — and by "experience," Abers means anybody who has been on a mat before. Five weights will be unfilled for the first-year team.

Abers was reluctant to name any prospective stars, but coaxing brought forth the name of Corky Ingram, a 165-pounder.

BURLESON READY FOR A 'STUFF'

Stuffing the ball is one thing, but stuffing a giant player into a tiny car is quite another. Tommy Burleson, North Carolina State's 7-foot-4 sophomore cager, claims he actually can drive the Volkswagen, however. He is the tallest college player in the country.

CONGRESSMEN APPEAL

Bring Back Baseball

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—A delegation of Washington, D.C. officials, headed by five Congressmen, told major league baseball today it "must" put another team in the nation's capital to replace the departed Washington Senators by the start of the 1973 season.

"We impressed upon them the necessity of returning baseball to Washington and we left it up to them how to do it," said Rep. B. F. Sisk (D-Calif.). The team was switched to Dallas-Fortworth at the end of the 1971 season.

The delegation, which said its bid to the top officials of the game was received in a "friendly manner," arrived in Phoenix late last night and was closeted with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and other baseball officials until 1:30 a.m. (MST).

The delegation was scheduled to make a formal presentation of Washington's effort to return to the big leagues during the Wednesday sessions of baseball's winter meetings in progress here.

"There are three ways by which a new team could be found for Washington," said Rep. Frank Horton (R-NY). "The first would be through expansion of the major leagues; the second would be for a present big league owner to move a currently existing team to Washington. The third would be for a group in Washington to purchase a team and move it.

"We told them we are prepared to do it anyone of those three ways," Horton said. "We left it up to them how they will do it."

Spokesmen for the group which also included Washington mayor, Walter Washington, said the group "impressed on the baseball people that this must be done, that the majority of the Congress insists that it be done."

The delegation was asked whether its insistence that the return of baseball to Washington "must" be accomplished was accompanied by any threat of Congressional action, such as a review of baseball's status under the anti-trust laws.

"We did not go into that," Sisk said. "We simply indicated what had to be done."

Included in the group was John H. Kaufmann, president of the Washington Evening Star newspaper which owns WMAL-TV and he also represented station WTOP-TV, which is the Washington Post-owned station. Short had complained that one of his problems was an inability to obtain a good TV contract in Washington. Kaufmann was asked whether the Washington stations now are prepared to offer a new club a better TV contract than the Senators had.

"Not necessarily," Kaufmann replied. "The contract would have to be viable from our point of view. It can't be a complete giveaway."

The Washington delegation travelled here in a 10-passenger chartered plane, the four Congressmen in the group paying their own way. The other Congressmen were Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va.) and Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.).

The baseball meetings switched over to the major league phase today with several player trades pending.

The Atlanta Braves and Texas Rangers were involved in a discussion of a possible deal which would bring controversial pitcher Denny McLain to the Braves. The California Angels were offering six-time All Star shortstop Jim Fregosi to severa clubs interested in him either for short or third base.

Fregosi bacame available for trading when the Angels obtained shortstop Leo Cardenas from Minnesota for lefthanded relief pitcher Dave LaRoche in the only deal announced on Tuesday.

Water Polo: Terra Linda In Key Win

Terra Linda High School played a tight defensive game against usually high-scoring Redwood to win an important early-season water polo game at Redwood yesterday afternoon, 12-6.

In other Marin County Athletic League action, San Rafael whipped San Marin, 12-4, and Novato edged Drake, 10-6. Tamalpais drew a bye.

"I thought at the start of the year that Novato, San Rafael and Redwood would be our strongest opponents," said Terra Linda coach Charles Metz. "Now we have beaten all three." The Trojans are 3-0 in league play, with 19 straight league wins over two seasons.

John Fearn and Ted Gazulis scored four goals each for Terra Linda to overcome a four-goal effort by Redwood's John Guepp, but Metz was happiest about his team's defensive play.

"They (Redwood) usually score well in that small pool," he said. "I thought Keith Strange and Gazulis did fine work on defense. Ted stole the ball 12 times, easily the season high for us. Bert Johansson had 18 saves in goal."

San Rafael's Scott Dicker scored six goals against San Marin, while Gary Walraven added four and Mike Kamler two. "We're improving," said coach Bill Ranney.

Friday's schedule finds Tamalpais at Novato, Redwood at San Rafael and San Marin at Terra Linda. Drake gets the bye.

The standings:

Terra Linda 3-0, San Rafael 2-1, Novato 1-1, Redwood 1-1, Tamalpais 1-1, San Marin 1-2, Drake 0-3.

NBA ROUNDUP

Seattle Rallies To Edge Knicks

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The Seattle Super Sonics ended the New York Knicks' seven-game winning skein in unbelievable fashion.

New York, gunning for a first place tie with Boston in the Atlantic Division of the National Basketball Association, thought it had the mission accomplished Tuesday night when the Knicks grabbed a 26-point lead over Seattle early in the third period.

The SuperSonics, however, took a script right out of Mission Impossible and rallied for a 110-109 victory.

The blowing of a big lead is something new for the surging Knicks, who have been playing the last dozen games without injured Willis Reed. They have been on the other end of the stick, however. On Nov. 16, New York trailed Phoenix by 19 points in the fourth quarter and came back to win.

"You get too complacent, sometimes," shrugged Dave DeBusschere, who led New York with 29 points, but suddenly found he couldn't contain Spencer Haywood in the second half.

New York was in front, 65-43, at halftime and built the lead to 76-50 early in the third period when the Knicks abruptly turned cold. Haywood, outmuscled by DeBusschere in the first 28 minutes of the game, began stepping back and pumping shots over the Big D.

Haywood scored 14 points in the final period, including a soft jumper from the key with 42 seconds remaining to break a 107 tie. Lennie Wilkens followed with a foul shot to give the Sonics a run of 10 straight points that put them in front by three after they roared back from a 107-100 deficit.

In other games, Golden State edged Milwaukee 106-103; Chicago nipped Atlanta, 86-85; Cincinnati stopped Baltimore 118-103; Houston defeated Buffalo, 115-101, and Phoenix spoiled Geoff Petrie's season debut by downing Portland, 121-111 in overtime.

Chicago moved within four games of first place Milwaukee in the Midwest Division by beating Atlanta. Tom Boerwinkle's two free throws broke an 83 -83 tie, but Lou Hudson's basket moved the Hawks to within 86-85 with 1:28 left. There was no scoring the rest of the way. Bob Love led Chicago with 22 points, Hudson had a game-high 30.

Nate Williams scored 29 points and Nate Archibald added 28 as Cincinnati closed to within a half game of first place. Baltimore in the Central Division. Jack Marin paced the Bullets with 20 points.

Stu Lantz and Calvin Murphy each tallied 18 points for Houston in the rout of Buffalo. The Braves, guilty of 23 turnovers, were led by interim coach Walt Hazzard's 26 points. Buffalo coach John McCarthy was hospitalized Tuesday with an intestinal obstruction.

Rookie Dennis Layton, who missed a 15-foot jumper with two seconds remaining in regulation time, made amends for it by scoring seven points in slightly over a minute of overtime as the Suns handed Portland its sixth straight defeat and 15th in the last 16 games.

Petrie, a co-rookie of the year last season, underwent knee surgery nine weeks ago. He scored 11 points in 27 minutes of play but showed his rust with a 4-of-15 performance from the floor.

Coast Cage Teams Tip Off New Season

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Houston, ranked sixth in the United Press International preseason ratings, invades Stanford while USC, holding down the third spot in the UPI listings, plays at Arizona State tonight as the West Coast college basketball season gets underway.

Defending NCAA champion UCLA, which was picked by the UPI Board of Coaches to win still another national title, waits until Friday to open its season at home against The Citadel.

Other Pacific-8 Conference schools in action tonight are Oregon, which hosts Montana; Oregon State, which travels to Hawaii to play a service team; Washington State, which plays at Gonzaga; and Washington, opening at home against Portland University.

Houston moves over to Berkeley Thursday night to meet California in the Bears' season-opener.

Santa Clara, a co-favorite along with Nevada-Las Vegas to win the West Coast Athletic Conference opens tonight at home against UC-Davis.

University of Pacific, led by all-star center John Gianelli and picked to fight it out with Long Beach State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, travels to Hayward State tonight.

In other games tonight, San Diego State is at Colorado, UC-Santa Barbara at Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo, Loyola at Utah and Nevada-Reno at Portland State. Fresno State hosts Corpus Christi, and St. Mary's opens at home against Sacramento State.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Soling Gets A Chance In the 1972 Olympics

"What's a Soling?" a reader asks, in extolling the virtues of sailing. He also wonders whether sailboats have caught up to power boats in popularity.

In answer to the last question, outboard-powered boats still outnumber sailing craft by about nine to one.

A Soling is a three-man keel sailboat that is in the news because it has been picked for competition in the 1972 Olympics. It's 26 feet, 9 inches overall and 20 feet at the waterline. It has a beam of 6-foot-3 and a draft of 4-foot-3. The sail area is 233 square feet plus a spinnaker.

The hull is fiber glass and the mast and spar of aluminum. It costs about $4,500, les sails. The designer is a European, J. H. Linge.

Although sailboats are still outnumbered, their popularity is increasing steadily every year and we get asked many questions about sailing.

Q. How can you recognize a sailboat at night by its lights?

A. From a position ahead of the sailboat it's easy. A boat under sail alone is not required to show a white light forward. If you can see a white light and a red or green navigation light, it's almost certain the boat is under power. For the full story on lights, send for the Coast Guard Boating Guide (booklet CG-340) with 45c to Supt. of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Q. If two sailboats are approaching each otheron different tacks, which has right of way?

A. The boat on the starboard tack (with the wind coming over its right or starboard side) has the right of way. The boat with the wind on its left or port side has to give way.

Q. What is the whistle signal to give if you intend to pass a boat ahead on his right side?

A. One blast. It says: "I am altering my course to starboard (right)" and that you intend to overtake and leave the boat on your left or port side.

Q. Is it the law that you must keep your hands on the tiller or steering wheel at all times?

A. No. The law doesn't say this. However, if you get into an accident while you leave the tiller unattended, you might be charged with reckless or negligent operation. And it doesn't seem too hard to prove, now does it?

Q. Do the "Rules of the Road" apply on water, too?

A. The expression "Rules of the Road" doesn't mean a highway law or traffic regulation. It's a term common in the U. S. (and all other English language countries) and means the rules which apply to all vessels to avoid collisions. The simplest to remember is that when two vessels are approaching, each turns to the right. Please get a copy of the Coast Guard Boating Guide. It explains all.

Q. If a sailboat running downwind appraches another tacking upwind on a collision course, who gives way?

A. The boat running with the wind must give way. Because this rule was made back in the days of square riggers and was based on their capabilities, most boaters think the procedure should be reversed. Present day sailing rigs are much more maneuverable when beating against the wind. However, don't expect this anachronism to be changed overnight.

PREPS

and his replacement, Brian Wall, was just as good later. The other guard, sparkplug John Buckley, played his usual fiery game. Center Mark Lowey led the scoring with 14 points and was impressive otherwise.

"We got a lot of points off our fast break, and I'm sure we had a high shooting percentage," said Corley. "On the other hand, we didn't play as a unit when those other players (reserves) were in there. Their (Rancho's) press was effective and we didn't react to it."

Novato's Marty Moroski played only the first and third quarters but scored 23 points anyhow as the Hornets (1-2) led all the way against Hogan in Vallejo.

"He was very impressive," said coach Jim Carimica. "We used all 12 players and nobody played a full game. Willie Barnes does a fine job for us, especially for a sophomore, and Dan Del Rose also played well."

Barnes scored six points, Stan Conteseven, Dan Del Rose eight and Joe Robinson nine.

Drake (1-2) held an eight or nine-point lead most of the way against Analy in Sebastopol, but saw it melt to 47-45 with 1:30 remaining. Then Dave Wilkinson hit a free throw and John Channell added two more to clinch the victory for the improving Pirates.

Channel led all scorers with 20 points, hitting seven of 10 shots from the floor. Wilkinson added 10.

No Brooding Over Loss By Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Atlanta Falcons will be the first to know whether the Oakland Raiders can bounce back from a humiliating 37-14 loss to the Baltimore Colts.

"I've said before that you can't get all hepped up after a win," Oakland coach John Madden said Tuesday as he put the Raiders through a light drill in preparation for Sunday's game in Atlanta.

"Well, it's the same with a loss," Madden said. "We'll just have to start over and hope we can bounce back."

Veteran backup quarterback and place kicker George Blanda didn't try to explain the loss to Baltimore.

"It's in the past," he said. "I've forgotten about it already."

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, who played some against the Colts after recovering from a leg injury, expects to see more action against the Falcons and help put the Raiders back on the track of winning their fifth straight divisional title.

"We're not the type of team to brood over a loss like this," Keating said.

Smith Wins Pepsi Series

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stan Smith was named winner of the Pepsi Grand Prix of Tennis series Tuesday and earned $25,000 for taking the title. He picked up 10 points in the last event, the South American Open, for a total of 187.

Ilie Nastase of Romania finished second with 172 points and collects $17,000. Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., the 1970 Pepsi winner, was fifth with 98 points that was worth $10,500. Clark Graebner of New York had 79 points for seventh place and $8,500.

NEW YEAR'S SHOWDOWN

A Warning To Nebraska: 'Bear' Has His Hat Back

By DAVID MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — President Nixon probably has heard by now, but if he hasn't, he'll be pleased to learn that, yes, "Bear" Bryant did indeed get his hat back.

Bryant was advised, after his Alabama football team completed a perfect season with a 31-7 rout of previously unbeaten Auburn, that the president was trying to call him.

"I understand," the Crimson Tide coach said later, "that he was interested about my hat. Maybe I shouldn't let folks know I got it back. I might get another one given to me."

The hat in question is a soft, houndstooth similar to the ones the English huntsman often wears. It (actually there have been several) has become Bryant's sidelines symbol.

The Bear used to wear a baseball cap with a big "A" on the front. He still wears a cap like that at practice but he hasn't worn it at a game since underdog Florida State tied the Tide, 37-37, in the nationally televised 1967 opener.

Bear Bryant, like many another football coach, is a bit superstitious. So, when an Auburn fan grabbed his "houndstooth" after Saturday's game, Bryant was a bit upset.

"It's the principle of the thing," Bryant explained later. "If I keep losing those hats, it's going to break Mary Harmon (Bryant's wife) if she has to keep buying me new ones."

Bryant lost one of his "houndstooth" hats after Alabama's game with Mississippi State in Jackson a month ago. That one, he hasn't seen since.

But he had better luck Saturday. One of his assistants spotted the hat thief running toward the Auburn side of the field, flagged him down and recovered Bryant's head gear.

If that hat played any role at all in Alabama's 11-0 season, it is understandable why all Crimson Tide fans wanted it back. For 2nd-ranked Alabama still has one game remaining —the New Year's night showdown in the Orange Bowl with top-ranked Nebraska.

You can imagine the fever pitch that will be building up across the state of Alabama the next month. Some were calling the Nebraska-Oklahoma game last Thrusday the "game of the decade" and others gave the same title to the Alabama-Auburn game. That being the case, what does one call it when the winner of those two contests get together?

Bryant pointed out Saturday that his players had been pulling for Nebraska two days earlier and that when the Cornhuskers won, 35-31, it gave the Tidemen "a psychological lift."

"Knowing what the Orange Bowl could mean to us if we beat Auburn had everybody charged up. With so much at stake, what else was there to add?"

The perfect season, his fourth in the past 11 years, was a boost also for Bear Bryant. There had been those who claimed his time had passed after he had two sub-par (6-4, 6-5) campaigns.

But, there's still that one test remaining. Alabama hasn't won a bowl victory since beating Nebraska, 34-7, in the 1967 Sugar Bowl. Since then, the Tide has lost in the Cotton Bowl to Texas A&M, in the Gator Bowl to Missouri, and in the Liberty Bowl to Colorado and last winter tied Oklahoma in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

"We didn't want to think about Nebraska until we got past Auburn," said Bryant.

Horse Racing Bill Goes To Assembly

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SACRAMENTO — The Senate has approved and sent to the Assembly major legislation expanding California horse racing seasons and giving owners of prize breeding stock a $200,000 tax break.

The bill, which first cleared the Assembly as an insignificant measure dealing with parimutuel tickets, was returned to the lower house in a drastically revised form on a 27-8 vote.

Sen. Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach, the Senate floor manager, said the measure was a "compromise" worked out by the horse racing industry. But Sen. Water Stiern, D-Bakersfield, denounced it as "self-serving."

One section of the bill, authored originally by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, would cost local government about $200,000 a year in lost property tax revenue.

Auto Racing

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Bobby Allison, who has won seven 500-mile stock car races, the World 600 and $231,000 in a Holman-Moody Mercury this year, will be behind the wheel of a Junior Johnson Chevrolet on the NASCAR Grand National circuit in 1972.

Soccer

PHILADELPHIA — Andy Rymarczuk scored two goals to lead Penn State to a 2-1 upset win over nationally-ranked University of Pennsylvania yesterday in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. regional soccer tournament.

Penn State, now 9-2-1, will meet Howard University in the finals.

Bowling

NEW YORK — The Professional Bowlers Association announced today that its 1972 nationwide tour would exceed the $2,000,000 mark in prize money.

The 13-city winter tour will offer $1,000,000 in prize money and an additional 22 national tournaments plus some 50 regional tournaments will add another $1,000,000 to the pot.

Football

STANFORD — Middle linebacker Jeff Siemon of Bakersfield, Calif., has been named as Stanford's "outstanding player" of the 1971 season.

Seimon, already named to several All-American teams, led the Indians with 112 tackles and had two interceptions.

Golf

PEBBLE BEACH — Defending champion Shelly Hamlin and medalist Laura Baugh each scored victories yesterday in the opening match-play round of the fifth annual California Women's Amateur golf tournament.

The 16 survivors play today over the Pebble Beach course.

Felipe Retires From Winter Ball

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)— Felipe Alou will retire from Dominican winter baseball after today's league game. The New York Yankee outfielder, who played 15 seasons with Leones of Escogido, will remain active as a major league player.

Canucks Top Black Hawks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There's an old folk saying that goes, "Make do with what you got."

Vancouver followed that advice Tuesday night, getting only 21 shots on goal but connecting on four of them as the Canucks kept the Chicago Black Hawks from gaining a tie with Minnesota in the National Hockey League West with a 4-2 victory.

Wayne Maki scored the decisive goal just 47 seconds into the third period on an assist by Orland Kurtenbach as the Canucks won for only the seventh time in 25 games.

Dave Balon staked Vancouver to a 1-0 lead with a 15-foot back-hander past Chicago goalie Tony Esposito at 10:43 of the first period. The Black Hawks tied it on Dennis Hull's seventh goal of the season, in the second period, but Wayne Connelly pocketed his sixth goal of the campaign about four minutes later to give the Canucks a 2-1 edge.

Wayne Maki made it 3-1 but his older brother Chico answered back 3:01 later with a score for Chicago. Andre Boudrias added an insurance tally 56 seconds from the final siren.

The loss leaves the Black Hawks with a 16-6-2 record and 34 points.

Bill HickeTraded

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Penguins announced Monday the sale of right wing Bill Hicke, a former California Seal, to the Detroit Wings for a undiselosed sum.

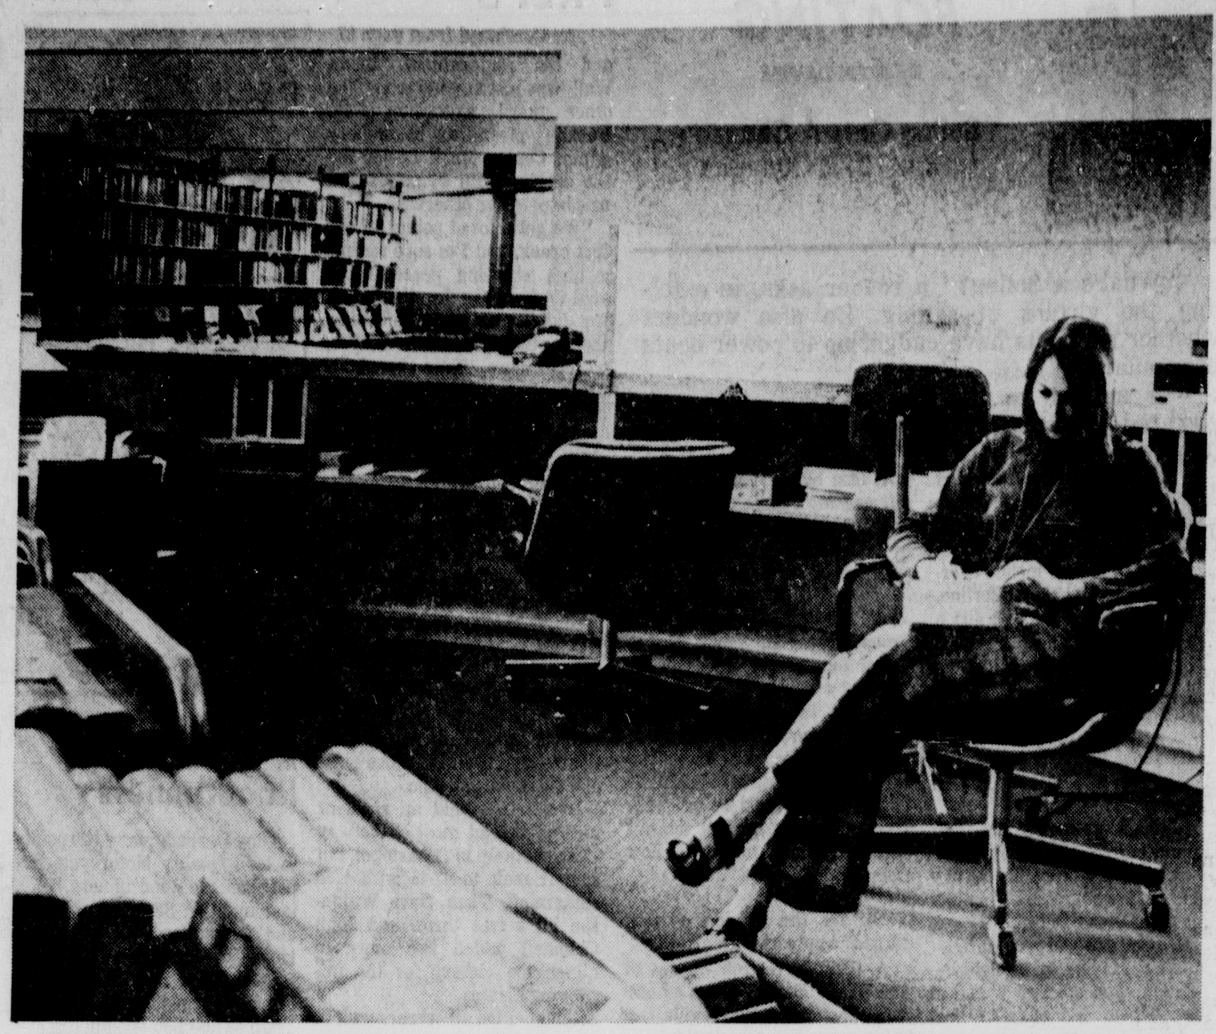
BOOK CHECKPOINT — A large, semicircular check-out desk is the focal point of the new Corte Madera Regional Library. Library employees (rear) prepared for today's opening. The facility, built at a cost of $680,000, is a joint venture of the town and the County of Marin.

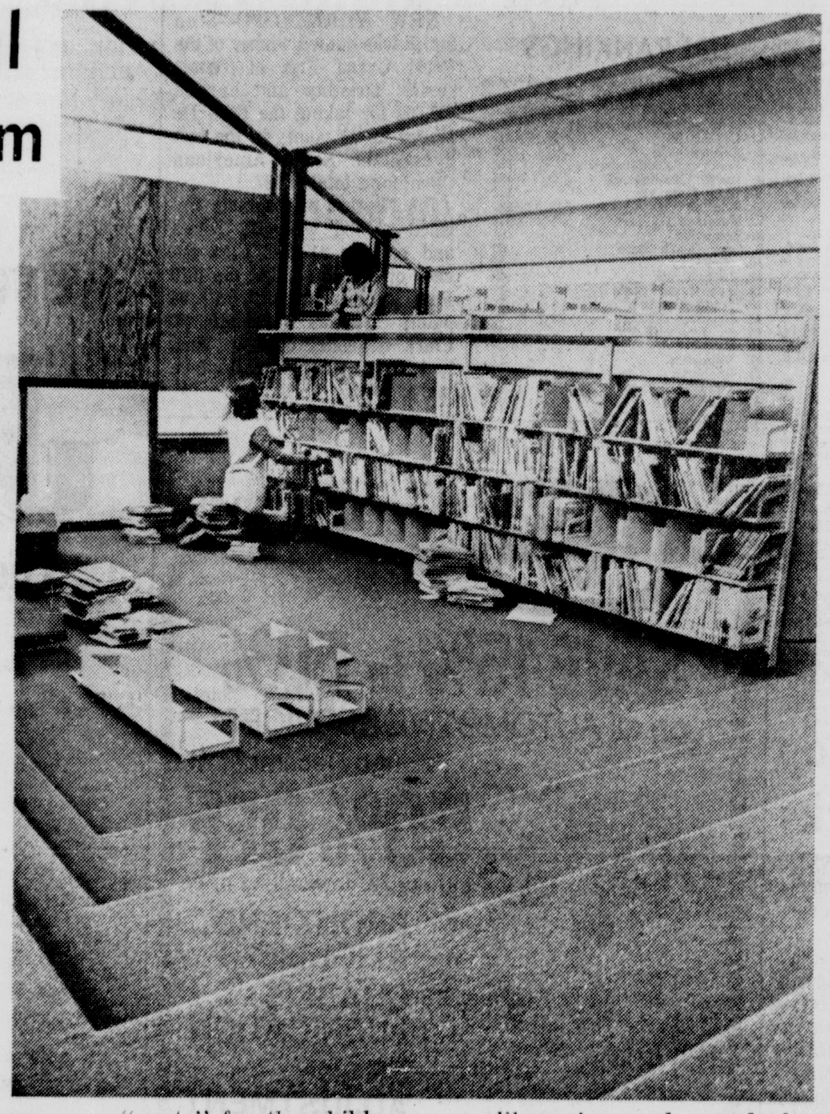
(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

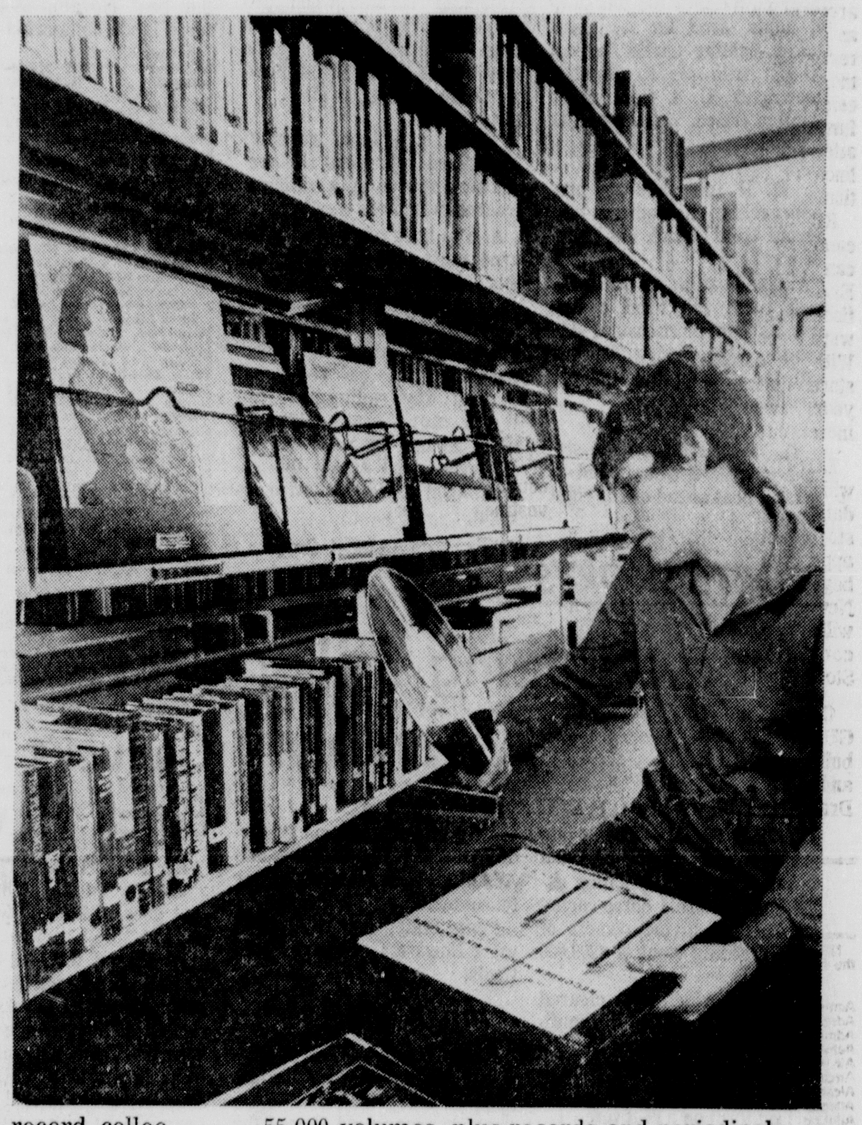


FILING — Janet S. Christensen, head librarian, checks files behind the main desk of the new library, located on Meadowsweet Drive at Stanford Street. The desk is the nerve center of the library where books are checked in and out and questions answered.

Corte Madera Regional Library—A Long Dream

GETTING READY — Volunteers place cards in books (left) and prepare the children's room (center) which has carpeted steps. They will serve as "seats" for the children during the library's story hours. At right, Susan Glassman checks the condition of the library's popular and classic record collection, which is one of the big attractions of any library. The library is expected to house 55,000 volumes, plus records and periodicals. It was to open today.





DOUBLECHECKING — JoAnn Joy, a clerk at the new library, makes sure that check out cards have been placed in all the books at the new library. The library currently houses 35,000 volumes.

NEW BUILDING — Narrow, rectangular windows and heavy use of wood highlight the exterior of the new regional library. The building features natural lighting, sliding walls, a meeting room for community groups, and a sunken story-telling area.

New Furniture Store Readies For Mid-January Opening Day

New construction now under way at the west side of Highway 101 in the Northgate area is that of the 20,000-square-foot, $500,000 R B Furniture Store, which is expected to be ready for an opening about the middle of January.

It till be the 35th showroom store of R B Industries, Inc., a rapidly growing Southern California firm which has scheduled five new stores for its fiscal year ending June 30, 1972. These consist of a Sacramento store which will open Dec. 15, the Northgate store, a second store in Sacramento and one in Stockton expected to open in the spring and one in Las Vegas. The latter will be the company's first venture outside of California.

The Northgate facility, designed and built by Laurel Development Co., an R B subsidiary, features a wide expanse of glass frontage, toned steel trim and masonry, following the style of all RB stores. Although it appears to front on Highway 101, its address will be 3773 Tamalpais Avenue, this being the west frontage road in the area. R B outlets are described as "showroom stores" for the reason that they are devoted more to the display of the company's complete lines of furniture products rather than attempting to stock all these lines at each individual location.

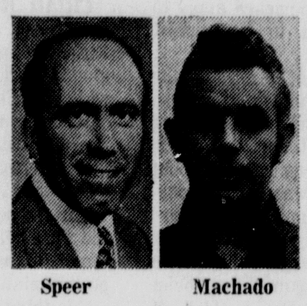
RB Industries is a public company listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges. Its revenues for the fiscal year ended last June 30 were reported at $20 million. With the addition of five more stores during the current fiscal year, revenues are expected to increase to $25 million.

LONGS DRUG STORES, which has been carried on our daily over-the-counter list of stock quotations, no longer will appear on this list as its stock began trading this week on the New York Stock Exchange. It will appear on our Saturday complete list of New York Stock Exchange quotations.

CONSTRUCTION HAS BEGUN on the new administration building of Frank Howard Allen and Co. at 511 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae. An opening is expected here by Feb. 15.

This will house Allen's commercial and income property departments as well as a residential office. Managing the Greenbrae residential office will be James Speer of Mill Valley, who has been an associate member of the Marin Board of Realtors since 1967 and recently with Home and Land Co. Prior to his realty work in the county he was associated with advertising agencies in Chicago and San Francisco.

J and E. Builders is doing the construction.



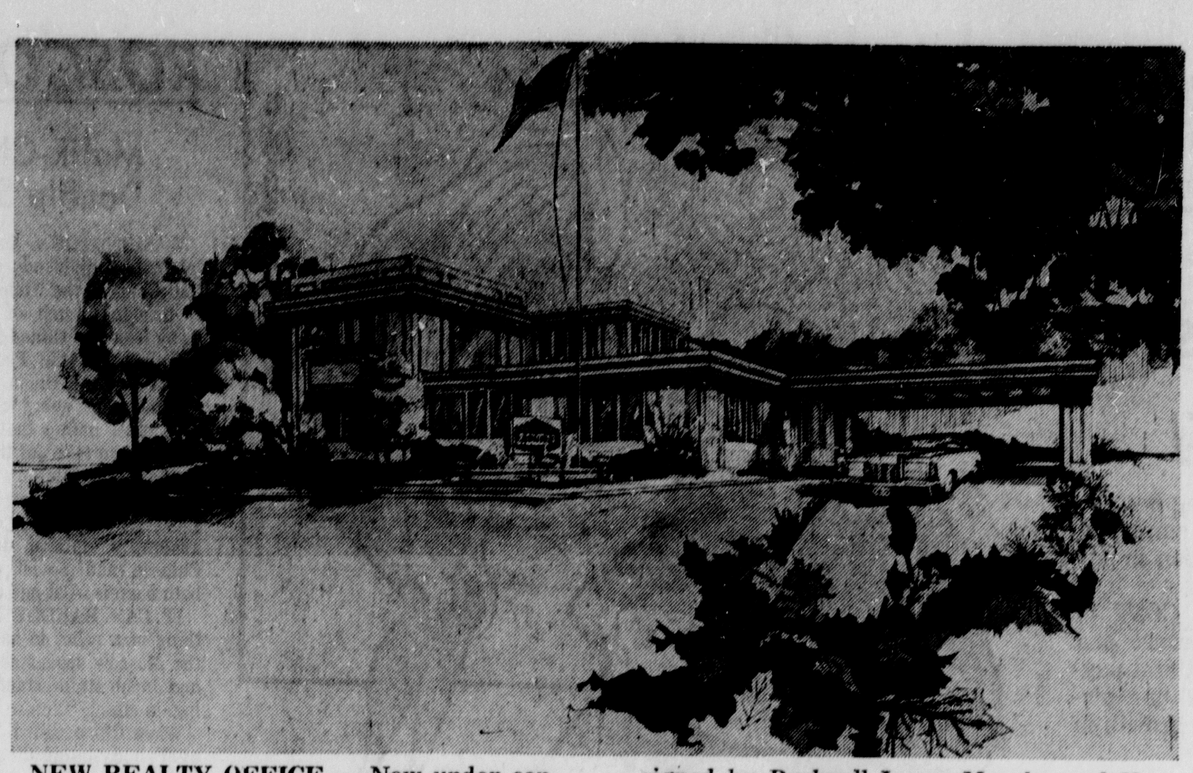
Speer Machado

ROBELLO BROS. PLUMBING in San Rafael has been taken over by Joseph S. Machado of Terra Linda from Louis and Alfred Robello, who are retiring from business. They have operated it since 1945.

Machado joined the firm in 1954, so has been closely identified with company operations. The business will continue under the same name.

MISSION REALTY members James and Gertrude Picchi are back from the national convention of the National Institute of Real Estate Boards at Miami Beach where Picchi was elected a member of the governing council of the commercial investment division.

ARLEN O. ELLIS of Greenbrae, manager of real estate for Industrial Indemnity Co., has been elected president of the San Francisco Bay Area chapter of the Institute of Real Estate Management. He has been 16 years in the real estate field and holds a brokers license. He is a director of the San Francisco Building Owners and Managers Association.



NEW REALTY OFFICE — Now under construction is this 4,500-square-foot building for Frank Howard Allen and Co. at 511 Sir Francis Drake Highway in Greenbrae. Designed by Bushnell-Jessup-Murphy and Van De Weghe, it is scheduled for completion in February and will house Allen's commercial and income property divisions.

Stocks Take Sharp Climb

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks climbed sharply through the second hour on the New York Stock Exchange today with news from Rome that the United States was considering devaluation of the dollar as part of a new western monetary system.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up for the fifth consecutive session, showed a gain of more than 9 points at 840.46 near noon. Other leading indicators also strengthened, and advances held a commanding 1,057 to 236 margin over declines.

Electronics, motors, chemicals and oils were among the big board's strongest features.

Selected specialty issues also climbed sharply. Mission Corp., which spurted 11 3-8 Tuesday, gained another 10. Getty said Tuesday that it will purchase all of the more than 300,000 shares of Mission common tendered at $120 each. Getty edged up 5-8.

Corning Glass added 8 1-2, IBM 3 1-4, Honeywell 3 1-8, Texas Instruments 2 1-2, Superior Oil 4, Du Pont 2 1-2, and Westinghouse 2 1-4.

Among the stocks up a point or so were Ford Motor, general Motors, Monsanto, Allied Chemical, General Electric, RCA, Zenith, Admiral, Polaroid, and Levitz Furniture.

Median Family Income Of 1980

NEW YORK (UPI) —The median family income will reach $15,000 annually by 1980, according to a research report by Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill Noyes, New York investment banking and brokerage houses. This compares with the present $9,500, which is 70 per cent higher than 10 years ago.

In 1950, 11 per cent of the population had family incomes of $10,000 or more in today's buying power, the report says. This figure now is 45 per cent of a much larger population base.

The rise in dicretionary income is especially significant. In 1955, Hornblower & Weeks reports, 8 per cent of family income was spent on non-necessities. In 1970 this figure was up to 20 per cent, and may reach to 20 per cent, and may reach 30 per cent by 1980.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investment Club Asks Some Advice

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We — a group of 12 — have just formed an investment club. With the $20 monthly contribution from our membership we have made our initial purchase. Continental Mortgage Investors. We are now discussing the relative merits of Heublein and Kellogg. What is your view on these two consumer companies? Do you have any other hints for us? — M.C.

A. If you have not already done so I would suggest you join the National Association of Investment Clubs. This nonprofit organization has 13,000 member clubs and provides educational material for members. The association is located at E. 11 Mile Rd., Royal Oak, Mich. 48067. A recent survey of a cross-section of its membership showed that the average club has 20 members each contributing $17 per month, much the same as your group.

Of greater interest is the disclosure that the club's investments earned close to 15 per cent compounded annually over the life of the club. In the year ended April 30, 1971, assets rose 37.5 per cent compared with a 28.9 per cent gain in the Standard & Poor 425-stock average. There are 60,000 clubs thought to be in operation throughout the U.S., the value of their combined portfolios is estimated at $1 billion.

Your first investment selection, Continental Mortgage (NYSE) was among the top 35 favorites of the polled clubs. Likewise, Heublein (NYSE) was 25th and Kellogg (NYSE) was 10th in popularity. The choice between these two issues depends principally on how conservative a portfolio your club intends to build. Kellogg has a five year 6 per cent compound average growth rate whereas Heublein has an 18 per cent rate. The former is trading at an earnings multiple of 18x versus 26x for the latter.

In order to upgrade its growth rate, Kellogg has expanded overseas operations, and made two acquisitions in other product areas. A line of snack foods is being test marketed and a chain of restaurants is to be opened in Australia. Heublein's merger with Kentucky Fried Chicken could eventually add 25 cents a share to earnings.

Shrimp Output

MANILA (UPI) —The Philippine Institute of Export Development reports that the Philippines produces an average of $10,862 metric tons of shrimps a year, of which 58 tons are exported to Japn and 45 tons to the United States.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Government Knows No Belt-Tightening

Two different items that came to our desk in the same mail the other day from two different sources serve to point up one of the prime causes of inflation.

One was a lament in the California Associated Press Report about the length of this year's legislative session.

"Twenty years ago," it said, "covering the California Legislature must have been a lark.

"You'd show up for two weeks in January, then knock off until mid-March and run on until late June.

"That sounds easy compared with the current session, which began Jan. 4 and has been going practically nowhere ever since."

THEN IT WENT ON to say that "there's a good reason for the longer sessions these days:

"Today we have fulltime legislators, paid $19,200 a year instead of the $6,000-a-year salary they used to draw. And there's another point which explains why it's profitable for a legislator to work the year around. That's his $30-a-day expense allowance for every day he's on legislative business."

The other item was in John S. Knight's "Notebook" column from the Detroit Free Press. The senior editor of the Knight newspapers, after expressing some doubts about Phase Two of the so-called "freeze," commented:

"Federal employes, who have received 10 pay increases totaling 75 per cent since 1962, are now exempt from all wage controls.

"The price, covering both civilian and military employes, will be around $5 billion in pay hikes by mid-1972."

THE MOUNTING COST of the California Legislature and the increase in the federal payroll are two parts of one picture: the tremendous growth in the cost of government.

This is a cost increase that is in no way based on productivity. This year's record-length California legislative session has been markedly non-productive. Scarcely anyone would pretend that the federal bureaucracy has increased in efficiency to match its increased payroll.

For that matter, government is essentially non-productive. The creation of jobs in the government structure —whether at federal, state or local level — does not improve the standard of living nor add to the gross national product. When you come right down to it, most government bureaus are largely make-work projects, shuffling papers and writing reports to create work for themselves as justification for their existence.

And as the cost of government increases, taxes extract more and more from the pockets of the producing public, making "prosperity" a chimera in which we pay more and more for less and less.

MAYBE WE SHOULD forget for awhile about "tax reform" and concentrate on government reform. Tax reform might then follow quite naturally.

One way to start would be to put the state legislature back on a part-time basis.

"In Vietnam? Oh, I learned how to kill people and — yeah, how to do some needlework."

By RUS WALTON:

Goodbye, Wild Rivers; Hello, Peripheral Canal

SACRAMENTO — If you're the type that gets upset with dam builders and water pirates, if you are one concerned about the environment, gather 'round.

You'll be interested in a speech by Kerry Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board. Mulligan made some rather candid and controversial remarks when he spoke to the California Water Resources Association in Bakersfield.

First, you'll be interested to know that Governor Reagan goofed in 1969 when he put the quietus on the controversial Dos Rios Dam — when he saved the Indians and the town of Covelo from being inundated. At least, that's what Mulligan said.

Ike Livermore, state secretary of resources, wanted the valley saved. He opposed the dam. Bill Gianelli, director of the Department of Water Resources, wanted the dam built.

Governor Reagan sided with Livermore. Some feel it was one of the Governor's finest hours.

BUT MULLIGAN says Gianelli was right and the governor was wrong. Here are Mulligan's words:

"There's no question in my mind that Gianelli's position. . . on Dos Rios was correct, 1,000 per cent. And time will prove that out."

But come, let us jig deeper into Mulligan's stew.

This past summer his water resources board held that the state water project must leave enough fresh water in the 1,100-square mile Sacramento- San Joaquin Delta to protect that area from salt water intrusion. Environmentalists and sportsmen and farmers hailed the decision. It raised their hopes. It also raised the hackles on the water boys.

THE DELTA DECISION also raised some serious questions about the future of the few remaining wild rivers in the state, especially the Eel, the Klamath and the Trinity rivers in the north coastal area.

Those questions have been resolved, as far as Mr. Mulligan is concerned. Take a gulp at what he said to the water resources associaiton:

"You can't possibly do what we propose in the state's delta standards without additional water.

"It's not my responsibility to say where we are going to get it, but if you don't develop the North Coast I don't know where you are going to get it."

So much for the wild rivers — the Eel, the Klamath and the Trinity. There goes another piece of the magic of California.

AND ANOTHER THING, says Mulligan: "We cannot protect water quality (of the delta) and still meet the contractual obligations of the project without a peripheral canal."

And, who do you think is going to foot the bill for a peripheral canal to transport northern waters south around the delta? Well, check this chunk from the Mulligan stew:

"The cost has become a tremendous factor in the (delta) decision. Who pays for it? Our legal staff advises us that it comes out of the general fund of the state. . . . ."

General fund! That's bureaucrat talk for the common taxpayer's money. I can remember when Governor Brown said the state water project wouldn't cost the taxpayers a "sou marquee." The water and the power users would pay it all. That's what the man said.

But Mulligan says "I agree wholeheartedly that the water users, the contractors, shouldn't have to pay. There's no question about it."

Which makes sense in a distorted, Keynesian sort of way. Why should some corporate farm, some conglomerate water user, pay the costs when the taxpayer will do it for him? That way he can use subsidized water to grow — or not to grow — subsidized crops.

I mean, that way he gets it coming and going. And, so do you!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Individual Initiative' Via Welfare Route

Your editorial of Nov. 19, "Residency Ruling vs. Equality for All," stated that a "horde" of newcomers to the Golden State "come solely to enjoy our generous public assistance programs," etc.

Although I am sure it was not your intention, the editorial was an excellent argument for the establishment of uniform national welfare residence rules, as well as for a uniform national standard of welfare payments.

There is, indeed, no "equality" in welfare throughout the nation. If there were, the migration of "hordes" of indigents to California and other states (if such is the case) would diminish or cease.

In keeping with the great American tradition of doing the best one can for oneself and family (commonly known as "individual initiative" or "pulling oneself up by the bootstraps"), should not the poor be commended for leaving states where welfare payments are below even bare subsistence levels?

Dragging "red herring" generalities through your editorials, particularly on such topics as welfare, results in an editorial policy of inflaming, rather than informing. . .

Public welfare is certainly one subject that should be reported on objectively and factually.

Complaint On Stock Listings — And Taxes

For quite some time I have been on the verge of writing you in regard to the quoting of the 2 p.m. Dow Jones averages instead of the closing ones.

I played golf the other day with a neighbor who told me that he took a San Francisco evening paper (instead of the I-J) because it gave him market information not available in your paper, enough said?

Somewhat to my surprise the piece on the front page of the I-J for Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, headed "College Board Approves 32-Cent N. Campus Tax" has not resulted in a storm of protest.

I would very much like to know (a) how the Marin Community College District Board became empowered to raise my taxes and (b) how this board arrived at 32 cents instead of say $3.20 per $100 of assessed value.

This is a perfect example of "the power to tax is the power to destroy."

Can you explain to me and other homeowners around Novato how this board came into being and where it derived its taxing authority?

L. T. KETT

Novato.

(As has been explained in the Independent-Journal, the Junior College Construction Act of 1968 gives community college districts the right to levy a special tax for building construction without asking the voters. How the Marin Community College District board arrived at 32 cents was described in stories in this newspaper on meetings of the board. — Editor.)

Should Try Closing Bridge On Sunday

We, who live in Marin County, are quite concerned about the ever-expanding impact of automobile traffic on our environment especially on Sundays.

This suggests a possible experiment that could afford some relief: the authorities, some Sunday after proper notice is given, could close the Golden Gate Bridge to private automobile traffic from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. Public buses, service vehicles, police cars and emegency cases would be excepted. This procedure would eliminate about 95 per cent of the total traffic crossing the bridge from both south and north.

Should this experiment prove out to be fruitful for both Marin County and San Francisco it could be turned into a regular Sunday arrangement.

Class In Martinez Replies To Nave

I teach at Alhambra High School in Martinez, although I live in San Anselmo. Several times each week I provide my English classes with news on the ecological front, because this generation faces a tremendous problem in preserving what natural resources remain untouched or unpolluted. I am teaching a unit in persuasion in my junior English class, and thought I would combine some ecological news along with an assignment.

As I read your coverage on Richard P. Nave's rebuttal to present plans for Point Reyes National Seashore, I asked the students to utilize what I had taught them about argumentation to break down his premise and his points which substantiated his premise. To my surprise, they wanted to write a letter with their "breakdowns" to your paper.

I am sending you the attached letter which they wrote collectively in class . . .

MRS. DORRIS VITEK

San Anselmo.

Richard P. Nave, president of the Marin Property Owners Association, recently attacked conservationists and their plans for restricted development at Point Reyes National Seashore.

Nave, whose family owns a bowling alley and shopping center, believes the wilderness area should be open to all for "family fun," including grandmother, and not to "limited interest groups . . . with mahogany backpacks." Therefore, instead of clean trails, fresh streams, ancient forests and a natural habitat for wildlife, Mr. Nave wants an "excellent highway to feed the seashore." He feels that miles of asphalt and concrete would insure family fun and provide a Sunday ride for grandmother.

It would seem that the "limited interest group" consists of Nave and his cohorts who, along with bulldozers, would cut through and around one of the few remaining natural areas enjoyed by all who value open space. Bring in the bulldozer, and the wildlife is cut back. Put down the asphalt and the natural ground and growth is gone forever. Bring in the automobile, and the all-American beer can, cigarette butt and gum wrapper will do away with clean trails.

He complains that a countywide master plan to conserve an area of Point Reyes would "bankrupt us all." It is our environment which is all but bankrupt at this point. Wouldn't it be less short-sighted to propose a state-owned park minus the "excellent highway" as an answer for "family fun" not only for this generation but for future generations as well?

Take grandmother somewhere else for her Sunday outing, and leave Point Reyes in its naturalness for the unlimited groups of any age who want to hike all day in order to get away from carbon-monoxide and ubiquitous litter. And for Mr. Nave's information, only a person naive to the trail would hike 16 miles with the weight of a mahogany backpack strapped to his shoulders. Furthermore, bowlers wear "club shirts;" hikers wear sweatshirts.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Malik-Chiao Set-To Illustrates Double Standard Applied In U.N.

WASHINGTON — One of the lesser but interesting dividends of the presence of Red China in the United Nations is that it is drawing much of the political fire away from the United States.

Apparently, the People's Republic of China and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are going to be so busy calling each other names that they will have far less time to take out their frustrations on the United States.

A good example is the diplomatic shoot-out on the last day of the general assembly debate during which the Chinese and Soviet delegates emptied both barrels — at one another.

IT CAN HARDLY FAIL to be something of a relief to have the Peking and the Moscow spokesmen, Chiao Kuan-hua and Jacob Malik, standing to-to-toe shouting, in effect, "You're another!"

When Chiao called Moscow's proposed everybody-come disarmament conference an attempt to "hoodwink world opinion" and play the "imperialist" game, Malik instantly rushed to the rostrum to reply in kind.

It was at this point that the double standard which numerous Third World diplomats and some Americans apply to the United States and to Communist countries was apparent.

You will recall that Ambassador George Bush issued a mild press release describing the Chinese delegate's opening speech as a "disappointment." The tsk-tsk diplomats quietly whispered about that the United States was being shockingly "impolite" and showing "disdain" for the United Nations. But when Malik retorted to Chiao, charging him with "monstrous invention against the Soviet Union" and "pouring out a flood of slander," these diplomats uttered not a word. They folded their hands and pretended they didn't hear.

CHIAO HIMSELF evidently feels no need to be consistent.

He allows himself to argue that Red China is developing nuclear weapons "entirely for defensive purposes" but he doesn't concede that any other country should develop nuclear weapons for defensive purposes.

He contends that it is an act of peace for China to go nuclear. But it would be an act of war for Japan to go nuclear.

Chiao avers that the Chinese government "stands for the thorough destruction of nuclear weapons," but China refuses to attend a Russian-proposed five-nation conference to do anything about it.

He argues that the atmospheric test ban signed by the United States and Russia was a "plot" to get a big-power monopoly in nuclear weapons. It wasn't. Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union really wanted it but yielded to worldwide pressure to end atmospheric radiation. The Chinese say in effect that atmospheric contamination is all right with them — even if the winds blow it over their neighbors.

CHIAO REJECTS the kind of world conference on disarmament which the Russians propose and Malik rejects the kind of world conference on disarmament which the Chinese advocate.

It is important that to the Chinese anything which the Russians propose is bad and that to the Russians anything which the Chine e propose is bad.

This is not very constructive, but for the time being it is a relief to the United States to have the two big Communist powers aiming their diatribes elsewhere.

One thing is clear: The United States is enjoying better relations with China and Russia than they are with each other. Something may come of that.

The Fat Society Finds Its Emblem: Snowmobile

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The first snowfall of the year used to set us all to sanding the rust off the runners of our Flexible Flyers, which was the most complicated mechanical operation required before bellywhopping down hills, toasting hands beside bonfires, and throwing snowballs at the local bullies. The whole outfit cost about $10, including army surplus wardrobe, and it was great cheek-pinking exercise and the loudest noise it produced was girls squealing when you took the curves too fast.

That was before America became the Fat Society.

THE FAT SOCIETY never walks, runs, skis or bellywhops when it can ride. It never rides quietly when it can announce its coming with overwhelming noise. It never leaves the world undisturbed by its passing when it can instead memorialize itself by destruction. It is overfed and underexercised and therefore lazy, which is not a condition conducive to manifesting masculinity in the most basic way.

To compensate for this, to prove to the world that beneath the flab the male animal still throbs ferociously, the master of the Fat Society buys machines to speed him about almost as if he himself were doing something physical, which make more noise than a thousand bull elephants, which despoil his surroundings much in the manner of an army permitted to rape and pillage.

Thus, the motorcycle. The trailbike. The all-terrain vehicle. Thus, this week in most of the northern half of the country and all of Canada, the snowmobile.

NO BETTER REASON exists for a return to the seven-day work week and subsistence wages. Spare time and excess cash have never combined so rapidly into a hobby-cum-industry whose enthusiasts mindlessly abuse other people's privacy, property and peace of mind, fans to whom the values of the wilderness mean nothing.

Newspapers and town meetings all over the snow belt are alive with complaints about snowmobilers destroying fences, shrubs and winter crops; shattering the quiet so diligently sought by other humans; vandalizing cabins previously safe in their isolation; cruelly and illegally chasing deer and other game until it falls in the snow exhausted, then killing it; packing down the snow so that the small creatures that live beneath it die.

There are demands for controls. Neighbors become enemies over the issue. Church congregations and local political parties are split over it. Regulations are passed, but hard to enforce. Legislation is resisted emotionally by the snowmobilers, who see controls on their abuses as infringements on their rights. Wherever the demand for regulation arises, the countercry goes up to the snowmobilers: Join a club — organize, organize. The lobby against controls is growing at the local level to the proportions of the National Rifle Association, with which it has much in common.

THE FACT IS that in most places, it is too late. Those who own snowmobiles and those who cater to them already have grown into a major vested interest wherever the snow lies all winter.

The first commercial snowmobile was produced only 12 years ago by the Bombardier Co. of Quebec. Now virtually every major tractor, boat motor and motorcycle manufacturer is in the business, along with dozens of independents. Annual sales are measured now in tens of thousands of vehicles a year.

Snowgoer, a magazine published in St. Paul, is one of several publications devoted entirely to snowmobiling. This month its sparse editorial content includes a secondhand report on a Michigan state seminar on the vehicles, predictably concluding: "Does the snowmobile raise havoc in the wilderness? Considering the evidence, it's far too early to say for sure."

But it is not too early for the magazine to be able to print a tabulation of specifications and prices on no less than 424 makes and models of 1972 snowmobiles, costing up to $2,600 each. Most of its pages are advertising, for vehicles, accessories and a whole new world of insulated clothing designed for the "sport."

THE SNOWMOBILE BOOM and its accompanying roughshod destruction point a strong moral for all the country, not just the high mountains and the states above the 40th parallel. The moral is to control nuisances before they grow into monsters.

The factories go on mass-producing more machines than the countryside can absorb, machines built intentionally loud for the masculinity noise implies, and they are probably beyond control now. The "sportsmen" involved are too many (some families in the snow belt buy one vehicle for each person in the household, down to 8-year-old girls). And serious efforts at regulation and limitation are met now with the same sad rejoinder we hear when we want to control strip mining or industrial pollution.

It will cost jobs, they say. It will deprive them of advertising. And most intolerably, it will violate the right of the members of the Fat Society to trample on the rights of their neighbors.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 1, 1961

The Steering Committee for Fallout Shelters in Dixie School District proposed creation of a $1.2 million assessment district to install shelters underneath the playgrounds of all the district's schools.

Troops opened fire on demonstrators in Santo Domingo who were calling for the ouster of President Joaquin Balaguer of the Dominican Republic.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 1, 1951

A four-inch rain storm combined with high tide flooded many low-lying parts of Marin.

Delegates of the Big Four opened a disarmament conference in Paris behind closed doors.

Somebody Leaves Santa's Christmas List For Marin

A memo to Santa Claus:
Dear Sir:

Evidently some gnome borrowed my typewriter overnight to compose a list of civic-minded gifts for the folks of Marin County, but got scared off before the list was ready to mail to you.

I'm therefore passing along to you the list just as I found it when I came to work in the morning.

Wanted for:

SAN RAFAEL — Howard Hughes to build a park and a three-level garage where the old courthouse stood, perhaps with a subterranean penthouse. (Reporter's note — What do you call the reverse of a penthouse?)

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — More night meetings and free dinners.

LEON G. KALIMOS — A booking for a six-month revival by Billy Graham in the eterans Memorial Building.

MILL VALLEY — Now that they're rid of the Miller Avenue slide, what can they possibly need for Christmas?

COLLEGE OF MARIN — A sojourning tribe of Indians to build a lot of wigwams for classrooms at Indian Valley Colleges.

SAUSALITO — Somehow to help Sally Stanford get elected to the city council.

LARKSPUR — A toy motorboat that won't make waves on Corte Madera Creek. Maybe, also, a new paving job for Madrone Avenue.

NOVATO — A new Boys Club, some new paving and, especially, a new bypass around downtown.

FAIRFAX — A combined police and fire department merged with the city administrator's office.

SAN ANSELMO — A state visit from Chairman Mao, to present a set of flags for the mundialization project.

ROSS — A dry winter to keep the Commons dry. Failing that, a lot of buckets.

TIBURON — Reserve Tiburon Boulevard for bicycles, the new path for horses, and park all the commute cars in Sausalito.

BELVEDERE — Freeze the lagoon, so all the underprivileged youngsters can go ice skating.

CORTE MADERA — Six more auto agencies, a ferryboat terminal, and a partridge on Christmas Tree Hill.

MARIN MUNICIPAL WATER DISTRICT — A lifetime supply of those new bumper stickers that read "Save Water — Drink Southern Comfort."

WEST MARIN — Incorporation as a city, construction of a new superhighway to the Golden Gate Bridge, and toll booths to charge everyone leaving Point Reyes National Seashore.

SAN QUENTIN — Conversion into an apartment house for single swingers.

LUCAS VALLEY — Selection as the site for the 1972 World Fair.

PIERRE W. JOSKE AND MARCELLE McCOY — One hundred acres of Astroturf, to prepare an alternate site for the Lucas Valley World's Fair.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Plenty Of Infighting In Teacher Organizations

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Intramural wars among educators' organizations are breaking out all over.

Richard Mason, president of Professional Educators of Los Angeles, and Albert Johnson, Sacramento lobbyist for Professional Educators Group of California, have mounted a challenge to the mammoth National Education Association with organization of the National Association of Professional Educators.

Mason and Johnson announced the challenge after an eastern trip during which, they reported, their new organization won adherents in Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kansas. They blamed NEA militance for loss of public support for schools, and said the NAPE will be dedicated to freeing teachers from "bossism and coercion."

NEA IS HAVING troubles in its own house, too.

The California Teachers Association's representative assembly defied the national organization — of which CTA is a state unit — in voting to revoke the charter of United Teachers of Los Angeles as a CTA chapter.

Donald Morrison NEA president who is on leave from his job as a San Diego teacher, warned CTA that its action might result in NEA chartering UTLA as a separate affiliate in Los Angeles. This, he declared, would mean "total warfare." But the 475-member CTA representative assembly voted for war.

THERE ALSO IS in-house trouble for CTA.

The California Association of Teachers of English and John Swett Education Association have attacked CTA for endorsing a proposed statewide Planning, Programming, Budgeting System (PPBS) oriented toward "behavioral goals." CATE president Robert Palazzi of Burlingame and JSEA president Robert E. Beck of Crockett tried without success to get CTA to cancel a Nov. 18-19 PPBS conference in San Diego.

On the local level, there are fights over representation on certificated employee councils — the committees set up under the Winton Act to negotiate for teachers.

On these councils, teacher organizations are entitled to membership proportionate to that they hold among the total teaching staff of a school district. If one organization gets a majority of the members it, of course, controls the council.

IN LOS ANGELES, the council was controlled by UTLA — a merger of locals of CTA and California Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) — until this fall's nose-count. Then, finding themselves no longer in control, the UTLA members walked out. They returned after legal steps were started to reorganize the council without them.

In San Francisco, the CFT chapter and the Classroom Teachers Association of San Francisco (CTA) ended up with four council positions each, the ninth seat going to the Personnel and Guidance Assocaition, an unaffiliated group.

The CTA chapter, however, sent five representatives to the November council meeting, claiming its membership among San Francisco teachers was greater than the combined total of the other two. As this was written, the dispute appeared headed for the courts.

THE INFIGHTING bodes ill for the much-discussed merger of NEA with the American Federation of Teachers (CFT's) parent union). It was the merger of their Los Angeles locals last year which led to a strike and to formation of Professional Educators of Los Angeles — and, last month, of the National Association of Professional Educators.

A statewide AFT-NEA merger in New York was rejected last month by the New York State Teachers Association (NEA). It also announced creation of a war chest to fight the union. Whereupon Albert Shanker, president of United Federation of Teachers (AFT), blasted the NEA group in a paid advertisement in the New York Times, which declared:

"Clearly, to view their fellow teachers as the enemy, rather than the national administration, the anti-teacher legislature, and anti-school local forces, is to condemn the schools to further setbacks, while teacher fights teacher."

Shanker headed the advertisement: "Know Your Enemy."

Giant Airplane's Maiden Flight

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI)—A huge jet freighter, the Boeing 747F, made its maiden flight Tuesday and was aloft for 2-½ hours before landing at Boeing Field in Seattle.

Veteran test pilot Jack Waddell was at the controls for the jumbo freighter's flight.

Boeing officials hope to have the aircraft certified by the Federal Aviation Administration early next year. Lufthansa, the German airlines, is scheduled to begin transatlantic freight service with the plane in April.

New Sanitary Board Member Resigns Abruptly

A newly appointed member of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board resigned last night and was replaced by a former board member who had declined to run for the seat Nov. 2.

George K. Elkington, who was appointed to the board in September along with Dean Carey, and whose term was due to begin last night, abruptly resigned, citing the press of other obligations, according to board president Cyril G. Hansen.

In his place, Hansen said, directors appointed John Hinman, who was appointed to a board vacancy in August but who had decided not to run for a full term Nov. 2. Because only Elkington and Carey filed for the two vacant seats, the election was not held and their appointments were ratified by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Audience In Belvedere Supports Limited Growth

More than 50 persons attending the first public hearing on Belvedere's new planning study generally agreed with the report's conclusions that growth should be discouraged in the island community.

Lawrence Livingston Jr., of the San Francisco planning firm of Livingston and Blayney, was present Monday night to explain the 19-page, $7,500 study and answer questions from the audience.

Planning Commissioner William H. Rafter said those present endorsed Livingston's conclusion that steps should be taken to discourage the development of the city's remaining 140 building sites and the replacement of old structures with apartments and duplexes.

Several residents questioned the recommendation that moderate income housing or housing for the elderly should be built on the Belvedere School site if the school is abandoned by the Reed School District.

They cited traffic along Laurel Avenue and the steepness of the hillside lot as reasons for not using the site for such housing, Rafter said.

The report recommends limiting growth through rejecting buildings on substandard lots and by instituting density regulations. It also recommends the city take steps to preserve open space, limit the bulk of new buildings, make design review procedures more stringent, resist the widening of streets and forbid septic tanks.

The planning commission will hodl another hearing on the study at 8 p.m. Dec. 20 at the community center.

Strep Throat Tops List Of Diseases

Streptococcus infections, with 50 cases reported last week, led the list of communicable diseases reported in Marin County last week, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer, said.

Other diseases reported were gonorrhea, 18 cases, and rubella, one case.

Russ Farm Experts Set Midwest Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Six Soviet farm experts will visit the United States from Dec. 8 to 19 to tour farm production, research and supply centers in the Midwest and Southwest.

The itinerary still was being worked out. The visit is in response to an invitation from former Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

Countywide Plan Before Council

The City-County Planning Council of Marin, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Civic Cente, will consider a proposal that the county use the preliminary countywide plan as a "working guide" until the plan is adopted.

As a working guide, the plan would serve as an unofficial recommendation as to where and how the county should develop.

Final adoption of the plan is not expected until later next year. A series of hearings on elements of the plan have been scheduled for the spring.

Tools Missing

Tools valued at $200 were taken from an automobile owned by Robert A. Birdsall of 330 Irwin Street, San Rafael, while the car was parked in his driveway Monday night, police reported today.
